A close political and economic relationship with the rest of the empire, and participation in Empire defence were essential for Canada, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson told the Canadian Club in Toronto.

Formal recognition that a segment of the better broadcasting channels be set aside for exclusive use of educational institutions was laid before the United States communications commission as it opened a hearing on proposed revisions of radio regulations.

Another Life For Science

French Noblewoman Continued X-Ray Studies To Aid Sick

To the list of those who have given their life for science is now added the name of the clever and charming Duchess de Brencas.

The career of this "Florence Nightingale of France" is one of the most shocking examples of a woman's heroism in medicine.

Beginning at an early age in one of the leading Paris centres in Paris, she rapidly gained a reputation as a brilliant radiologist.

After her marriage to the Duc de Brencas she insisted on continuing the work of bringing relief to hundreds of patients. Nearly two years ago she was taken ill. The rays had burnt into her skin and affected the tissues.

Her fellow-radiologists begged her to give up the work, and to go into hospital for treatment. "I would rather go on," she said, in a letter.

"We must all die sooner or later. I am a trained radiologist, and to give up my work would be to deprive a large number of people of vital aid."

The duchess invented a special type of electrically heated needle, regarded as a very important advance in deep tissue treatment, and helped to perfect other X-ray instruments.

The effect of the rays on her health gradually increased. She lost one of the fingers on her right hand and her hand had to be amputated.

Then her arm was poisoned and was also amputated. Still she kept on at her post.

Agricultural Revenue Up

The total gross agricultural revenue of British Columbia in 1935 was at $42,119,992 f.o.b. 1935 an increase of $2,980,881, or 6.81 per cent., over 1934 figures are shown in the annual revenue from farm animals, wool, dairy products fruit and vegetables, poultry and eggs, fodder crops, honey, nursery stock, and fur-farming. Minor decreases are shown in the revenue from grains potatoes, honey, tobacco and seeds. Compared with the preceding year slightly higher average prices were recorded in most branches of the agricultural industry.

Reforestation Stamps

Two new stamps are now on sale at Copenhagen. They have been issued in connection with the 400th anniversary of the Reformation. Both stamps bear a portrait of Hans Tausen (1494-1561). The stamps are Luther's portrayal in Denmark based on a portrait in the Frederiksborg gallery.

Marble Arch, now opposite Edgware Road, London, stood until 1851 at the central entrance of Buckingham Palace.

Declares Sea Maps Obsolete

U.S. Coastguard Commander Returns From Charting North Pacific

United States Coastguard Commander L. V. Mellhorn returned to Seattle, Wash., from a charting survey of the far north to declare all charting maps obsolete.

The commander of the cutter Chelan announced the discovery of a new North Pacific "deep" more than four miles south of the Aleutian Islands as his vessel returned from the annual summer work of reading the Bering sea and sounding the ocean in charting surveys.

Commander Mellhorn said the navy had proved there is no "grade-way" south of the Bering sea to the North Pacific. Last summer the Chelan discovered an immense undersea mountain range in the Bering sea.

The new ocean deep, 4,190 fathoms, was found in the "Aleutian trough," south of those islands and near the regular north Pacific steamship route, he said.

Important To Europe

Italian Chemists Making High-Grade Wool From Milk

Italian cows, by personal order of Premier Mussolini, are now producing wool and the announcement by Italian chemists that they are making high-grade wool from cow's milk may bring chuckles to western American ranchmen, who never could see any justification for sheep anyhow, but conversion of the low-lying lime into munition plants is no laughing matter for jittery Europe.

Wool is an important commodity to modern European nations and military uniforms are made from it and it must be especially necessary in countries operating under dictators, who require an abundant supply to be pulled over the eyes of their subjects. Rome, it will be recalled, was founded on a diet of wolf's milk. The descendants of Romulus and Remus may yet march under triumphal arches, attired in uniforms of cow's milk.

Result Of Experiments

If Allowed To Stand Juices Lose Vitamin C

Orange juice contains from two to three times as much vitamin C as tomato juice. Either of the juices loses vitamin C if allowed to stand before using. These findings were the result of experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture's home economics bureau. The tests included both chemical analysis and feeding trials of four varieties of oranges, two from California and two from Florida, freshly pressed tomatoes and juices from canned tomatoes. It was found that the canned tomatoes contained as much vitamin C as the fresh samples.

Could Not Accept Gift

Rules Offered To King Edward Had To Be Bought

The borough of Salford in Lancashire, England, offered the king as a gift a disputed gelding called Cherry Grove, bought two years ago for the ailed constable. Cherry Grove stands 16 hands high.

It is against etiquette for royalty to accept gifts outside their own immediate circle.

But the Duke of Beaufort master of the harse, inspected Cherry Grove and bought him for £150 ($750). Henceforth he becomes the king's charger.

Only One Way Out

Debts Can Be Cleared When Borrowing Is Stopped

There is no practical way out of debt except to repay it. A dollar borrowed is a dollar owed and a dollar on which interest must be paid.

We are writing now in the entangling meshes of the debt we have woven for ourselves. There is only one way to free ourselves, to stop public borrowing; to spend on government only those sums which can be obtained by reasonable taxation.

The new Waterloo Bridge, London, England, will be opened for traffic at the end of 1938.

Those architects who try to make new houses look very old might try painting them for a year.

Pioneer Nurse

Member Of Winnipeg General Hospital Staff Of Early Days, Is Dead

Nurse Emma Pullman, a member of the Winnipeg General Hospital staff in 1882 died recently. She was born in England in 1852. A graduate of Charing Cross Hospital, London, she volunteered for service when an appeal came for nurses to care for victims of Red River fever," then raging in the frontier settlement.

Nurse Pullman saw the medical profession make remarkable strides of progress during her many years of service. One of her most vivid memories was of the time she found a man semi-conscious on the outskirts of the north end of the city where the hospital was then situated. She brought the man to the hospital where medical examination revealed he was suffering from smallpox. Winnipeg's first isolation ward, a tent next to the hospital, was then founded.

She had a passionate love for horses and dogs, in her youth having ridden with the Governor-General's bodyguard (a red-coated riding crop) and of late years bred collies

Helped Build A Church

Tiger Skin Was Presented To Missionary In India

The "tiger skin that built a church," was on exhibition at Chalmers church, Ottawa, where the seventh General Council of the United Church of Canada was in session. The double-striped skin, presented several years ago to Rev. H. H. Smith, missionary at Sitamau, Northern India, by the Rahah Rahib of Mandasmur, was sold when Mr. Smith found himself short of funds with which he intended to build a new church. It brought $700, enough to allow completion of the church.

Things Are Reversed

Instead of people watching the animals feeding in the London zoo, the animals are sitting back in their cages and watching people eat. Giraffes, tigers and baboons can now see fashionable Mayfair dining on the restaurant balcony and taking light refreshments in the floodlit gardens. Creating Pasture Lands

Research Has Been Much For Welsh Mountain Area

Scientists working at the plant-breeding station of the University of Wales, have almost completed experiments in breeding grasses which will stand the rigors of Welsh mountain climate.

There is a dearth of suitable pasture land in Wales, but nearly 20 years' research makes it possible to produce pastures in strange places.

One outcome of the labors will be to facilitate all-season crops of strawberries, raspberries, apples, pears, and vegetables, normally available only during a few weeks in the year.

Sunday School Lesson

OCTOBER 18

THE SPOKEN AND THE WRITTEN WORD

Golden Text: The word of God is living and sharper than any two-edged sword. Hebrews 4:12.

Lesson: Acts 17:1-15; Thessalonians 2:1-15.

Devotional reading: Psalm 119:9-16.

Explanations And Comments

Successful Evangelism at Thessalonica. Acts 17:1-4. Paul, although at Philippi we had suffered grossly, and had been insulted, yet on we came to your city and boldly declared to you the gospel of God in spite of great opposition—in some such words Paul later wrote to the Thessalonians (1 Thess. 2:2). On the way Paul and his companions passed through the cities of Amphipolis and Apollonia. At Thessalonica they tarried several months, as we know from Paul's letters, but Luke, our historian, gives an account of Paul's preaching for the three successive sabbaths. There was a synagogue here and in it certain Jews who had "renounced from the Scriptures," that is, cited scripture passages which were prophetic of the Christ; and Jesus showed that these fulfilled these prophecies, that it behooved the Christ to suffer and to rise again from the dead. That he remembered, or argued, that the Jesus whom he proclaimed to them is the Christ.

The result of Paul's preaching was that some of the Jews, many of the devout Greeks (Greeks who attended the synagogue and worshipped God), and many of the chief women, were convinced of the truth of his message and "consorted with Paul and Silas," cast their lot in with them and shared their way of life. They were afterwards zealous in extending the good news Paul brought to them, for in his letter Paul says, "from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia (Greece), but in every place your faith to Godward is gone forth."

Go to Berea, Acts 17:10-12. Paul and Silas left Thessalonica at night, and they continued their way westward to the city of Berea. There in the synagogue they found unprejudiced Jews who were willing to give his message a fair hearing.

Finding that Paul's words and the character were in agreement, many of the Berean Jews believed, as did also many of the Greek women of honorable estate, and many of the Greek men.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL, BY —
GEORGIA CRAIG

He answered her so swiftly: "I'd know better than to use my regular line with you. Please give me credit for some good sense."

Starr could not have told why it was, but already she felt her eyes drawn away from her dance partner as though toward a magnet. A little to one side of the room, Michael Fairbourne was standing alone, watching her. Handsome, debonair Michael. He smiled when she met his eyes, and his own gray eyes seemed to sparkle.

They said, "Well done, Starr!"

He was applauding her as he might have applauded an actress who was giving an extraordinarily good performance. That was all she meant to him. What was it he had said? "All I ask is that you keep your name in the headlines!"

He was pleased to see her making a hit with Lance Marlowe's set. The flame of Lance Marlowe's was bound to be the subject of plenty of conversation. Starr watched his face at every mention of her name by word of mouth gossip, through the tender mention of her name in the social straight news would send the sables of his book soaring.

Suddenly Starr Ellison was born an angry resentment against Michael Fairbourne. How dared he handle her so smug and self-satisfied, watching her carry on her pitiful mockery? What did he know of the reasons of desperation which had urged her to be his open cousins to riches via the publicity route? He was making her dangle on the end of a string like a puppet, and adding the supreme insult of applauding her gyrations. How dared he!

No, that was not quite fair. Theirs was a two-sided bargain. Though he could never guess the reason for her acceptance of his offer, he had made her understand only too well what he expected of her. She, in her desperation, had been glad enough to accept his offer. How could she have known that association with Michael would stir as much of bitterness in the depths of her? How could she have guessed, for one wild moment, how it had come to be that many times when he was alone with her in that Egyptian penthouse which was the result of his crazy dreams that there would come times when she was afraid to trust herself to speak? How could she ever have guessed anything of that electric quality in the flame of him, that too often showed in his gray eyes when he did not imagine it, and that sent fleet warning signals dancing along through her veins?

Oh, it was going to be hard to play the game to the end—so very hard! But play it she must, and would. Yet it took all that was in her sometimes to keep from reeling that they would be talking together over some point and he would be so close to her that she could hear his quiet breathing. She would have to hold onto herself to keep from swaying.

Her lids drooped over her eyes so that neither man could see them. Starr answered her own question. Lance Marlowe had asked Michael Fairbourne to present him in a conversation that led to the subject Starr Ellison and the debut party being given in her honor by her publishers. The bartender was pouring the champagne. The blond man bounded over.

"A toast? Sure we'll give a toast! Let's all drink a toast to the newest and loveliest chatelaine of Lance Marlowe's penthouse—Starr Ellison Long may she wave!"

The glass dropped from Starr's nerveless fingers and shattered against the bar. Stephanie giggled, breaking a tense silence. Her eyes flashed to Starr as she lifted her glass and drank deep. It was a deliberate insult.

The dark man's words roused in everybody's mind the same thought, that the man in his cups may have known where Eve spoke and that in wine there is truth. Very likely he knew that Lance intended to make Starr his mistress. Perhaps she had already agreed—so that it was no longer a secret. It would be in character. Her reputation was against her.

Lance said quietly, as he advanced a threatening step, his fists clenched: "Take that back!" The drunk swayed on his feet defiantly and leered knowingly, his glance wavering from Starr to Lance, and back again.

One of the girls squealed: "Oh, a fight!"

Stephanie's high voice cut in: "A fight, yes! For the honor of a woman who doesn't know what the word means! How encouraging!"

Lance hesitated in his attitude of threatening, glanced one at Starr and then showed his good sense. He grasped the obnoxious blond insulter by the arms and him outside Starr found herself trembling like a leaf. Never in her life had she felt quite so alone and friendless. No one approached her. But everything had caught up with her in a rush, overwhelmed her. She was glad Michael was not there to be a witness to her humiliation, and then in the next breath was sorry that he was not. Had he seen, perhaps he might have been—he wouldn't be sorry. Why should he be? It was all good publicity, and that was what he wanted. That would have been all he could see in the entire episode. The human quantitative, or such a small matter as that Starr Ellison might have a soul that could be hurt—that would only be a small matter.

Almost immediately Lance Marlowe was back, swinging along jauntily, head high. As he reached her side Starr's lips formed the words:

"What did you do?"

He said in answer, as a slow smile flickered across his lips:

Royal Mint Is Busy

Greater Demand For Coins From Banks In Canada

At the royal mint they are working overtime making more money. A new system came into operation recently.

Increased activity has nothing to do with coronation activities. It is entirely due to a greater demand for coins from the banks.

An official of the mint explained: "There are fifty banks in Canada and it is not always possible to find the real reason for some months.

"A few months ago, at the time of the year, however, is almost certainly due to greater industrial activity, more employment, and consequently more wages."

Coins now being struck will bear the George VI effigy.

Although King Edward has approved designs for the new coinage, the royal mint will continue to make King George coins until the formal approval of the King is announced in a royal proclamation.

Rattlesnake In North

Reptiles Reported Killed 73 Miles North Of Edmonton

Zoological circles were amazed at Edmonton when Dr. Wilfrid Rochester, Alta., came to town with a 20-inch diamond-back rattlesnake in his car. Residents and reporters of they were killed by his 18-year-old son, Lloyd, four miles north of Rochester. That town is 73 miles north of Edmonton and hundreds of miles north of the usual habitat of these kinds of snakes.

"We have never heard of either a rattler or a bullsnake being found in this district," Medicine Hat's said Dr Winifred Hughes acting head of the department of biology at the University of Alberta, when told of the find.

'Plane Grounded In Desert

Temperature Inside Liner's Cabin Reached 180 Degrees

How they replenished their shrinking water supply with dew gathered in sponges from six aeroplane's wings was told by the passengers and crew of the Imperial Airways air liner Horus, when they arrived at Karachi, India, after being missing 30 hours in the Arabian desert.

Thriller came down in the awful, parching waste after having overshot its scheduled landing place of Bahrein in the dark.

If an R.A.F. aeroplane had not spotted the Horus through a break in the clouds as it was returning to Bahrein after a reconnaissance, it is probable there would have been several dead.

All the food left to the 11 passengers and crew was a few sandwiches, a little chocolate, a few bottles of water and mineral water, and a drop of whiskey.

There was a Bedouin village 20 miles distant, had they known but it was impossible to move in the heat a few hundred yards over the blazing sands under a heat which made the metal parts of the aeroplane impossible to touch.

The only living things to be seen were huge black scorpions.

By day the temperature inside the liner's cabin reached 130 degrees. At night all the passengers shivered relief by lying almost stripped along the lower place, where a heavy fall of dew which dripped from the upper plane refreshed their parched bodies

Royal Visit Is Historic Anniversary

North Carolina To Celebrate Landing Of Sir Walter Raleigh

Most of us learned in school that Sir Walter Raleigh visited North America and took back the potato and tobacco with Him to England But a good many people would be stumped to give further particulars than this about his American adventure.

To such it will be interesting to learn that next year, on August 18 1937, Roanoke Island North Carolina, will celebrate the 350th anniversary of the landing of Sir Walter there and the founding by him of an ill-fated colony which was the first white settlement on the continent.

A settlement means homes, and homes mean children, so it was that on the above date the first white child in the New World, Virginia Dare, was born to Annanias and Eleanors White Dare, who had followed Sir Walter Raleigh overseas, as pioneers

And, furthermore, the christening of the infant Virginia is said to have occasioned the first religious service in what is now the United States

The coming celebration at Roanoke Island, then, assumes both national and international importance and preparations for it are being made that are worthy of the occasion — Quebec Chronicle Telegraph

Where Bicycle Is Popular

Number In England Almost Double Is Five Years

A London letter in the Ottawa Journal says what will be to many the most surprising fact revealed by last year's traffic census is that the road vehicle which has been making the greatest advance in popularity in recent years is the humble push-bike. The figures show that the number of pedal-cyclists on our roads has almost doubled since the year 1931.

Though the bicycle is ubiquitous there are certain towns where it enjoys special popularity. Cambridge, cities Oxford is believed to head the list; a fact which suggests that even in this age of motorcars the old-fashioned bicycle is not always considered by undergrads who can afford to keep his car. Southampton is a very much [illegible] town, and [illegible] boom [illegible] and bloomers in the "Naughty Nineties" still possesses an exceptionally large number of cycling citizens who like their pre-motor and grandparent's still turn out in [illegible] to promenade the Avenue on Sundays.

Policyholders Own the "Assets"

of Life Insurance Companies

AS a great co-operative enterprise, Life Insurance has built up Assets in Canada totalling, approximately, two billion dollars. Yet these Assets are relatively small when it is realized that they are jointly owned by about 3,500,000 policyholders—one-third of Canada's population.

On the average, each policyholder owns $571 as his share of the total Assets in Life Companies operating in Canada. Obviously, the great majority of policyholders are men and women of ordinary means—thrifty people who, year by year, have entrusted to Life Insurance part of their savings so that they may have financial security against the uncertain future.

These policyholders represent the best type of Canadian citizens. They have sought to preserve their financial independence, and, as thrifty citizens, neither they nor their dependants are ever likely to becomes charges upon government or municipal relief.

To protect the interests of these 3,500,000 Canadian policyholders, Life Insurance Companies have invested their Assets in government and municipal bonds—in first mortgages—in public utilities and industrial enterprises—and in other authorized securities.

The soundness of the Investment policy of the Companies has been tried and proven during periods of severe financial stress. Governing and corporate bodies in which policyholders' moneys are invested have, until recently, maintained the integrity of their obligations. This has made it possible in turn for the Companies, in their capacity as trustees for the policyholders, to fulfill every obligation guaranteed by their policies.

Now, however, there is a growing tendency to repudiate, by legislation, public and private debts, regardless of the debtor's ability to pay. Legislation which tends to destroy the ownership of public and private property places an unjust burden upon life insurance policyholders.

Many folks around here who have had the honor of knowing Mr. (Jack) Hart-Rhodes will deeply regret his departure to take up residence in Ontario. He is a gentleman at outstand and whether it be for years has been a-one of his municipality. The latter line had a record for good management under Mr. Shaner's directing second to none in Alberta. He took an active part in the Social Credit movement and worked very hard for the return of the Hon W.A. Fallow. What is Alberta's loss will be Ontario's gain.

Jim Williams, after attending the butcher's banquet at Vermilion proceeded to Vancouver where he will reside during the winter.

ISLAND HILL

A delightful surprise at the dance held here Friday was the arrival from Edmonton of the Misses Margaret and Annie MacKinnon famous dancers and Irish step dancers and holders of several medals, to give a exhibition which they did at intervals during the evening. They were received again and again and proved they are experts at the dancing art. The Misses MacKinnon were accompanied by their brother Donald and Mr. J. Sutherland, who, dressed in the highland garb gave a fine exhibition on the bagpipe and cried by Bill Morrison. The trustees of the hall are much indebted to the Edmonton party for coming at great inconvenience to assist and render their services to them and hope they will favours again in the near future. Chas. Brady and daughter Margaret also gave a fine exhibition of Irish dancing. At the lunch interval two cakes which were kindly donated by Mrs Butler, were drawn on by Mrs Kinchinsky, Sr., and by Mrs Kinchinsky, jr., and Annie Mc-Cambridge respectively. Mrs Mc-Cambridge Mrs Butler and Mrs Kinchinsky proved a dainty lunch. Mr. McCambridge Sr., prepared a hearty vote of thanks to the Edmonton visitors which was passed unanimously. The orchestra dispensed the music Frank Ireland was floor-master and the receipts proved Chas. Brady and Horace Hawkes are expert collectors.

The next dance at the hall will be held Friday 23rd October as several people who have not had an opportunity of tasting the new famous dancing floor would like to do so. The committee wish to specially engaged for this night as old friends and new will be heartily welcome for advertisements.

We wish to thank Mr and Mrs. G. Iles who reside south of Islay for doing us a good turn at great inconvenience on Saturday and for paying us the compliment that they enjoy reading the Islay column.

Mr. Ireland (school) tells: This is to remind you to come to the Island hall (tomorrow) Wed Oct 21, and get a share of the great bargains that will be offered at the annual bazaar. Of course you won't forget the dance at night! Help your lady friends to make it a record year and we hope some of them will come to hear from your employers' contracts. Mrs Gilbert Lee (secretary) have broken all records for sales to boys.

WIDE RANGE OF POULTRY ACTIVITES

The entire range of poultry activities, such as incubation, brooding, rearing, egg production, breeding, feeding, time of ill-health, general considerations of care and management, is included in the work of the Poultry Division of the Experimental Farms Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Naturally, investigational work into the conditions of disease control represents one of the most important phases of research work and fifteen years ago a pathologist laboratory was equipped at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa in connection with the Poultry Division. As a result of the laboratory facilities at Ottawa and other points, pullorum disease has been entirely controlled upon all the Experimental Farms throughout the Dominion.

Research work on incubation has established the most satisfactory levels of humidity for best results in hatching, and the value of lifting eggs daily as an aid to incubation was also demonstrated. Battery brooding, according to the knowledge gained to the 1936 date, has been shown to be good for short periods only, and all things considered, the best method of brooding and rearing has been found in the removal of the chicks direct from the incubator to colony houses upon range, with the chicks brooded in the poultry plant, if possible. Then, disease contact between the younger and the older stock is broken as much as possible.

Various methods of handling for breeding flocks have been investigated and recommendations made. At the present time, an investigation of laying flocks is in progress, to which the value of this type of equipment for commercial egg production purposes has been shown to be proven. Through the laying contests which are supervised by the Division have proved to be an excellent medium for arousing interest in better production as the result of better breeding and management.

Through the medium of these egg laying contests a system of official registration has been established the last few years which is performed at egg with official recorded ancestry Canada in the first country to stan a definite laying contests and to use such records as the basis for official records.

The declaration of the French franc makes imported wines more costly. Before the war the American dollar would purchase five francs. Now it is possible to obtain twenty francs for the devalued American dollar. A small cargo of North American wheat reaches France about four million bushels.

LACOMBE FIELD DAY
SATURDAY, OCT. 17th

An exceedingly interesting and informative programme has been arranged for the Swine Breeders' Field Day at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, on Saturday, October 17th.

A. M. Peterson of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, a well known authority on swine, will discuss the swine business from an angle new to the producer. In the course of his address Mr. Peterson will explain a number of points concerning which most breeders have only the vaguest of ideas.

During the last few years a great many hitherto unrecognized facts have come to light in the realm of breeding feeding and management of bacon hogs. The Field Day programme will include a review of the work with swine at the Experimental Station, with particular emphasis on recent developments.

Losses of young pigs were once considered necessary evils, but it has been discovered that they may be largely prevented by proper handling of the sow and litter. Such dreaded conditions as anemia, rickets and similar diseases may be avoided by observing proper preventative measures.

These subjects and many others of interest and also actual cash valuation every swine breeder will be discussed and explained by officials of the Experimental station and the Dominion Live Stock Branch.

The programme will start at 1.30 p.m.; but you are invited to come early and spend a couple of hours or more lunch in going over the other phases of the Experimental Station's work. Bring a picnic lunch, and make up a party of friends and neighbours. Coffee, cream and sugar will be provided for a basket lunch.

ELTHAM EDITION

The big news around this district just now is undoubtedly the dance on October 16, at the school. Stan Rose's orchestra will provide the music, and the ladies committee, school members show signs of hard work. Inform us that ladies will please provide the refreshments. Admission will be 35c for gentlemen, and a large crowd is expected. All roads lead to Elthan on Friday.

A few Elthamites attended the house dance last Friday and enjoyed a very good time. Here's hoping more of the kind will be held soon.

Plans for the making of a skating rink at the school are at issue under discussion. Anticipation rises high in youthful hearts and the school children, at least, with the movement all

Noticed Around:—

Rastie Steele and Morris Cooper receiving remarks from the school well and planning a new museum. Mr. F. Pallister in the proud owner of a new which produced little calves last week, said calves are thriving well. A well-known barbster of this region recently trying out a new kind of resort-cake, which some kind soul had sent him, since the city divided no housekeeper now needs must be tied up on modern brand-baking smooth. Herb Todd's well-digging outfit is next on F. Starke's farm. Dust rising high last week behind cars bearing numerous school-teachers to and from convention.

AUTUMN WORK IN THE GARDEN

(Experimental Farms Note)

As soon as the tops of the plants are frozen or have died off, they should be removed and burned. If the tops of the perennial plants are left on the bed all winter there is danger that they may harbour disease spores and insects which may have been present on the plants. As soon as the ground is frozen a mulch of coal manure, straw or evergreen branches can be applied to hold the snow. Sometimes the stems of the plants are left for this purpose but it is not recommended. Some plants which are frequently attacked by slugs can be protected by covering the crown with old coal ashes. The same thing is useful around raspberries and hollyhock to prevent water standing in the crowns and then freezing. If the leaves of the hollyhocks and foxgloves are very numerous some of them can be removed.

September and October are the months when spring flowering bulbs are planted and clumps of them in a perennial border are greatly appreciated in spring. Besides tulips and Tulips which can be obtained in many varieties and colours there are other attractive bulbous plants such as Chionodoxa — Glory of the Snow, Scilla sibirica — Siberian Squill, both of which have blue flowers, Crocus which can be obtained in white, yellow and purple varieties. These are amongst the earliest of flowers to bloom in the spring. Muscari — Grape Hyacinth with dark blue flowers like a bunch in miniature blooms a little later.

Lilies are also grown [illegible] which should be planted in October. Some of the best and easiest to grow are L. amabile, L. tenuifolium, L. regale, L. Willmottiae and L. Henryi.

The Clandonald Contents are held ing a Bazaar in the Orange hall at Clandonald on Wednesday Oct 21 The Bazaar will begin at 2 o'clock p.m. and will feature the sale of serviceable articles and games for old and young. A hot lunch is obtainable at any time during the afternoon. There is a big dance at night $15.

ORIGUARY

HERBERT FREDERIC YOUNG

The death of Herbert Frederic (Bertie) Young of Hindville on October 9th at the early age of 25 years, came as a great shock to all who knew him. Having spent all his life in Hindville, he had a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances, by whom he will be deeply mourned and sadly missed. He was loved by all who knew him for his kindly ways. The deceased was born in Vermilion on August 7th 1911, and leaves to mourn his loss, his father and mother Mr and Mrs. H. Young, one sister Florence, and two brothers, Harold and Frank. Owing to the nature of his illness, the funeral service was private in character, being held in the Vermilion Cemetery on Saturday October 10th and attended by immediate relatives and sympathisers. Heartfelt sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family, by a very large circle of friends and neighbors. Floral tributes were received from Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers; Uncle Dick and Auntie Linzie; Uncle Roger; Cousin Mabel and Walter Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rankin, Eunice and Harvey; Mr. and Mrs Cox and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Young and family wish to extend sincere thanks to their many friends for their kind and help received during their sad bereavement

WILDMERE WINKS

Sorry folks, no Winks last week, but we figured some that were held over would be printed, so did not send in any. (Ed Note—No Winks appearing last week was due to a mis take on our part.)

Mr. G. Shane's sale was a great success as far as the crowd was concerned. There was a good turn out from far and near

Mr and Mrs Theo Doyle and son Bobby were up from Camrose last week, visiting relatives and friends. While in the Lloyd district they stayed with the latter parents Mr and Mrs Graham Gunion

Mr. William Hess's sale on Tuesday of this week came off here with There was not as large a crowd as expected but everything except cattle and horses sold very well considering the hard times, and the cattle sales held the fall Mr and Mrs Hess and lady son leave on Thursday for Calgary.

Friday Oct 16th will see a dance in Irlandale school, keep the date, going folks.

On Tuesday Oct 6th a clever son given Bert Frizzell. Many guests and Mrs Bert Frizzell. Many young folks turned out to assist them out of bed.

Mr and Mrs. Gus and son Mr and Mrs. Geoffert and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton and children L. Graham were all visitors at the Wallington home to a Thanksgiving dinner on Monday.

Mr and Mrs Len Keast and [illegible] from Lea Park spent Thanksgiving at the latters parents Mr and Mrs. Gilman Hanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and family from Earlie district spent a day at the Burke home also at Hanwood.

No Winks next week as wilkes and hubby are going to Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton and children spent a few days visiting relatives at Wetaskiwin a week ago. They enjoyed their stay very much returning home in Edmonton

Rev H.N. Konkle of Toronto, secretary for Canada of the Missionary Lepers will give an illustrated address in the I.O.O.F. hall Vermilion on the evening the 21st at 8 o'clock p.m. With all those children. Large work keep this date in mind and make an especial effort to be present at this meeting.

Year-Round Fire Prevention

Fire prevention week has come and gone, but fire hazards are still extant. If, however, the lessons learned during the recent fire prevention week's campaigns are taken to heart and borne in mind, the risks of loss of life and property from this source should be minimized, in any event for a short time until memory withers.

In a country like Western Canada, however, fire prevention week should be every week the year round, so far as the individual is concerned, and certainly from October 1, when hard stoking commences, until about April 7 when furnaces and stoves are extinguished for a short summer season.

As indicated at the outset memory soon lapses, and while impressions of the importance of care and precaution in the handling of fire may be vivid during the course of a public campaign, such as accompanies all event like fire prevention week, they soon fade. Such campaigns serve a useful purpose temporarily, but whether they are effective permanently depends upon the receptiveness and retentiveness of the individual mind.

Moreover with fire, as with everything else, familiarity breeds contempt. The continuous use of fire in the home or store, day in and day out for 24 hours of the day is apt to result in relaxation of precautionary measures against potential contingencies. This coupled with increasing impairment and declining efficiency of equipment as the long winter months drag towards a close, combines to enhance the hazards of loss from conflagration.

These observations are inspired by the facts which statistics of Dominion and provincial authorities and fire insurance companies and newspaper stories record.

Despite the annual campaign which is carried on with much vigor and great publicity by these combined forces in an effort to instil precaution in the public mind, the fire demon continues to take a terrible toll of life and property in this Dominion.

When it is reported that on the average, every day in the year one life is sacrificed and more than one person injured by fire and $110 000 worth of property goes up in smoke in Canada, the phrase "terrible toll" assumes definite significance and gives graphic portrayal to the adage which says that "fire is a good servant but a bad master."

A daily loss of property of $110 000 is equivalent to approximately $40 000 000 a year. The enormity of this sacrifice to the fire god can be better appreciated when it is pointed out that the figure is a close parallel to the Dominion government's contribution under relief legislation in each of the years 1931 and 1934, the two years in which federal expenditures for this purpose reached a peak since the depression started. In 1931 the federal government's relief bill amounted to $42 716 715 and in 1934 it was $36 - 950,146, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

In other words, the people of Canada, on the one hand, are destroying annually $40 000 000 of property as a result of their carelessness in handling fire and on the other hand, are, in heaviest unemployment years, paying out approximately the same amount for relief of unemployment, through federal taxation channels.

Much concern has been shown over the large sums which the federal government has had to pay out in its efforts to grapple with the ills occasioned by unemployment and industrial and agricultural depression. Figures of expenditures for this purpose and articles dealing with various phases of the cost of unemployment and depression have been published almost daily during the past few years, yet but little is heard of the equally heavy loss occasioned by fire, except once a year when the annual fire prevention campaign is in progress

And yet that heavy fire loss is more easy to cope with than the unemployment and relief problem. All that is required is the exercise of the same care the year round as that which people display in the handling of fire during fire prevention week when the subject is fresh in their minds.

It is not necessary to recapitulate here and now the lessons which have been taught during fire prevention week, the precautions which must be taken to ensure that loved ones will not be burned to death or maimed for life and to prevent the destruction of homes, barns or other buildings and furniture. If only people will train themselves to remember and practice these precautions and to maintain vigilance the year round, this tremendous toll of life and property can be reduced almost to zero.

Throttled With Extinction

Caledonian Market In London May Cease To Exist

The Metropolitan cattle market, one of the largest and most extraordinary of London markets, is threatened with extinction.

Commonly called the Caledonian market, it occupies 20 acres in Islington, North London. As a meat market it is almost ceased to exist many years ago following the intensive importation of frozen meat and later of chilled meat, but in recent years has revived considerably.

The celebrity which the Caledonian market has attained, however, is due much more to the extraordinary jumble of goods of all kinds, including livestock, which is displayed there every Tuesday and Friday. Customers go there by the 10,000 and more sightseers by the thousand.

The small storekeepers of Islington have long felt lessons over the competition they endure through the market. Traders in the latter, they say, go there for two days a week, pay a negligible fee and possess the permanent tradesmen of the district. It is maintained that the site could be used with advantage for working class flats and thus assist in slum clearance in Islington.

Important To Doctors

Salmon Has Taken X-Ray Movies Of Human Body

The first successful X-ray motion pictures of the organs of the body in action were shown before the American Roentgen Ray Society in Cleveland. The movies, made with an amateur motion picture camera set in front of a fluoroscopic screen used by physicians to see the X-rays pass through the body, satisfy a wish which many medical men have had for years.

Dr. William H. Stewart, Dr. William J. Hoffman and Dr. F. H. Chilcote of the Lenox Hill hospital of New York, presented the development with the comment that it is "probably destined to become an important division of Roentgenological investigation and diagnosis" as well as teaching and other uses.

They showed a human heart beating, a throat swallowing food, a stomach and part of the small intestine digesting food, the lungs filling and a diaphragm falling and lifting in the rhythmic process of breathing.

Retreat Trains Founded

The London, Midland & Scottish Railway has just set an enviable record for punctuality. A return ticket at Blanket showed that out of a total of 374,694 express and local passenger trains run within a recent four-month period 362,888, or 96 per cent., arrived at their destination on time.

A five-ton truck in England recently was driven 100 miles with solid fuel made from coal. An estimated fuel saving of 60 per cent was recorded

World Refuse Auctioned

More than 7,000 lives could be saved yearly through adequate illumination of major traffic arteries between cities, Paul H. Goodell, chairman of the street lighting committee, reported to the joint annual meeting in Toronto of the American Society of Municipal Engineers and the International Association of Public Works Officials.

Ideals Of The League

Hon. R. B. Bennett Voices Appeal On Behalf Of League Support

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Canadian Conservative leader, told an Australian service club that the British Dominions must support any agency whereby the collective power of mankind prevailed against those threatening annihilation of the civilized world.

Mr. Bennett voiced a fervent appeal on behalf of the ideals of the League of Nations. "Because there has been a failure to realize the fullest hopes for the League, we cannot discard it in its entirety," Mr. Bennett said. "I refuse to believe Napoleon's maxim that God is on the side of the heaviest battalions."

The former Canadian prime minister said that while human nature had defeated the hopes for the League as enunciated by Aristide Briand, the ideal remained. "Although the League lamentably failed to express positive power against an offending nation, the world must try again." He said that the British Dominions must support the League to this end.

Mr. Bennett asked Australians not to consider Canada as an appendage of the United States. The choicest of our nation laid down their lives on the fields of Flanders in British loyalty and Canada has no idea that any other nation exercises suzerainty or provides its protection. We are proud of our place in the Empire and conscious of our responsibility as being midway between Europe and Asia."

Food Faddists

Fresh Diets Termed A Starvation Course By American Doctor

The "fresh diets" of the food faddists were termed a starvation course to "physical destruction" by Dr. Milton Bridges, diet expert of Columbia University.

"There does not exist any fruit, meat, fish or other food which in itself is reducing or reducing physical weight as much as 1-1,000th of a pound," he said in an address.

If there is any reason for deficiency in the North American diet today, he added, it is lack of protein. Middle-aged persons, he said, are entitled, and to be anemistic because they fail to eat enough meat, eggs, cheese, fish and protein.

"It is about time some of our old ideas were exploded," he said.

"The public needs a fad as a brain food, letters to produce sleep, onions to cure a cold, parsley to increase child output, lamb chops to stabilize the urine and rusty nails for blood building, celery to soothe the nerves, skim milk and bananas for reducing, and fruit but not bananas an apple a day to keep the doctor away, have all been proved worthless fantasies."

Flight Of Birds

Move Seen From Africa-Asiatic Figure For Canadian Centuries

When a man climbs into an aeroplane and hops across the ocean and back the thing he is doing is something that is countless centuries old.

"Birds have been doing this for ages," said Professor C. Lovell, of the biological survey at Washington. He added that he was not belittling the accomplishments of his own flyers.

But while man is aided by powerful mechanical contrivances, Charles Lincoln said the birds depended on instinct and abilities that have passed accidentally from generation to generation.

The illumpion distance traveller known to ornithologists is the Arctic tern which nests in the cold regions near the North Pole, then flies across the Atlantic to Europe, and on down to the Antarctic before again flying on —an 11,000-mile trip—twice a year.

The golden plover, a bird about the size of the robin, flies from Hawaii to Alaska, the 2,000 miles between Nova Scotia and South America over a landless route.

New Smuggling Racket

Peacock Feathers Are Being Taken Into China From India

And now they're smuggling peacock feathers.

Peacock plumage is highly prized in China, but in India peacocks are protected by law. Hence the Chinese customs act forbids the export of the feathers of these "Children of the Gods."

Because of the good market in China for the feathers, many persons now are engaged in smuggling them there.

They had itself married just about two months. Lunch was in progress.

"Darling!" he said suddenly. "This steak tastes funny."

"Oh, yes, dear," she replied, "I forgot to tell you. I burnt it, so I put some vaseline on it."

Gold Production Gains

Production In Canada During 1935 Greatest In History

Gold production in Canada during July, 1936, advanced to 319,505 ounces compared with 316,670 ounces in June and 286,763 ounces in July a year ago. Production during the first seven months of 1936 totalled 2,067,014 ounces, an increase of 15.8 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1935. Value of the metal during July averaged $34.91 per ounce, in Canadian funds, and valued at this price the total production for the month was worth $11,- 153,893.

Gold production in Canada during 1935 was the greatest in her history, both in amount and value. The output value was the highest of any previous year and the increase was the largest between the corresponding month a year ago, and all indications point to a new high production record for 1936.

Increase German Army

Conscription To Mean Fighting Force To 800,000 Men

A widespread increase was ordered in the German military establishment as Nazi officials began conscription to raise their fighting forces to 800,- 000 men under the new two-year compulsory service rule.

Hitler, taking a leaf from the Kaiser Wilhelm system, decreed the two-year service law, to become effective Oct. 1. The training period previously was one year.

The recruits are 21 and 22 years of age — Germany's war babies — parts of the classes of 1914 and 1915.

They will be distributed among the land, air and sea forces and represent an increase of from one-fourth to one-third in the nation's armed strength.

BRITISH TROOPS ENGAGE ARABS IN SERIOUS CLASH

Haifa, Palestine. — Fighting took place on the slopes of historic Mount Carmel, as 1,500 British troops engaged a large force of Arabs in what appeared to be the most serious clash so far in the Palestine disturbances.

Three Royal Air Force planes aided the troops in the fighting, which was still going on as night fell. Mortars were being used to shell the Arabs out of their positions of the rocky mountainside.

North Lancashire infantry advanced steadily as the Arabs retreated from rock to rock.

Rifle fire and the booming of the mortars could be clearly heard in Haifa, which lies at the foot of the mountain where according to the Scriptures Elijah destroyed the prophets of Baal.

The slopes of Mount Carmel are covered with pine, olive and thick groves and are dotted with rocky caverns, providing a highly advantageous defence terrain.

Jerusalem.—At least 16 men were killed or wounded in the fighting between Arabs and British troops on Mount Carmel, preliminary reports said.

The official report said some of the British soldiers or airmen had been wounded.

The list of Arab casualties mounted to 16 when another armed Arab band made a raid on the police station at Beit Duja, Arab town near Jaffa. The police responded and Imposing swift punishment for several cases of sniping at troops, a military detachment demolished an Arab village between Acre and Safed and demolished two houses.

Madrid Resumed In

Fascist Leaders Promise To Blow City To Pieces Unless It Surrenders

Burgos, Spain.—Fascists leaders promised "to blow Madrid to pieces" unless it surrenders to the advancing insurgent legions.

"We recommend that the civil population does everything in its power to make the government surrender," read circulars showered on Madrid from Fascist war 'planes.

The greater the resistance the greater will be the attack," they read, "Madrid will be bombarded intensively from both land and air."

Fascist lines hemmed in Madrid on three sides with only the eastern sector open.

Steadily the southern and bottom side of the advance was stretched longer past Madrid, but the defenders was to march troops on this line due north, completely boxing the capital.

The insurgent juggernaut under General Francisco Franco rolled swiftly, but methodically, northtorn in its path, finally halting before San Martin De Valdeiglesias, whose fall the insurgent leaders expected momentarily.

New Cunard-White Star Liner

Motor Ship To Queen Mary Of Larger Dimensions

Glasgow. — The new Cunard-White Star liner to be built by John Brown and Company will likely be 2,000 tons heavier and from 12 to 18 feet longer than the R.M.S. Queen Mary, it was revealed.

William Beardmore and Company of Glasgow, announced it had received the contract to supply built castings for the new liner, which to date is known only as No. 552.

"The 553 is expected to have rather larger dimensions than the Queen Mary," the company said. "Its tonnage is likely to exceed the 80,- 773 of the Queen Mary by about 2,000 tons and to be from 12 to 18 feet longer. Thousands of workers throughout the country, as well as at Clydebank, will benefit by the liner's construction. In the case of the Queen Mary, 260 firms in 60 towns supplied accessories for the ship."

The new liner will be laid down on the same ways as those used for the Queen Mary. A contract between the Cunard-White Star Line and John Brown and Company was signed recently.

Alberta University Head

W. A. R. Kerr Is Appointed As President To Succeed Dr. Wallace

Edmonton.—Appointment of W. A. R. Kerr as president of the University of Alberta to succeed Dr. R. C. Wallace was announced here under authority of Premier Aberhart. Mr. Kerr, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences at the university since 1914, will be the third president.

Dr. Wallace, who resigned this year to become principal of Queen's University, Kingston, had been president since 1928.

The premier stated the government had felt, as soon as it became known Dr. Wallace was to retire, that a comprehensive survey of the Canadian field of available men should be made before a decision was reached.

"A very complete list was compiled, including several names from the local institution, and full information gathered concerning each," the statement said. After reaching a tentative conclusion he had consulted the board of governors, the deans, and several of the senior professors, only to learn that the opinion of all coincided with that of the government "President Kerr then takes up his new responsibilities with the satisfaction of knowing he was the unanimous choice of the government, the board of governors and a broad representative group of the faculty."

RUSSIA CLAIMS NEUTRALITY PACT BEING VIOLATED

Moscow. — The Soviet Union, in a communication, declared it would seek again a free hand in Spain unless Portugal, Italy and Germany immediately halt military assistance to the Spanish insurgents.

The note was delivered by Mosyevich Kagan, Russian representative on the non-intervention committee, to representatives of the signatory countries in London.

"If violations are not stopped immediately, the Soviet government will free itself from any obligations in the agreement," the communication said

Kagan specially charged Germany, Italy and Portugal with sending arms and war planes to the insurgents in direct violation of the international neutrality pact which they signed

"The Soviet government," the note declared, "cannot consent to cessation of the non-interference pact into a screen for concealing military assistance rendered to the rebels and the government by some participants of the pact"

The Soviets now possess planes bombing planes of German and Italian origin which did not belong previously to the Spanish army," it was charged, "and the testimonies of airmen prisoners that supplies of munitions from Portugal are received."

Berlin Russia's charge that assistance had been given Spain's rebels by Germany, Italy and Portugal was not mentioned in the German press.

Reports in the papers printed only a Paris dateline, a story report of the arrival at Alicante, Spain of seven wearing medals for what was said to have unloaded a cargo under cover of darkness

The Spanish British Columbian, he said, was wearing an Indian Mutiny medal. The sight of a veteran, he said, was a reminder of the extraordinary part played in war by the Canadian army."

Adult Education

Western Educational News Value In Debating Clubs

Halifax Aims and advantages of adult education were reviewed here by E. A. Corbett, former extension director of Alberta University and now director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, at a joint meeting of Halifax service clubs.

"There is no better way of getting young people off the street corners than by holding debates, the western educationist said. There were more than 160 debating clubs in the province of Alberta.

Adult education provided means by which people might bring out talents in later life helped those with little or no education, helped workers to adjust themselves to swiftly-changing industrial life and to acquire a sound philosophy of life.

Education of mature people was on the theory that "man has not one mental birth, but a series of mental rebirths throughout life, and that during each decade of his life, new powers and new possibilities come to the maturity."

BADMINTON SEASON STARTS ON MONDAY

Annual Meeting Was Held On Tuesday Night

Badminton players will start the season on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock when the opening meet will be opened to play. Last year the club had a membership of 45 but as there are only four courts in use it is necessary to limit the membership to 32 persons. Anyone desiring to join should see the secretary, F. J. Richardson or the president Alden Cooper. Immediately on receipt of a membership fee the new member will be entitled to play.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres.—W. W. Bell
Pres.—Alden H. Cooper
Vice-Pres.—F. J. Richardson
Sec.-Treas.—J. J. Richardson
Social committee convener—M. H. J. Clarke and Mrs. A. H. Cooper
Tournament committee—M. J. Greig, J. Weiss, Mrs. Elliott

BROWNIE NOTES

There were 27 Brownies at the meeting on Friday. We had a Pow Wow and decided to call the new patrols. The Fives—Fawns (old) told us a little more about Mowgli and we went on to our reports for work. We tried out a new song called "A Brownie Smile." Brown Owl told us that the running week is Guide Week and asked us to answer uniforms to church on Sunday.

Evangelisation of Canadian Life

United in the convention. "That only as Jesus Christ is enthroned as Lord of all Life" can men find harmony in their souls, and live equitably with their fellows.

The United, Presbyterian and Anglican churches together with the Salvation Army, are co-operating in "The Campaign for the Evangelisation of Canadian Life," and call upon all loyal members to do their part, by prayer and personal effort, to aid in making the Will of God the Law of our lives.

Services in this connection will commence on Oct. 25 and continue until the end of November in each of the above named churches.

HIGH SCHOOL GYM APPEALS FOR OLD MATTRESSES

Mattresses are urgently needed in the high school for gym mats. Last year a class in gymnastics was begun and it is planned to carry on the work this term. The school is handicapped somewhat because of lack of equipment, particularly gym mats. Mats cost a dollar per square foot and the high school funds cannot meet this cost. Satisfactory mats can, however be made by covering old mattresses with canvas. The school has the canvas but not the mattresses. Perhaps you have an extra one which you could donate to the school gym. The high school boys will only be too glad to call for same. Notify Mr. Brown of the high school. The boys want the gym class and you can, perhaps, help them to have one. Your aid will be greatly appreciated

MARTIN MIX ACQUITTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Supreme Court Hears Case

Martin Mix a young Vermilion man was acquitted in the Supreme Court at Vegreville on Monday on a charge of indecent assault on a female last.

The case was heard before Mr. Justice Ives and a jury. The jury was out for about 45 minutes when they returned with a verdict of not guilty. Mr. Mix was represented by D. J. Kennedy, K.C. of Edmonton and Mr. Prevette. Mrs. Annie Cameron was represented by A. E. Rimmer, K.C. of Edmonton and A. A. Purves of Vermilion.

A very interesting case was heard, involving considerable evidence. Mr. Justice Ives presided.

Mr. H. W. Bruce, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Prevette, Mr. Annie Cameron and A. E. Rimmer, K.C. of Edmonton and A. A. Purves of Vermilion were present during the trial.

ANNUAL ROUND-UP OF OLD-TIMERS

Banquet and Dance Held Last Friday Evening

174 IN ATTENDANCE

The eighth annual round up of old Timers was held in the Elks hall on Friday evening last and it can be truthfully said that this is one organization which is now having up to its standard as indicated taken in by members. The old Timers Association is growing, not only in numbers but in the spirit of good fellowship which was so evident on Friday evening. The attendance was the largest on record, 174 members sitting down to a sumptuous banquet served by Mrs. Annie Cameron and her band of willing helpers to the effect that the old Timers for the time being at least forgot the cares of the world and had a real good time. Everybody was entertained and everybody seemed to enjoy the evening in the reminiscences, happy homecomings that shine and trials and tribulations to be entirely forgotten and so on. Lasts only remembered. Big bunch of eggs or those who had been in battle or since. In fact the Old Timers program was entertaining, enjoyable. That this is a subject which was really realized after it was all over. Johnnie White, Jim Lyons and Mrs. Annie Cameron were responsible for the program. Everything a success.

Chief Big Eagle was unable to be present owing to illness but sent a message of greeting.

Mr. Bruce, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Prevette, Mr. Annie Cameron and A. E. Rimmer, K.C. of Edmonton and A. A. Purves of Vermilion were present during the trial.

Marycutter With his encouragement, the boys have worked hard to make Marycutter House look very much as it did in the twelfth century when it was inhabited by the Knights Templars who daily did their good turns." The grey and red colors of the Knights Templars have been reproduced in the scheme, and the interior has been decorated so far as may be in true monastic style.

The Chief Scout is anxious too that all boys possible should pass the necessary tests for the King's Scout Badge in time for the Coronation, because scouts are to swell the Coronation Pageant prepared by King George's Jubilee Trust Fund.

Safety For Miners

Science Has Instruments To Detect Underground Carbon

Scientific aids, mechanical thermometers and giant stethoscopes will feel the pulse of mother earth in the future and give miners advance warning of impending cave-ins, J. Y. Claypool, of Hibbing, Minn., told the first annual safety Conference at Alatmac City, N.J

Claypool, district superintendent of mines Oliver Iron Mining Company, said detection of weak spots in the walls and props of mines were rapidly approaching the stage of use.

He told of a new "dynamometer prop" that records the earth's pressure against it, and of another with the same manner as a thermometer records temperature The prop would go into sag of the ceiling needs supports, and the slightest increase in pressure from above is recorded by a red mark on the prop.

Another device utilizes a steel battled telescopically into a cylinder held in the roof by a steel coil spring When set against mine ceilings, compression of the spring is registered by a stylus that traces a line on a drum

Week-End Drinkers

Chicago Medical Authority Points To Perils Of Chronic Tipplers

Liquor takes its heaviest toll on the "week-end drinkers"— those persons who vary periodic alcoholic sprees with short rides on the "water wagon"— a Chicago medical authority declared at Kansas City

That type of drinker, said Dr. Joseph A. Capps, professor of medicine at the University of Chicago, courts an eventual "mental breakdown" and suffers "loss of will power and confidence in himself during the process."

These terrors are not so prone to dog the chronic tippler, who instead invites cirrhosis of the liver as the price for his indulgence, said Dr. Capps.

"Our danger is that we're becoming a nation of hard liquor drinkers. Over a period of years this is going to mean a decline in the health and mental integrity of our country," he declared.

"If young people must drink, the sensible thing is to use mild drinks (beer and wines) and keep away from hard liquor.

However, drinking may play a legitimate part in the lives of persons beyond middle age, the doctor said

"Work recently done by a Boston physician seems to show that a small amount of spirits late in life tends to preserve the arteries."

Might Be Good Idea

Canadian Critic Thinks Novels Should Be Credited Like Eggs

"Great art never appears in advance of a public able to appreciate it," William Arthur Deacon, well-known Canadian critic, stated in an address at London, Ontario.

"If novels could be graded, like eggs, the reading public might be sure of spending their ten-few readings hours with genuine art," Mr. Deacon said. Unfortunately, in the realm of the aesthetic there are no standards and for honest critic can infallibly select literary "eggs" that can be warranted good.

Mr. Deacon impressed on his audience his belief that, as a critic, his opinions were not necessarily better than those of the English-speaking public, but he claimed the right to encourage them to increase the joys of their own reading by attaining a critical attitude towards what they read.

"When novels are pouring from the presses of the English-speaking world at a rate of approximately 20 a day the most assiduous reader cannot hope to cover more than a small minority of them," the speaker said.

Britain Accepts Challenge

Race With Russia For Gold Output Is On

For all of 1936 Soviet Russia is expected to produce about 6,000,000 ounces of gold. And because of the expansion program the Soviet Union is expected to be the world's largest gold producer by 1940. At present South Africa holds the title British interests say that all of South Africa's mines are going full blast. They hope that by 1939 the gold producing title will be retained.

It is interesting to note that in 1928 the Soviet Union produced only 900,000 ounces of the previous metal. Last year the full output was 3,850,000 ounces. According to informed mining interests the rich deposits of gold ore in Siberia are still virgin territory. The British have accepted the challenge And so the race for gold output is on.

Sunday School Lesson

OCTOBER 25

CHRISTIANITY AS LOVE

Golden text: Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love. I Corinthians 13:13.

Lesson: Acts 18:1-17; I Corinthians 13.

Devotional reading: John 15:12-17.

Explanations And Comments

Love Is Essential, I Corinthians 13:1-3. There was jealousy of one another in the Corinthian church. Many of the members aspired to be conspicuous figures; some could touch, some could heal—which had the greater gift? Bitter arguments, sharp words, wasted energy resulted from their contentions. This quotation Paul discusses in chapters 12, 13 and 14 of his first letter to them. In chapter 12 he argues that there are diverse gifts, but the Spirit is the same; in chapter 14 that the gift of prophecy is better than the gift of tongues; and in the midst of these arguments he suddenly stops and writes the poem in chapter 13.

It is as if the pity of it all overwhelms him. "See," he writes, "cease eternally the good gifts," and always remember that there is "a more excellent way"; and then he continues the spirit they are showing with a spirit guided by love, teaching them what they would and what they would not do if love actuated all their actions. shows them how impossible love is to them.

The apostle read into the word love an absolutely new significance. Nothing of the amorous feeling of the insipid; nothing of the passionate; but love as it abides in God, its fountain head, and was revealed when Jesus died as the sacrificial Lamb of God" (P. S. Meyers).

Emotional gifts, ecstatic utterances, are valueless, without meaning, eloquence unsupported by love means no more than so much noise, declares Paul in his words, "If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal." Trumpets and cymbals were employed in the worship of pagan temples to produce deafening noise. His illustration was probably drawn from the shrill, discordant music made with the tongues by the speakers, each endeavoring to drown the voices of the others, as seems from 14.23 to have been the case with the Corinthians.

Paul next enumerates intellectual gifts—the gift of prophecy, the knowledge of mysteries and of knowledge, and the most perfect faith—and declares that if their possessor lacks love he is nothing. Note the contrast between what a man has and what he is: he may have extraordinary gifts, but he is nothing.

Not War Material

Governments Agree Arms Embargo Does Not Include Gas Masks

Gas masks do not come under the embargo on "war material," it was decided in London by the international committee that is attempting to supervise non-intervention in the Spanish civil war. The committee had before it more than a dozen replies from governments, all agreeing that gas masks should not be prohibited under the various arms embargoes now in force. Consequently the exportation of gas masks become legal hereafter to either side in the civil war.

Toronto Witness Allowed To Affirm Rather Than Take Oath

Rev. D. I. Elmore took advantage of a royal privilege when a Presbyterian 200 years ago when he appeared in women's court at Toronto.

The minister expressed a wish to affirm rather than take an oath on the Bible in a bigamy case in which he was called as a witness

"A Presbyterian and not swear on the Bible?" exclaimed Magistrate Jones.

Told of the royal privilege, Mr Cowan said he had been a Presbyterian all his life and had never heard of it He allowed the witness to affirm his intention of telling the truth

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —

"What was there to do? I tossed a twenty-dollar bill to one of the attendants to see that he got into his car all right. Such carrion was not worth selling my hands over."

Pain tore at Starr's heart. His words were properly chosen, but there was something in his carless tone. What he really meant, it was quite plain to her, was that her honor was not worth selling his hands over! A twenty-dollar bill was nothing. Money smoothed his play-boy path wherever he went . . . An icy hand clutched at Starr's heart. For it was quite as plain to her that he expected the money to win her. In his own way, on his own terms.

Not for the world, though, would she have let him know she realised that. With a flash of her old brawado, she said flippantly:

"And what does that make me?"

Lance's black eyebrows lifted slightly, and he smiled, with a touch of indulgence.

"I hope it makes me your cavalier for the evening, at least," he said, his voice low, almost a whisper. There was a subtle, caressing note in his tone which lent his innocent words a deep significance.

Starr turned away from him with a wave of revulsion. Lance Marlowe was quick-eyed; he was trained to the observation of feminine moods. He saw his mistake instantly, and his face darkened.

"I should have known better than to use my usual line on you." There was a touch of insolence intimed. Then he shrugged. "I suppose you'll be hot-wanting to stay any longer now—as at least I can see you to your car, get your wrap for you, or something."

Starr cried out almost in a panic. "Yes—no! Nothing! And I have no intention of running away from—from—oh, any or you!

But in spite of her defy, suddenly she was fleeing from him. Anywhere to get away. She had said she meant to stay, but all she really wanted to do was to get away from him and this mad, glittering playtime world. It was not in any way what she had expected it would be. Living out here span in drab obscurity was better—a million times—than this!

Half blinded with the tears she was forcing back as she dashed up the balcony steps, she collided with something that stopped her flight. It was strong, vital body of a man. A second her face was buried against the front of a starched shirt; then she looked up, dazed.

"Starr! For Heaven's sake! Where do you think you're going? Out to beat some kind of a record?"

Michael's hands were gripping her shoulders. Michael's face beamed down at her. He was so full of his own satisfaction that he did not even notice her agitation. He could take things lightly like that, make humorous remarks, laugh! when her heart was breaking!

Again she was conscious of the overpowering attraction of his presence, like an intoxicant in her blood, that sent it singing along through every vein in her body. She fought against it desperately. Why must it be like this?

Michael was so pleased that he almost hugged her. Yet his pleasure was simply that of a man who has just put over a good business deal. It was all in the head, not the heart.

He grinned, standing off to look at her with his head cocked a little to one side.

"Pret-ty swell!" he commented with a satisfied air. "What's the matter? Everything is going just as we planned; better than we planned. You'll be the talk of the town to-morrow!"

The casual cocksureness of the man! As long as his own end was achieved, what did he care for price a woman paid? But how could she know he was congratulating himself on his own perspicuity and his shrewdness?

at picking up a girl who hung out in La Lanza and having her turn out like this, as if she had been used to people of this kind all her life? Or perhaps it was her training for her "racket" that helped?

Starr's resentment raged again. Confiding strangely with her stormy emotions. She clenched her fists until the scarlet nails dug into her palms. A cold, brittle voice came through her painted lips.

"I can't go through with it, Michael."

His jaw dropped, and he stared. "Can't go through with it?" he echoed unbelievingly. "But why?

What's the matter?" Has anything happened."

Suddenly it was he who was agitated. Not for the money-making scheme falling through because of the whim of a girl he should have known better than to have brought in the first place. His hands tightened their grip on her shoulders, sending shooting sparks of fire through her soft flesh.

He said rapidly: "What's wrong, Starr? Haven't I done enough for you? Isn't the salary high enough? I'll raise it!"

Money! Was that all that men thought about? And this particular one probably thought she was trying to hold him up now that he had confessed she was making good, better than he had hoped she would

Starr flung herself free, and shook her whole body, only to be repressed. She realised only too well how hopeless her struggle was to get away. To try to make him understand what this night had done to her. She had taken a measure of the one or two occasions when she tentatively had tried to make him understand that she was not the kind of girl she usually picked up in place like La Lanza. He had not believed her. She had known that. All he had seen in her was a good little woman who could carry out his plans, and he was thanking his lucky stars that she was conferring. Dunky Indian skirt owed against her ivory cheeks like the passion-filled eyes from him. Starr and all pitches needed.

"That's not the reason. I've changed my mind, that's all."

"All!" A long moment he paused. When he spoke again a harsh note had crept into his voice. A voice of contempt.

"I didn't know you were a quitter, Starr."

The vivid face flashed up to meet his gaze. What he said stung her more than all that had gone before. "You are marvelous, Starr, honestly. What else do you expect me to think?" He shrugged as if to show little quick came about the change of his mouth. Or is it [illegible] that Lance Marlowe has a reputation for attractive proposals. He would!"

She glared at him, breathless in her instantaneous surge of fury.

(To Be Continued.)

"And what is your name, anyhow, man?"

"Henry, sir."

"Why did you parents name you Henry?"

"I'm the eighth, sir."

"Why has your husband been summoned?"

"I'm not quite sure, but I think a policeman held up his hand and Jack put his foot on the exhaust."

"If you are doing business every day it is necessary to tell the public that fact."

To Ease a Headache Fast
Get Real Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving "ASPIRIN"

See How "ASPIRIN" TabletsWork

In 5 seconds by clock, one "Aspirin" tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work. Even an "Aspirin" tablet you swallow whole is crushed by the stomach-grinding. What happens to this glass of "Aspirin" is what happens in you.

For QUICK Relief
If you suffer from headaches what you want is quick relief.

"Aspirin" tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve at once. Without intestinally they touch moisture. (Note carefully this word.)

Hence—when you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to disintegrate almost as quickly as you swallow it. And thus is ready to start working almost instantly. Headaches, neuralgia and neuritis pains start going almost at once.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada, owned and the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on the tablets either at the opening of his first parliament or at his coronation, whichever comes first.

Another Boat Salvaged

German Battleship Taken From Seaga Flow To Shipbreaking Yard

The former German battleship Kaiserin, salvaged from the sea bed at Scapa Flow, completed her journey from the Orkneys to the shipbreaking yard at Rosyth Dockyard in the eastern United States. She were accommodated in huts erected on the keel, and whose duties were to attend to the pumps which kept the hulk afloat.

Like the other vessels of the scuttled fleet which have been raised and taken to Rosyth, the Kaiserin made the passage upside down, powered by seven Dutch tugs.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Opening His First Parliament

King Edward Will Be Speaking To Crowded House

King Edward will open the first parliament of his reign at Westminster November 3. He will drive in full state from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords, and will read his speech from the throne to a chamber crowded with peers and peeresses and with the "Faithful Commons" in attendance.

The King will not wear a crown. The crown and the sword of state will be taken from St. James' Palace to the House of Lords in a state landau, guarded by an escort of life guards, and the cap of maintenance the other emblem of royal power will be carried in front of the King Not until he has been crowned at Westminster Abbey in May will King Edward wear his crown.

If he follows the example of his father, who also opened his first parliament some time before his coronation, the King will wear full-dress naval uniform for his drive from the palace, and will don heavy robes of crimson velvet edged with gold for the ceremony in the Lords, putting on the cocked hat of an admiral when he comes to read the speech from the throne.

While he is at the House of Lords the King will carry out another ceremony of great constitutional importance. This is the signing of the royal declaration of Protestant faith, which he must make and subscribe either at the opening of his first parliament or at his coronation, whichever comes first.

Employees Are Protected

Reduction In King Edward's Staff Will Be Unnecessary

Reorganization of the working of the royal estate at Sandringham has involved a reduction in staff but the King has given an assurance that no employee is to be discharged before he has obtained another job.

Much of the land formerly farmed by the King is to be split up and let to tenant farmers and the forestry staff is being reduced The farms retained are being further mechanized Some of the men thus released are going to the flax factory on the royal estate, started by King George a few years ago

The report that there will be a considerable reduction in the staff at Balmoral and that the castle is in future to be used purely as a shooting lodge is entirely without foundation. For the sake of efficiency some reorganization will be necessary, but this will in no way affect the King's close association with Deeside

Little Helps For This Week

The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon Him: to all that call upon Him in truth. Psalm 145:18.

Be Thou O Rock of Ages nigh; So shall each murmuring thought be gone, And grief and care and fear shall fly, As child before the mid-day sun.

Take courage and turn your troubles which are without remedy into material for spiritual progress, often turn to the Lord who is watching you. Amos your labor and distractions He sends you help and blesses your afflictions This thought should make you to bear your troubles patiently and gently, for true of him who only allows you to be tried for your own good. Raise your heart constantly to God, seek His aid, and let the foundation stone of your consolation be your happiness in being Him. All vexations and annoyances will be comparatively unimportant while you have a Friend who is such a Refuge.

LAYERBILT 'B' BATTERY
AIR CELL 'A' BATTERY
The quality of radio reception largely depends on two batteries. Ask for Eveready — and be sure!
IT IS AIR CELL that has made battery radio so immensely popular these days. Air Cell—the modern battery—does away with the necessities of re charging.
Air Cell maintains itself by simply breathing air. It sounds like a miracle and it is indeed one of Science's great achievements. Best of all, peak power level is maintained for 1000 playing hours. No dwindling of power as in other batteries.
And Layerbilt! Well—everyone knows it is the super "B" battery. It is built in tightly packed layers and gives far longer life than the old fashioned round-cell types. Thus you don't have to change your "B" battery as often as formerly.
This year, Eveready has eliminated the terminal posts and given you one socket—this means only one connection for each "B" battery.
For perfect team work—Air Cell plus Layerbilt.

HOPES VANISH FOR $243,900 SUBSIDY BOOST

Province Fails To Reach 800,000 Figure Needed for Increase

Alberta Leading in Increase On The Prairies

Hopes of the Alberta government to receive some $243,900 additional subsidy this year from the dominion treasury as a result of increased population, were punctured by announcement from Ottawa on Thursday of further quinquennial census returns newly given out by the dominion bureau of statistics. The actual increase in subsidy will be only $4,912.

Alberta gained 10,413 in population in the last five years, it is shown in the new census returns, rising from 731,604 to 731,917. This increase is practically two-thirds of the total increase or 5.21 in the three prairie provinces.

Population rose in Saskatchewan from 921,785 to 930,972 and in Manitoba from 700,139 to 711,956. The total for the provinces is now 2,111,845, compared with 2,353,829 five years ago.

Anticipating a population of 800, 000 the province estimated increases in dominion subsidies as follows: on natural resources account, from $843, 500 to $756,000; on government and legislative grant from $180,000 to $220,000; on population from $613,600 to $640,000 or a total increase of $243,900.

Actually there will be no change in the natural resources and government and legislation subsidies, the only increase taking place in the population subsidy, which is granted on the basis of 80 cents per head.

On the general basis of 80 cents per capita Alberta received last year $613,600 in population subsidy. On the new census figures this subsidy payment will amount this year to $617,812, an increase of only $4,012 instead of $243,900 hoped for.

In a message dispatch Thursday states that with a comparatively small increase in population in the three prairie provinces the federal subsidies are certain to result in very little if any increase for the five-year period extending in the next census. By the B.N.A. act, largely because of the subsidy angle, it was specially arranged that there should be a federal census every five years in the prairie provinces, whereas in the other parts of the dominion the census is taken only every 10 years.

It rest upward of $1 increase in the census just concluded for the prairie provinces.

$60,000 IN SCRIP CASHED LAST WEEK

Estimate $61,000 of $236,000 Issue Outstanding

Redemptions of provincial scrip or scrip in the three-day period which ended Saturday are estimated at around $60,000 by government officials.

As the certificates are being checked, official figures on redemptions will not be available before Tuesday or Wednesday, when it is expected that a statement will be made by Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer.

A month ago, the redemptions amounted to $140,000 which left approximately $96,000 still in circulation of the original issue of $236,000. Taking into account the $25,000 released last month, there would be $121,000 out when the second redemption period opened last Thursday.

As redemptions last week are estimated at $60,000, there would still be $61,000 of scrip in circulation which would be enumerated by any subsequent re-issue, it appeared Monday.

Last week the certificates were paid off in currency or provincial government cheque according to the wish of the applicant.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(The paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

RR 1, Vermilion Alta
Oct 19, 1936

Editor,
Vermilion Standard

Dear Sir:

In reply to Mr. Oehalestorn's letter contained in last week's issue of the Standard re the correction of a statement in the Chatsworth column, when I reported the shooting of Mr. Doherty's cattle I had the information direct from Mr. Doherty. I am willing to correct any news item in the column which is proved incorrect. Upon hearing rumors to the effect that the cattle had died of bloating, I inquired of Mr. Doherty as to the truth and he denied it but affirmed his first statement to me.

Furthermore I did not state that the guilty person listed in the Chatsworth district. I merely referred to the shooting as a case of wild west lawlessness and made no reference whatsoever to the people of the Chatsworth district.

Why Mr. Oehalestorn should have taken exception to the news item is beyond my comprehension.

Yours truly
"Chatsworth Chatter"

The total 1936 world apple crop will probably be between 370 million and 450,000,000 bushels compared with roughly 750,000,000 bushels in 1935 and 510,000,000 bushels in 1934, according to the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Besides the United States short crops are reported in Germany, Belgium Holland Switzerland, Sweden and Roumania. On the other hand, Finland, France, Italy, Austria, and Czechoslovakia expect a larger production than in 1935.

CORONATION RESERVATIONS BEING MADE WITH C. N. R. SYSTEM

Enquiries are reported with regard to travel facilities and arrangements for viewing the coronation procession of His Majesty King Edward VIII, according to C. W. Johnston general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National System. Advance bookings for rail and steamship accommodation are already being made at Canadian National offices.

Some interesting details regarding the coronation arrangements are contained in the [illegible] issue of the [illegible] bulletin, which is distributed for the information of agents in regard to the seating accommodation along the route of the procession, the bulletin states, it is likely that the high commissioner for Canada will receive an allotment of seats for the use of Canadian visitors and applications for these seats will have to be made to High Commissioner's department. Applications may be made through the London England office of the Canadian National. The form of application may be obtained from any agent of the railway.

It should be noted however the bulletin continues that the original list of the form does not guarantee the reservation of seats as the accommodation [illegible] the stand is limited and will be allotted according to the order in which applications are received.

The bulletin states that apart from the accommodations to be made available through the High Commissioner's office, seats will be on sale at prices varying from $10.50 to $42.00 in Canadian money. Arrangements have been made so that Canadian National agents can issue the London office of the company purchase tickets for those who wish to secure them in advance.

James Hagen Celebrates Eighty-eighth Birthday

Occupies Time Growing Mammoth Vegetables

HONORED BY NEIGHBORS

An interesting event took place on Saturday, Oct. 17th when a party called Timers of the district met together to celebrate the eighty-eighth birthday of Mr. James Hagen, who was one of the first to take up a homestead in the township known for several years as Wellington, but during recent times re-named Clandonald.

The company had already gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Hagen when the guest of honour arrived with his elder son, Mr. Hugh Hagen.

The pleased old gentleman was completely surprised no idea of such a gathering having reached his ears. After hearty enjoyed greetings and congratulations had been passed the party engaged for a while in interesting talk before taking their places at the table where a delicious and bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

The host of the occasion passed a social chat with music and [illegible] in which several of the guests took part. Mr. Hagen's four grandchildren adding to the pleasure of all by their recitations and singing.

New Uses For Old Products

The agricultural problem, which has contracted the farmers' pocket books in Western Canada at the rate of the vanishing point in the past five or six years may be attributed to two main causes, a drought cycle and an unprofitable surplus of wheat of great proportions, the inheritance of the bumper harvest of 1928 followed by a fair average crop the succeeding year.

The drought season variation of Nature itself over which mankind could have little or no control and of this he has been the sole cause of no attenuated agricultural lack account the effects of the depression would not have been nearly so severe in Western Canada as they have been, for during the era of gluts the drought area shifted its local somewhat each year though it also true that the region as a whole must have sustained the full impact for the entire period.

Over the entire depression period however many areas which have experienced drought have reaped some harvests varying widely in degree, and had good prices for wheat prevailed many farmers over large tracts would have reaped sufficient returns to carry them through without aid or with nonparticipants little assistance.

Unfortunately however, this was not the case and the average composite low yielded farm products and just ordinary wheat, at times far below the cost of production, has been the factor in creating conditions which have necessitated intervention on a wide scale as was the lack of immediate and/or a constant sustaining and a storage of taxed peace.

Dry years and surplus years will come again, and little can be done to circumvent their ill effects of crop production and yields beyond perhaps a small measure of compensation but the lesson of the six year period will have been of inestimable value in pointing again to the necessity and wisdom of devising some measures to obviate or at least reduce the hazards of a repetition of years below the level of production.

There are many directions in which concentration on this problem might well be directed and the following remarks are proposed to open up small preliminary discussion. There is the matter for instance of efforts to create consumer demand by exploiting markets for improved and more tasty products of the grain fields. Much valuable information has previously been given in these columns and across consideration might well be given to the possibilities of converting products of the field to industrial uses in the domestic market.

Henry Ford demonstrated that much might be done to make agricultural products available to industry when his experiments revealed that by-products of the soy bean make excellent material for construction of certain automobile parts and accessories, and along similar lines, experimentation in the conversion of grains into alcohol for industrial use and on a commercially feasible basis should be pushed with vigor in the laboratories

So far the conversion of grain into industrial alcohol has not proved a commercial success, but a fractional advance in the price of gasoline or a reduction of a few cents in the cost of production of alcohol from such source would place it in the field of a competitive fuel with gasoline, a commodity with it is used in large quantities by the farmers themselves as well as other consumers in Western Canada.

That greater use of alcohol as a fuel is inevitable in the not far distant future at the conclusion of the Pennsylvania Farmer which in a recent issue had the following to say on the subject:

The farmer has a double interest in liquid fuels. He is now a leading consumer he may some day be an important producer. Alcohol made from farm crops can be so used with gasoline to make a fuel which will run a combustion engine. Since the supply of petroleum cannot last forever a wider use of alcohol as a fuel is inevitable. It is being mastered by a score of foreign countries by legislation requiring by taxation or otherwise a mixture of alcohol with gasoline.

What if such government intervention the blending does not occur because gallon for gallon, gasoline is cheaper and better than alcohol. Under present conditions the effect of this legislation is to subsidize the producer of alcohol at the expense of the consumer of fuel. When producer and consumer is the same fellow it is doubtful if he wants this subsidy.

"In our country the farmer consumes a fourth of the gasoline used. If the price were raised four or five cents a gallon, the extra cost would cut the profits from corn, sugar cane, potatoes, etc., that went into alcohol, while the farmer who grew no alcohol-producing crops would be dealt with unfairly.

Until gasoline prices advances materially it would appear that hope for a wider use of alcohol as fuel lie in research rather than in legislation. When alcohol can be made cheaper or better than gasoline no law will be needed to promote its use and until then any such law is of questionable value to farmers

Coronation Oath

May Be Slightly Changed To Comply With Statute Of Westminster

When the king takes the coronation oath at Westminster Abbey next May 12 he may use it in a form slightly different from that of his predecessors.

It was made known the oath has been slightly altered in order to comply with the provisions of the statute of Westminster, which changed the status of the dominions

The new wording, evolved after consultation between ecclesiastical and constitutional authorities, will not be revealed until the full procession for the coronation is issued. It is understood the coronation service will be shorter than at the coronation of King George V because of the absence of a queen consort

Rare Plants In North

New rare plants have been discovered in the Canadian Arctic by Dr. Nicholas Polunin a British botanical authority, in a comprehensive survey of northern flora made during the summer months as part of the Canadian government. Dr Polunin, two years ago, made a similar study which he extended on the government expedition. He returned to Halifax on the steamship Nascopie

COULD NOT LIFT ARMS ABOVE HEAD

Owing to Painful Rheumatism

This woman suffered from rheumatism in her back, arms and legs. For two months she endured this painful condition, then, like many another sufferer, she decided to try Kruschen Salts.

"About fifteen months ago I had rheumatism in my arms, back and legs. The pain in my arms and legs after getting warm in bed were almost unbearable. I was like that for two months, and could not reach above my head. I read so much about Kruschen Salts that I thought I would try them. I am so glad to say that for more than a year I have not had the slightest return of my rheumatism." (Mrs.) M.E.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, active activity, and help them to get rid of this excess uric acid.

British Crowns

Government Still Checking Up On Estate Left By Sir John Ellerman

For three years, a small army of government clerks have been checking up the estate left by Sir John Ellerman, little-known "richest man in England's history"—and they are still hard at it.

His Majesty's government can well afford the clerical hire. It expects to collect nearly £30,000,000 (about $100,000,000), or 80 per cent. of the huge fortune, which keeps on growing.

Sir John, ship-owner, industrialist and real estate speculator, died in 1933 at the age of 71. His estate was then valued at £17,233,977 (about $86,119,885), so far as can be ascertained." But one of the largest reserves at £36,684,994 (about $183,424,970), and even at that figure, admittedly undervalued, including huge foreign interests was not included.

Now investigators have discovered more than £5,000,000 in bonds. The final figure is expected to be about £50,000,000, or approximately £200,000,000 dollars, over half of that goes to the government.

The British crowns left the bulk of the fortune in the form of bonds to the present Sir John Ellerman, now 27.

Already £14,800,000 has been turned over to the treasury in death duties—by far the largest sum the inland revenue department ever received from one estate. In addition it is estimated that during his lifetime Sir John paid at least £30,000,000 in income tax and super-tax.

Strange Request

Two Sisters In England To Receive $800 A Month If They Keep Men Away From Their Home

The Lord Master of Disc Jockeys, Eng., both in their 70's, will have an income of £120 ($600) a month if two keep men away from their house.

Their brother, William Henry Baxter, died at the age of 98, leaving an estate of more than £250 000 ($1,250,000). He left them £800 a month allowance on condition they do not allow any male person to reside in the house.

The sisters are Georgina Todd Baxter, 76, and Lily Thorman Baxter, 78.

Said Miss Todd: "I am afraid he was very jealous of other men where our sister was concerned. He objected to us speaking even to the gardener. Though he was very close at home with money he would occupy the best suite in the best hotels in London."

Yugoslavia's Boy King

Brief English Schooling Has Left Trace On His Character

What has particularly pleased the boy King Peter II. of Yugoslavia is the fact that he was able to spend his birthday with English relations. The Duke of Kent is his hero and the Duchess is favorite aunt. Although King Peter is not likely to continue his English schooling, the brief time he spent in England two years ago has left a definite trace on his character, says the Daily Sketch. His grandmother, Queen Marie of Rumania, favors this aunt and also can to stimulate his English interests. He already speaks excellent English.

Playing Chess By Letter

Principals In Minnesota And South Africa Engaged In Slow Game

The world's slowest chess game is in progress in Blue Earth, Minnesota. One player is in Blue Earth and the other in South Africa. The players indicate their moves by letters to each other. As it takes 30 days for a letter to travel from one player to the other, the game is likely to continue for another five years. The principals in the match are John Bloomer, president of the Johannesburg Chess Club, and Dan Fitch, of Blue Earth. "It is a very thrilling game," Fitch declares. "Sometimes I sit up half the night deciding on the next play after I hear from Bloomer. He's a pretty tough opponent, but he can't beat me before 1940 anyhow.

Television in Britain

Nothing Can Be Televised More Than 1,000 Yards From Transmitting Station

Although British television has now reached the point of efficiency whereby daily programs are broadcast from Alexandra palace, the day apparently still is distant, when a citizen will be able to enjoy a sporting event from the depths of an arm chair.

At the present stage of development nothing can be televised more than 1,000 yards from the transmitting apparatus at Alexandra palace.

"The owners' sets recently showed Archie Compton, British golf pro, giving a lesson in golf on a miniature course at Alexandra and easily followed the flight of the ball.

Were Made To Last

Saskatchewan Woman Has Used Two Kitchen Utensils 54 Years

Back in the days when hardware was hardware, or as the old-timer says, "They made things to last," Mrs. C. A. Jaques, of Briercrest Bank, bought a can opener and a pancake turner. That was in 1885 at the store of Henderson and Sons at Collingwood, Ontario

The two kitchen utensils have never been out of the possession of Mrs. Jaques and she has used them every possible occasion during the past 54 years.

Mrs. Jaques is the wife of Capt. A. A. Jaques, one of the old time captains on lake boats plying the Georgian Bay, where, according to the captain "storms were storms."

Captain and Mrs. Jaques are the parents of one of Canada's well known aviators, Harry Jaques, better known as Miss Edna Jaques

In The Cause Of Peace

Delegate Says There Is A Momentum Behind The Peace

Mrs. John Grieve, League of Nations Society delegate to the recent peace conference at Brussels, following her return to Toronto, said that the prevailing mood of the conference was "neither optimism nor dismay, but one of determination."

People in Europe, she said, appeared to believe war was inevitable but that the danger was not immediate.

The idea of the congress was to bring together on a limited platform as many people as possible, to establish a liaison bureau in each country to effect this platform, and an international bureau to co-ordinate the work "rather optimism nor dismay, but one of determination."

"There is a tremendous momentum behind the peace movement if it can only be harnessed. It will not be known how successful the congress was till we see how seriously the delegates set to work when they return."

Mayor Of Vancouver Thinks Every City Should Have One

Vancouver may have its own civic flag in the near future. A letter received from England said Rev. A. Lombardini, rector of the lord mayor's church in London, wished a Canadian flag to hang in his church and hoped one would be presented to the Very Reverend at his recent visit to Vancouver. As Canada has no national flag one alderman suggested a scroll, containing the British Columbia coat of arms, be sent, but Mayor G. G. McGeer said this could not be considered as a national emblem. "Hemly, we should have a Canadian flag, provincial flags and ensigns for all leading cities in the Dominion," the mayor said. "Other cities have their flags, why should not we have one too?"

A New Scheme In The Mining World To Assist Operators

"Mineralography," a new science in the mining world designed to assist mining operators in their work of extracting precious metals, was described and demonstrated to delegates of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy meeting at Vancouver

In a darkened room pictures of hiding places of particles of gold among base minerals were shown magnified many times while Dr. H. Haycock, of the Dominion department of mines, and Dr. H. V. Warren, of the University of British Columbia, stood in the background and described the new science

Specially constructed instruments were used to polish ore specimens to the finest surface possible and these were magnified many times by powerful glasses for scientific study.

In this way, the two doctors said, the new science has already become of great assistance to the mining industry and promises to become still more valuable in determining the best treatment for gold extraction and mineral separation generally.

SELECTED RECIPES

ALMOND MERINGUE CAKE

½ cup butter
1½ cups powdered sugar
4 eggs
½ cups flour
½ cup cornstarch
4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon almond extract
½ cup almonds blanched and shredded

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, beating all the time. Add the well beaten yolks, sift together three times flour, cornstarch and baking powder, and to butter mixture alternately with the milk. Add flavoring then stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Turn into a buttered 9-inch square pan about two inches deep and cover with the almonds and powdered sugar. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes just as soon as meringue starts to brown begins to turn color cover with thick brown paper, as when finished baking the meringue should be a very delicate brown.

Claims World Undersupplied

Australian Specialist Thinks More Protective Foods Should Be Grown

The world is undernourished, F. L. McDougall, Australian agricultural specialist, told delegates to the international general assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome.

Many world agricultural problems would be solved, he said, if certain nations would abandon their obsession of "protective foods" instead of concentrating on high wheat yields.

"Satisfactory human diet must contain sufficient quantities of the kinds of food that provide these health-giving substances," he said. "Nutrition," the Australian said, explaining "the foods particularly valuable in this respect are milk, cheese, butter, fresh fruit and vegetables, eggs, fish and meat."

Hon. Howard Ferguson Believes London High Commissioner Should Be Real Leader

Toronto.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Canadian high commissioner in London, addressing a luncheon of the Women's Press Club here suggested the commissioner should be created a member of the Canadian senate so he might have a public forum.

"It is a great handicap to the high commissioner that he has no public forum to discuss affairs concerned with the high commissionership," said Mr. Ferguson. "When he is in Canada he has to go to some country fair or similar place to get a forum.

"I would like to see the present government appoint Hon. Vincent Massey (present commissioner) a senator. Then when he comes to Canada there would be a public forum from which he could speak.

"Nobody can say I am looking for a senatorship, but I don't suppose I shall be high commissioner again. But other high commissioners have felt the same way about it as I do."

No Disturbances

British Fascists Hold Meeting In London Without Disorder

London. — The British Union of Fascists, with Sir Oswald Mosley in command, held a meeting in Hyde park square, on the edge of the east-end Jewish quarter. There was no disturbance however, except for the scuffle which resulted in two arrests.

Speaking to another part of London Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary of state for war, said "the majority of Englishmen have no sympathy with the Communism or black Fascism."

"Steps must be taken to see that order the greatest gift a government can give is observed," he declared.

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, speaking at Watford, said "these Fascists tell us that they are fighting against the Communists. I tell the people who are making Communists today are Sir Oswald Mosley and his friends."

"The government are compelled to consider whether measures are not necessary to restrict liberties because the people abuse them," Sir Thomas added.

France Needs Wheat

French Crop Has Not Come Up To Expectations

Paris. France, it is expected, will need more wheat because the present French crop has not met expectations. There is the further necessity of preventing a speculator rise in the cost of living as a result of devaluation of the franc

One of the effects of the trade talks between the Canadian and French ministers was to ensure that in any international crisis the Germans wheat, Canada would have a fair share Prime Minister Mackenzie King, it is understood, received this assurance

On the other hand, French farmer organizations are very actively campaigning against the proposed importation which would have the effect of lowering the internal price

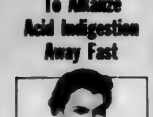
To Alkalize Acid Indigestion Away Fast



People Everywhere Are Adopting This Remarkable "Phillips" Way

The way to gain almost incredibly quick relief from stomach conditions arising from overacidity, is to alkalize the stomach quickly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Just take either two teaspoons of the regular Phillips' after meals, or two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Almost instantly "acid indigestion" gas from hyperacidity, acid headaches—from overacidity—the pain of overacidity—and Backache, relieved by alkalizing, will cease every time you alkalize the stomach.

Yet, this is so easy. Why don't you have any of these symptoms? Get either the liquid or tablets. The name "Phillips" on the package is your guide. Insist on Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—only 25¢ for a bottle of 36 tablets.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of regular Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Indian League Of Nations

Tribes Would Unite In Fealty To The British Crown

An Indian League of Nations, united in common welfare and fealty to the British crown, was advocated at North Battleford, Sask., during an Indian assembly prior to departure of the Mistawasis band for the jubilee celebration of the signing of Treaty No. 6 at Carlton, Sask., 60 years ago. Carlton is 65 miles north of Saskatoon.

The league disbursement took place at a three-day convention. It would embrace Redmen of every tribe and race from the Atlantic of the Pacific over the network of reserves.

Chiefs and councillors attended from the Manitoba boundary to the foothills of the Rockies and north to the Churchill river. Chief Joe Dreaver of the Mistawasis was a leading speaker. Chaun Edward Abrahame, president of the League of Indians, was chairman.

They endorsed resolutions concerning the trading of rights conferred on them by the 1876 treaty.

Tribesmen were outspoken in their desire for legal recognition of their organization. Chief Dreaver thought mutual recognition of the major difficulties in language and departmental officials would go a long way toward a solution.

"Let us not meet the representatives of the Great White Chief with hael feeling in our hearts said Chief Dreaver prior to the tribe's departure for the Carlton celebration.

Let us rather show we feel our ad vancement has been slow, despite their co-operation so that the Indian feel he may walk more easily along the thorny paths of civilization."

For Canadian Writers

Short Story Contest For British Empire Authors Only

Opportunity for Canadian writers to win three cash prizes is afforded by the announcement of a short story contest for British Empire authors only.

The contest is being conducted by the well known and established American firm of literary agents Paul R. Reynolds and Son acting through their London correspondent John Farquharson. The prizes are £125 for its approximate equivalent of $625; for first, £75 (or its approximate equivalent of $375); for second and £50 (or its approximate equivalent of $250); for third.

If the winning stories earn more than the amount of the prize from sale of world rights, such further earnings will be paid to the author after deducting the usual agent's commission, the sponsors state.

Also any story which does not win a prize but which attains the standard of American and British magazines will be offered for sale. It is added.

No manuscripts of over 10,000 words will be considered, the agents have decided, and prizes will probably be awarded to stories of between 2,500 and 6,000 words

Closing competition closes December 31, 1936

Manuscripts must be addressed to Paul R. Reynolds and Son, care of John Farquharson, 9, Mainey House, Red Lion Square, London, W.C.1, England

Mysterious Bottle Note

May Solve Disappearance Of Ill-Fated Airship

A two-line message, scrawled on a scrap of paper and decipherable only by means of infra-red photography, may hold the clue to the mystery of the ill-fated air liner Southern Cloud.

Five years after the disaster in the plane, which disappeared with two pilots and six passengers on a flight from Sydney to Melbourne, a bottle has been found on the north coast of New South Wales, containing a fragment of paper inscribed with faded letterings.

It was discovered by Maurice Smith, buried in the sand on the bank of the Wallamba River, about 20 miles from its estuary.

The paper inside was but little but fluff and fragments, but by the aid of infra-red photography the words of "South Tasmania" were deciphered on one side of the piece of paper, and Southern Cloud crossed island 30 miles" on the reverse

The handwriting has been submitted to Dr. C. A Montkowe, a handwriting expert, for comparison with the notebooks of the late Pilot Charles Dimell, who was assistant pilot on the Southern Cloud.

Montkowe declared that he has noted several points of resemblance between Pilot Dunell's writing and the writing on the scrap of paper. Efforts will be made to have the paper photographed through special chemical screens, with the object of bringing out the writing more clearly.

Italian Rule in Ethiopia

Red Cross Doctor Says It Is Better Than Chaos And Anarchy

Dr. Thomas A. Lambe, formerly of Toronto and commander of the Ethiopian Red Cross during the Italian campaign, said in New York that "nobody is going to give Ethiopia back to Emperor Haile Selassie". "Ethiopia is safer from being occupied," he said, "but every true friend of Ethiopia believes Italian occupation is far better than the dreadful condition of chaos and anarchy that now prevails, where life is of no value and even women and children are not spared by banks of looters and murderers."

Great Cold Shores

Legend Of The Tropical Valley In Far North Remains Unsolved

The legend of fabulous fr- gold in the wild Nahanni country, 300 miles west of Fort Simpson and more than 1,300 miles northwest of Edmonton, remains unsolved.

Ever since the turn of the century prospectors have sought the great gold stores of the "tropical valley" in the Nahanni region. Five violent deaths all unsolved, are laid to the curse of the country. Scores of prospectors have sought the wealth and all have returned without fortunes.

Word came through that the latest search for the source of legendary wealth had failed. Fool Field, veteran northland trader, prospector and trapper, and his partner, J. H. Mulholland, blamed the failure of their expedition on superstitious Indians too afraid to carry on the search.

Last July Field and Mulholland organized the expedition and with 30 Indians started into the area in search for gold and seek the "lost" mine. The Indians believe the legend that death awaits prospectors entering the region, whereby lay brother stands the axe—then quit cold and the exposition failed.

The Harmon Trophy

Presented To Father Of The Late Capt. Stevenson Of Winnipeg

The Harmon trophy, awarded posthumously to the late Captain Frederick Stevenson of Winnipeg, was in possession of the aviator's parents, nearly 10 years after the flyer was killed in a plane crash near The Pas, Man.

The bronze medal, awarded by the Legion Honneur des Aviateurs, formerly of Paris on behalf of the donor, Clifford B. Harmon, was presented to the flyer's father, Joseph Stevenson, by Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper. The medal had been mislaid several years ago.

Captain Stevenson was the first Canadian to receive the award, recognizing his successful transpacific flight. It is expected that the trophy may take place at almost any time. The expected return did not take place in Paul's day, and here and there some have been looking for it and expecting it in all the centuries that have followed, but now the majority of Christians have ceased to look for it. But in a sense Paul's line of argument is still effective. Time is hurrying on and life is short, and for the Christian Jesus, whose name, honour living is the only thing to enjoy. There is a Christian standard of conduct, which shuts out all self-indulgence and the lust and self-seeking. A Christian's conduct should be above reproach.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 1

LAW, LOVE, AND TEMPERANCE

Golden text: It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth. Romans 14:21.

Lesson: Romans 13:1-14.

Devotional reading: Romans 14, 12-21.

Explanations And Comments

Obey the Law. Romans 13:1-7. "Every subject must obey the government-authorities, for no authority exists apart from God: the existing authorities have been constituted by God. Hence anyone who opposes authority is opposing the divine order, and the opposition will bring judgment on themselves. Magistrates are no terror to an honest man, though they are to a bad man. If you want to avoid being alarmed at the government authorities, lead an honest life and you will be commended for it; they are there by God's servant for your benefit. But if you do wrong, you may well be alarmed: a magistrate does not wield the power of the sword for nothing. He is God's servant for the infliction of divine vengeance upon evil-doers. You must be obedient, therefore, not only to avoid the divine vengeance but to satisfy your conscience. For the same reason as you pay taxes to these magistrates are God's officers, bent upon the maintenance of order and authority. Pay them all their respective dues, tribute to one, taxes to another, respect to this one, honor to that." (Moffatt's translation).

Love Fulfills the Law. Romans 13: 8-10. When Jesus was asked to name the greatest law of all, he answered, "Love." He taught that when one loves he needs no other law. As Luther trenchantly said, "The law discovers the disease; the gospel gives the remedy."

"Owe no man anything, save to love one another; for he that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law."

Temperance. Rom. 13 11-14. Paul is still looking for the return to earth of his Lord, and the special urgency of the last four verses of our text is based upon this expectation that the return may take place at almost any time. The expected return did not take place in Paul's day, and here and there some have been looking for it and expecting it in all the centuries that have followed, but now the majority of Christians have ceased to look for it. But in a sense Paul's line of argument is still effective. Time is hurrying on and life is short, and for the Christian Jesus, whose name, honour living is the only thing to enjoy. There is a Christian standard of conduct, which shuts out all self-indulgence and the lust and self-seeking. A Christian's conduct should be above reproach.

Paper Changes Ownership

Toronto Globe, Founded In Pre-Confederation Days, Passes Into New Hands

Ownership control of the Toronto Globe, metropolitan daily founded in the pre-Confederation days of Canada, has passed from the hands of C. George McCullagh and William Henry Wright.

William Gladstone Jaffray, president and publisher of the 93-year-old newspaper since 1914, announced that he had relinquished his interest and control with the morning paper and that 60 per cent. of the shares of the company had been purchased by two new owners. The amount involved was not disclosed.

The Globe now carries in its masthead the name of Mr. McCullagh, who, at the age of 31, becomes the fifth president and publisher of the paper. He thus becomes head of the newspaper which 20 years ago he hawked on London streets.

Mr. Wright, president, is assuming control, announced that the historic traditions of the paper will be carefully preserved and that it would be Independent-Liberal

Train Despatching By Phone

Is Superseding Telegraph For Transmission Of Messages

The telephone gradually is supplanting the telegraph in train dispatching, according to reports made to the telegraph and telephone section of the Association of American Railroads

"The telephone," said a statement issued by the association, "on Jan. 1, 1936, was being used in the transmission of train orders over 116,799 miles of road, or 69.3 per cent., while the telegraph was being utilized only over 92,466 miles.

"This is a material change from conditions prevailing in 1930, when the telephone was being used over 59,000 miles of road, or 48.5 per cent., while the telegraph was used over 124,067 miles

"Particularly has the telephone proved its superiority in emergencies in train operations. By using a way station or other telephone the engineer or conductor can communicate directly with the train dispatcher or station supervisor, thus giving him more first-hand information in less time than with the telegraph"

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY — GEORGIA GRAIG —

"You end!" Her eyes blazed with black rage. In that moment she was all fighting spirit. She struck him stingingly across his hard young face.

Then they were standing there, their bodies tense with anger. Scant inches between them, and their faces glaring at each other, like two wild beasts about to fight to the death. The marks of the girl's fingers showed white against the man's tanned cheeks.

The thin hard line of his jaw marked his determination. His manner to win. He said, still in that beastly voice:

"I won't let you back out now! You've started this thing and you've got to go through with it. Do you suppose I'm going to allow you to make a fool of me before everybody?"

Starr's throat was aching and tight. By "everybody" he meant Stephanie, of course. The little apple-pie-eyed blond was all he cared about. How could he have ever been being played for her—for Stephanie who had twice cruelly insulted Starr!

He hurled at him bitterly: "You don't care what you do to a woman, do you? You don't care if the whole world thinks she's—she's . . . Oh, how could I! How could I think!"

His lips curved contemptuously. "Getting rather particular all of a sudden, aren't you? It occurs to me you may not always have been so careful of your spotless reputation." He laughed, with no trace of humor. "And you! I thought you wanted to play." You said so. . . . I've raised you from obscurity and given you a chance in a million other girls might have jumped at! I've given you power if you know how to use it!"

A curious feeling swept through Starr. Yes, that was true. He had given her power, of a sort. But she was letting it slip away from her because of forbidden emotions. If she could only really be the hard, debilitating hero he wanted her to be!

A little while ago she had listened herself to a puppet dancing on the end of a string. It struck her now how much she tables if she chose. She could be the one handling the strings. She could make all these people dance for her; Stephanie, Lance, yes, even the arrogant Michael. Michael Shirtliff!

A savage joy shook her at the thought of making things even with Michael. If that moment, now, she hated him! A wild, primitive passion of hate that would have done credit to the daughters of the desert, of whom she was symbolically one, surged through her slight body.

Her smile flashed into a savage face. The mocking, painted smile that was essentially the trademark of the notorious "Play-Girl." She supposedly part-Egyptian whom heritage it was to lure.

"All right, Michael-Hassan, I'll go through with it," she said. "I'll play! Perhaps when I'm finished you'll be sorry that you asked me!"

Starr Ellison did not leave her debut party as Lance Marlowe had thought she might be her self-conscious, and the girl's self-consciousness and the shyness that had depressed that it was not "just another party thrown for a would-be celebrity" that she sang for them all. A song of Araby, a desert song of the variety some of them had ever heard. One of the consensus of opinion was that it must be "one of those tribal songs that had come down through the centuries, my dear."

She sang it to her own accompaniment playing the harp when she prepared it from its owner in the orchestra. Michael's eyes widened when he saw her. Another accomplishment! Oh, that girl was a continual surprise. Where had she ever learned all the things she knew? He was beginning to wonder about her a little, in spite of having told her he had no interest in her save from the moment of meeting her.

The song she sang "made" the papers the next day, along with an account of the debut party of "Play-Girl."

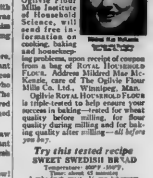
SWEET SWEDISH BREAD

Two cakes Royal Yeast dissolved in ½ cup lukewarm water; 2 cups scalded milk, cooled to lukewarm; 2 tablespoons salt, 2 cups Red Rose Sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 8 cups Royal Household Flour (about).

METHOD: Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk, cool to lukewarm, combine with salt. Cool to lukewarm. Combine yeast, milk, sugar, eggs, butter and 4 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Add enough more flour to make soft dough. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, brush top with melted butter. Let rise until light (about 1 hour). Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350°F.) and bake 45 minutes longer. Entire time for making this bread is approximately 3 hours.

HONEY ICING

½ cup honey, 1 egg white, 1 tablespoon sugar; 1 tablespoon butter; 1 teaspoon vanilla. METHOD: Heat honey to boiling point. Beat egg white until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Add butter and vanilla. Spread on bread.



"The love of women is like a date, That is golden
The love of women is like a gazette that comes to drink—
To drink at the water springs

The love of women is like the nargileh, And the fragrance of the herb That is mingled with tobacco and the wine

Put the reed between thy lips, O b, And draw dreams from the hasheesh

Then shalt thou be one handling the strings. She could make all these people dance for her; Stephanie, Lance, yes, even the arrogant Michael. Michael Shirtliff!

fond of calling "mysterious." I can't help wondering if she's quite white. Are Egyptians white people? And as for the rest of it. . . Well, you can't expect me, Mike, to play second fiddle to a—"

It was rather horrible hearing such a name pass Stephanie's pretty lips. Michael was surprised afterward at the swift way he turned to scold her. He did not quite understand his own reaction, whether his resentment was for Starr, or against Stephanie's use of English that could be more expected in the pages of a Double Hammer story. Stephanie had been as plain as that.

After all, who was he to say whether Stephanie was right or wrong. He certainly had had ideas of his own on first knowing Starr Ellison. At first he had been an ass . . . More recently he had regretted his blunt pronouncement to her that he wanted to know nothing of her past life, that she was beginning to live, as far as he was concerned, on the night he first met her at La Luna. There might have been a reason, at that. . . . And Starr had become so difficult, after that, appeared to want to tell him all about herself. He had discouraged her flow, taking it for granted that any hurt of her at all, he did get was that slow smile of hers, the flicker of her long lashes, the enigmatic look and her reminder:

"I forget, Hassan. You told me in your letter that you wanted to forget!" I'm from the desert, you know, and 'tis the desert one forgets everything, one remembers nothing any more."

Teasing him, of course, but he was beginning to feel that he knew more about this girl who looked as like an Egyptian princess that she fitted inevitably into the setting of her own apartment. He had dropped in at last and yet was so ultra-modern—so American . . . Who was she, anyway? What?

Many people were asking that especially as touched upon her relationship with Lance Marlowe. There were many who chose to believe she was Lance's mistress. She went around with him with a blatant disregard for gossip; seemed to glory in it.

Yet there were times when she was off guard for a moment or two that an almost childlike wistfulness would show, great, dark eyes. At such times Michael would have stalked his life that she was the purest soul on earth, completely untouched by the hard, debilitating hero he wanted her to be!

Passes Up Fortune

Valuable Seashiden Found Floating In Ice Field Region

Thousands of dollars worth of seashiden floating in the Arctic region of the St. Lawrence were left drifting by the skipper of a passenger vessel because schedules had to be maintained, and the skipper could not take advantage of what represented a tidy sum in salvage, it is reported, at Quebec.

Captain E. J. Rodgers now in charge of the Alaska tells the story.

"It was a brilliantly bright day with a blazing sun shining down on the scattered ice fields causing them to sparkle as if there were diamonds under an ice lamp. A light haze hung over the entire scene and at least 9,000 or 10,000 of the icebergs in the distance caused them to stand out like beacons.

"We were steaming along through the ice-fields when we suddenly saw on a large cake of ice on our port bow, a huge pile of seashiden all mounted by a stick from which flew a white flag. There must have been at least 9,000 or 10,000 of the fish in the pile, representing a large sum of money. We felt a strong temptation to send out a boat and pick up the seashiden, but the salvage money would have amounted to a tidy sum. But we were on a passenger ship not a pleasure yacht so we were obliged to keep to going and I am up a good deal of money.

"We proceeded along for some distance when to our surprise another pile of seashiden appeared on the starboard side with an almost identical pile of seashiden and also topped by a stick bearing a flag. Once more we were obliged to pass by.

"It is believed the skins were collected by Eskimo hunters who were either killed or who had to flee when the ice broke away, while the fruits of their labors were carried away through the ice floes, to be washed up to the bottom as the ice disintegrated. Unless they were found by other hunters and taken into shore"

Immigrants In Canada

British Educationist Says English People Here Better Off

Immigrant boys are better off in Canada than in many parts of the British Isles, declared Dr. F. Martin, leading British educationist has flown in a survey of conditions. Dr. Martin, who is headmaster of Leeds Modern one of the early English Victorian institutions, said that the work of the Canadian immigration to relieve the pressure of over population in England.

To Martin has completed a tour of Canada where he met a number of boys who have gone from Leeds to Canada since work left England between the years 1924 to 1929 for the Dominion. He visited Australia on a similar engineering home.

"I have never enjoyed those who are thousands of emigrate from Leeds to Canada. Now I am seeking to see those who are making out there the standard of living which they enjoyed in England.

"I find nearly all the boys are better off in Canada than they would be in England. All I will say is that the general physique of the Canadian boy is better than that of the boy in the old country."

Little Helps For This Week

When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee: and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee, when thou walkest through the fire thou shalt not be burned, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee Isaiah 43 2

When through the deep waters I call thee to go,
The rivers of sorrow shall not overflow;
For I will be with thee, thy trouble to bless
And sanctify to thee thy deepest distress

Turn me and I will turn at once to you, for I suffer whatever is appointed for you. If we do that God will bear us up at all times in all our sorrows and troubles and will live His all-softer under our burdens and help us bear them. For, if with a cheerful courage we submit ourselves to Him, no suffering would be unbearable Make up your mind to the highest degree of fasting a certain measure of pain and trouble in your passage through life and try the measure of God's will to be prepared for it. This will make you resigned without interfering with your cheerfulness.

Marine Construction

Ship Building At High Level In Britain And Ireland

Merchant marine construction in Great Britain and Ireland was at a higher level at the end of September than at any time since September, 1930, according to figures released by Lloyd's.

Tonnage under construction during the quarter ending Sept. 30 totalled 920,371, an increase of 79,839 tons over the preceding quarter, and 208,-871 tons over the figure for September 1935.

The total for the whole world during the quarter was 2,111,437, of which Great Britain and Ireland accounted for more than 44 per cent. of the world 56 per cent.

No Change In Oath

Will Not Alter Religious Part Of Coronation Of The King

Prime Minister Baldwin has assured the Protestant society there is no proposal to alter the religious part of the coronation oath relating to the Church of England and the Protestant reformed religion

The fact is that it would not be changed without an act of parliament. It has been altered since 1688 but not in any way affecting the Church of Scotland and the disestablishment of the Irish church.

Any such change will only be made to provide for the new status of the Dominions under the statute of Westminster, a matter entirely apart from the question of religion.

Queen Elizabeth will be represented at the coronation of King Edward VIII by Prince and Princess Christian who will call for London in the spring

Milne's H.T. Supply Unit

—what it is, what it does, how it improves the volume, tone and range of all battery sets and how it gives reliable radio reception at a cost of a few pence per week.

It, out of the way places, the problem of radio reception receives fresh insto one of H. T. supply. In the absence of mains supply, the set must, of necessity, be battery driven. Since it has usually to work over long distances, it must be powerful and consequently extravagant in H. T. Current. Dry H. T. Batteries, which are generally used, prove inadequate to supply a big set and their useful life is disappointingly short.

H. T. accumulators are usually out of the question owing to lack of charging facilities.

There is one easy and permanent solution of the problem. Post Rad. L. T. charging facilities are available, dependable H. T. supply be assured by the MILNES H. T. SUPPLY UNIT. It replaces—automatically from a 6-volt or 12-volt L. T. supply (a rectifier will assist on from D. C. mains or hour-lighting plant. It will stand any rate of discharge (even dead shortline) without damage—so that it is suitable for the most powerful sets. It shuts off sufficient current from the L. T. accumulator to replace that used in operating the set when the flow automatically ceases and current wastage is avoided. The plated-cadmium plates do not sulphate, corrode or disintegrate and, with ordinary care, a Milnes Unit should give twenty years of trouble-free service. Full voltage is available every time the set is switched on so that reception is unfailingly good.

Milnes Units are in service, many of them in the most remote parts of the world.

Next meeting will be held at Mannville on November 7th.

Here and There

Outstanding success has attended the publication of J. Murray Gibbon's book, "Steel of Empire," in which is told the history of transportation in this country. The first edition of this comprehensive and finely illustrated work on Canada's history was sold early and another is now out in preparation for sale as Christmas gifts, for which it is anticipated there will be a heavy demand.

Effective January 1, 1937, contributory pensions for Canadian Pacific employees will replace the 25-year-old non-contributory system. Since the latter system came in force in 1911, the railway has paid out $18,251,610 in pensions. Under the new plan, officers and employees will contribute three per cent of their wages or salaries. Pension rates will be upon a graduated scale, but will be the same as heretofore.

Twenty-three arrivals from British and continental ports and twenty-three departures by Canadian Pacific liners will constitute the movement next week at Saint John and Halifax during the winter season, and

BEAUTIFUL RAINBOW FRIDAY

A vivid and extremely well defined rainbow adorned the heavens last Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The rainbow appeared after a showery day the west had cleared but the east was still dark, the combination interesting the brilliant coloring of the luminous arch. Many citizens were noticed about the streets admiring what will probably be the last rainbow of the year, but it was certainly a grand finale.

SUPPER MEETING AT FIRST UNITED CHURCH

On Monday evening Nov 2, forty members of the congregation of First United church sat down to a supper provided in the church hall, provided by the ladies of the W.M.S. in honor of the visit of Rev. B.R. Saville, of Central India Mission. After full justice had been done to the good things provided by the ladies, Mr. Saville told of the land and people of India. He traced the origin of the caste system and showed how it entered into every phase of life. He recounted the great movement now taking place toward christianity and spoke of the vast opportunity which it presented to the christian church. In a question period which followed at the close of the address methods of farming and methods of living were discussed. It was a most interesting and interesting evening calculated to give a clear view of the deep needs of our fields, a better understanding of other needs and people.

Mr Talbot on behalf of the official board voiced the appreciation of all present to Mr and address of Mr Saville.

Appeal for Funds To Purchase Snow Plow

Canvas To Be Made by Board of Trade

An appeal has been made by the Board of trade for funds to purchase a snow plow. With this plow it is hoped to keep market roads open for motor traffic all winter. The idea was adopted practically unanimously at the board of trade meeting on Monday last. A circular letter was sent to every business man in Vermilion requesting them to subscribe and a canvas will be made sometime this week when it is hoped the the purchase price of the plow will be raised. The plow laid down in Vermilion will cost about $450.00. The motive power is supplied by a truck and several business have already tendered for the work at a cost of so much per mile.

The Standard understands that every business in the town will be called upon and it is confidently expected that, as every business stands to gain considerably from open roads in the winter, little difficulty will be experienced in the canvas.

Only a few days will elapse between the completion of the subscription canvas and the arrival of the plow in Vermilion.

ROOSEVELT RIDES INTO WHITE HOUSE WITH 523 ELECTORAL VOTES

President Roosevelt will be called upon to undertake a task for the people entrusted with his New Deal.

A Roosevelt landslide that swept the United States but has assurances emerging as Republican.

Only with which results in the 24 states in the republican camp in the Electoral College will be 523 votes to 8 for Landon.

The apparent electoral vote as a result of Tuesday's polling stood at 523 for Roosevelt and eight for Landon. In 1932 Roosevelt piled up a total of 472 electoral votes over Herbert Hoover.

Officials of the Northern Alberta railways estimated that 3,500 000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat and with an estimated value of $2,500,000 had been marketed already this season by farmers in northern Alberta.

Just 145 years ago a man who couldn't sleep nights sent $5 to the United States treasury. Since then, many wonderful cures have followed his example, until today the treasury ledgers showed $624 113 70 all credit to the people's conscience.

Application of the Central Alberta Dairy Pool, Limited and the Sunny Alberta Producers, Limited, for a reduction in the freight rates on butter in carlords, from Alix, Alta., and Red Deer, Alta., to Vancouver was dismissed in a judgment of the Board of Railway commissioners.

New Garden Methods

Scientists Predict That Vegetables that Be Grown in Chemical Tanks

A world of tomorrow in which families will raise their own vegetables from chemical tanks instead of gardens, getting a year's supply at the present monthly cost was visualized by Arthur C. Pillsbury, scientist.

Pillsbury also a naturalist, explorer, author and lecturer said artificial tank experiments had indicated a tenfold increase in vegetable production.

Although the idea is not new, recent experiments have led scientists to believe that vegetables can be grown commercially in shallow tanks partly filled with water in which all the necessary soil properties have been mixed, Pillsbury said.

In one instance shallow-tank grown potatoes produced between two and three thousand bushels to the acre compared with a United States average of 104 bushels.

Scientist Has New Theory

Believes Rust Will Some Day End All Life On Earth

A leading man of science says the earth may one day rust to death, ending all life on the planet.

Writing for the Smithsonian Institute Dr. Henry Norris Russell described how the sun's oxygen is slowly depleted by oxidizing, rusting, action in rocks.

When time enough has passed, this inexorable process of rust, he says, might exhaust the remaining gas of our atmosphere and put an end to all that breathes.

Dr. Russell figured the end would not occur for a billion years or more.

Between $1 000 000 000 and $5 000 000 000 is expected to be raised by Americans in foreign and domestic lotteries, numbers games, etc.

The Best News Medium

Writer Tells Why Newspaper More Satisfactory Than Radio

Charles McIntyre, in Printer and Publisher says:

You can't put a radio broadcast in your pocket and read it at your leisure.

You can't save a clipping from a radio broadcast.

You can't skip it in a radio broadcast. You can't shut off the beauty talks and turn to the baseball scores.

You can't stop listening to answer the phone and go back to the radio without missing something.

You can't skim the news in six minutes with your mind and coffee in the mornings and get an idea what is going on around the world.

You can't get a line on the stock market when you have only three minutes to spare.

And of course your newspaper has limitations also. You can't put a song and dance and some bum jokes in your newspaper and get paid for them at high rates.

You can't get your clients to read an your circulation every person in the community who can read.

You can't tell your readers at night to get your newspaper or not at all and make them like it!

You can't think this is a deep one you are not smart enough to get your chief competitor to advertise your medium for nothing.

The Bay Route

What Ships To Be Equipped With Gyro Compass

Revision of shipping regulations to prevent ships entering Hudson Bay unless they are equipped with a gyro compass was urged upon Hon. C. D. Howe, federal minister of transport in a letter by Hon. Hanbury Lennox, government MP. Howe intimated that such changes would have to be implemented by the Imperial Shipping Board, of which the Canadian high commissioner is a member. Although the insurance rates on gyro compass equipped boats are lower than on others, there is not sufficient difference to prevent boats from entering the bay, Hon. T. C. Davis said. He contended that while the Avon River, which recently grounded on the rocks in Hudson Strait, met trouble because of engine trouble, nevertheless, had the boat been equipped with a gyro compass it would not have been so close to the rocks when it encountered trouble and, too, that the boat was one which had been out of service for a long time and was not in proper condition to try the trip.

Predicts World War

Visitor Looks For Hostilities Within Two Years

Another world war within two years was predicted by Emil Ludwig, German-Jewish biographer, who arrived from South America with his wife.

Asked if he meant conflict between France and Communist nations, Ludwig waved a hand, waved away the political issue.

"It is no longer Communism and Fascism we shall fight. You have so much of state Socialism in Russia and Rome that one can no longer call the advertising terms."

"No, war will come because there are two conflicting philosophies in the world. It will come just as it did in the days of the religious wars in Europe. It will come because there are the aggressive and defensive nations. They will fight."

New Fire Extinguisher

Firemen responding to an alarm which reported an automobile ablaze on a highway near Mason, Texas found the fire out when they reached the car and the motor scattered liberally with the dripping remains of ripe tomatoes. The driver explained that a farmer drove by saw the person in distress and offered the tomatoes as fire extinguishers. The men fanned off and bombarded the blazing engine, putting out the fire in a few minutes.

Have Great Many Uses

Old Automobile Tires Come In Handy Around The Farm

Old automobile tires play an important part in Australia's farming life. They are reincarnated into an endless variety of useful objects.

There is hardly a farm in central Australia which does not possess its old-tire stock ready for transformation by its resourceful owners. The most used "home-grown" items cover strips from inner tubes. These are worn around the trousers, below the knee, in approved bush fashion, to keep out dust from the plow, and are becoming popular with the girls who use them for garters—suitably covered with colored ribbons. Some farmers find that sections cut from a tire make excellent brake leathers for their carts.

Old tires are almost universally used to resole boots. Braces, belts and even bathmats made of inner tube are considered correct in the "outback," and almost everlasting leggings are also made from them.

Inner tubes also prove handy for making collapsible buckets, and ride ropes. They are also invaluable as water-tight carriers for carrying the mail from the letter boxes, which are often as much as a quarter of a mile away from the farm buildings in Australia, in a rain storm.

Inventions Of The Future

Experts Discuss Visions Of Comrade Engineers With Zippers

Speculating on the wonders of the future, United States government experts who spend their time examining agricultural patents have envisioned.

Corn on the cob equipped with zippers, bananas flourishing in Maine, grapefruit that automatically squeeze itself, seeds that planted before breakfast, produce ripe vegetables for dinner, and trees that spring from acorns in a year.

"All of these things seem impossible at present," said a patent office statement, "but not necessarily any more so than the aeroplane or radio would have seemed to the examiners on 1836 when the present system of industrial patents was established."

Patents on plants were legalized six years ago and have multiplied like garden weeds in spring rains. More than 1,000 applications have been received for patents on vegetables fruits, flowers and trees. Of these, approximately 200 have been issued for such things as raspberries, tarnations, grass for golf greens and water lilies.

Prison Reform

Canadian Penal Systems Under Own Authority Is Suggested

Centralization of the Canadian penal system under federal authority was suggested in a brief submitted by the Halifax branch of the Prisoners' Welfare Association to the royal commission investigating penal conditions.

The association recommended reduction of minimum sentence to the penitentiary from two years to one.

Two years was established by the League of Nations standard minimum rules in provincial and municipal as well as federal penal institutions, the brief said.

It suggested limiting to 500 the number of convicts in any penitentiary, abolition of classes in penitentiaries, visiting committees with advisory functions and technical training for prison officials.

Governor Girls Require Certificate Before Taking Other Training

The Ministry of Women of the Province of Ontario described by Germans women outside the home from there as a sort of conscription for domestic service. It is said that it seeks to see that every class become proficient in household duties, and that they take up any other training she must possess a domestic proficiency certificate. At present some 13,000 females are being educated in their off time must attend one lesson at their nearest domestic science centre. A government service is barred to the girl who cannot first qualify domestically.

Chinese Are Honest

Always Carry Out Oral Contract In Letter And Spirit

Ed. Sullivan, in the New York Daily News, says: Fewer and fewer Chinese restaurants along Broadway, which used to be cluttered with them. . . . American restaurants, by installing Chinese cooks and chow men cut into the patronage of the celestial cafe men. . . . Theatrical agents tell me the Chinese were the most honest of all Broadwayites to deal with. . . . Few of them ever break a contract, knowing that this would offend the honor of their ancestors. . . . None of these grew wealthy. . . . Those who did. . . . Over a 10-year span, the Chinese cafe men, without contracts, fulfilled the oral contracts in letter and spirit. . . . Tuxedo men who work the Bowery support this with additional testimony. . . . Business men doing town go to Newark to gamble, and they always go by cab. . . . Sometimes the Chinese gambling game is not all right, but regardless of the length of time they keep the cab waiting, the Chinese always return. . . . Somehow it is better and quicker. . . . Nurses Contract Tuberculosis

Thirty Cases Discovered Among Nurses In Training In Ontario

Thirty cases of active tuberculosis were discovered among Ontario nurses in training in municipal sanitoriums conducted a year ago by the province, Hon. J. L. Bonnson, Ontario minister of education, said in an address before the Ontario Hospital Association at Toronto. In the last two years 33 training school teachers were found to be victims of active tuberculosis, he said.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
NOVEMBER 8
THE CHRISTIAN WARFARE
Golden text: Be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of his might. Ephesians 6:10.
Lesson: Acts 19; Ephesians 6:10-21.
Devotional reading: II. Corinthians 1:3-11.

Explanations And Comments

The Christian Warfare, Ephesians 6:10-12. To be a Christian is to be a soldier engaged in warfare against evil, and the strength for the fight comes from God. To be victorious the Christian must put on the whole armor of God, all that God provides for his overcoming, there must be no part lacking. It is not with mere man that we have to contend, Paul asserts; our antagonists are powerful, pitiless, powers, world-rulers of darkness, spiritual hosts of wickedness in heavenly places.

The Equipment of the Christian Soldier, Ephesians 6:13-18. "The days are evil." Paul has said in 5:16; now he counsels his readers to withstand "in the evil day" by taking up the armor of God. Paul refers to the whole earthly pilgrimage as an evil time that demands constant, vigilant fighting. Stand therefore: Righteousness, preparedness for war, win for battle. Nothing short of the whole armor will suffice in this conflict.

In addition, you must take up the shield of faith, that is, a strong trust in God's protecting and saving grace, wherewith you shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the evil one.

And take the helmet of salvation. The assurance that we are now saved and are being kept by the power of God will be our sure protection, like the gleaming crested helmet which covered the head of the triumphant warrior. All this spiritual armor mentioned by the apostle is for purposes of defense. The one weapon of offense he now names. It is the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. The gospel message placed in the hands of the Christian warrior shall be firmly grasped and used with skill. All the truth revealed in God's word is to be wielded under the spiritual conflict" (C. R. Erdman).

But all the equipment mentioned is not enough. It must be reinforced by prayer, vigilant, persistent prayer. "The greatest thing anybody can do is pray. It is not the only thing, but it is the chief thing. When the Holy Spirit touches a man's heart and life anew, he always breathes a soft, burning passion into his heart—he enters a new mode into the prayer-place, the secret place of his life in touch with God. And he needs a man to find out this, that all the rest of his life grows out of prayer—the serving and the doing, all we are and all we attempt to do, grow out of touch with God" (R. D. Gordon).

Thou Shalt Not Live

— A NOVEL BY —
HERMIA GRAY

That was Starr Ellison's deadly fascination—the thousand and one contradictions in her volatile personality that made Michael Fairbourne certain that it had been nothing less than inspiration which led him to concoct that story about her having Egyptian princess ancestry. He was probably right, without having known it, except by inspiration. If truth were told, she probably had come straight down in a direct line from the slimmest of all sirens. It would not have been hard to persuade Michael that Cleopatra herself had sent along her blood and her allure through the centuries to the girl-woman who called herself Starr Ellison.

Michael stared down the long room at Lance Jarrett's head. In the group clustered near the flickering fire on the hearth Starr was almost hidden by the men who surrounded her—Medina, Stephanie called them. And Michael Fairbourne realized suddenly, with an attempt at mental castigation, that he was no better than the rest. He felt an uncontrollable impulse to follow wherever she went. But he had no intention of joining that crowd. He would not. At least he could keep his self-respect. But that relief when he remained on the fringe, a dark and angry moth, watching.

The group parted when someone called for fresh cocktails, and Michael saw Starr. Her exotic beauty was like a flame. She was wearing priceless value this day that was Russian in effect. It was all black and scarlet with little bands of fur across the throat. And she wore a red ridiculous little black muff of the same astrakhan that appeared to serve her for a hand warmer as well as the fan for a Spanish woman, or any of the well known types. Her pearly cloud of hair, beneath a tiny scarlet hat, fell almost to her shoulders.

No one but Starr Ellison would have dared wear an outfit like that, and she knew it. Her clothes were the breath-taking ones that Michael's song since had got out of hand with Michael who at first had considered it his duty to take her shopping. Starr had ideas of her own, and she had not hesitated to let him know it. He could pay the bill—and did—but he had no selection.

Her eyes met Michael's, and they held each other a for a strange, long moment. The girl's mouth had the taunt of a city, and the man who had made her what she was.

They had not spoken to each other intimately since their flare-up in the bathroom at Pierre's the night of the party just about two weeks before. No longer did Michael come to the penthouse apartment and the two sit down with the newspapers as windows for consultations or intimate chat. That was all over. Their meetings since the party had been hot fire, and those had been tinged with brittle sarcasm and deadly barbs of caustic wit. They fought against each other left steel daggers always drawn, just beneath the surface. Not even an armed truce.

That one long look from gray eyes to black. Suddenly Starr left her little group of satellites. A freshish impulse had to take her across the lobby, native aunt of those deep-fringed eyes swept the tall, stern-faced man who stood in front of him, her black lips lifted to his face. She said evidently

"You're elected to take me home, Han—Michael?"

A stiffness crept over his big frame.

"May I ask why"—he and his tone itself challenging

Starr said insolently

"Because you're the most miserable-looking man present, and you need cheering out." She opened her hands and laughed. "Besides, every body else is tight, and some of them might have the idea they could drive."

When he did not reply directly the young girl's eyes narrowed.

"Hurry! I've barely enough time to get home and slip into a bath and wash off the smell of smoke and liquor before I go to Tom Bangers's party at the Mayfair tonight."

Neither of them had noticed Lance Marlowe saunter up, but the eyes present Lance suggested in his smooth voice

"Why go home? You can dress here, Starr."

A ripple of amusement greeted his words. Starr did not seem to mind the amusement. She favored Lance with one of her mysterious smiles

DO THIS when you wake up with a Headache
ENJOY RELIEF BEFORE YOU'VE FINISHED DRESSING

"Aspirin"—Tablets Dissolve Almost Instantly
In 2 minutes by clock after you drop an "Aspirin" tablet in a glass of water, it has gone to "solution" and you've got just as much as you'd get from a glass of water. That is why you take the bottom of the glass to it for relief quickly. What happens to this glass of water happens in your stomach.

When you wake up with a headache, do this: Take two quick-acting, quick-dissolving "ASPIRIN" tablets with a little water.

By the time you are finished dressing, nine chances in ten, you'll feel relieved.

"Aspirin" provides this quick relief because it is first among the quickest methods for relief science has yet discovered.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the Bayer cross in the form of a cross on every tablet.

It might have meant you—or me—or Michael.

Michael quivered suddenly with black rage. He had not missed the obvious. For Starr to change, to leave him, to accept Lance Marlowe would have been something more for her to dress in than Lance Marlowe's pearly cloud of hair, his beneath a tiny scarlet hat, fell almost to her shoulders.

No one but Starr Ellison would have dared wear an outfit like that, and she knew it. Her clothes were the breath-taking ones that Michael's song since had got out of hand with Michael who at first had considered it his duty to take her shopping. gathering dusk and the mass of traffic with vicious speed.

For a second Starr closed her eyes. Her delicate cameo profile was so white, except for the too-bright coloring of her defiant young mouth.

"And I am making you very rich, Michael-Hassan."

It was the first time since the night of the debut party that she had mentioned their bargain.

He said with a curious moving his gaze from straight ahead:

"In the last few days the miles of my book have jumped amazingly. Thanks to you!"

"Thanks to my complete lack of reticence as regards the public airing of my love affairs, you mean!" she corrected him brazenly.

The line of his hard-gripped jaw was white.

"Starr! How can you?"

Her red lips twisted ironically. That certainly was funny, coming from Michael Fairbourne—the man who had been so insistent in saying once: "All I ask is that you keep your name in the headlines—I don't care how."

Well, she had done that for him. She had made him famous. Headlines to the reading public are the weather report. In just the short time since the night of the party his name on the horizon like a brilliant meteor, she had blazed her mad, reckless way through highly colorful escapades which could not be ignored—they were news. She had accomplished what she had set out to do, too, as far as she could see—a complete and metamorphosis was complete. Starr Ellison was lost—she was all "Play-Girl." She had gone long, and now she was pulling the strings. Men were her puppets.

Michael was saying roughly:

"What's happened to you, Starr Ellison? You're grown into somebody I don't know. You're hard, like a lot of vivid color painted on glass!"

"Play-Girl" laughed. She echoed "Vivid color painted on glass! How clever of you to have noticed that! I must remember to tell that to Lance He'll think it too divine and pass it along to the rest of the crowd as a brilliant remark of mine about my inimitable appetite for bahhahuh!"

Michael's face was white and the luster of his eyes blazed as his hands tightened on the wheel until the knuckles showed white.

"Lance!" he spat out. "Look here, Starr, I never intended for you to carry out this thing this far. What I may have been, I mean! But at first—well, I've changed my mind . . . Do you realize what people are hinting about you?"

And then Starr was angry, too. A deep, bitter anger. The supreme arrogance of the man at her side.

"What right have you to tell me where I shall start, and where I shall leave off? The only interest you have genuinely had in me from the first was my value to you. It's come of your business! Yes! I know what you're saying that I am Lance's mistress!"

She turned to meet the full glare of his eyes, and she forced the latter clear slackened momentarily. She drawled impudently:

"Well, what do you think?"

Michael looked away at the veiled allure of her eyes, at the mocking insolence of her mouth. Then he shifted his gaze to the white throat and her white throat against the dark fur, and reflected on the everlasting contradiction of her. And in every truth she were the siren type of another day which his own prim New England had made her in the eyes of the public.

He said hoarsely: "I don't know. I don't know what I think. I've been a bastard at all to say way. I want to brazen I did!"

All at once a hot flood of words fell from Starr.

"I know one thing about you! You're not the girl I thought you were when I first found you.

I thought well never mend what it just wasn't so, and if you ever had been I don't believe it just why you were playing La Lina. Never . . . Why . . . Why . . . Why

TO PROSECUTE SHORT WEIGHT GRAIN BUYERS

Unlicensed Dealers Bring Complaints in North

EDMONTON, Nov. 4 — Complaints about short weights and non-payment for wheat being purchased by unlicensed dealers throughout Alberta have been received at the offices of the board of grain commissioners, it was announced here today. Action will follow. W. H. Hutchinson stated today upon investigation of the complaints the board of grain commissioners will prosecute all persons found guilty of buying grain without a license. Licensed dealers are required to post a bond of $5,000 before they can operate. Hutchinson said the board expects to have a number of prosecutions in the near future.

St. Joseph's High School, Clandonald

On Monday, Oct. 26th the pupils of St. Joseph's High school, Clandonald, held an election of candidates for their literary executive. The following students were chosen:

President—Joan Hughes
Vice President—Iola Dixon.
Secretary—Keith Chalmers
Treasurer—Betty Harrington.
Grade representatives — George Mead, Kathleen Swan, Kathleen Romaine and Theodore Thorndahl.

An open meeting was held the following Friday, the program consisting of a recitation, a monologue and addresses by the newly elected officers. These numbers were interspersed by several school songs composed by pupils. The meeting was honored by the presence of Rev. Father Gillis, who, in a few well chosen words voiced his appreciation of the programme and spoke of the values accruing to the students from their Literary Society, both during their school years and in mature life.

YOU Share In Canada's Greatest Co-Operative Business

LIFE INSURANCE is the greatest co-operative business in Canada. As a policyholder, YOU are associated with more than 3,500,000 other Canadians in this great enterprise.

Every business day last year Life Insurance Companies in Canada distributed, to Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries, over Half a Million Dollars.

Life Insurance enables YOU to provide financial security for yourself and family. It also benefits the country as a whole through the investment of Life Insurance funds in important public enterprises.

Life Insurance dollars give employment to workers throughout the Dominion. Transportation facilities are extended, highways built, streets paved, schools erected, water, sewage and other necessary works constructed. Life Insurance dollars help to finance the farmer, and bring business to the general store and country merchant.

In the past five years of business depression, Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries received over Eight Hundred Million Dollars in payments from their Life Insurance funds. Life Insurance Companies have fulfilled every obligation one hundred cents on the dollar.

As a policyholder, YOU can take justifiable pride in sharing in this, the greatest co-operative business in Canada.

DOMINION LEAVING ALBERTA TO WORK OUT OWN DESTINY

(The Edmonton Bulletin)

OTTAWA Oct 30 The Dominion authorities will not interfere in any way with the economic or political situation in Alberta despite protest made to it against the financial and other operations of the Aberhart government.

Repeated representations have been made to the federal government that the Dominion should intervene to prevent the province's monetary and economic affairs of the majority in the province. The federal public will be told to allow a work out its own destiny.

It is understood has power to disallow the Aberhart legislation but disallow extreme that power. There has been a fair measure of British and eastern Canada for the federal government might name an administrator for the province.

No such extreme step will be entertained by the Dominion. It is reckoned in these circles that Aberhart's policies will be unworkable and that the province will be financially paralyzed within a few months. Then the people of Alberta will realize that Aberhart's economic and financial schemes are all a confidence trick with practically nothing on the credit side. The continuance of the present government's policies will be left entirely to the people of Alberta. Ottawa will not be called upon to intervene in any way with the Aberhart government's policies. It is believed in these circles that

The Wheat Problem

What to do about wheat is the greatest poser facing the Western Canadian farmer, not only for the immediate present, but for the long range future. Should he grow more, or should he grow less, or perchance, should he forget about wheat and turn his attention to other crops and other activities?

It is safe to say that this problem causes more sleepless nights on the Western Canadian prairies than anything else. It is probably not far from the truth to say that the question is uppermost in the mind of the average tiller of the soil the greater part of his waking hours and that during the night it perturbs his slumbers.

The farmer seeking the solution of the problem can get plenty of data, which has a bearing on the subject and a plethora of advice without going far afield for it, but unfortunately for him all for his pence of mind so many complications are involved in the answer to the question and so many, so diverse and contradictory, are the replies that the greater his research, the greater must be his confusion and the farther he is away from a conclusive solution.

To seek the problem with even a remote degree of assurance, the interrogator must not only be in possession of an immense amount of current available information but he must also be something of a prophet. He must be able to peer into the crystal of the future and divine what is ahead.

As there are no infallible methods of determining the unknown factors of production and marketing he must make his guess as best he can and shape his course accordingly.

If he guesses right as I successfully runs the gamut of early and late frosts, grasshoppers, wire worms, cutworms, thistles and other noxious weeds, smuts, rusts and hail, rust and other blight and pulls off a crop, he is faced with the possibility that it may be a drug on the market and that the reward of his labors may be little better than zero.

Added to all these and many other unexpected contingencies and handicaps comes a new threat in the existence of cereal farming as it is practised on the prairies in the form of grain produced on an intensive scale under factory conditions and without the use of soil as a medium, a method discovered by two Englishmen after four and a half years of research and now being tested on a commercial basis

To quote a Magazine Digest summary of an article appearing in the Sunday Express of London, "Two inventors claim that under their scheme which they call 'cabinet culture,' one acre of floor space is equal to 3,760 acres of grass land, sixpenny-worth of seed will grow 200 hundredweight of green fodder; one crop of fodder can be produced per day instead of one per year; a farmer feeding intensively cultivated corn instead of hay and grass to his livestock will save $2.50 on every pig brought to bacon weight, $5 on every bullock, and from 15 to 20 per cent. on milk production because they will be eating young, fresh food instead of old or dried grass which has been weakened of its vitamins.

"Inside the cabinet of the rabbinet culture

REPORT SUCCESSFUL POPPY SALE SATURDAY

Those kind peoples, emblematic of those who sacrificed their lives on the battlefields of France, were sold to citizens on Vermilion streets to the number of 1,000 and their fame is no less.

The sale of poppies is annually sponsored by the Vermilion Branch, No. 31 of the Canadian Legion.

By the time Eltham Edition was printed on Thursday morning, only little information was left concerning it had to be held until next week.

Mr. Hockham's talk on his trip to Vims last Friday evening was much enjoyed as were the slides which he showed in connection. This was held under the auspices of Group 3 of the W.A. the entire proceeds going towards church work as Mr. Hockham would not even take his expenses for the trip.

GOLF SEASON CLOSES WITH BANQUET AND SOCIAL EVENING

With memories (good and bad) lost lingly tucked away with clubs and balls to await the coming of spring, and with the same golf and better golf the Vermilion golf club finished the season with a supper and dance in the Elks hall sponsored by the entertainment committee of which Mrs. Chester Lipsey was the convenor. The catering was in charge of Mrs. Andy Low and the splendid meals was provided by Miss Bagley and Mr. R. Bishop. After a bountiful supper, fittingly laid on well arranged tables, the president of the club Major Doug Ian outlined the many activities of the club during the year and gleefully alluded to the prospects in the future to come with such plusses as "approaching the status of real professionals the club is awarded a wonderful career in 1937."

His Worship Mayor Robinson himself an old and ardent golfer who, while not at present taking an active part in the sanctum and honorable game dearly outlined the history of golf from its beginning in 1066 (the time of the crusades) to the present day, (replies may be had on request) and intimated in no uncertain degree his intention of returning to the game next season.

The Vice-President Mrs. Norton made a very fitting speech and showed that the ladies had been very active and enthusiastic members of the season the luncheons which the ladies provided were very much appreciated by all the players and it is hoped they will be carried on next year. Mrs. Lipsey and Mrs. Desmond with modesty and with assurance spoke on behalf of the Ladies Golf Club an exclusive subsidiary of the Vermilion club club and explained that the ladies did not enter into the golf known club fees as was generally supposed.

The membership committee, was very active and successful in the effort to sandwich a little fun activities perhaps to satisfy all the players but there can be no complaints of this known edge. there have been about 60 participating players would be well and pleased to see that percent of the committee are men when they tell of the sandwich serves they make better take their lubricant down behind the tees personal or you hand cup line, be refused don't blame the committee you've asked for it.

The president graciously retained from commenting on the games arranged with Vegreville, the first one played there and the next in Vermilion, due no doubt to the fact that he wished to spare the sensitive feelings of Messrs. who could not hold their partners down, but he is as absolute not have forgotten the other side of the picture when Messrs (undeny presents from mentioning any names) pulled them out of the hole so to speak this omission was called to his attention and an apology demanded but if it was made it was

V.S.A. Settled Down For 1936-37 Term

One Hundred and Thirty-Six Students Registered

The Vermilion School of Agriculture opened with a splendid attendance in spite of the fact that many of the territories belonging to the school were very seriously handicapped by the drouth. Up to date 136 students have entered and with a few more yet to come in it is expected to reach the 140 mark. This is somewhat less than last year when there were 160 but a good many of the pupils of a year ago were encouraged to attend because of the bonus that was paid out of the Wheat Pool money. During the past summer the drouth was quite severe in the south and east portions of our territory but there was an improvement in the crops to the north and west of the school and in the Edmonton territory as well as along the Waskatenau line, so that a great many students have come in from these points. As will be remembered the Peace River had a wonderful crop but the snow and rain held the threshing, and even some of the cutting up, so that representatives from that territory have been slow in coming to the school. As a matter of fact there are still some to come in. For the late comers extra classes are being held and the attendance is very satisfactory this year and the school is now sailing along under full pressure. As a matter of interest the students are divided as follows:

1st Year Boys	46
1st Year Girls	20
2nd Year Boys	50
2nd Year Girls	16
2 in 1 Boys	5
2 in 1 Girls	9

Making a total of 136 students.

The improved blacksmith and carpenter shop is proving to be a very great help this year, the students of last year will remember the difficulty experienced with the ventilation system in the carpenter shop. The department of public works has completely overhauled the shops and have added a 16-foot addition on the south side which gives that much extra space both up and downstairs. The latter has been moved in groups or two and are covered with pressed signs. The shop is just as pleasant a place to work in at the present time as any of the other classrooms. Additional space gives Mr. Wood room for the gas engine and other machinery.

Another improvement is the construction of the walks both within and without the school grounds. Last year the task was a constant one and only by doing the severe weather to avoid trouble at all this year is quite spared.

Last Friday week the staff held a reception for the students at which dancing was enjoyed by all.

Basketball is also a feature this year and the boys have been practising for the past month. Last year the team was defeated by the Vermilion High school team but this year they are hoping to turn the tables and defeat the high school team.

SNOW-PLOW QUESTION IS MAIN TOPIC AT BOARD OF TRADE

Revised Interest Is Apparent On Monday

STANDARD IS CRITICISED

For Printing Communication Opposing Plan

The snow plow question was the topic of the moment at the Board of Trade meeting on Monday. A very satisfactory report on the progress made by the canvassing committee was given by chairman Pibbie. At present that ample funds would be available for the purchase of the plow outright.

On account of a communication appearing in the Standard expressing views contra to the advisability of purchasing the plow chairman Pibbie suggested from his position on the committee, a motion of confidence was passed and he was included to carry on his work so well begun. E. M. Stewart and Amber Cooper were added to the canvassers. As a result of the committee if L. Collins all to speak on the matter in the opinions expressed in the communication. It was pointed out that every question and answer had a side and that the article was only one individual's idea on the subject.

Dave Andrew was in the chair and presided over the meeting.

SHE'S ONE LUCKY LADY!

Mrs. Howard Armstrong Wins New Plymouth Car

Apparently both girls and boys of Howard Armstrong are lucky people. Last week Mrs. Armstrong won a model Plymouth sedan for Friday evening. All she did to get it was to send a small letter in a mail order house in Regina. The purchase was an opportune one to win a car which she promptly did.

The draw was made on Wednesday, the Friday evening dance, phone it in a theatre in Regina and the car delivered to the lucky purchaser. A very pleased man was Howard Armstrong when he received the news that his wife had won a car. Mrs. Armstrong is the mother of a young son and a daughter.

SNOW PLOW FUND IS STEADILY GROWING

Full Price Already Promised By Business Men

The campaign committee of the board of trade made further progress on the snow plow fund on Monday evening when a number of the remaining business men were interviewed. The weather was ideal for the work and the committee were out in force. Practically all of the business men interviewed responded generously to the appeal and the full price of the machine is now assured. Those who have been approached to date are: [illegible]

The Canadian Press, one of the world's oldest newspapers, will cease publication at Basel, Belgium, because of financial difficulties on Jan. 1, 1937 after 270 years, Frederic it was reported.

May Be Explanation

Is it strange that some have wondered if the mysterious death in Montreal of Mrs. Ada Pitts, wife of Dr. Arthur Pitts, with a fatal overdose of veronal, could have been a case of suicide? Perhaps the explanation is remarkable. Shortly before her death Mrs. Pitts had visited a local druggist and asked him to offer a prescription for a sleeping powder. The druggist refused to do so, but did offer a tonic. Mrs. Pitts purchased a bottle of the tonic, took almost twenty times the recommended dose and died.

To the coroner, who investigated the case, Dr. Pitts declared that his wife was a nervous woman and had been suffering from insomnia. Dr. Pitts also stated that he had no knowledge of the fact that his wife had purchased the tonic.

Coroner Dupuis, after hearing several witnesses, including druggists who testified as to the non-existence of any substance in the tonic capable of causing death, returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Dr. Pitts, who is a well-known physician, was not present at the inquest.

Universe Shortage

Astronomers are puzzled by the fact that the universe is expanding at a speed of 600 miles per second. Sir James Jeans, famous astronomer, suggests that the universe is getting bigger because there is not enough matter in it to fill it. He says that the universe is getting emptier and emptier. Some astronomers think that the universe is getting smaller.

Off On Northern Patrol

Week Of Mounted Police In Not All Man-Hunting

Somewhere up on Ellesmere Island within the shadow of the North Pole two members of the famous Canadian Royal Mounted Police are right now on their way to within about two miles of the top of the world. Until next July they will be cut off from anything like civilization.

They will be engaged in a routine job about which they will make a brief, matter-of-fact report, but they will be encountering dangers and hardships such as fancy explorers have never to have encountered.

These men, three are the regular patrol from Craig Harbor station, will be the Far Northmen. Their work is largely scientific and includes a striking example of diversity. Labors running from meteorology to delicate surgery will be by the Royal Mounties in the far north.

They must, much of their time regularly reports on weather and life conditions at unusual hours. If the members back in civilization have a worthy habit of taking a meal in reading some explorer. The average Royal Mountie in that part of the world will be a walk of treats.

Here are some of the things he must be besides a policeman who-ever engaged in by the Royal Mounties in the far north.

Coroner, deputy sheriff, customs officer, taking affidavits required by applicants for naturalization, subscription for customers, collector of income tax agent for the mining records, registrar of diplomatic statistics, amateur physician and surgeon, weather reporter, shipping reporter and interpreter whether Eskimo or strange sailing bags for examination by experts, collector of plants for expert study and reporter of the migrations of caribou.

Not many efficient policing ago had to anticipate the infected arm of a trapper who had been badly hurt in the wilds. The necessity had to start performing an operation. Then another, but it was a case of life or death and he did the job. He then rushed by a husky dog sledge to a doctor's assistant settlement and the patient recovered.

Of the regular duties of the Mounties is to keep an eye on the trappers. Men go mad up there in the white hinterland.

When we approach a trapper's hut," one mountie said, we never walk straight up to the door. We come at it from the side because we learned long ago that frequently the man within will be in such a mental state that he will shoot right through the door.

Often when you get inside the man will be sitting looking into space with his chin in his hands. He may not even glance up. I have work at about in a hut for hours without his owner moving or speaking a word, and he hadn't seen a human being in months.

All of a sudden he may jump up and start to talk. Words pour out of him in a flood. I have had a man hardly drawing a breath between talk like that all night without words. It is a natural reaction after his long silence. Sometimes when the officer continues his trip the trapper will follow a long distance along the trail, so great is his urge for human companionship. That little valley generally puts the fur bearer in the best mood.

Occasionally, too, madness overtakes a man, and then there may be tragedy. I remember one case where a trapper shot his partner while the latter was asleep. There he shot himself. We found the pair that way weeks later.

Marchioness Of Aberdeen Appeals To Women To Prevent War

On behalf of 40,000,000 women in 36 countries, Isabel, Marchioness of Aberdeen, now in her eighties year, made a strong plea for peace at the opening at Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, of the Congress of the International Council of Women.

Lady Aberdeen, who as wife of the late Marquess of Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada, 1893-98, was a beloved Chatelaine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, likened the council to a woman's League of Nations which however she declared, "would not in its responsibilities."

I ask all women to launch a world-wide campaign to save humanity from war. The menace comes from those nations which want to export but which are trying to destroy their brother nations.

Lady Aberdeen concluded with an appeal for the respect of personal liberty "as essential to the well-being of mankind.

Asked if she thought the present European situation would mean war she said "No," adding "we women, have firmly decided that it shall not be England's against war. The young will not have it, and finally the mothers of the world are all opposed to war."

Strange Case Baffles Doctors

Man In Trance Two Years Smokes And Plays Cards

Outwardly "dead to the world", the Rip Van Winkle of Springfield Mass., sits in his favorite armchair and slowly puffs his pipe, apparently unaware that he has passed the tenth anniversary of his lapse into a coma that has baffled medical science.

Actually, H. William Lord is awake. But he responds to none but his wife who has nursed him through the shocking trance. As far as Lord himself is concerned, the past ten years are mostly blank.

Born in Canada 62 years ago, he is emaciated and his hair, once black has whitened.

It was on Oct. 20, 1926, that Lord first lapsed into a trance. He slept for nearly four years. One morning in 1930 he awoke, looked out a window. The sun was high.

Say," he called to Mrs Lord, "I've overslept. I'll be late for work."

Only three months he remained awake. Then one afternoon Mrs. Lord found him asleep in a chair. That time he slept for years.

His only diversion is cards, which he plays with Mrs. Lord. Neither he nor his wife can read or write.

Editor For A Day

Area Radio Head Published One Issue Of McGill College Paper

Editor for a day of the newspaper he founded 26 years ago was the lot of Major W. E. Gladstone Murray.

The new editor-in-chief of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, returning to McGill for the Graduates' Quintessence Reunion, was "in charge" of one edition of the McGill daily, Canada's oldest college paper.

Twenty-six years ago Major Murray then a McGill undergraduate, founded and became first editor of the daily and this issue was published entirely by McGill graduates. The leading editorial was from Major Murray's pen, and other material in the special issue was prepared by graduates formerly associated with the undergraduate paper.

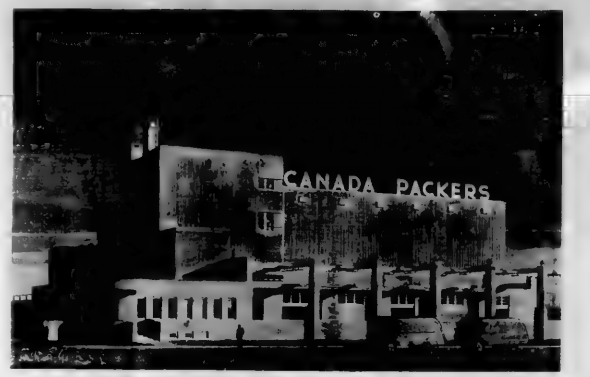
NEW PACKING PLANT FOR EDMONTON



Canada Packers' $1,000,000.00 Plant Officially Opened

[illegible] was signed in the [illegible] of the plant were [illegible] William Aitchison, K. [illegible] President of Western Canada [illegible] Hon. Senator A. [illegible] Meighen and J. S. McLean, pres[illegible] of Canada Packers Limited.

The plant is an outstanding example of what can be done in an industrial [illegible] to combine pleasing appearance with utility and efficiency. It is [illegible] with the most modern machinery and will have a killing capacity of 1,500 hogs weekly, besides [illegible] cattle, sheep and lambs.

All speakers at the official opening ceremonies congratulated the Canada Packers upon their wisdom in establishing a new plant in the West. McLean stated it is his conviction that Alberta which already stands second in hog production amongst the provinces of the Dominion will within a short time stand first. When this expectation is realized, he said, all the packing house facilities in Edmonton including Canada Packers will be less than sufficient to handle the hogs.

After the close of the opening ceremonies, the plant was thrown open to the public and was viewed by thousands of visitors from Edmonton and the surrounding districts.

The erection of this important plant at this time is conclusive evidence of the faith of Canada Packers Limited in the future of Alberta, and of the West generally. It also gives to the livestock producers of Western Canada further access to the markets of Eastern Canada and of Europe, which are served extensively by Canada Packers Limited.

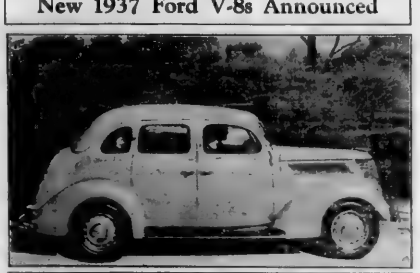
New 1937 Ford V-8s Announced



Two of the most popular body types in the entire Ford V-8 line are the de luxe Fordor touring sedan (above) and the Tudor sedan (below). The smart new front end, new headlamps, V-type windshield and use of the "step-down" form wherever practicable, combine to give what those who previewed it declare to be the most beautiful Ford yet produced. The Fordor touring sedan is a family car especially suitable for touring. It boasts a roomy built-in trunk. The Tudor sedan has a new full width front seat, with divided tilting seat back. Two engine sizes are available, the famous 85 horsepower V-8 engine and a new 60 horsepower V-8 engine. Mechanical improvements include new all-steel body, with steel top, "easy action safety" brakes and new "finger-tip" steering.

Silage Production in Canada

In the period of stable feeding in Canada frequently extends from six to eight months of the year the problem of supplying suitable food for live stock is extremely important. Among the roughages used for this purpose, silage is employed very extensively. Corn, sunflowers, sugar beets, and clover oats and wheat or oats and peas are the chief crops used for silage. Where corn can be grown satisfactorily, it sometimes the most important crop. It produces a large yield and gives no difficulty in ensiling. Where corn cannot be grown or where for any reason it is necessary to use some other crop, it is important in every case to adopt the best possible ensiling practices.

For this purpose the most complete information on silage and silage production has been prepared by the Dominion Field Husbandman, Dr. F. S. Hopkins and P. H. Ripley of the Field Husbandry Division, and has been issued as an 80-page illustrated bulletin by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The bulletin presents the results of many experiments over a long period of years at the various Dominion Experimental Farms all over Canada, and is supplemented by the expressed opinion of 673 farmers who very kindly have given their opinions on the advantages and disadvantages of the silo, as well as on the methods used in growing and ensiling their crops. They have contributed some very interesting data on the percentage of farmers in those districts who had discontinued silos and the reasons for the action.

Information is given in the bulletin in regard to the suitability of various silage crops, the best methods of growing and ensiling them, the proper stage of maturity for cutting the crop, the effect of wilting, the palatability and the chemical composition of about 19 different species of crops. A description is also given of the various types of silos, together with facts regarding the cost of erecting and ensiling the different silage crops. The bulletin may be obtained on request from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Immigration Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

OF 200 ONLY A SCOUT COULD HELP THE INJURED OLD LADY

A letter to the Editor of the Northern Journal

Dear Sir: The value of a knowledge of first aid is not appreciated until the time arrives when it is most needed. On Victoria Day Holiday, Tuesday, I with my family, had a day trip to Sandman, Isle of Wight. While waiting at the pier steps to catch a return boat to Southampton, we observed an aged lady who had the misfortune to stumble, her leg slipping between two iron steps. She received a very severe cut behind her knee.

There were at least 70 people waiting to catch the boat, and not one had any knowledge of first aid. The poor lady had to await the arrival of the boat fifteen minutes later before efficient help was forthcoming. All this time her leg was bleeding profusely, bathing towels which had been wrapped round her leg being saturated with blood.

When the steamer arrived there were calls for a doctor, or anyone with first aid knowledge. Of at least 200 people on board only one stepped forward and he was a Boy Scout. He did the job well, and the lady was taken to hospital. I envied that Boy Scout's knowledge and efficiency.

Amateur Contest At Hazeldine

The Hazeldine Community Hall Committee is staging an Amateur contest on Friday December 4. Thirty dollars in prizes will be awarded by popular vote. There will be two classes of competition —Senior, and Junior (15 years and under), with a first prize of $10.00 and a second of $5.00 in each class.

We are to be favored by a very clever comedian in the person of Mr Hope Sketchley as Master of Ceremonies. His talent alone, rivalling that of Major Bowes, is well worth the price of admission.

If you have talent, take this chance to win fame and fortune. If you can dance, sing, whistle, recite, play an instrument from a tin can to a harp or perform acrobatic stunts, send your entry to Mrs G Gardiner, Hazeldine, before December 3. The place: Hazeldine, the time, Dec. 4, 8.30.

An other game between the same two teams will be played in two weeks time.

CHEESE HAS SPECIAL INTEREST TO CANADA

Apart from the attention being drawn by the institution of National Cheese Week (November 9-14) to the advantages of cheese as a food product, Canadians have a particular interest in the cheese industry. There are over 216,000 farmers in Canada producing milk for market, and cheese utilizes seven per cent of this production. Seventeen per cent of the total population of Canada is directly dependent on the dairy industry for a living, and the value of Canada's dairy produce is approximately $200,000,000 per annum.

North America is not distinguished for its cheese-eating propensity. Canada and the United States eat the least cheese of any of the great nations, the United States being credited with 7 pounds, Canada 8½ pounds. Then comes Germany, 11½ lbs., Great Britain, 9½ pounds Australia 7 pounds, New Zealand, 4½ pounds, United States 1¾ pounds and Canada 3¾ pounds.

There is no doubt as to the value of cheese as an article of diet, and cheese is capable of many variations in its use as an ingredient of meals. It contains a great store of energy producing units and is an economical source of protein. Its four chief places a highly nutritive food well within the reach of every housewife, no matter how slender the purse may be. Cheese should be used often in combinations with other foods as the main dish of a meal. When used in this way, other protein foods should be reduced to a minimum. Because cheese is so rich in protein, it should be combined with starchy foods, and those with the addition of fruits and raw vegetables and almost all fruits make an excellent combination for the maintenance of a reasonable and well balanced diet.

PIONEER RESIDENTS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Graham, of Heinsburg, Wed 60 Years

On Tuesday, November 3rd, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Graham, pioneer residents of Tring, who now reside near Heinsburg, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Jones for dinner that evening where, later on, the old time friends of the couple gathered to offer their congratulations. The surprise party was held in the beautiful cut stone residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, which is rapidly nearing completion. Owing to the long distances, weather, and the uncertainty of the Saskatchewan river crossing, many of their friends did not arrive, but those who came were amply repaid by the pleasant evening spent in story telling and reminiscencing around the glowing fire in the open fireplace. A most artistic wedding cake decorated with golden bells and other ornaments were made by some of the friends, and also a purse was presented, as a slight token of the esteem in which the couple is held by their old time friends.

On Friday afternoon just before Halloween, Miss Myrtle McGowan, teacher at Greenham, gave a delightful Hallowe'en party for the parents and children, in accordance with the school curriculum, the pupils were allowed to choose, direct, and arrange their own program, with most surprising results. Before the program, Miss McGowan gave a short, but exceedingly interesting talk regarding the changes in methods advocated at the recent teacher's convention. It was enlightening and inspiring to both parents and pupils. After the children's performances, which was varied and clever, the usual jolly contests were indulged in, by the light of the jack-o-lanterns, followed by a most refreshing lunch. Everyone voted Miss McGowan a charming hostess and a most excellent teacher.

ALBERTA AS A LIVESTOCK PRODUCER

The extent to which our Alberta farmers are engaged in the production of livestock is graphically revealed by statistics recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. These show that Alberta farmers at June 1, 1936 were the largest per capita owners among the farmers of the entire Dominion. Alberta ranked second among the provinces in the number of horses owned, third in the number of cattle owned, second in the number of hogs and second in the number of sheep.

It should be remembered that Alberta has only 375,000 farms compared with 561,000 in Ontario 772,000 in Quebec and 561,000 in Saskatchewan.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department Sorrie Grain Company, Ltd.

The 250 million bushels of wheat which Canada hopes to export annually has to compete on the markets of the world with a vast quantity of other foodstuffs.

It is calculated that the 2,000 millions people in the world consume each year in round numbers foodstuffs as follows: Potatoes 8,000 million bushels, wheat 5,000 million, rice 5,000 million, rye, millet and spelt 3,000 million.

In addition 10,500 million bushels of corn, barley, oats and mixed grains are fed to livestock and produce the equivalent of about 2,000 million bushels of livestock products such as meat, eggs, butter, cheese, milk and cream.

Then there are consumed directly or through livestock large amounts of beans, peas, lentils, rapeseed, ground nuts linseed sesame, cotton seed hemp seed, copra, palm kernels fish, game, vegetables, fruit and pasture grasses.

Or, it means that on the average each person in the world consumes annually the following: Potatoes 4 bushels, wheat 2.5 bushels, rice 2.5 bushels, rye, millet and spelt one bushel; livestock products 1.1 bushels, fish, game and vegetables, fruits and other cereals 2 bushels, making a total of 14.5 bushels of foodstuffs that each person consumes per annum, of which it will be noted that wheat forms one fifth.

Factors that have tended to raise prices have been: Poor prospects in Australia—But prevailing Argentine heat heavily — Serious lack of soil moisture in U.S.A. northwest and western Canada—Price of gold advancing—Japanese wheat crop estimates lower—Increase in Argentine flax acreage—sale of diamonds from South Africa increasing considerably.

Prices have been pushed down by: Beneficial rains in Argentina large wheat exports from Balkans, South-eastern Hemisphere, India, Persia and Sweden. U.S. winter wheat crop very promising. Argentine further depreciates currency—Sustainable crop now in sight in Europe—reports of corn and potato harvesting.

Legion Carries Out Many Remembrance Day Activities

Poppy Day Campaign, Remembrance Service, Smoker, and Cenotaph Ceremony Conducted

Following the custom followed by the Standard of having one of the returned boys write an account of their Remembrance Day activities, the Editor wishes to thank Mr. W. H. Barnes for the following items.

For eleven months of the year the Canadian Legion does a tremendous amount of work behind the scenes, carrying out the aims and objects of its constitution. Perhaps foremost among these is contained in paragraph (d) which reads as follows — "To see to the maintenance and comfort of those who require special treatment of the disabled, sick, aged and needy, and to promote the welfare of the women children and others of their dependents."

Then in November comes much public activity in the observance of paragraph (e) "To perpetuate the memory and deeds of the Fallen and of all those who die in the future, to promote and care for memorials to their value and sacrifice; to provide suitable burial, and to keep an annual memorial day."

CHURCH PARADE AND MEMORIAL SERVICE

Rev. W.T.H. Cripps of Red Deer, Prov. Chaplain of Can. Legion, Special Speaker in Evening.

On Sunday November 8 a Memorial Service was held at 11.30 am in St Saviour's Anglican church, to which the members of the Canadian Legion and the local troops of Alberta Dragoons paraded. Suitable hymns were sung and a very appropriate address was delivered by the Rev Canon Loversedge.

At 8 o'clock that same evening the annual Public Memorial service was held in the Columbia theatre. Rev. Canon Loversedge as Chaplain of Post 11 conducted the service assisted by the Rev H A Boyd Capturing Mackenzie Rev. O.E. Cullins W. M. Hamilton was at the piano as accompanist and W. H Barnes was chairman.

Short addresses were given by the speakers for the occasion as follows: Rev. C. H. Cullins, Rev. Canon Loversedge, Capt. Mackenzie, Rev. O.E. Cullins and W. H Barnes. Rev. Canon Loversedge, as Chaplain of Post 11 conducted the service assisted by the Rev H A Boyd Captain Mackenzie Rev. O.E. Cullins W. M. Hamilton was at the piano as accompanist and W. H Barnes was chairman.

Short addresses were given by the speakers for the occasion as follows: Rev. C. H. Cullins, Rev. Canon Loversedge, Capt. Mackenzie, Rev. O.E. Cullins and W. H Barnes.

THE SMOKER

Next among the Vimy Night activities was the annual smoker held in the Memorial hall on Monday evening. Now the Vimy hall in the Memorial grounds was a detailed description of the Vimy Pilgrimage by Mr. A.C. Hockney. This feature was accompanied by splendid slides now in the possession of the Legion. At the close of the Vimy lecture refreshments were served and the boys were treated to a period of solid entertainment. This was ably accompanied by Mr. Hockney and Lamb taking turns at the piano.

The smoker was graced by the presence of the Rev Canon Loversedge and the Rev Mr Cripps then. It is hoped the latter gentleman will favor Vermilion sometime in the near future with his experiments on the ship canal on Laverendre property and give a short talk and power demonstration. More sober was the enlightening and interesting talk by Mr J W G Morrison, who pointed out that in the event of another war it would be the duty of all to see to it that all those who stayed at home be paid the same wages as those in the front and that a reasonable price be fixed for wheat. Mr. Morrison in his own inimitable way gave a topical subject for a most entertaining evening. Some of the points of Mr. Morrison's address will be published in the near future.

Members of the Wainwright and Manville branches of the Canadian Legion were present and expressed their enjoyment of the evening. After midnight incensed eats were brought in a chow with good results, all present had a most enjoyable time and left for their homes in the early hours of the morning.

Takes Exception To Article re Snow Plow

The Editor of the Standard,
Vermilion Alta.

Dear Sir:

I see in your issue of the 5th inst. a report of the meeting of the Vermilion Board of Trade held on the 3rd inst. and I would like to make a few remarks in regard to the matter of the snow plow.

I am not a member of the Board of Trade, but I am a ratepayer of the district and I feel that I should be allowed to express my opinion on this matter.

I am not in favor of the snow plow being used on the roads in the district, as I feel that the money could be spent to better advantage in other ways. I am in favor of the snow plow being used on the streets of the town, but not on the roads in the district.

Homework---How Much?

The present trend towards the reduction and perhaps ultimately the elimination of departmental, or external examinations for students in public and high schools is a step in the right direction, if for no other reason than that it should result in a corresponding decrease in the amount of homework demanded of pupils and especially those in their early teens.

Reports of the subject presented at the recent annual convention of the Canadian Education Association in Regina by a committee set up to study the subject of examinations in schools showed that the three prairie provinces, in combining departmental examinations to grade 11 and 12 students, that is, in the last two years of high school, are in the van of the movement to curtail the evils resulting from the rigidity which such a system necessarily entails.

It is not difficult to divine that the curtailment of the external examination system will result in more moderate assignment of homework in the public schools and at least in the first two grades in high school. It has followed, in some measure, but even yet there is good reason to believe that in very many classrooms both rural and urban, too much is expected from children after school hours.

Are there in particular the case where children in the last two grades of public school and the first two grades of high school are involved. Children of these ages have reached a critical physical formative period and during these years are acquiring a health foundation which will serve them, good or evil, in adult years. During this adolescent period while mental development is not out of course be neglected, physical development should not be cramped by eliminating that which needed opportunities for recreation and health-giving physical activity.

With the incentive of the teacher to pile up homework for the students removed by the abolition of departmental examinations in the particular grades referred to, there is no longer any reason why children should be over burdened to the possible detriment of health.

This was recognized by the school medical officer of the London (England) County Council in 1929 when he wrote in his report:

"It is clear that school authorities who take it upon themselves to set work which is not done under their immediate supervision take upon themselves a very heavy responsibility. It is their duty to consider the result not merely upon scholastic advancement but upon health and physique in every individual case and to ensure that no individual case is kept by the work at home that on every 24 hours there is not only time for work, for meals, for physical exercise and for sufficient sleep but also healthful relaxation and recreation."

In a handbook for use in their elementary schools the State Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania declares:

"In primary graded home study should not be necessary. After the child has acquired the art of reading he should be permitted his own choice to take books home and return them as he chooses to do. If any home study is assigned in the intermediate grades it ought to be very limited. It should deal with such material as history and geography, have a definite aim and the pupil should not be held responsible the next day for having done a definite amount of work. He should be urged to read in these branches."

The leading home study authority in the United States of Hygeia under the caption, Homework: The Big Bad Wolf Of Education", J. F. Rogers made the following suggestions:

"Only work that can be done without help of parents should be assigned. Home study should be made a privilege, it should not be too difficult, assignments should be made according to capacity and individual needs and the quantity is subsequent to quality. Home reading should be encouraged; homework should never be assigned as a punishment.

"In brief one may expect and must expect either injury to health or to the establishment of self-protective traits if the homework is either excessive or unsuitable and there goes along with these results a waste of time which might be spent more educationally.

Large Sum Placed On The Queen Mary's Sister Ship

The Cunard-White Star Line announced that Benjamin Wistar Morris, New York architect of the firm of Morris & O'Connor, had been retained as a consultant on the decorations of the projected new sister ship to the Queen Mary.

Grey Wornum, a Londoner, who designed the prize-winning building of the Royal Institute of British Architects, on Portland Place, has been appointed decorative architect of the new vessel. Mr. Wornum is one of a committee of three recently appointed to plan London's coronation decorations.

Insurance of more than £3,250,000 has already been placed by British underwriters on the Queen Mary's sister ship, whose keel will soon be laid at the John Brown shipyard, Clydebank.

This is easily the largest amount ever placed in a single merchant ship in the course of its construction Brokers in London are confident that the total amount to be accepted in the market will exceed £5,500,000, thus leaving less than £1,000,000 to be made up by the insurance companies.

Important London companies that declined to participate in the Queen Mary's insurance are taking very large amounts on the new ship. A number of large firms in Liverpool, however, have thus far refused to accept their share, although it is hoped that they will come in before the books are closed.

The coverage will take effect at the beginning of next year and run for not more than 36 months. Building risks are first taken, then port risks and apply only while ships are under construction.

A Cheerful Note

The Lethbridge Herald says the spectre of foot-and-mouth germs cattle grazing by thousands this winter is vanishing A lot of our cattle have gone to markets east, west and south, for the immediate slaughter, and the rest for feeding The open fall has served to allow those still on the land to find their own feed, and it would appear that we are going to come out of the livestock situation better than we thought

New Helicopter Plane

B.C. Man Claims Test Of Latest Model Is Success

A new type of helicopter flying machine is undergoing final tests by its inventor, John Hess, at New Westminster, B.C. The inventor claims it is the first successful helicopter for all practical purposes, that it can be lifted and lowered vertically in the air.

During the past 15 years Mr. Hess has studied aeroplanes and done a great deal of building and experimenting. He claims the latest of his latest aeroplane had been successful, and that the machine could be kept in the air as long as he wished.

The aeroplane weighs a ton and is powered with a 210 horsepower motor. There are two propellers, one in front and the other at the rear, revolving on vertical shafts.

Each propeller has four blades and is shaped like an umbrella. The forward shaft may be thrown into a horizontal position to allow the aeroplane forward once it is in the air.

The secrets of the machine are well guarded. It is the third helicopter made by Mr. Hess. The first was a model and later he experimented with a 100 horsepower motorcal machine

Queer Broadcast Reception

Alberta Folks Hear Musical Program Without Receiving Sets

Mysterious music that "came out of a clear sky" and four road workers near Dodda, Alta., about 40 miles southeast of Edmonton. They said it was a radio program from Edmonton but there were no receiving sets "for five miles around" where they were working.

Startled by the music, A. J. Thomley, R. Gjerde, H. Vergette and R. Farlow thought there might be an automobile in the vicinity but search revealed nothing.

They proceeded to a farm house more than a mile distant where they found Mrs. G. Sandrom who claimed she had also heard the music but had feared to mention it, thinking people might wonder about her story.

As the workers were making further "investigations" the music ceased as suddenly as it had started, they reported. The music had continued an hour and related toward the distant farm home.

The program from nowhere eclipsed the story of the Lindsay, Ont., farmer who heard melodies from his stove, and other reports of tunes coming from kitchen sinks.

SHE DREADED GOING UPSTAIRS

Woman's Fear of Rheumatic Pains

One of the many troubles that afflict rheumatic sufferers is the difficulty of getting up and down stairs. Such was the case with this woman, but she started taking Kruschen Salts but now she finds it no trouble. Read what she says

"I have been taking Kruschen now for over 12 months. A half-teaspoonful in hot water first thing in the morning, and I feel a new woman. I have very painful rheumatic pains in knees and back and also my head was getting very bad. I used to dread walking upstairs, now I am very thankful to say it is no trouble at all and I scarcely have any pains I feel better in health than I have done for years" (Mrs.) G.M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients help to find their own way, to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

More Planes For France

Decide To Add 1,500 More Machines To Defence Units

France will add 1,500 planes to her defence units under a program approved by the cabinet and air ministry, it was announced at Paris. The additional planes will increase France's strength to the air to 4,600 of the most modern ships.

The personnel of the air ministry announced, will be raised to 50,000 by the immediate addition of 10,000 men and 1,000 officers chosen from the present non-commissioned officers of the air army and navy corps as well as air corps reserve officers

Decorates Ceiling With Stamps

English Barber Uses Thirty Thousand To Work Out Design

To make his customers "ceiling conscious" has been the ambition of Scott Pattern, an enterprising barber, of Worthing, Kent, England, has decorated the ceiling of his shop with 30,000 postage stamps.

The stamps came from all parts of the world, and are arranged in intricate designs.

In the centre is the Worthing coat of arms, and the collector's own device "crest," consisting of a pair of scissors, a comb and razor.

Britishers Hope He Will Launch New Ship at Clydebank

King Edward may lay the first keel plate of the $22,500,000 new British liner, as yet unnamed, which is to be built at Clydebank Scotland, as a sister ship to the Atlantic blue ribbon holder Queen Mary.

Britishers hope Edward will consent to launch the vessel at Clydebank, 18 months or two years from now, and will make her King George V., the name popular vote has already given the new liner.

Officially the ship is to be known as No. 552 until her launching

She will be of the same dimensions as the Queen Mary, but recent important improvements in marine engineering will be incorporated in the 200,000 horsepower engines.

The Sunflower

Was Used As Food By North American Indians In Early Days

The sunflower, which is cultivated in Canada chiefly for bird seed and poultry ages as cattle feed, and as an ornamental plant, is generally recognized as indigenous to North America. It was used as food by the North American Indians, the seeds being eaten raw, or pounded and mixed with other seeds into flat cakes which were dried in the sun. In 1615 Champlain found the Indians in the vicinity of Georgian Bay cultivating the sunflower. The oil which they obtained from the seeds was used for their hair.

KING EDWARD IS PLANNING A VISIT TO CANADA SOON

King Edward VIII. is planning a visit to Canada soon after his coronation next May, Prime Minister King indicated as he came back from a European visit.

The prime minister said the King was looking forward to a visit to Canada as soon as possible after his trip to India, planned for almost immediately after the May coronation.

Mr. King said no more about the Monarch's proposed visit to the Dominion. It was the first official indication King Edward expected to visit this country next year.

King Edward's trip will mark the first time in history a reigning British monarch has visited Canada. He has travelled through the Dominion a number of times, but before he came to the throne.

His father, King George V., also visited Canada, but prior to his accession.

King Edward's visit to India, preceding the journey to Canada, will be for the purpose of being crowned Emperor of India. A ceremonial Durbar will see him vested as ruler of India's millions.

King Edward will be making his fifth visit to Canada when he travels to the Dominion after his coronation next May. He made an official visit to Canada in 1919 when, as Prince of Wales, he travelled from coast to coast. He came again in 1923 and 1924 and 1927 on unofficial trips.

As a quiet young man of 25 he landed at Halifax on his first visit, and immediately captured the hearts of the Canadian people. Thousands of persons shook hands.

A strike was in progress in the mining district of northern Ontario at the time and his staff decided it would be safer for him not to visit certain districts. When the Prince found that he could not go touring the Porcupine mining country.

The result was the residents gave him a roaring welcome. At Timmins a stream of hunting straddled a great square outside the station bearing the legend: "This is your town; quit it red or say dam color you like."

In hardly less boisterous fashion the rest of the Dominion greeted him everywhere he went. Crowds came to stare at the King's son who was patently known to them and remained to cheer him to the echo Everywhere the Prince danced, played golf and won the devotion of Canadians.

He was in Canada again in 1923 as the chief of a party to visit his ranch, the E.P. ranch in Alberta; in the summer of 1924 he made another unofficial visit to Canada and the United States. The Prince was in Canada again in 1927. That year he accompanied Stanley Baldwin, then as now prime minister of the United Kingdom, on part of the prime minister a tour of the Dominion.

Pleased With Results

Europe Expresses Approval Of Re-Election Of Roosevelt

London.—In Europe, in the Far East and in South America, re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president of the United States was applauded with few dissenting voices.

London newspapers devoted major front page space to news of President Roosevelt's "sweeping victory." The Daily Express exclaimed: "Roosevelt, we think you're grand. Salute!"

In Paris, Leftists and Rightists were momentarily united in expressions of satisfaction.

"If France lives tragic hours again," commented the Leftist newspaper L'Oeuvre, "she will certainly have on the head of the great American democracy the man who will be able to do most for her."

Fascist circles in Rome welcomed the Democratic victory partly because Roosevelt is better known than Governor Landon and partly because his emergency action has been frequently applauded by Italians.

Vatican City prelates said Pope Pius is pleased with the results.

In Moscow, Soviet quarters frankly expressed approval because they said President Roosevelt was an known quantity who had shown friendship towards Russia. They noted belief that re-election would insure no change in Russo-American relations.

In Shanghai, Chinese political and business circles declared President Roosevelt's international policies were helpful to China and conducive to world peace.

League of Nations diplomats, at Geneva, voiced the belief President Roosevelt would wield a powerful influence for the maintenance of world peace.

In Berlin, Roosevelt's victory caused little surprise. What was interpreted here as the president's program for planned economy was regarded sympathetically as in line with similar movements of various European powers.

In Tokio, foreign office circles welcomed the re-election of President Roosevelt declaring they believe it would favorably affect Japanese-American relations.

South America, a consensus of newspapers showed the president a return to the White House was desired by Latin-Americans because under the Roosevelt regime the "good neighbor" policy had apparently been firmly established and the reciprocity trade program expanded.

Urges Increase in Trade

Hon. J. L. Ilsley Hopes For Extension With British Lines

Liverpool. — Hopes for increased trade between Canada and Great Britain were expressed in speeches and messages at a luncheon in connection with the Imperial fruit show.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Canadian minister of national revenue, recalled the development of the Canadian apple trade since the first trial shipment from Halifax to Liverpool in 1849. In the shipping season 1935-36 Canada exported to the United Kingdom 1,260,000 barrels of apples and 1,- 500,000 boxes, or approximately 50 per cent. of the entire crop

"I hope is that the campaign for extension of our trade with Liverpool district and our participation in the Imperial Fruit show may result in trade developments beneficial to your country and ourselves and to the whole family circle of the British nations," he said.

Lord Mayor R. J. Hall said they had upon Canada not only as one of the best customers of the port of Liverpool but as a Dominion with which they were intimately related

Another Use For Glass

Scientists Have Been Experimenting With It For Dental Use

Toronto. A new milestone in dental history is claimed by a little group of scientists who struggled for nine years to perfect the ideal denture base.

Experimenting in a secluded corner of the dental buildings at the University of Toronto, the white-coated trio has foregone holidays and spare time to work on an idea.

Dr. Frank Lott, professor of prosthetic dentistry, unfolded to the Academy of Dentistry the advantages of glass as a base for false teeth plates. He named Dr. A. D. A. Mason, now dean of the faculty of dentistry, and Dr. Irwin Ante, professor of crown and bridge prosthesis, as co-workers in the discovery.

A chief advantage of glass for dental plates is claimed to be its permanency of color and the extremely wide color variation attainable.

For Mission Field

Young Women Graduates Of Brandon College To Engage In Foreign Work

Toronto. — Two young women will be called to the mission fields. They are Miss Clara Johnson, Edmonton, and Miss Gertrude Bonner, Toronto, who will sail for India shortly, and Miss Rosie Gilmour, Regina, bound for Bolivia.

The missionaries were guests at the diamond jubilee meeting of Western Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of Toronto West.

TRAINING SHIP TO BE BUILT FOR CANADIAN NAVY

Ottawa. — The Royal Canadian navy is going into sail. Henceforth the Canadian navy will be expected to be more than "sea machinists." They are to study seamanship from the bottom up, be able to handle ropes and spars, know which is the jib taut and which the staysl, and generally attend to do when ordered to take in a hitch.

Unperturbed by rumors of extensive construction of modern battleships, the naval wing of the defence department is building a schooner at Shelburne, N.S. A firm cruit, this reinforcement will carry little, if any, armament probably a couple of two-pounder guns for saluting purposes. The department will employ her to resurrect within the naval personnel the forgotten art of handling a ship that is equipped with either trifle bells, motor-driven winches and all the gadgets which have converted the modern man o' war into a machine shop.

"It is fundamental that sailors should know how to sail," said one departmental authority here. They should know how to work ship by hand as well as by steam, how to tie a ship and these things are not learned in steam."

Before the Royal Canadian Navy Is landed a training ship is signed for instruction in the essentials of seamanship but this is not being rectified

Transient Tells Story

Elders In Sealed Freight Car From Vancouver To Toronto

Toronto Joe Moore, 28-year-old transient, who survived a one-week ordeal of being sealed in a refrigerator car, was well enough at Western hospital to tell his story.

Moore said he had climbed into the freight car on a Vancouver dock to sleep. When he awoke, the car was sealed and headed he knew not where. With nothing to drink and only green peanuts to munch, cold and hunger overcame him before the journey ended in Toronto.

He was found in the freight car when the car was unsealed at a midway here prior to removing its cargo of peanuts

Moore said he had no relatives in Canada, having come from Poland several years ago. During the summer he had worked as a farm hand at Dauphin, Man.

He had been in a Winnipeg hospital until recently jumping a freight car for Vancouver the day he was released. Having no money when he arrived at the Pacific coast city, he climbed into a freight car on the wharves and went to sleep.

BELIEVE DAY OF THE BATTLESHIP IS NOT YET OVER

London. The battleship versus bomber controversy remains basically unsettled, according to the report of a sub-committee on Imperial defence published recently.

The report emphasizes the necessity of further exhaustive experiments but says that on the basis of present knowledge the battleship appears an essential part of a navy operating on the high seas.

The sub-committee consisted of Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for co-ordination of defence; Viscount Halifax, lord privy seal; Malcolm MacDonald, dominions secretary; and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

The admiralty does not claim battleships are invulnerable to air attack, says the report, but that modern improvements in the protection of anti-aircraft gunnery make them at least no more vulnerable to bombing than to gunfire Value of anti-aircraft fire, however, is most difficult to estimate on the basis of present experiments and further trials are necessary

It is estimated the capital cost and upkeep of a battleship over its normal life is equivalent to that of 43 medium bombing planes. The report draws attention to the necessity of protecting naval bases against concentrated air attack.

In summing up of information available at present leads the sub-committee to believe the day of the battleship is not over and that to abandon them would lead to grave risk of disaster.

U.S. Unemployment

Believe Roosevelt Will Attack Problem Along N.R.A. Lines

Washington Late returns emphasizing the epochal endorsement of Roosevelt policies at the polls reenforced the opinion of many here that another attack on the United States unemployment problem along N R A. lines is in prospect

How soon the move may come, what form it may take and the possible effects on party alignments were foremost topics in ranks both for and against the administration as the president's re-election plurality appeared to 10 000,000

Awaiting his triumphal return to the capital, officials were reluctant to discuss the probable program for publication But data was being accumulated for Roosevelt's consideration in drafting his message to the opening of congress and his inauguration as president on Jan 20

Inquirers were referred to his campaign speeches and the Democratic platform for light on what he might say

It was recalled he praised N.R.A. as a useful instrument of progress While calling the emergency over, he was clearly mindful of the heavy relief burden and the necessity for employment in the ranks of an estimated 11,000,- 000 unemployed if the budget-balancing he promised was to be realized

The Democratic platform pledged to seek a "clarifying amendment" to the constitution, unless ways could be found to handle wage and hour problems and ban unfair business practices within the constitution as it stands

Iron-worker Silas Robinson spent many hours making a fine looking sheet of ice in the arena rink last week and had listings practically ready for the shelves when suddenly the weather turned and flooding had to cease.

Rumors have it that Stan Walden berger and Manson Barr will be seen in the colors of the Vegreville Rangers this season. Vegreville will play in the new town team Intermediate loop composed of teams from Camrose, Wetaskiwin, Varsity and Vegreville. Brimacombe is also trying out for a place on the Varsity team.

Principal Roy Fraser of the Kitscoty high school was able to return to his teaching duties this week but, the removal of the stitches from injuries sustained in his car accident of two weeks ago.

ISLAND HILL

Friday last was another ball here saw one of the best dances that has been held here for years. Visitors from Edmonton, Vermilion, Chateauvert, Mannville and Lloydminster made up a company that enjoyed themselves to the full. The Blue Bird orchestra augmented by Messrs Marie Antoine Arnidson and C. A. Barker was of the best pairs this board here for many moons displeased the music. Frank Ingford was floor-waiter and Chas Brady and P. Mezanko ushers. Mrs. Burley and Mrs. Mackenzie and Mr. McNeil served a dainty lunch. The Misses Irene Alimitsky rendered two songs and received the hearty applause of all present. The piano solos by Miss M. Antoine were well received and she was encored several times.

Look out for announcements on the standard to the next big night at the hall. The ladies are arranging to run a splendid party which will be enjoyed by young and old alike. Everybody welcome to dance. Full particulars will be given next week. Happy to be of your service.

Island Hill school are building a new hall and are busy now levying the materials. They hope to have it completed before Christmas. We wish them all success and hope to receive an invitation to the opening night.

Mr. P. McCambridge chairman of the hall trustees requests a meeting of the latter Saturday 15th.

THE WEATHER

After a spell of two weeks of real winter the weather suddenly turned last week and, a chinook started the snow melting and warm, bright sunshiny days since last Sunday have done the rest. While this is not so good for winter sports it certainly is easy to take and every week like this makes the old winter a whole lot shorter and helps retain the contents of that coal bin.

Roads in the country are reported slippery and rough. The highway is now bare of snow.

In the account of the funeral of Mrs. Gertrude Hardwick of Dewberry which appeared in last week's Standard, there was an error in the list of floral offerings, the second wreath should have read from "Em Fred and Clif".

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church will hold a tea and sale of home cooking, aprons, mitts and other work at the Presbyterian church on Saturday Nov. 21 from 2 to 6 p.m. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

Mrs. A. V. Crawford of Vimy is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Harry Elliott, Jr.

Look out for the 1 to 10 ft. 45th large tournament which will be held later this month. More particulars next week.

A Tea will be held at the home of Mrs Cash on Saturday afternoon, November 14th, under the auspices of the Senior Mission Band girls of the United church. 27 tfn

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

The spring like break in last week's winter weather was certainly welcome. Let's hope for a continuation of same for some time.

Miss Christy held a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday, Oct. 30. A very enjoyable time was had by all who attended. The amusement raised a quiet Hallowe'en as far as tricks were concerned.

Magdalene Kachinsky is attending the convent school at Clandonald.

Mr. and Mrs Archie Good were baby visitors last week-end.

This entire community was saddened by the death of little Malcolm Twyning on Tuesday of last week. Not yet one year of age this little fellow had endeared himself to all by his sunny disposition and lovable ways. We understand that whooping cough followed by pneumonia was the cause of his death and the sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Twyning in their sad bereavement. Burial took place at Ottawa on Thursday of last week.

Orlando Bidney visited his sister, Mrs. Twyning last week.

HIGH SCHOOL TO HOLD A VARIETY CONCERT

Wednesday and Friday, Dec. 2 and 4; Note Change of Date

Owing to a dance sponsored by the Elks in aid of the Boy Scouts being held on Friday, Nov. 27 the High school concert has been postponed until Dec. 2 and 4. The date has been split to provide for a meeting arranged by the Vermilion Ministerial Association on Dec. 3.

It is hoped that everyone will keep these dates in mind.

VAGARIES OF ALBERTA WEATHER

The vagaries of Alberta weather were clearly demonstrated on Sunday when skating was enjoyed in the open air, badminton was being played in the garden and golfers were hard at it on the golf links. Yesterday, pertaining to this we were in the middle of a real warm weather with a couple of inches of snow on the ground when there was a beautiful Indian summer day.

Great Inspirational Gathering of Churches

Rev. Dr. George McDonald and Rev. G. P. Gower of Edmonton To Speak

A great united gathering of the congregations and people of St. Saviour's Anglican, First Presbyterian, and First United churches and the Salvation Army will be held in First United church on Thursday evening, December 3rd at 8 o'clock. The meeting is a culmination to the special campaign for The Evangelization of Canadian Life carried on by the above bodies and is being arranged to bear united witness to our common faith. A massed choir from all the churches will lead the service of praise. The prayers and lesson will be read by the local clergy and inspirational messages will be given by Rev. G. A. McDonald, D.D. of Knox United church and Rev. G. P. Gower of Christ Anglican church of Edmonton. Offerings or service will be received and an offering taken to defray expenses. This is a great historic occasion and we ask very earnestly that all our people keep this evening free and attend en mass.

TOWN FACED WITH CUTTING OF INTEREST RATE OR DEFAULT

Relief Costs, Old Age Pension, Hospitalization Charges and Non-Payment of Taxes Prove Too Heavy A Burden To Carry

The Town Council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening, [illegible] down to a very important business affecting the steam heat question and the other ratepayers generally. The resolution with respect to steam heat asks for a survey to be made of the radiation in the different premises having the utility with the view of making radiation the basis on the cost of using steam heat. A possible [illegible] has been mentioned as based on meter readings [illegible] abolishing the resolution. At Tuesday night's meeting it was suggested that in course of time there would be no necessity as the old ones which were taken out some months ago. The fact was pointed out in all probability there would be more manufactured for at least ten pound pressure of live steam which [illegible] possible to deliver to any premises on application for service. The suggestion was also made that the Council within the last year or two [illegible] to the ratepayers [illegible] on account of the [illegible] be one the December meeting. The resolution has been tabled.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED AT V.S.A. OPENING DANCE

What promises to be one of the most successful opening dances in the history of the Vermilion Scouts will be held in the Elks hall on Friday, 20th. With continued fine weather and all the country roads open for travel a large number of visitors and those outside points will be in the dance.

This is one occasion on which the Vermilion Scouts would like to make it clear that all are cordially invited whether they have received a personal invitation or not.

Arrangements have been made with the Midland Bus Co. to provide extra [illegible] between Dewberry and the Vermilion [illegible] the following hours: [illegible]

Music will be provided by the Orioles and supper will be served in the dining hall during the dance.

To Ease a Headache Fast

Get Real Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving "ASPIRIN"

See How "ASPIRIN" Tablets Work

It's important to get fast relief when a headache comes. Just drop two "Aspirin" tablets in a glass of water. By the time a man's finished the glass it is dissolved and ready to go to work . . . "Aspirin" tablets don't just take a glass of water. They take a man's time. Because of the glass it is dissolved before it gets into the system . . . because to your stomach.

For QUICK Relief

If you suffer from headaches what you want is quick relief.

"Aspirin" tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly (they touch moisture). (Note illustration above)

Hence—when you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to dissolve almost as quickly as you swallow it. And this is ready to start working almost instantly . . . headaches, neuralgia and neuritis pains start going almost at once.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of The Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Try it. You'll say it's marvellous.

Insurance For Pedestrians

Gives Compensation For Accidents No Matter Where Fault Lies

With 250,000 people killed or injured on British roads in a year, an association has been formed with the approval of the Ministry of Transport for the purpose of insuring pedestrians against accident, compensating them whether the car or themselves are to blame. As the law stands at present a pedestrian cannot claim compensation if it is found that the accident was due to his own negligence. To bridge the gap the Public Safety Association has been formed. The subscription is only the equivalent of $1.25 a year. The protection for this sum is up to fifty part of which is paid in a lump sum and the balance in weekly amounts.

Mining Capital Centres Interest In Athabaska

Several New Companies in Process Of Formation With Intention Of Having To Develop Massive Ore Zone in Areas Near Smelters And Athens Opposition

Developments are taking place in Lake Athabaska area in northern Saskatchewan that promise to bring this new field into great prominence.

The Athabaska area was first placed on the map by the exploration and development of two properties located in close proximity along the north shore of Lake Athabaska by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada and Athens Mines Limited. At the present time however several companies are being formed with strong capital backing to acquire and develop several large holdings in adjacent areas, which will serve to focus attention of mining interests generally in this field.

New discoveries have been made of massive proportions. Preliminary exploration at various points has disclosed ore zones containing high values not only in gold, but silver and other precious metals, as well as copper and other base metals which are understood to have brought an outstanding group into the picture.

Three New Enterprises

As an indication of what is transpiring Beaverlodge Syndicate was formed some months ago to prospect in the Athabaska area. Important discoveries are reported. Units which sold at $500.00 each cannot be purchased now for $5,000.00.

Three discoveries are reported to have been uncovered on the various Borealis Groups two of which are reported to be gold-bearing and one a huge deposit of mineral bearing ore including silver, copper and nickel and gold. The enterprise is stated to be assuming from the syndicate stage to be successful by a company in which wealthy mining interests will participate.

On a second property, the exact location of which has not been disclosed assaying of ore has been under way for a considerable period with such results that a company is being incorporated to acquire and develop the property. It is a gold enterprise.

A third new enterprise is Mineral Belt Locators' Syndicate, four miles east of Athens Mines, and on their property enrichments in several minerals are said to have been disclosed including copper, cobalt, gold and molybdenite, with dimensions and values that warrant formation of a company and acquisition and development on a large scale.

Pioneer Developments

Success is understood to have attended exploration and development on behalf of the two pioneer enterprises. Work at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Companies mine has been carried forward intensively. Early this year the statement was made officially that the company intended to build a 750-ton mill. This, but developments have since so altered the picture, it is understood, that a much larger mill is planned.

Developments have been carried forward rapidly at Athens. Two shafts have been sunk to the second level and the other to the first level. Lateral work from the two shafts has opened up three major ore zones in all of which commercial ore is being developed.

Developments underground in the Athabaska field so far are believed to have demonstrated that deposits have deserved lines an intrusive rock long after the intrusion of granite. These gold occurs in the granites, they appear in quartz folds, indicating that they came in through fracture planes. The massive sediment-ary zone reported to have been discovered on the Athens property lies summer, and which is gold-bearing, suggests that fracturing of the granite and quartzite took place at the same time and that actual mineral deposition took place at a later period from an igneous mass below. Mineral deposits in these two types of rock is significant.

Latest information on the discovery in the quartzite zone on Athens shows that it is tremendously important. Channel sampling to date having shown $3.00 to $12 per ore widths of from 12 to 16 feet in distinct bands. Sampling of the entire mass is not yet complete.

Crown Jewels Well Guarded

Alsace Was Recently Bounded But It Proved A Mistake

It was precisely 12:30 p.m. in the Tower of London. The usual crowd of visitors was passing through Waterloo Barracks, where glimmer from velvet beds the imperial and royal jewels of the Crown. These famous Crown jewels are exposed behind bullet-proof sheets of glass and guards are constantly on the alert. Steel doors lead to the jewel room.

Suddenly the steel doors opened of themselves. No more visitors could enter: those within were shut up with the guards. Simultaneously there was the crash of the alarm gongs. From the corridors without came sharp words of command. The clatter of military boots, the thud of rifle butts on the pavement, the rattle of trappings and of bayonets being fixed.

But, at the end of the ten minutes, a bullet-headed-and-grab raider appeared under arrest. The visitors were dismissed. The visitors drifted away. It was all a mistake.

Nothing mislaid: it was nobody could discover. The Newspaper Proprietors' Association had obtained permission to safeguard the regalia for publication when the coronation draws near. At lunch time the photographers stopped work. As the shutters which guard the jewels were closed, the alarm went off. Just like that.

Photographing the jewels was an elaborate function. The photographers and other officials presented their permits, specially issued by the Lord Chamberlain. Carefully the guards of the entrance to the Wakefield Tower checked the names against a list supplied to them. In the jewel room itself certain rooms were cleared. The keeper of the Crown jewels, Major Gen. Sir George Younghusband, and the Crown jewellers were present.

The Crown jeweller took the St. Edward's crown as far as the other regalia which will be used at the coronation, together with the two imperial state crowns and the sceptre worn by William of Orange, from the cases.

The photographers knew exactly how the shots were to be taken, for the difficulty of working in such confined quarters had made it necessary to hold a dress rehearsal in the studio with plaster copies of the regalia. Special lighting arranged by the Office of Works was used to modify the blaze of the jewels, which included the great ruby given to the Black Prince by Pedro, King of Castile, at Agincourt and now set in one of the Imperial State crowns.

Designing New Medals

Three Classes Are To Be Struck For Coronation

Three classes of Coronation medals are to be struck. These will include the official medal which will be designed by the Mint; a medal in silver or bronze with one side designed by the Mint and the reverse left clear for municipal coats of arms or other required designs, and medals designed by the individual medallist, says the Manchester Guardian.

Care must be taken to ensure that the portraits of the King on medals are worthy of the occasion, and a joint committee has been formed to which specimens can be submitted for approval.

The royal commemoration medal issued for the Coronation of King Edward VI. is generally accepted as the first English Coronation medal, for few medals were struck before 1547. This medal is now one of the rarest of such tokens.

Of all Coronation medals issued none has caused more controversy than that executed nearly 140 years ago by Pistrucci, the royal medallist, for the Coronation of Queen Victoria. One portion of the time described the medal as "unquestionably the most censurable medal in the English series." The censure directed at the "coat" variety—and the light-fingered gentry's proclivities for the persons against whom the precautions are being taken.

The Special Branch of the "Yard" is working in conjunction with the Secret Service men—are in intimate touch with the police of Continental countries, and are having their full co-operation in making London safe for the tens of thousands of visitors who will be there for the coronation.

During the last six months a round-up of foreigners has been going on. As a result, it is expected that long before May next there will be up a number of persons for whose whereabouts are unknown to the police.

In the bomb-out, those whose presence is undesirable, or whose permits have expired, will be quietly deported.

A friend of ours says his youthful ambition was to be a fireman, but he never could learn to play checkers.

Churches built on English crown land have not been permitted to ring bells since the reformation.

English villages have odd names including Egg Jump, Butter Bump, Great Fryup and High Ham.

Plans Are Elaborate

Police Working To Make London Safe For Coronation

Police plans for foiling the Coronation crooks are well advanced. They are more elaborate than anything of the kind hitherto attempted.

Mounting will we left to chance. Every possible emergency has been taken into account.

Fortunately, there are no fears as to any probable trouble involving injury to life or limb. It is the crook who would like to take advantage of the presence of great crowds and riches to practise his nefarious arts that the authorities have in mind.

The confidence trickster, the pickpocket, and the burglar—particularly the "coat" variety—and the light-fingered gentry generally are the persons against whom the precautions are being taken.

Famous Sword Stolen

Two-Handed Sword Of William Wallace Taken From Museum

The famed two-handed sword of Sir William Wallace, Scottish patriot who died 600 years ago, has been stolen from the National Wallace Museum by four masked men.

The quartet of raiders locked up the aged curator, smashed a glass case on the fourth floor in which the weapon was displayed, and escaped.

Police said that the men told the curator they were Scottish Nationalists. The history of the Nationalist society denied the accusation.

The sword, five feet six inches long, was kept in Aumbercan castle in the time of Wallace's death in 1300 until 1888, when it was placed in the national museum.

Art critics of the South Australia's centenary exhibition are writing the papers describing it as "like a jam label."

Explanations And Comments

The Imprisonment at Rome. Acts 28:16. On reaching Rome, Paul was allowed to live by himself, in his own hired dwelling, verse 30, but he was kept a close of a soldier to whom he was chained. Soldiers relieved one another on the duty, and thus Paul became known throughout the Praetorian Guard. Phil. 1:13, 14. He never described himself as a prisoner of Rome, but always as a prisoner of Jesus Christ

There were three kinds of custody recognized by Roman law: the severest was confinement in the public jail, during the time the prisoner was kept in chains, as were Paul and Silas at Philippi. The second was the custody of a Roman of high rank, was in the charge of a magistrate or senator who was made responsible for the issue of the accused on the day of trial; and military custody, when the prisoner's right hand was chained to a soldier's left. At Rome Paul was held in military custody, but instead of being obliged to live in the barracks, was permitted to have his own house. Every few days a special favor he may have been indebted to the good report and to Festus and the gratitude of Julius.

Addressing the Leading Jews of Rome, Acts 28:17-22. Paul gave himself only a brief three days' rest before he summoned the leading Jews to meet him, and told them of his experience here, although he had in no way violated the customs of their fathers, he had been delivered up by the Jews of Jerusalem to Roman authorities as a prisoner. The latter had been ready to set him at liberty, but when the Jews opposed this he had been forced to appeal to Cesar. He had sent for his listeners to justify himself: but it was because of the hope of Israel, the Messianic hope, that he had been put in chains.

The Jews politely replied that they had had neither written nor verbal report from Jerusalem concerning him. They wished to hear what he had to say although they knew that this sect (speaking of the sect of the Nazarenes, Acts 24:5, and they were of the sect of the Sadducees) was everywhere spoken against.

Preaching to Jews and then to Gentiles in Rome, Acts 28:23-31. A special day was appointed when great numbers of Jews came to Paul's lodging to hear him, and he proclaimed to them the spiritual nature of the Kingdom of God. The manner of Paul's work was to reason (expound kingdom, and by recalling the Jews to Jesus. Prophet Paul endeavored to persuade them concerning Jesus. As always, some believed and some disbelieved.

For two whole years Paul abode in his own hired house, that is, all who came to hear him he proclaimed the Kingdom of God, and taught them concerning Jesus, speaking with all boldness, no one forbidding him

ASK DROUTH RELIEF IN CLANDONALD AREA

(Edmonton Journal)

A resolution at the Clandonald settlement in the Vermilion district under the drought relief scheme was recommended to Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor, at their conference in Edmonton on the plan to this settlement was a scheme for families are required to be in need of relief, is to be considered by the federal authorities.

The federal minister also informed the delegation he will recommend that 15 municipal districts be added to the original drought area in the south eastern part of the province. These districts surround what is known as the present drought region

F. J. NASH APPOINTED REEVE GRIZZLY BEAR M.D.

Succeeds Gilbert S. Shane; H. H. Hodgins Elected Councillor

A meeting of the Council of the M. D. of Grizzly Bear was held in the office on Saturday, Nov. 7th. All the councillors present, with Deputy Reeve Nash taking the chair at 11 a. m. Minutes of the previous meeting and financial statement for October were read and on motion adopted. Result of the election in Div. 4—H.H. Hodgins 45 L.L. Kehoe 36. The new member attended the meeting and subscribed to the oath of office. Tax Sale was held at 1 p.m. Eight parcels put up for auction No bids. J. A. Twaddell was appointed Pound-keeper at Vatnesi to fill the post vacated by L. U. Cuzia.

As an amendment to the Municipal District Act requires the annual election of two councillors, instead of three the term being three years instead of two as formerly was the case, it was resolved to extend for another year the term of office of councillors in Divs. 1, 2 and 3. Elections in Divs. 1 and 3 to be held at the end of the regular two year term. P. J. Nash appointed Reeve and P. J. (Carmichael Deputy Reeve. Ten application for relief were received and dealt with. Quit claims to the N. W. 21-58-5 was received from F. Steger. Meeting adjourned 7 p.m.

ISLAND HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves, Campbell Lake, held an at home on Thursday, Nov. 12, in honor of Mrs. Geo. Schofield who is leaving the district with her friends to take up residence in Vermilion. The following guests were present: Mrs. Jim Mead, Mrs. Mc Cann, Mrs. Jim Mead, Mrs. McCann, Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Snyder. Tea was poured by Mrs. Reeves and sincere regrets were expressed by all at the departure of the honored guest. Mr. and Mrs. Schofield and family left for Victoria on Tuesday, Nov. 17th.

There are more blessings come down from Heaven than we ever dream of. Just as the good folks of Vermilion were threatened by a report from another Madrid the Good Creator removed the snow without the aid of a snow plow.

Our local painter and sell were on sale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Brady Thursday and were delightfully entertained to a dainty supper and highly enjoyed the old time music from their splendid radio. We tender our very best thanks to the Brady family for their kindness.

To comply with the wishes of a Clandonald admirer of these notes, we venture to inflict the following on our readers.

A Clandonald Limerick

Clandonald is building a new hall
It will be open shortly with a Grand Ball

The boys whom Chalmers led
Will carry it thro' alive or dead
And some amateur victory as in the days of football

Noticed Wm Telford and Jim Cripps need busy at work on telephone lines during the week and being the first of news appeared Jim and asked him was it a Social Credit govern ment under their control. Well, Jim gave us a hard look that nearly rose us still and we retired from the scene of operations as gracefully as we could

George Field has his new home completed every room being beautifully furnished with the best that money could buy. Messrs Nelson and Ingles are to be congratulated on the building of the house and George really truthfully boast that he possesses one of the best homes in all Alberta

Parties are taking advantage of the good weather to pile up wood and the Mc Lambkins and Hynes saving pupils is very busy. Think they've some some. The poor old buck could tell something about it

Messrs Hill and Hunter Hawkes have purchased a grocery business and the west of Edmonton and we wish them success in their new venture.

A first class comedy and dance is arranged for Friday Dec 11 at the hall. Look out for advertisement in next week's issue

A general meeting will be held at the hall this Sunday at 3 p.m. Every one interested is earnestly requested to attend

R. B. WALTON APPOINTED C.N.R. CHIEF TRANSPORT'N

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—Official announcement was made today by R. J. Hungerford, chairman and president, Canadian National Railways of the appointment of R. B. Walton as Chief of Transportation with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. Walton has been General Superintendent of Transportation, Western Region, with headquarters at Winnipeg, since March 1930, and is well known as a railway operating officer, wide experience, especially on the western region.

Mr. Walton, who was born in Pulteney, Ont., has been active in railroading since 1900 when he started at clerk and stenographer with the Grand Trunk at Toronto. From then until 1907 he served the Grand Trunk Railway in the position of clerk and stenographer; secretary to agent at Tendes, telegraph operator and secretary to vice-president and assistant to manager. In 1907 Mr. Walton transferred to the Great Northern at St. Paul as secretary to the vice president, and later inspector of transportation.

Returning to the Grand Trunk at Toronto in April 1908 he became Assistant Agent. In October of the same year Mr. Walton became secretary to the general superintendent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, at Winnipeg and served subsequently as trainmaster at Wainwright Sta., assistant to general superintendent at Winnipeg and superintendent at Edmonton. In September 1930 Mr. Walton became assistant general superintendent, Canadian National Railways at Prince Rupert, B. C. and transferred to Winnipeg in 1934 as general superintendent, being appointed general superintendent of transportation, western region, in March 1936.

Mr. Hungerford also announced that in future the general manager of the Canadian National steamships will report to R. C. Vaughan, vice-president.

ELTHAM EDITION

"Twas an ow thought—the push of weather reporting in full or bumper. We order felt shoes and warmer hose. Had ourselves hopelessly bankrupted—and along comes a thaw. But cheer up, no doubt by the time the shoes arrive—the trees will be out in green.

The whist drive and dance at Ballinas school last Friday was a very successful event, despite the weather. We hear that an ex-Kitchenite bagged the booby prize keeping up our reputation of course.

It has been said that the path of duty leads but to the grave. Well, sometimes the path is icy, but probably Mr Pallister always does slip duly. Mantully he leaped from his downy couch in the wee small hours silently sound himself, crept out, and with a well-aimed shot dispatched a bossy owl, caught slumbering the barn floor. Pop is much concerned over the slight overdispatch of said owl, for he had killed two twenty pound birds before our rooster arrived.

Noticed around — Mr. McAtee doing daily sick work attendance on a horse owned by Mr. Stuhka; Mr. and Mrs. C. Scott and family visiting in this district last Sunday; Roy Emerland laying plans for a speedy departure for U. C.; several people trying to drown themselves while cleaning out an 8-ft-dia well; Secretary Cusper receiving a demand for steam win dopes at the school. Said demand being cancelled next day. The skating rink—ordinary and skeleton—nuthing with one pair of skates already broke it,—also waiting.

Frost was reported in Argentina early in the week and prices in the Buenos Aires market went up 1½d a bushel. The frost was supposed to have occurred in the southern section of the Republic

N. McClellan Vice-Pres. Hospital Body

CALGARY, Nov. 17.—Default for two years or more in payment of municipal hospital district levies would make any unit in the district liable to be dropped from the list if the wishes of the Alberta Municipal association were carried out.

A resolution asking that the minister of health introduce legislation at the next session of legislature giving a hospital district power so to drop a defaulting unit was passed at the annual convention of the association here on Monday.

Elected to office for the coming year were as follows: Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, honorary president; James McD. Taylor, Hanna, president, re-elected; Norman McClellan, Vermilion, vice-president; G. H. Webber, Drumheller, J. H. Crawford, Penn, and J. F. Hodgkinson, Flat Lake, members of executive.

SUDDEN DEATH OF TOM MOORE, NOV. 11

Will the Act Function?

The people of Alberta are entitled to judge for themselves the usefulness and injustice of The Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act. This is the first of a series of short statements concerning the Act, and its effect on you.

Will the Act function? Be it just or unjust, will it work? There are cases pending in the Courts on which the question of the validity of the Act is raised. Until the decision of the Courts is rendered it is natural that lending companies cannot be expected on the meantime to prejudice their rights. Companies have been and are still prepared regardless of what the decision of the Courts may be to enter upon negotiations and explore all avenues in an effort to arrive at arrangements fair to debtor and creditor a course which was recently followed by companies doing business in the Province of Saskatchewan.

Debtors should thank over their position and the doubtful security the Act might provide, before brushing aside the undertakings they entered into when they obtained their loans. Those who are not debtors should think what their position will be in a community where promises are lightly cast aside. If you cannot trust your neighbor—if your neighbor cannot trust you—what becomes of security and the basis upon which business and all other human relationships rest?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 54 member companies, from practically hundreds of thousands of small investments, by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

(The second statement in this series will be published in two weeks) 1

WEED MANUAL ISSUED BY SEARLE GRAIN CO.

One of the most complete works of its kind ever issued is the new weed manual which the Searle Grain Co. has recently distributed to its elevator agents. The manual was compiled by the department of agriculture of the former UFA govern ment. It consists of 16 illustrations of the most noxious and common weeds of Alberta. The pictures are colored and make the weed shown very lifelike and easy to recognize when seen. The size is 12 by 18 inches. Besides the illustration each page carries a description of the weed plus it is usually found and means of eradication.

This publication will prove of great help to farmers and weed inspectors as well as to farmers and townsmen.

Vermilion Teacher on Executive

C. E. Miller, of Vegreville, was elected new president of the Northern Alberta High School Teachers' association at concluding sessions of the two-day convention in the Macdonald Friday. H. E. Balfour, school inspector, was re-elected honorary president; with Ian Smith of Stirmer, vice-president, Ruth Balasm of Camrose, secretary-treasurer and L. Hergott, of Drew, Stanley Hambly, Fort Saskatchewan, and Miss E. Cupsey of Vermilion as executive members.

Resolution favoring adoption of a teacher pension scheme was passed with the same enthusiasm with which it has been greeted in other years, but another motion declaring proposed elimination of arithmetic from high school curriculum was accorded a more emphatic majority.

Abolition of examinations for grades 10 and 11 was recommended to the department of education in a resolution that was strongly supported. Arrangement of high school options to allow for combination of courses in smaller schools was urged in a supplementary motion.

Amateur Contest At Hazeldine

The Hazeldine Community Hall Committee is staging an Amateur contest on Saturday, December 5th, and Junior (15 years and under), with a first prize of $10.00 and a second of $5.00 in each class.

Prizes are to be favored by a very clever comedian in the person of Mr. Dune Sketchley as Master of Ceremonies. His talent alone, exalting that of Major Bowes, is well worth the price of admission.

If you have talent, take this chance to win fame and fortune. If you can dance, sing, whistle, recite, play an instrument from a tin can to a Jaw harp or perform acrobatic stunts, send your entry in Mrs. G Gardiner, Hazeldine, before December 3. The place, Hazeldine; the time, Dec. 4, 8.30.

CANADA MEMORIAL READY NEXT YEAR

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—I nieste consideration whatever can be made available, it is the intention of the dominion government to have Canada's national war memorial set up in the dominion capital in time for next year's celebration of the Armistice, Premier King said Thursday night.

Engineering or other difficulties may prevent the achievement of this objective, but the government has felt it should be fitting if the war memorial now in London, could be placed in position during the coronation year. The plan proposed is on Canada Hill Place and involves the removal of the present Ottawa post office building.

Canada's war memorial has been practically ready for some years, but removal from London, where it was sculptured, has availed preparation of the site in Ottawa. The memorial executed by the March family of Paris, England, after an open competition for the design, includes a huge archway through which are passing figures symbolic of Canada's outpouring in men, women and materials to assist the Empire in the Great War.

LECTURER DIES IN CAMROSE HOSPITAL

CAMROSE, Nov. 14 - Known throughout the prairies as a lecturer and genologist, Dr. G. W. Alexander, 72, of Seattle, Wash., died at St. Mary's hospital here Thursday evening. He was lecturing at Forestdale when he became ill.

Once a prize-fighter, Dr. Alexander was quite a showman, and in rural districts has for many years been known as a phrenologist, vocational guidance and entertaining lecturer.

Dr. Arxander lectured in Vermilion several times. On the last occasion he caused considerable amusement by picking people from the audience who would make ideal mates.

The Unemployment and Relief Problem

When a writer is thus confronted with apparently unchallengeable figures of unemployment, a conviction that governmental claims in Canada, federal, provincial and municipal have increased in the five-year period from 1930 to 1935 by an amount nearly approximating the debt created during the Great War and existing self-liquidating projects is pressed by a conviction that a tragedy seems substantiating and a situation that warrants a comment that unemployment in the major problem facing the people of the Dominion to-day.

Yet there is no gainsaying the fact that practically all indebtedness incurred by governments in Canada during the last five or six years is the direct result of unemployment and the necessity for providing for the relief of those who were unable to find work for themselves or in the case of the unemployables, those who were insufficient return from their labors to provide them with a living.

Yet the actual facts of affairs was demonstrated recently in a series of articles by the editorial correspondent of a Western daily newspaper the Regina Star, who has visited the Dominion and, including its integral provinces and municipalities together with the C.N.R. and C.P.R. companies, found an aggregate increased by $1,760,346,001 in the five-year period from 1930 to 1935 inclusive, with an increase of $1,912,222 in the last year alone during the five actual consecutive years of the war and the subsequent years of demobilization.

Now, that a relief bill to carry it might not be so bad if the problem were solved after the experience and piling up of indebtedness on account of unemployment and relief were a thing of the past, but unfortunately this is not the case. In some parts of the Dominion despite some improvement in economic conditions, there are still large numbers of unemployed and relief expenditures are still being made on large scale, which means, of course that the burden of debt on this account is still accumulating.

Now this has the problem not yet been solved but the same writer, in another article of the series quotes Dominion Bureau of Statistics data to show that while economists in the early part of the year looked to the seven major industries for a real direct and indirect have only declined 11 per cent below the peak of the depression.

These facts as I figures in economic quote clearly that efforts to solve the problem by all or any governmental units to date have had very little effect and that something more must yet be done if reduction in relief expenditure is to keep pace with the gradual return to normal employment conditions.

One of the measures which might well be adopted in an effort to minimize to some extent the burden which is piling up against present and future generations of taxpayers in a thorough investigation to determine the extent to which relief recipients have been and are abusing direct relief, and by weeding out all those who are racketeering by refusing to take advantage of opportunity to work when they have a chance to do so for reasonable remuneration or who deliberately misrepresent earnings or in any other manner secure public assistance to which they are not entitled, wholly or in part.

This should be done not only in the interests of those who are self-supporting and are called upon to assist in supporting others but in the interests of the unemployed and relief recipients themselves, for the minority who are evading their responsibilities are a millstone around the necks of the great majority of deserving relief recipients.

Sufficient evidence appears in the press from time to time in all parts of the country to support the statement that a percentage of relief recipients are guilty of abuse and imposition to play cricket. For example it was recently reported that Hon Mr Croll sent investigators into a small town in Ontario to find that 22 relief recipients were driving their own automobiles. In other parts of the country appear reports of physically-able men refusing to work and of abuses in other forms.

Read the Toronto Mail and Empire recently: "The public authorities must increase their efforts to crush out the won't-works from the ranks of those on relief, though those who cannot yet find work must continue to be furnished with food, clothing and shelter until they become self-supporting."

This is working out of the machinery, however, will not wholly solve the problem by any means. There are still far too many unemployed, in fact the great majority on relief, who are willing and anxious to work if they could only get it. The only permanent and effective cure for the unemployment problem is the absorption of all who are able to work by industry. If the new federal unemployment commission can achieve this they will earn the gratitude of the entire nation and not only of the self-supporting taxpayers but the majority of those who are still unfortunate enough to need state aid.

Using Ultraviolet Rays

New Electrical Device to Aid To Butcher And Baker

That ultraviolet rays kill small organisms like bacteria and algae is one of those things which was discovered in the laboratory as a fact of pure science and is now being adapted to practical applications. An article in the Electric Journal, abstracted in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, shows that ultra-violet "bacteria guns" are finding their way into industry.

These publications had kind words to say of the "Sterilamp," a Westinghouse product. A series of long, narrow tubes shedding their garish blue light on meat in a butcher's showcase foils bacterial attack so successfully that only moderate refrigeration is necessary. Most packers who "tender" their meats by hanging or aging following enzymes to break down the tough fibres now find it safe to speed up the tendering process by using warmer temperatures under violet-day protection. Bakers who irradiate bread and cake products report that moldiness increases the saleable life of the product by several days

Newspapers Kept Going

Depression Hit Them Hard But Standards Maintained

It is no secret among newspapermen that the depression has hit the newspapers hard. Services were maintained but the usual increase while revenues were falling and, too, often revenues built up during prosperous years had to be seriously depleted to meet expenditures. Probably in no other business were wages interfered with so little. In many instances, too, it has been investments outside the newspaper business which have helped to keep newspapers going.

There is to-day among newspapermen a feeling of optimism. Canada is once again on the upgrade and while the past few months there undoubtedly will be a decided improvement in business. This will be reflected in many directions, and the hope will be that it will result in a decided increase in employment.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Germany Warns Merchants

Must Not Raise Prices If Food Supplies Are Short

What is described as a "last warning" to German merchants not to allow the prices of foodstuffs to rise was issued recently by the German price president, Herr Heilhorf.

The measures are to stop prices rising during a "temporary shortage of supplies."

The police president's announcement says:

"Anyone closed down for good a shop at 43 Petersburgerstrasse, belonging to Philip Greif, who has been repeatedly fined for selling goods at excessive prices, and have had him taken into protective custody.

"Anyone who thinks he can take advantage of the shortage of supplies by unjust price manipulation must expect to be treated as a public enemy, and will be treated as such."

The governor of Baden has issued a similar warning in his district.

Has Lice As Bodyguard

Animal Accompanies Swami Even On His Recital Visits

When Swami Krishnanandji, of Jogeshwari, near Bombay, went to pay his respects to the new Viceroy of India, he took his lice with him.

A stream of children, messengers, and native servants followed the swami into the reception room as he was his pet on one side and a dog on the other. The man and beast were well received, especially by Lord Linlithgow's family, and the party were shown all the sights, including the changing of the Guard. The lice might need much military protection; for a simple soul like himself a louse was a louse. Wherever the swami goes the lice go with him. In train or omnibus it sits beside him, while other passengers move to other seats.

Reminders Of Old R.N.W.M.P. Post In 1878

Three interesting relics, a desk, a flag pole, and a flag, at Wood Mountain, Sask., are reminders of the establishment of old post of R.N.W.-M.P. in 1878.

The desk, grown gray with age, for it was the first one brought west by the Mounted Police in a Red River cart for the post at Wood Mountain, is now in the home of F. J. Moore in the new hamlet of Wood Mountain

This old oak desk and filing case is much similar to the desks of to-day with two drawers on each side of the cubby where the foot rest. There are 20 names for files, and during the half century or more that it has been in use, it has held some —pulled pamphlets, letters, reports, tabloids, orange pulp

The old flag pole from which flies the Union Jack at the new post, is the same one which was there 50 years ago, and is just as good as the day it was first erected. The original flag flown from that pole is also in the possession of the mounted police. It is too "tattered and torn" to be flown now, but forms a memento of those hectic days, that will always bring to mind some of the stirring times in the north country when the mounted force was "law and order."

Another institution at Wood Mountain is the annual round-up and rodeo. For 58 years this annual event of the south has been staged without failing once to attract thousands. Lethbridge, not to be great gathering every year in the part played by the Indians of the Wood Mountain reserve, who added much attended the first rodeo held there.

At times during the Indian booby dances, the Indians would shoot off guns in the detachment of the mounted police at Wood Mountain. Now there are two, but in the early days there were only two.

So when Major Herbert Munter had to make a forced landing in a field in search support from the chief of his private airplane with his moncle firmly fixed in his monstened place in his eye.

For Promoting Peace

Pan-Pacific Women's Association To Hold Conference

The Pan-Pacific Women's Association, by vote of member countries bordering on the Pacific ocean, will hold its triennial conference in Vancouver, July 12-24 next, it was announced. The dates are tentative. Since the 1934 Honolulu conference the association has taken for its objective, "practical ways and means of promoting peace and understanding among the women of Pacific countries."

To further this they have taken for study topics relating to the subject. The topics include, "Youth Movements for Peace," directed by Dame Rachel Crowdy, London; "Traffic In Arms," by Dame Rachel Crowdy, London; "Techniques For Public Opinion," Emily Newell Blair, Washington; "Labor Standards and Standards for Living," Mrs. Monterey, Philadelphia; "Population Pressure," Mrs. Marie Hasing, Honolulu, formerly of New Zealand.

Miss Mary L. Bollert, Dean of women at the University of British Columbia, is chairman of the Canadian section. The National Council of Women will hold its annual convention in Vancouver early in July and it is expected several leaders in that organization will stay over for the Pan-Pacific conference.

SELECTED RECIPES

THREE-FRUIT CAKE

½ cup butter
1 cup fine granulated sugar
3 eggs
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Magic Baking Powder
4 tablespoons crushed bananas
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
—pulped pineapple
4 tablespoons orange pulp
1 cup seedless raisins, put through chopper
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter thoroughly, gradually adding sugar; add beaten eggs and continue beating until the mixture is very light. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift together twice. Add ¼ cup ingredients to butter mixture, then the fruit, then remaining dry ingredients and milk alternately. Add vanilla. Turn into greased and floured square or two-layer pans. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes.

British Citizenship

Hon. Wesley Gordon Explains What It Means To World

During his recent visit to this part of the country, we asked the Hon. Wesley Gordon what was a good point to make in order to explain just what it means to be a British subject. He replied, "Why, the British Empire means, what value it had, as far as the rest of the world was concerned.

"Go into one of the Balkan states," he said, "and tell them you're a Canadian, and they will look at you with surprise, puzzlement and distrust, produce your British passport."

The point Mr. Gordon was making was that while we of the British family of nations don't always think so much of each other or of "the old lady," the rest of the world has a great and deep respect for that alliance.—North Bay Nugget.

Sold For Begging Purposes

Blind Children In China Used By Wealthy Merchants

China was described to the board of trade club in Toronto as a land where four-five and six-year-old children were forced to work 16 hours a day in filthy small rooms lit by candle light.

The speaker, Captain R. G. Cavell, general manager of Canadian Telephones and Supplies, Limited, and a former resident of China, told of seeing some of these children go blind at the age of 12, after which they were sold to wealthy Chinese merchants who made a profession out of purchasing human wrecks for begging purposes.

Zeppelins Seldom Catch Other

Germany's silvery air giants met over the South Atlantic beneath a bright moon passing so close that passengers on the zeppelins Hindenburg and Graf greeted each other. The Syndicate Condor said that the meeting, reported by radio by the Graf's commander, occurred 200 miles west of the Cape Verde Islands.

Late Sir Edgar Britten Was Called Knight Of The Atlantic

They called Sir Edgar T. Britten "The Knight of the Atlantic" after he was knighted in the New Year's honors of 1934; and the sobriquet was apt. In his 49 years at sea, he commanded seventeen Cunard liners. The last of these was the Queen Mary. The "Knight of the Atlantic" was on the bridge when the Queen Mary first put out to sea, and he was there when she made the blue ribbon crossing which confirmed her title as queen of the Atlantic.

Two hours before the Queen Mary was due to sail from Southampton, Sir Edgar suffered a stroke in his cabin. He was taken ashore where he died.

Through all the honors which came to him in the height of the era remained a simple sailor. When the late King George V., conferred the knighthood on him, Sir Edgar said, "The honor belongs not to me but to the merchant marine generally." On the Queen Mary's arrival in New York after her first voyage, a ship news reporter whom he knew greeted the commodore as "Sir Edgar" and received the caustic reply: "Sir Edgar be damned! It's Britten to you."

When Sir Edgar saw the Queen Mary for the first time at Clydebank, where she was built, he merely remarked, "That is a pretty nice ship." After her first voyage, he became keen reserved in comment and conceded that the Queen Mary "behaved herself as a lady." When the Cunard-White Star line officials were blandly denying any ambitions to set speed records, Sir Edgar bluntly declared "Win the blue ribbon that is what we built her for. And we will do it soon."

TWO DESTROYERS TO BE PURCHASED BY DOMINION

Ottawa.—The Dominion government is purchasing from Great Britain two modern destroyers, built in 1931, to replace the "Champlain" and "Vancouver," which have become practically obsolete and are due for scrapping at the end of the year. Minister Mackenzie King made the announcement.

The new destroyers are to be practically identical with the Saguenay and Skeena, which are a part of Canada's naval defence and which were also completed in 1931. Cost and further particulars of the new craft will be announced when parliament is asked to vote the necessary appropriation.

Any further announcement with respect to defence policies, the prime minister said, would be made to parliament by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie. Date of parliament's opening is the end of May, and it is the intention of the government to assemble as early as may be possible in January.

Following is the official statement in which purchase of the new destroyers was announced:

The destroyers Champlain and Vancouver, which were borrowed from the British Admiralty in 1931 and have since been maintained by Canada as a part of the Canadian naval service, have become practically obsolete and under treaty provisions are due for scrapping by the end of this year. The question of their replacement the government has given careful consideration since taking office.

Following negotiations carried on since that time, an arrangement has recently been concluded under which Canada will purchase from the British government two modern destroyers which were completed in 1931. When the necessary formalities have been carried out, the new ships, like the ones being replaced, will be manned by Canadian crews. It is expected that they will be taken over in the early part of 1937.

Factors of time and economy have rendered this course preferable to the alternative of ordering new construction. The new ships are similar are almost identical, in size and equipment, with the Canadian destroyers Saguenay and Skeena, which also were completed in 1931 and which the Canadian naval staff considder to be efficient and suited to the needs of the service.

Upon taking over the new ships Canada will have homogeneous unit of torpedo craft of the most modern type.

It is anticipated, the prime minister said, that the new destroyers will be given the names of those they will replace. Once the transfer is made the ships will be commissioned by Canadian officers and crews as was the case with those destroyers previously transferred to the Canadian navy.

Great Britain Plans To Make Gas Masks For Civilians

London Great Britain "very shortly" will issue gas masks free to civilians at a rate of 2,000,000 monthly, Geoffrey Lloyd, under-secretary of the Home office, told the House of Commons

Under questions by members of parliament, Lloyd revealed: "Substantial stocks of component parts of civilian respirators have already been prepared and it is the intention to be on large scale assembly by March."

The masks he said will be issued free "in event of an emergency."

Newspapers As A Guide

Should Not Allow Its News Columns To Be Colored By Bias

Toronto.—When business leaders lead to "pin their faith to radio" it is important that they realize the principles governing all self-respecting newspapers and importance of those papers in providing guidance through their editorial columns when institutions are crumbling, John Bassett, vice-president of the Montreal Gazette, said here.

Real function of a newspaper lies in its independence in applaud government when the government does right and to criticize government when it does wrong, Mr. Bassett said in a speech at the dinner of the Canadian automobile chamber of commerce.

"Newspapers have changed in three particulars during the years and these changes are recognized. The first is that to-day will allow its news columns to be colored by bias.

"The second change is the importance of its editorial columns. It has been said that as ear-leadings go this importance of editorial columns goes up. To-day with institutions crumbling and the people looking for reasons, it comes from those columns. No forum for the discussion of truth is so strong to the people as news items in a free people. That is no myth; it is as important as the air we breathe. It is the blaming power we wear.

"The third great change is in the tendency to break away from slavish adherence to political parties. Newspapers exist to-day as self-supporting institutions, controlled by men who have a vital stake in the community."

British Defences

Will Use Balloons To Trap Attacking Enemy Planes

London. Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, told the House of Commons Great Britain's munitions output would be extended in 1937 and continued until the end of the rearming scale for the empire's defence

Sir Thomas spoke for the government in the first debate of the new session of parliament on the vital defence issue.

"Another war," he asserted, "is not inevitable if we take the proper measures."

He disclosed that orders had been given for "new and powerful guns" required for aerial defence, and added that defence plans were being made "for every contingency."

An extensive "balloon barrage," mostly manned by civilians supervised between balloons to trap attacking enemy planes, would be necessary for the defence of London, Sir Thomas said.

He also disclosed that more than 2,000 pilots have been accepted for training since the beginning of British rearmament a year ago last May, out of 12,000 applicants.

Twenty thousand men, he said, have enlisted in the ground forces.

"We believe the capacity, speed and range of our new types of aircraft is not inferior to any existing aboard," asserted Sir Thomas

Canada has been largely strengthened both in equipment and personnel

Liner Battles Wild Storm

Several Passengers On R.M.S. Queen Mary Were Injured

Southampton. The giant liner Queen Mary docked at Southmpton after successfully riding out a wild Atlantic storm which brought injuries to a number of her passengers

Frank Godin, 73, residing near Montreal, Canada, was shot 30 feet across one of the ship's rooms as she rolled in mountainous seas lashed up by the gale and hurricane winds. He was taken to a hospital here when the Queen Mary docked and died from injuries received. Other passengers suffered minor injuries

Capt. R. V. Peel, his face drawn with fatigue after being on the bridge for almost 60 hours without interruption, said "I've never seen such a storm, lasting so long"

Describing the Queen Mary's efforts to rescue the Hamburg-American freighter Isis, which sank in the storm, Capt. Peel said "We circled round three hours. We saw a hatch, pieces of wood, and a ship's boat floating on the water Although we circled around three times we saw no human beings."

BRITAIN DECLARES POLICY TOWARDS SPAIN UNCHANGED

London. Great Britain is considering no change in its non-intervention policy toward Spain and has received no information France contemplates such action, Premier Anthony Eden told the House of Commons. Eden was reminded by Frederick Cocks, Labor, that Premier Blum declared France would be ready to lift its embargo on arms shipments to Spain in the event such action was also taken by Britain. The foreign secretary was asked "whether he was considering taking an unconcerted action."

Eden replied: "The honorable member will recall that in course of the debate on Oct. 30 I quoted the agreement which the French representative on the international committee on non-intervention proposed. This agreement is without qualification and would take all possible steps toward securing effective application of the agreement for adoption whereof they had taken the initiative in the interests of European peace. They would therefore examine any practical scheme of control that might be submitted and would participate in any measure that might be accepted by all participating governments"

His Majesty's government have received no communication, official or otherwise, to suggest the French government has modified the attitude set forth in this statement"

Urges Milita For Canada

National Defence Official Says Defination Must Be Prepared

Ottawa. Canada must be prepared to take her place, whatever that place may be, if the call comes, Major-General E. C. Ashton, chief of the general staff, department of national defence, said at an Armistice dinner here.

"We have our job to do," he said. "We academics have nothing to do with policy That is a matter for the Canadian government and will be settled by the government should any difficulties arise. I have no inkling of what this policy may be

"But just the army of Canada was made out of the non-permanent militia, trained before the war, who were ready to take the new guns and train them, but as the C.E.F. was made out of the militia, so must the future force be formed."

Major-General Ashton said Great Britain was arming now but it would take a year and a half or perhaps two years to get into the desired shape.

SAYS ISOLATION IS SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY TO ADOPT

Ottawa Isolation is a short-sighted policy for Canada and the days when isolation was a practical policy have gone, Air Marshal W A Bishop, V.C. told guests at an Armistice Day dinner of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League here

One of the most noted Canadian airmen in the last war Air Force Marshal Bishop warned his comrades in arms the Canadian people might soon be called upon to make sacrifices for freedom, the most precious heritage of the British race

"There is a school of thought in this Dominion, he said, which, taking refuge under the wings of the Mother Country, says that Canada will never be attacked by a foreign power while the United States are on this continent. It is true we are overseas because we love the American continent. It is also true we are Canadians because we are British citizens But it is also true by all participating governments"

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, official of the British government has modified the attitude set forth in this statement"

ACQUIT RUSSIA OF CHARGES OF AIDING MADRID

London. The international non-intervention committee acquitted Russia of three Italian charges she had aided the Madrid government after a bitter denunciation of Russia by Dino Grandi Italian ambassador to London

The committee decided three of the allegations by Italy against Russia had not been substantiated and adjourned, to await receipt of further information from Russia regarding a fourth Italian allegation

Proceedings at the committee, which earlier had approved a plan to send neutral observers to the principal Spanish ports to guard against an inflow of arms, were disclosed in a communique

Grandi launched into a general denunciation of Russian after Russian representatives had denied the charges levied against their country.

The Italian ambassador declared Italy accepted the challenge of a Communist threat in Europe

Russia never here assumes its recent disguise as a democratic lamb . . . and endeavors to whitewash the black spots of the Communist revolution," Grandi stated.

Referring to the Spanish government fight from Madrid the Italian delegate stated

Thus evils amidst fire and blood, the greatest attempt ever made by Bolshevik Russia to export their creed, through force and famine, beyond their frontiers

The Soviet representative has defined it as a creed of peace but the facts deny him. It is a creed based on hatred and civil strife. It is the creed of war

Stalin itself was the father of the U.S.S.R. to render every assistance within their power to the Spanish government and to foster Communist ascendancy in Spain from Russia's point of view

He (Grandi) throws himself into the fray with a whoop reminiscent of the Abyssinian battlecry in those tales which no doubt all of us read when we were young," Kagno said.

What to-day we have to listen to the Italian representative piping a tune which Berlin has composed, Kagan continued then though we may condone with Rome on every . . . but we condole with Rome on yielding her independence of approach in international matters, in considering her former sane attitude to the U.S.S.R. at the clamor of Berlin"

Wealth of nations

Experience of the United States in the last war proved the impossibility of isolation

Canada would be a strategic point for the invasion of the United States by a foreign power," the speaker went on. "But a Canada able to protect herself and repel such an invasion would be an invaluable ally to the United States.

I am reminded that this country, due to its diverse population has been rent in twain during several elections in the last 10 years over the policy of participation in empire

8,700,000 Men Are Now Permanently Under Arms Throughout The

The League of Nations announced that 8,700,000 men are permanently under arms throughout the world. Of the total, 2,500,000 are in Europe.

The league consolidated these men with the statement that the world is not free from the outbreak of the threat of a general war but is counting on peace today.

The figures show that since 1931-32 world armies have increased by 32 per cent. In Europe total armed forces have risen 6,800,000 compared with 5,000,000 in 1931-32 the league said.

TRAGIC ACCIDENT NEAR KITSCOTY

Ainley Waddell of Lloydminster, and well known locally, was instantly killed on Monday evening about 5 o'clock when the car in which he was riding ran off the highway, along the ditch and into a telephone pole. He was accompanying J. A. McBride to Vermilion at the time of the accident. Two other men, C. Cowsbees and H. E. Chapman were with them but escaped with minor injuries. The fatality occurred just east of Kitscoty. Mr. Waddell leaves his wife and baby. Miss Vera Winters to mourn his loss.

An inquest was held at Lloydminster on Tuesday and a visit made to the scene of the accident after which the inquiry adjourned until again called by the Coroner.

Purchase of Snow Plow Is Deferred

At a special meeting of the snow plow committee of the Board of Trade held on Monday afternoon it was decided to defer the purchase of the snow plow for the time being, until some definite arrangements could be made with the various municipalities to aid in financing the operation of the plow. It was felt by the committee that shouldering the cost of the plow was enough to ask of the business men of the town, and that the costs of operation should be borne by others who would also find the use of the plow beneficial to them. More than sufficient funds have been subscribed by Vermilion business men to purchase the plow outright and this will still be done if a guarantee of help in connection with the operating expenses was forthcoming from other sources.

The car was a total wreck. The driver and owner of the car was Stanley Bates and companions were Robert Emmett McLaughlin, Borden McLaughlin and David Potter. The latter was sitting in the front seat with the driver while the deceased and the three others were in the back seat. The occupants of Mr. Hurnine's car were uninjured beyond a severe shaking up. The car had the left front tire torn off, the front bumper and the axle bent back. As a result of the collision this car veered across the opposite side of the road and was brought to a stop at the extreme side. In the car were Mr and Mrs. Hurnine and two children and six neighbors Wm Flaw and sons.

The accident occurred at the top of a small hill where the contour of the highway prevents anyone seeing the other until within 150 feet. Both cars had been driving at reasonable rates of speed and the impact of the head on collision appearance of throwing cars as these had apparently startled those who continued in the autos. Lewis was over the top of the car and caught the wheel of the oncoming car with his arm. This makes the fourth fatal accident at this spot on the highway.

Mannville Man Dies After Car Crash

Dan Hubbard Victim of Accident on Highway Near Vermilion

Dan Hubbard of Mannville aged 52 years, died in hospital there 24 hours after being injured in a car crash which occurred 6½ miles west of Vermilion at about 10.30 Friday night.

Hubbard, and five companions of about the same age were on their way to Vermilion to attend the V. S. A. opening dance. At a point 6½ miles West of town, the car, an old light touring model, had collided partially head on with another car, driven by F. N. Harding of Claymore. As a result of this impact the car in which Hubbard was riding turned over on the highway, inflicting fatal injuries to him and numerous cuts, bumps and bruises to the other occupants. The car was a total wreck. The driver and owner of the car was Stanley Bates and companions were Robert Emmett McLaughlin, Borden McLaughlin and David Potter. The latter was sitting in the front seat with the driver while the deceased and the three others were in the back seat. The occupants of Mr. Hurnine's car were uninjured beyond a severe shaking up. The car had the left front tire torn off, the front bumper and the axle bent back. As a result of the collision this car veered across the opposite side of the road and was brought to a stop at the extreme side. In the car were Mr and Mrs. Hurnine and two children and six neighbors Wm Flaw and sons.

The accident occurred at the top of a small hill where the contour of the highway prevents anyone seeing the other until within 150 feet. Free Trial of Vick Products For Better Control of Colds Offered by Local Druggists

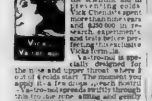
Free Packages Contain Trial Size Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub, with Details of Plan that Cut Sickness from Colds in Half in Clinic Tests

In your own home this winter, wouldn't you like to see sickness from colds cut more than half? That was but one of the results averaged by thousands of people in clinic tests of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds, a practical home guide to greater freedom from colds.

The free trial packages now offered by your druggist introduce both of the products that make the Plan work—Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub.



To Help Prevent Many Colds

Vicks Va-tro-nol is the time-saving, extra-quick way to use the time-proved nose-spraying method. It is the Va-tro-nol spray that makes so many colds needless. It relieves stuffiness, clears clogging mucus, makes every breath cool and cool again.

You find Va-tro-nol wonderfully easy and pleasant to use, at home and at work.

To Help End a Cold Quicker

When a cold strikes either, warming or get by even the best precautions—as some colds always will—Vicks VapoRub helps end it quicker.

You simply massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back for three minutes. Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief. Two ways at once! It acts through the skin like a warming poultice; and at the same time, its medicinal vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours, about 18 times a minute direct to the irritated air-passages.

Cough Drops Now, Too

For the throat that is dry and tickly, be sure to get Vicks Cough Drops—Vicks Medicated Cough Lozenges—smooth-tasting drops with the same VapoRub in pleasant candy form—provide quick, convenient relief.

Get Your Free Package Today

Don't forget—your druggist has a free package or packages of Vicks medicine for you. Details of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—which can save you from one-half to two-thirds of your colds this winter—are in the packages. Or if your druggist may be low on supply, write to Vicks, Dept. 2-AS, Greensboro, N. C., for free Plan booklet.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS WIPE OUT TUBERCULOSIS

By ameeting life efforts in its fight against tuberculosis the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League has succeeded in reducing the death rate from this disease by one-half of what it was fifteen years ago, and by this great achievement the province now has the distinction of having the lowest death rate of any state or province in the world.

Yet despite the encouraging progress that has been made Tuberculosis is still one of the most serious disease problems we have to face. Every third death in the age period between 15 and 45 years from acute infectious disease is due to Tuberculosis.

Therefore there must be no letup in the fight against tuberculosis. Every citizen can do his or her part by buying Christmas Seals.

Educational work and preventive work are very important factors in this never-ending campaign. The money raised by the sale of Christmas Seals is used exclusively for these purposes and made possible the examination of 54,573 persons in the past eight years. Last year 14,468 persons were examined.

The cost of caring for the 750 patients in the three Sanatoria of the province is met by taxation.

Funds for educational and preventive work are provided by voluntary contributions.

Early diagnosis of suspected cases is of vital importance. Clinics are held monthly at seven points in the province where free examination is available to all. Last year the proportion of early cases admitted to the Sanatoria was 43 per cent. compared with ten per cent fifteen years ago. The education of the public as to the symptoms and dangers of Tuberculosis has brought about this result.

The majority of cases discovered in the early stages of the disease recover; their stay in the sanatorium is shorter, and the cost to themselves and the taxpayer correspondingly reduced.

People must learn that Tuberculosis in the early stages is just as curable as pneumonia. In the later stages it is one of the most serious diseases there are. The public must be made intelligently Tuberculosis-conscious. The public must know something about the symptoms. First loss of strength, loss of weight fever and later a cough and other more serious symptoms.

Because people know more about the symptoms of Appendicitis today than they did fifteen years ago the infection rate among children and young adults has been reduced to one-quarter of what it was then. The same apprehension which Tuberculosis once inspired has largely diminished, because people today know that it is not hereditary, and that if discovered and treated in the early stages, it is 99 per cent. curable.

Four thousand people are living in Saskatchewan today who have been treated in our Sanatoria, and two-thirds of these have returned to their usual occupations.

What more convincing argument than this could be advanced for support of the Christmas Seal Sale in order that the necessary and preventive work may be continued and extended? We can, if we will, make Tuberculosis a comparatively rare disease.

One spot in which everyone may play a part at this season of the year is to buy and use Christmas Seals. The money you spend on such seals is used to strengthen the forces which surround you and yours against a most real and powerful enemy. To some extent you a parliament in the Saskatchewan, lining you up with forces of health and happiness against disease and misery.

director of medical services and general superintendent of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League. He has been connected with the League since 1917, and is recognized as a world authority on Tuberculosis. Success in the war's distinction of having the lowest Tuberculosis death rate in the world is attributed by Dr. Ferguson to the progressive policy of the Board of Directors of the League and the efficient and loyal co-operation of the staff of the three sanatoria.

Nipigon Map Shot

Lake Nipigon The Mecca For Anglers From All Over The Continent

The greater part of the Lake Nipigon district of "muskie-tailed"—rod-trout fame, is shown on a new Department of the Interior map which covers the southern part of Lake Nipigon, and includes the Nipigon, Black Sturgeon, and Jackfish River areas, also an extensive network of lakes, rivers, and streams to the west of Lake Nipigon.

The mapped region is part of an undeveloped area and has only the small portion comprised in six township subdivided into farms. Located north of Port Arthur and Fort William, it is an ideal sportsmen's country reached by the Canadian National Railways' line between Port Arthur and Longlac, with Orient Bay as the chief starting point, and by the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental line through Nipigon on Lake Superior. A section of the Trans-Canada Highway is shown on the map as under construction. It skirts the southeastern part of the district and when completed will make this country accessible by automobile. A provincial highway from Port Arthur and Fort William already extends to the village of Nipigon, and to Cameron Falls.

To anglers all over the continent the word "Nipigon" suggests trout, for the district holds the world's record, with specimens weighing 13½ pounds, while four-pound to six-pound fish are quite common. Both railway systems award trophies each year for "trout of the month" from Nipigon waters. In Lake Nipigon, and in Black Sturgeon, Nipigon, and adjacent streams are found brook trout, white-fish, pickerel, and pike are also plentiful.

The region is a big game country in which moose and deer are plentiful, but hunting is prohibited within the provincial game preserve to the east of the lake. To tourists other than sportsmen, the area holds many attractive scenic spots, at points on Lake Nipigon the shore-line rises to magnificent heights, while the long arms of the lake afford many secluded sandy beaches are of interest to the canoeist or motor-boat enthusiast Many of the streams are placid, but others are quite turbulent.

There are deposits of chromite about Chromet Lake near the northern edge of the area shown in the map. Other localities where prospecting or mining operations are in progress include the Garden Lake district west of Lake Nipigon and that area to the east which lies between Lake Nipigon and Longlac

Lake Nipigon, 65 miles long and 40 miles wide, with numerous islands, some large and some small, is surrounded on three sides by the Nipigon Forest Reserve and on the east side by the Nipigon-Onaman Crown Game Preserve. It has a shore-line of approximately 800 miles and with the 1,500 square miles in the largest lake wholly within Ontario It drains into Lake Superior by Nipigon river on which hydro-electric power is developed at Cameron Falls and Alexander power stations

The Nipigon map may be obtained in the regular map sheet form at 25 cents. A pocket-sized folder edition containing an index to the names on the map may be procured for 25 cents, and copies backed with linen for extensive use are available at 50 cents. Applications should be addressed to the Surveyor General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or copies may be obtained at many of the leading bookstores in the cities and towns of Ontario.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD

Golden text: There can be neither Jew nor Greek . . . for ye all are one man in Christ Jesus. Galatians 3:28.

Lesson: Philemon.

Devotional reading: Ephesians 3: 14-21.

Explanation And Comments

The Salutation of the Letter, verses 1-3. Paul writes that Timothy is also with him, "a prisoner of Christ Jesus," in behalf of Philemon, a wealthy Christian brother beloved fellow-worker, and to Apphia and Archippus, Philemon's wife and son, and to the church that meets in their house. Grace and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ."

Gratitude for Philemon's Faith and Love and Service, verses 4-7. Philemon was a man much to be distinguished by his gifts to charity. He was unique in that the gospel, and his house was the meeting-place of a group of Colossian Christians.

Intercession for Onesimus, verses 8-21. "Wherefore," says Paul, he has proved himself good in so many particulars, especially in his love and care for the followers of Christ, as Paul has just written, Paul will exercise his right to command him to do his goodness, that he will forgive Onesimus and welcome him kindly on his return.

Paul insisted that in Christ there could not be bound and free; and so he did away, at least between Christians, with the servile relation of property to owner. In the personal contacts of employer and employed, sincere Christians have found it possible to embody the Spirit of Christ in both positions. They have lived together in these relations in mutual respect, confidence and affection. Among us the Christian employer feels justified in asking for an attitude of deferential servility that is recognized as both un-American and un-Christian." Henry Sloane Coffin).

If, then, you are a servant, or employer, receive him as you would me, Paul says. The putting of himself and knocking at Philemon's door. What rejoicings there would be through the whole household, alike in master and slaves! What others in all hearts on all faces! Just such a welcome he asks for the long-delayed servant that has come back to the fold. His request is not only for pardon and forgiveness, but also for the welcome of a brother in Christ. "Receive him as myself."

If he has wronged you, or owes you anything, charge it to me. I solemnly promise that I will repay it. And I do not remind you that you owe me your very self your life in Christ. A plea so tender he pleads in the Lord because of him, refresh my heart in Christ. I write this to you because I have had faith in you and know that you will do even more than I have requested.

We do not know what was the result of this plea for Onesimus, but we think Philemon could do no less than forgive him, receive him kindly, and send him back laden with gifts by Paul to remain with him and serve him.

Operated By Radio

Typewriters For Use On Air Liners Have Been Perfected

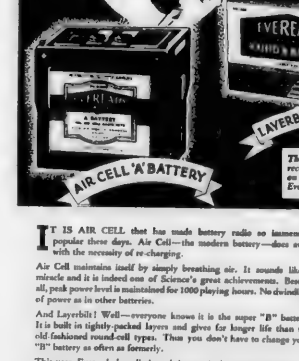
Typewriters operated solely by radio impulses have been perfected and will soon be in operation on airlines, according to Daniel C. Roper, U.S. secretary of commerce.

The machines will enable pilots to have up-to-the-minute weather reports and enable passengers to have the latest market and news reviews while in the air.

The new radio typewriters perfected by the air commerce bureau technicians and private manufacturers are capable of 60 words a minute

The Washington-Nashville airway will be the first line to have the new machines in operation The government will finance the installation making the machines available only to pilots for weather reports

The largest sum of "conscience money" ever received by the British treasury $50,000, has been acknowledged by the board of inland revenue.



The quality of radio reception largely depends on your battery. Ask for Eveready — and be sure!

IT IS AIR CELL that has made battery radio so immensely popular these days. Air Cell—the modern battery—does away with the necessity of re-charging.

Air Cell maintains itself by simply breathing air. It sounds like a miracle and it is indeed one of Science's great achievements. Best of all, peak power level is maintained for 1000 playing hours. No dwindling of power as in other batteries.

And Layerbilt! Well—everyone knows it is the super "B" battery. It is built in tightly-packed layers and gives for longer life than the old-fashioned round-cell types. Thus you don't have to change your "B" battery as often as formerly.

This year, Eveready has eliminated the terminal posts and given you one socket—this means only one connection for each "B" battery.

For perfect team work—Air Cell plus Layerbilt.

Thou Shalt Not Love

There came the sound of subdued gasps from those nearest. The shuffle of feet stopped on the instant. Starr and Michael, too, were stricken as still as though turned to stone, their arms about each other ready to swing into the dance. In the momentary hush it seemed that everyone else stood still, too, listening. But Stephanie Dale was neither hushed nor silent In a dramatic, bitter moment she was hurling names at Starr The kind of names of which only a jealous woman can think.

The whole gay party, their dancing feet stopped for the moment, stood aghast. Almost anything went in their mad set but not sex-ua like this.

Stephanie was too angry to care. She had a great deal stored up to say and she was saying it all. Michael's face went from dark red to white as he was pleading in his eyes as he said:

"Stephanie, please!"

She flared out at him, then "I won't, being me! Why should I? I'm beginning to doubt whether your interest in this 'Tiny-girl'—she made the name out of anything she had in her—is purely professional, as you insist! How do I know you haven't been here before, in connection with half a dozen other men about town? Probably half the men in this country. But you can't flaunt her in my face! If you dance with her, Michael, everything is finished between you and me!"

It was a merciless ultimatum. At Stephanie's savage onslaught Starr felt all the life suddenly drained from her body. Now, unaccountably, her greatest resentment was for Michael. Even though why should she care? He deserved well, almost anything but surely not this public embarrassment. As she recovered herself slightly she turned to look at Michael

He saw the battle he was waging with himself. He could not afford a quarrel with the girl he wanted to marry to whom it was generally accepted that he was engaged, and yet how could he help it? Why should it be taken that in a little storm it's

PAINS ALL OVER HIS BODY

Kruschen Made Him Feel a New Man

Read the experience of this man who had rheumatism so badly that at times he was prevented from working:—

"About 10 months ago," he writes, "I suffered terribly with rheumatism and neuritis. The pains were all over my body and some days I could not even get up from bed to go to work. A friend visited me and suggested that I should try Kruschen Salts I did so—the result being that the pains seemed to gradually disappear I have been going to work ever since without a break thanks to Kruschen Salts and I feel a new man" A.H.

His unusual conditions are frequently the result of an excess of uric acid in the body Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid crystals. The other ingredients assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

Conquest Of The North

In Canada We Are Unlocking The Treasure Houses Of Nature

Canada's treasure houses of Nature have yielded rich returns in the development of hundreds of new industries and the expansion of many of the old ones during the past year, according to the annual report of the Minister of Mines, Hon. T. A. Crerar, which has been tabled in the House of Commons.

Mr. Crerar's report is a comprehensive survey of the mineral resources of the Dominion, and of the progress made in the development of the mining industry during the year. It is a story of the conquest of the North, of the unlocking of the treasure houses of Nature, of the opening up of new areas, of the building of roads and railways, of the establishment of new industries, of the expansion of old ones, of the increase in the number of workers employed, of the growth of population, of the increase in the value of the products of the mines, of the increase in the value of the products of the mines, of the increase in the value of the products of the mines

As a Life Insurance Policyholder

Government Bonds First Mortgages Municipal Bonds
Industrial Securities Public Utility Bonds

YOUR savings in Life Insurance—which help to form the Assets of the company in which you are insured—not only protect you and your family but also make you a part owner of high-grade securities.

For example—as a Life Insurance policyholder, you share in the ownership of Government and Municipal bonds. These bonds provide for the construction of highways, railways, canals, schools, water and sewage systems, and other important public enterprises.

You likewise have a definite financial interest in Canadian industries, and in Canadian homes and farms.

The Life Insurance companies, which your enterprise and thrift have built up, acting on behalf of yourself and 3,500,000 other policyholders, invest the Assets you have entrusted to them. In making these investments, they exercise the utmost care to secure safety with a satisfactory yield.

Of the combined Assets in the Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada, the major part is invested in Government and Municipal bonds and debentures. Large amounts are also invested in first mortgages on carefully selected city, town and farm properties, and in loans to policyholders.

You can take satisfaction in the fact that Life Insurance companies in Canada have faithfully discharged their obligations. Even in periods of greatest financial stress, every obligation guaranteed by their policies has been fulfilled.

HOW ABOUT YOUR SUB?

HOW TO IMPROVE THE IDLE HOUR

(Experimental Farms Note)

The busy season for the beekeeper is over. With the honey crop harvested and the bees snugly packed away for the winter there will be considerable spare time during the next few or six months which the beekeeper could profitably use by getting in touch with his fellow workers, either by personal contact or through the medium of literature. Winter time is convention time, when producers assemble at bodies gather together for the purpose of discussing with each other the various problems connected with their particular industries. Several such conventions are held for the beekeeper and many an idle hour can be pleasantly and profitably spent in attending them. Many a time the writer has heard beekeepers remark that certain information picked up at conventions has more than repaid the cost of attending.

In addition to the conventions and associated meetings, there are also a number of short courses for beekeepers given by some of the Agricultural Colleges. Although these courses are especially prepared for beginners, the experienced beekeeper may also find them profitable, and those who can afford to do so are well advised to attend them. Convention and short courses are not the only sources of information, for numerous books and journals which should be present in every beekeepers library are available at low cost. These can be obtained through any dealer in bee supplies in Canada. In addition, bulletins and pamphlets dealing with different phases of beekeeping may be obtained free of charge from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and also from some of the provincial departments as well. A few hours in contact with other beekeepers and a few more hours spent in reading in this will spent, both pleasantly and profitably.

Rev. Dr. George McDonald and Rev. G. P. Gower of Edmonton To Speak

A great united gathering of the congregations and people of St. Stephen's Anglican, First Presbyterian, and First United churches and the Salvation Army will be held in First United church on Thursday evening, December 3rd at 8 o'clock. The meeting is a culmination to the special campaign for The Evangelization of Canadian Life carried on by the above bodies and is being arranged to bear united witness to our common faith. A massed choir from all the churches will lead the service of praise. The prayers and lesson will be read by the local clergy and inspirational messages will be given by Rev. D. A. McDonald D.D. of Knox United church and Rev. G. P. Gower of Christ Anglican church both of Edmonton. No collection or offering taken to defray expenses. This is a great Ecumenical occasion and we ask very earnestly that all our people keep this evening free and attend en mass.

On behalf of the S A and churches.

OLD TIMER CELEBRATES HIS 79TH BIRTHDAY

(By Our Chatsworth Correspondent)

The home of Mr and Mrs. C. F Dolliver was the scene of a happy gathering on Monday night when about 25 neighbors attended a party given in honor of Mr Dolliver, who celebrated his 79th birthday on that day. Whitney at whist prize, Dolliver first Mrs. J. K. Thompson, consolation. Mrs. Leo Klaschinsky. Dents first, John Klaschinsky; consolation, F. W Thompson. Dancing followed with music by Miss F. Dolliver, J.K Thompson, J Panter and the Klaschinsky boys. Lunch was served at midnight. The beautifully decorated birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Leo Klaschinsky, Alberthaly was the finder of the nickel and F. W. Thompson the button. Lunch was followed by more dancing. The party broke up about 3.a.m. "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" being sung by the crowd. Mr. Dolliver is retired and all with sincere hopes that he may enjoy many more happy birthday. Everyone spent a very enjoyable time. And yes—We'll all be back next year to extend to Mr. Dolliver many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolliver wish to thank all those who helped to make the birthday party such a success.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

We are still enjoying the unusually wonderful weather with pastime and delightful autumn weather. That appears to be a record breaker for November 24.

Mrs. H. J. Davies returned last Wednesday from a holiday spent with her mother at Hay Lakes and with her sister in Edmonton. She was away for two weeks.

Mr. E. C. Hughes was an Edmonton visitor last week. He wrote and passed the time with his mechanicians on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Good, Miss Mary Good and Jim Pearce motored to Elk Point on Tuesday to attend the Good-Scollard wedding dance there.

A home record attended the Good-Scollard wedding dance at the Pibel city school last Friday. A beautiful lunch was served at midnight. During the dance hour a short program consisting of songs by June and Jackie Thompson, F. W. Thompson, Malcolm Harrison and Maurice Smith, trio consisting of the Misses M. Smith, M Hindmarsh and E. Zonet and step dancing by Dolliver and G. Seymour was put on. Dancing was indulged in until almost 2 in the morning. The dance broke up with the singing of "They are Jolly Good Fellows" after Mr Hindmarsh had extended the good wishes of the crowd to Mr. and Mrs. Good to which Mr. Good replied in a few words, thanking all for their good wishes and hoping that all those present had spent an enjoyable evening (and morning we might add) which we certainly had.

Several from this neighborhood plan to attend the Old Timers dance at Blenheim tonight. (Tuesday)

ROYAL GRAIN INQUIRY COMMISSION

Mr. Justice W.F.A. Turgeon, Royal Commissioner appointed to inquire into the Canadian grain industry, announced at Ottawa recently that hearings were scheduled to begin in Winnipeg on Tuesday, December 1. Subsequent hearings will be held at Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, and Vancouver and possibly at some other western points.

By Order-in-Council the Commission is authorized to inquire into and to report upon the subject of the production, buying, selling, holding, grading, transporting and exporting of Canadian Grains and Grain Products, and other questions incident to such matters, and in particular, but without restricting the generality of the foregoing terms, to inquire into and to report upon:

1. The method now or heretofore employed in marketing Canadian grains abroad, including Government Grain Boards, co-operative or pool marketing, price stabilization now prevailing and the open market or competitive method; and the effect of these various methods upon markets.

2. All transactions since the year 1920 pertaining to handling of grain for relief and seeding purposes in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Peace River Block, government guarantee, or otherwise.

3. The extent, if any, to which the Canadian Wheat Board operates as a speculative short interests in the Winnipeg Wheat Market in December 1932, immediately following the higher price fixed by the Argentine government for Argentine wheat; and the effect, whether beneficial or harmful, of any such action taken by the Board.

4. The effect of the practice of mixing and of the selection of grain for export upon the quality of Canada's export grains.

5. The causes of the decrease in Canadian grain exports in recent years.

6. The measures which should be taken to retain and to extend Canada's marketing throughout the world of Canadian wheat and other grains and their products.

With Commissioner Turgeon will be associated Hon. J.L. Ralston of Montreal as Counsel, Mr. J. E. Cleven of Winnipeg as Assistant Counsel and Mr. T. W. Grindley of Ottawa as secretary.

The Commission is anxious to hear anyone having information to offer on the above subjects and those desiring to make submissions should at once communicate with the secretary or with counsel to the Commission at Winnipeg stating the nature of their submissions and the place at which they would prefer being heard.

ATHLETIC CLUB IS FORMED AT ISLAY

Through the efforts of the school trustees and the co-operation of the Islay Town council the use of the Islay Hall has been obtained for two days a week during the winter months for the use of the Islay Athletic Club and the Islay Junior room, and these two organizations are capable of supplying a long felt want for the district. The arrangements provide Physical Training for all grades and Gymnastics for Grade 9 under conditions vastly superior and instructors unobtainable for the pupils of the district

The Islay Men's Athletic club was formed at a meeting held November 19th in the Town hall. Officers elected were: President W. McNeely and Secretary W. Sims. While the primary objects of the club are Physical Training and indoor games such as basketball it is also intended to organize as a community club and any or all activities in which it is thought it would encourage a large membership will receive consideration and support. At present the activities are Table Tennis, Boxing, Basketball, Badminton, Indoor baseball and Volleyball.

The meetings of the club are to be held every Monday and Thursday evening each week all new members are assured a hearty reception and it is hoped the community will get behind in a big way.

The fee is set at $2.00 for the season and the equipment which the club gathers together is to be used jointly by the club and the school classes. In the club this week it is intended to have gathered together basketball equipment a vaulting horse a mat and boxing gloves. Further equipment will be added as occasion demands.

Please note that this club does not intend to cease its activities with the winter months but rather to live up to its name and get behind sport of every kind in the community through out the year including softball, field and track etc.

With the right support this club can become one of the community's valued assets and co-operative enthusiasm will always be given receive consideration. Join the Islay Athletic Club. Be a "Builder Upper."

PREDICTS RAILWAY BRANCH TO NORTH

From Prince Albert To Mining Areas

REGINA Nov 26 Hon T. C. Davis provincial treasurer in Tuesday's budget speech on a railway from Prince Albert to the new mining area north of Lac La Ronge.

Mr. Davis intimated Hon. W. F. Kerr, minister of natural resources, is planning a new survey of the northern areas particularly Waterhen lake territory where large coal deposits were discovered 20 years ago. Roads suitable for glass manufacture, and all kinds showing possibilities for oil discoveries are included in the survey.

Building of a railway north would be a "tremendous undertaking said Mr Davis, but if these natural resources could be developed it would more than repay the expenditure.

CALGARY, Nov. 19.—Demand to the Alberta British Settlers' Association that the British government use moneys designed for further immigration schemes toward repatriation of settlers in Canada who wished it, and rehabilitation assistance for others, was approved in a resolution passed at the annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts here today.

It was also resolved to press for assumption by the Hudson's Bay Co and the Canadian Pacific Railway of yearly tax registration of settlers they had brought out to settle company lands and that in future, settlers be questioned for the first five years by the companies.

Paul L. Farnalls, of Halkirk, president and Harry W. Bright, of Macleod were re-elected to their respective offices.

CANADIAN EXHIBIT AT CHICAGO SHOW

When the 37th International Live Stock Exposition and the 19th International Grain and Hay Show open at the Union Stock Yards Chicago, Illinois U.S.A. on Saturday, November 28th to continue until December 5th there will be many entries from farmers in Eastern and Western Canada. The keenest, friendly rivalry has existed between farmers from north and south of the International Boundary since the two shows have been held. Each successive year Canadian farmers have carried off a fair share of the honors awards in every class they have exhibited both in live stock and in grains and seeds

In 1925 the prizes won at Chicago by Canada included championships for 12 reserve championships, 61 first prizes and 254 lesser awards

Most notable honour was the winning of the world's championship for W. Evan Wilford, of Stavely, Alberta making the 11th time this coveted prize has been given by Canada since the International Grain and Hay Show was inaugurated in 1919. Wilford won with a sample of Reward wheat, originated and developed by the Cereal division, Experimental Farms Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

It is interesting to note that the prize winning wheat won by Connell was also the International Competition was inaugurated has been an originators of the Cereal Division. Dominion Experimental Farms. Canada has also won every year notable additional victories at the International in live stock, particularly sheep, in oats, barley, soybeans, field peas, field beans and grass and clover seeds.

The International Live Stock Exposition is regarded as a major classic among live stock shows in the world Entries total over 12,000 head of live stock. The International Grain and Hay show provides the largest display of grains and seeds held any where, with over 5,000 samples entered for competition.

Canada is well represented on the board of directors of the International Live Stock Exposition and International Grain and Hay Show by R. G. Christie, President of the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph. Several well known Canadians prominent in the agricultural life of the Dominion are annually engaged as judges in the different classes for live stock and grains and seeds

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department
Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Ltd.

Wheat is probably the oldest of the world's wheat crops.

A large quantity of it is consumed than of any other foodstuff with the single exception of potatoes. In prehistoric times wheat was cultivated throughout Europe and was one of the most valuable cereals of ancient Persia, Greece and Egypt.

It has always been prized for the high quality bread which it produces —whenever it is possible people turn from foods made from rye, barley and oats to bread made from wheat.

It is grown in almost every country in the world, the only parts from which it is absent being the hot, low lying regions of the tropics. Siam, however, being the one notable large country where no wheat is produced.

Its cultivation is simple and it is adapted to more varying soils and climatic conditions than any other food plant known

It has ripened as far north as 68th parallel in Norway and is cultivated around Archangel on the White Sea and in Verkhoyansk in Siberia within the Arctic circle. It is as well cultivated on the equator in Equador and Colombia.

Wheat is also grown at different altitudes from sea level to a height of 13,000 feet in Tibet.

Prices have tended to be raised by the following: —Demand for Canadian wheat increasing—Subsoil moisture very deficient in large Canada fall spring wheat area U.S.A. and in parts winter wheat belt—U.S. purchases large quantities Argentina corn—Rain delay threshing in parts of Europe—Production of dried beans in Danube Basin less than normal.

Those factors have tended to push prices down —Wheat surplus in Danubian countries estimated one hundred million fall time record—Large quantity wheat afloat in world's markets—Estimates production potatoes increasing—Argentina shipping surplus—Ample quantities of rye.

ISLAND HILL

Reg Searle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Searle, received a fractured collar bone while skating on the river Wednesday evening 18th. A gallant little lad, although suffering a great deal of pain never complained. He was brought into town by his father and after medical attention was able to return home. He is progressing as favorably as could be expected

The play and dance announced to be held at the hall on December 11 will not take place until some time in the new year.

Whist Drive held at the school on Friday was a great success. The following were the winners. Ladies, 1 Mrs. Telford; 2, F. Jenkins; 3, Edith Searle; Consolation, F. Mis Goute, 1, D. Birmingham; 2, H. Acheson; 3, Jim Crawford; Consolation, C. Mis. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Mix and Mrs. Jenkins A two hour dance followed and Miss Burbey and Harold Hall dispensed the music. The next drive will be on Friday, Dec. 4.

Owing to popular demand, parties lately from members of Boys' and Girls' Swine Clubs, a reprint of the publication "A Study of the Pig—Feed" has been necessary. The publication is an elementary study of the carcass of the pig in relation to its commercial value. The bulletin which is well illustrated is of practical interest to farmers generally and is useful reference for members of the Boys' and Girls' Swine Club in Canada. This publication may be obtained free on request from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

and was a great favorite as a singer, left for Edmonton Tuesday 24 to join the Misericordia hospital nursing staff. THE New Ford V-8 for 1937 is the most beautiful Ford car ever offered. It is built in only one size — with one standard of roomy comfort and modern appearance. But you may have either the improved 85-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum performance — or the new 60-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum economy. The smaller engine makes possible a lighter car—a lower priced car, with lower operating costs—and permits still more people to enjoy the smoothness, quietness and reliability of the V-type 8-cylinder engine.

Improved 85-horsepower V-8 engine — Drive it and watch the speedometer!

More than three million owners are now enjoying the superior performance of the Ford V-8 engine on the road. When you drive the 1937 Ford with the 85-horsepower V-8 engine, you are master of a power plant that gives everything you can possibly demand in speed and acceleration. Today it is a better engine than ever — with a better cooling system and new smoothness. Yet improved carburetion enables it to deliver its thrilling performance with unusually low gasoline consumption.

New 60-horsepower V-8 engine — Drive it and watch the fuel gauge! The new 60-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine is without question the most economical engine ever built by Ford. Owners who want the traditional Ford economy, with the smoothness and quietness of a V-type 8-cylinder engine, will find it in this new 60-horsepower unit. Combined with the economical operation of this engine is the traditional Ford economy in the cost of upkeep and repairs.

FEATURES

APPEARANCE—A newly designed car. Headlamps recessed in fender aprons. Modern hidtype hood hinged at the back. Larger luggage space. Spare tire enclosed within body. Completely new interiors. Slanting V-type windshield opens in all closed cars.

BRAKES—New Easy-Action Safety Brakes, of the cable and conduit control type. "The safety of steel from pedal to wheel." Self-energizing—car momentum is used to help apply the brakes. Tests show that about one-third less pedal pressure is required to stop the car.

BODY—Not an ounce of wood used for structural strength. Frame structure all steel, sheathed with steel panels—top, sides and floor. All are welded into a single steel unit of great strength.

COMFORT AND QUIET—A big, roomy car. Extra space is in the body, not taken up by the engine under the hood. Comfort of the Centre-Poise Ride further increased by smoother action of the long-taper. springs, with new pressure-lubrication. New methods of mounting body and engine make this a quieter car.

MARWAYNE RESIDENT FINDS FORTUNE-TELLING IS COSTLY

Put Wallet on Table While Palm Read, Trouble Follows

(Edmonton Journal)

Steven Edwards of Wheatsheaf farm Marwayne wanted his fortune told but hardly left the office was when it is complained to police here Thursday.

He said he went to a gipsy fortune telling place and was told he would have to put down his wallet on a table a dark-eyed sorceress would then proceed to read the destiny in it. He laid down the wallet. It always remained there, he said, but when he came to leave found instead of it some [illegible] M.V.M.A.

When he reported his losses [illegible] was upon him. the wallet is missing. A police detective accompanied him back to the gipsy establishment where he was given $10 by a man who said he would rather pay him that amount than give the impression there had been skullduggery.

MANNING ILL; PROVINCIAL CABINET IS RE-SHUFFLED

Cross Assumes Duties As Minister of Industry; Hugill Acting Secretary

(Edmonton Journal)

Temporary reshuffle of cabinet posts has been made necessary through the indefinite absence of Hon. E. C. Manning on account of ill health according to announcement Thursday by Premier Aberhart.

Ordered by his physicians to take complete rest Mr. Manning was absent from his office Thursday.

In the new installation Hon. J. W. Cross minister of health and of charge of relief will also be acting minister of trade and industry and he will be assisted by Hon. Lucien Maynard minister without portfolio.

Hon. J. W. Hugill K. C. attorney-general will be acting premier and secretary as he has been on other occasions when Mr. Manning was absent.

Mr. Manning 36 years old and youngest cabinet minister in the British Empire directed the department of industry and trade and was also in charge of the Alberta Credit House and other legislation.

For some weeks, Mr. Manning has not been in good health, having developed a severe cold some time ago. On his doctor's orders he will take a complete rest for an indefinite period.

The minister has been one of Premier Aberhart's right hand men and alternated with the premier in giving addresses before the Prophetic Bible conferences in Edmonton and Calgary.

In the changes announced the administration of the credit house legislation will be in the hands of Hon. Cross and Mr. Maynard will be in charge of the radio and trade and industry departments.

The changes were considered by the cabinet at a meeting Thursday morning after which Premier Aberhart made the announcement.

No announcement was made as to how long Mr. Manning might be absent from his duties.

It was known for some time that Mr. Manning had not enjoyed good health, and had obtained expert medical advice. The heavy load of organizing the credit house system and passing necessary emergency legislation which was put through by the session added not to his other legislative duties.

STEAM RAILWAYS ARE NOT SAME AS 'FORGOTTEN MAN'

[illegible] time Nov 21 — [illegible] address [illegible] Canadian National Railways, [illegible] Hungerford, chairman, and president of the Canadian National Railways, [illegible] Passenger Club. He found that the public interest in the railway [illegible] in the transportation field was taken rather than dead and that [illegible] developments in steam [illegible] equipment had not only served the interest shown in the past but had stimulated it to a greater degree than ever.

"The last year and especially the last few months said Mr Hungerford, "have presented many striking proofs that the interest of the public has been retained. The interest that has been displayed for instance in part, both the railways have made to adjust themselves to the new conditions given to establish this improvements in motive power, the design and destruct. plan for the handling of L.C.L. freight, much experimental and refreshing improvement [illegible] tion in lighter and self-propelled passenger equipment have all been really and substantially welcomed by the public as satisfying proof that the railways are progressing.

In larger numbers than has at times been supported the main body of the public has remained friendly with and sympathetic to the railways. The latter celebrations both early ways held this year to mark the completion or important stages in their existence called forth a public interest as great and as general as I may remember ever surprising.

The speaker pointed out that the urge to travel exists in almost every human being and that the urge will find expression in actions, whenever are made sufficiently favourable or attractive. During the year he added, the Canadian railways have responded substantial [illegible] to three and he expressed the hope [illegible] patronage will make that might appear to declare [illegible] tendency manifested by the reductions made.

"I would urge you not to be unduly pessimistic about the future," [illegible] other and new forms of transportation," he advised. [illegible] are enormous numbers of people and patronage of air services is growing, and will continue to grow. Sometime goes on the competition will become more equitable.

"It is however possible that a very considerable proportion of the traffic which these agencies now carry is really new business which the railways never had and which has developed as a result of attractive fares convenient and frequent service or, in the case of air service of high speed — those factors operating chiefly or the remote areas of various sorts."

Mr. Hungerford stated that he was strongly of the opinion that there is a large potential volume of new passenger traffic available to the railways if an effective system can be devised for attracting and developing it. In connection, he emphasized the point that the railways are adjusting themselves to the changed conditions that are brought about by the development of new forms of transportation and will continue to do so as rapidly and [illegible]

The Prospect Of War

If it were not for the tragic potentialities involved, the conflicting reports on the kaleidoscopic European situation and the daily prognostications of authorities, and others without authority, as to the eventual outcome of international misunderstandings and disputes, would be entertaining and amusing.

Unfortunately so much is at stake for the whole world and the possible consequences of the ever-shifting misunderstandings among the European nationalities are so tragic that it is one cannot refrain, even at the risk of distaste, to treat the subject with levity, or even to contemplate conditions overseas with complacency.

Both visitors to this continent from European countries and Canadians and Americans who have returned home from a visit on the other side of the Atlantic appear to be quite ready to voice freely their opinions on the causes and trends of international difficulties and even to predict the outcome. Many go even further and venture to answer with confidence the approximate time when these quarrels are to culminate in open conflict and general conflagration.

The opinions which these people convey might at least be informative and their prophecies might have some value, if it were not for the fact that the two of them agree, and readers and listeners who are sufficiently interested to absorb everything that is printed or spoken on the subject, must be befuddled in their efforts to straighten out the tangles of conflicting impressions left on their minds.

With or without data to support their theories, these prophets announce that there will be no general European war, that there will be a war some time, that there will be a war within six months, that there is no possibility of an outbreak within the next year but that it is inevitable within the next eighteen months. Some of these prophecies are couched in commanding and authoritative terms with a degree of positiveness that overbrooks no hedging. Others are conditioned by "ifs", "unless", "perhapses" and "most probably."

Further than that, many of those who are sponsoring an outbreak in the comparatively near future are quite ready to, and do, announce what the line-up will be, and why, and who is going to start the trouble that everyone shudders to contemplate. Here again there is so much conflict of opinion that even if the student is prepared to accept the dictum that there will be a war, he is nonplussed when it comes to an effort to diagnose the cause, or to group the opposing nations.

That there is a conflict of opinion on this absorbing topic is not surprising when one considers that the social, political and economic affairs of the majority of the nations on the other side of the water are in a state of flux, and that national viewpoints are changed with such rapidity that it is not only difficult to follow them at long range, but this difficulty is accentuated by the almost impossibility of sifting out facts from propaganda.

However, from this welter of conflicting opinion and mass of tinged information a few truths have emerged. One of these is that most of the talk about a European war is being freely ventilated on this side of the Atlantic while very little is being said or published on the subject in the European countries themselves.

It cannot be gainsaid, however, that if the peoples of Europe are not talking very much about or predicting why they are at least making very active preparations for it, if it should come. Practically every country from the smallest to the largest is strengthening its defences and is reinforcing all branches of its military services. None of them proposes to be caught napping, if would seem.

And back of all this activity lies the germ which has caused the fever and which can be variously described as fear, hate, precaution or the same germ which has done so much to retard economic recovery from the general world depression.

For all these observers must have come to the conclusion that every country in Europe is afraid of its neighbor. Each is afraid that one of the others may start something which cannot be stopped and that the interval may be drawn into the maelstrom that is likely to ensue. Each is suspicious of all the actions of each of the others and each mistrusts the motives.

There is also reason to believe that the rank and file of the common people of most, if not all, the countries across the ocean are not anxious for war but, on the contrary do not want it and would be prepared to go on a long way to avoid it. Hence, we have the incongruous spectacle of peoples who would like to devote their energies to commercial progress and who dislike war heading their efforts to the perfection of costly and efficient machinery of destruction because of fear.

Until these attitudes of distrust, suspicion and fear can be dissipated there can be little hope of the European situation improving and this is a task which might well be undertaken by a remodelled and rejuvenated League of Nations.

It is not unreasonable to suppose that a League of Nations with modified covenants whose chief function would be to bring the nations closer together in frank mutual discussions of their problems around a table might achieve more than a League bolstered by covenants which recent history has shown cannot be enforced. It is only when people get together in frank discussion that they lose instinctive distrust of one another.

Recovery in Canada

Report Says United States Lags Behind in This Respect

American businessmen were advised by Colonel L. P. Ayres, business statistician and vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, to compare United States recovery with that of Canada.

In the four years since 1932, he said in the bank's business bulletin, "Canada has regained 97 per cent. of the depression losses, while this country has regained 70 per cent. of them."

The United States, he said, is in a recovery movement "which promises to continue for many months to come. The chief significance the recent rational have in business is that they show that the American people firmly desire to have their government actively participate in their economic problems."

After discussing this factor at some length Col. Ayres concluded: "We can console ourselves how it is that Canadian business has been able to accomplish an almost complete recovery and to lead us in the main by old-fashioned, unhurried methods of self-reliance and initiative."

Considering New Coin

To Replace England's Threepenny Piece Which Is Unpopular

A nickel coin, valued threepence, may be introduced in Britain to replace the present silver threepenny piece, it was disclosed in the House of Commons by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The present threepenny piece is unpopular. The new coin would be round like the present silver piece, but would be smaller.

Long-Last Textile Discovered

Thread Known As Bloom Yields Fabric Similar To Wool

A textile fibre dating back to biblical times, long considered a closely guarded secret had been lost through the ages has been rediscovered by an Italian silkworm expert.

The ancient thread, known as "bloom" is extracted from a tiny shellfish, the "Pinna-Nobilis." According to Miss Rita Del Bene, the discoverer, bloom yields a fabric similar to wool by means of a simple chemical process.

The ancients, however, wove a silklike fabric from the rhizomes—bulb like roots—of the iris, but the process was not strung as the "fish wool" produced by the school teacher.

To Mark Coronation

Memorial To Be Erected In Capital Of Malay States

What is claimed to be the empire's first memorial to mark the coronation of King George VI will be erected in the state place at Kuala Lumpur, capital of the federated Malay States.

It takes the form of an ornamental tower 30 feet high and 11 feet wide, and surmounts an electrical submarine cable which connects the island with the mainland.

There is also reason to believe that the rank and file of the common people of most, if not all, the countries across the ocean are not anxious for war but, on the contrary do not want it and would be prepared to go a long way to avoid it. Hence, we have the incongruous spectacle of peoples who would like to devote their energies to commercial progress and who dislike war heading their efforts to the perfection of costly and efficient machinery of destruction because of fear.

Coronation Programme

Souvenir Book Of 32 Pages Will Give Full Details Of Historic Pageant

Preparations for the King's Coronation at Westminster Abbey next May include a beautiful Souvenir Programme. This programme is to be planned, is to be a 32-page book, and a notable specimen of the printer's art, worthy of keeping as a permanent souvenir of an outstanding historic event. The cover will bear the Royal Coat of Arms in colours, and the fly leaf will carry a photograph of His Majesty, the King, facing a message to the subjects from the King himself. A photograph of Mary, the Queen Mother, faces pictures of her four other children, H.R.H. the Duke of York, H.R.H. The Duke of Gloucester, H.R.H. The Duke of Kent and H.R.H. The Princess Royal.

A poem by John Masefield, the poet laureate, follows and then an article entitled "The Story of the Crown" by John Drinkwater, and one by Rector Boutflower entitled, "King Edward the Eighth."

Five pages are given to the detailed order of the Coronation procession in which is including a list of the route. His Grace, the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury continues an introduction to the Order of Service, which latter is given eight pages of full detail, as to supplement the radio broadcast, in which millions will be invited to join. Throughout the British Empire, the United States and many foreign countries, with the help of the programme the service may be followed with fuller appreciation of its historic tradition.

Then come four pages devoted to the actual Coronation Ceremony followed by a genealogical table of the Royal family from Queen Victoria down to the present King and the children of his sister, Mary Princess Royal, his brother the Duke of Kent, and the descendants of Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria.

By the King's expressed desire the Coronation Day Order of the Day Coronation programme are to be devoted to the King George V. Jubilee Trust Fund, founded at the time of the 25th Anniversary of the accession of the late Majesty and Queen Mary to the throne. The purpose of this fund is to provide opportunities for physical culture and other advancement for underprivileged youth, because which the young King has long held close to his heart.

Sale of the Coronation programme will be in the hands of the stationery trade, and, during a period of many days immediately previous to the date of the Coronation, in those of the Canadian Boy Scouts, of whom His Majesty, the Governor General will act as honorary chief of staff. Unemployed Women

Member Of National Employment Commission Speaks Of Difficulty In Obtaining Work

The unemployed woman is a "hard citizen to work into employment," because women are a less mobile group than men, Mrs. T. W. Sutherland, of Wells, B.C., and Ottawa, member of the National Employment Commission told a luncheon gathering at Montreal.

Mrs. Sutherland urged her listeners to communicate to the commission any ladies they might have for providing work for unemployed women.

While no official figures for the unemployed women who are not on relief are available, Mrs. Sutherland said relief figures showed single females (widows, deserted wives and others with dependents) 14,350; employable dependents, 30,884; single women, 8,363. These figures are exclusive of farm women. Fifty-two per cent. of the unemployed women are between 30 and 50 years old, Mrs. Sutherland said.

"I would like to train girls for situations in their own homes," she declared, stressing the need of "professionalizing" housework. "I would like to see training schools in homes, hold work all across Canada."

Industries such as forestry requiring strong young men, she said, not the type of people who had been on relief now, five, six years or more, "don't seem to apply for jobs and relief are practically unemployable," she declared. "They are not. But many will have to undergo years of reconditioning to fit them for reemployment. We hope that through the efforts of the Employment and Industry they will find employment.

Another Reform in India

Old Law Against Untouchables Abolished In One State

Untouchables in the native state of Travancore, in southern India, have rejoiced at the abolition of the age-old discrimination against their casts which prevented them from worshipping in state temples

In a proclamation on his 25th birthday the Maharaja's state of Travancore threw open all state temples to all classes of Hindus without caste distinction.

The proclamation decreed:

"Henceforth there shall be no restriction placed on any Hindu by birth or religion from entering or worshipping at temples controlled by the Travancore government."

The prohibition against worshipping in the temple with the higher castes is one of the outstanding indignities suffered by the depressed Hindu castes, and has engaged the efforts of reformers for many years past. The cause of the untouchables was championed by Gandhi

Travancore has a population of about 6,000,000. It is hoped the Maharajah's decree will have a wide influence in India and especially in neighboring states, in the near future large state of Mysore.

The Hon. Sir C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar, a noted Indian politician has said the young Maharajah's enactment of the untouchables "marks a unique occurrence in the history of India, especially in Hinduism."

Now Ease Neuritis Pains Fast

"Aspirin" Tablets Dissolve Almost Instantly

In 2 seconds by stop watch, an "Aspirin" tablet is crushed, dissolved in water and ready to drink. Drop an "Aspirin" tablet into a glass of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. What happens in the body . . . happens in your mouth!

For Amazingly Quick Relief Get "ASPIRIN"

If you suffer from pains of neuritis what you want is quick relief.

"Aspirin" tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly they touch moisture. (Note illustration above.)

Hence—when you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to dissolve almost as quickly as you swallow it. And thus is ready to start working almost instantly . . . headache, neuralgia and neuritis pains start going almost at once.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of The Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Try it. You'll say it's marvelous.

Old Ceremony Observed

London's Lord Mayor Elect Exchanged Toast With Chief Justice

Traditional ceremony indicated the first step in the election of the Lord Mayor of London when Sir George Broadbridge as lord mayor-elect of the city of London, the ceremonial capital of the British Empire, chairman of the House of Lords. The King's approval was conveyed to Sir George and his registration and to judge presented by the lord chief justice, Lord Hewart

Two attendants in knee-breeches brought in two great silver goblets, to which were attached sprigs of lilies of the valley on either side of the wine. From them hung long festoons of white silk. One was presented to Lord Hewart and the second to Sir George. The lord chief justice took a step forward and raised his goblet, "To the lord mayor-elect!

"To the undersigned," Sir George exchanged, and Sir George, in his turn, took a pace forward and drank, "To the lord chief justice of England." Afterwards the goblets were passed round and everyone drank to the new lord mayor.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL INSIST ON FREEDOM OF SEAS

London.—Great Britain prepared to ensure freedom of passage for her ships in Spanish waters while Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons that negotiations with other governments more blameworthy than those of Italy and Germany for violations of the hands-off-Spain pact.

Aroused by opposition jibes, Eden said:

"As far as non-intervention is concerned I can say categorically that I think that we either accept responsibility more to blame than those of Italy and Germany."

His statement, which some members took to be a veiled threat at Russia, threw the house into an uproar. Cheers, jeers and excitement benches mingled with cries of "Shame!" "Shame!" from the Labor M.P.'s.

Eden ignored subsequent heckling, and avoided further definition of the "other governments."

The interruptions which occupied most of the parliamentary debate were the status of British shipping in the Mediterranean, and the reported General Francisco Franco's reported warning of a blockade; the future of the non-intervention plan and the possible joint action by British and France to maintain freedom of the seas.

Officially the British government announced it had not received details of the reported Spanish insurgent blockade of ports, but informed sources expected the government to issue a warning that force would be used, if necessary, to protect British merchantmen.

Canadian Warships

Two Destroyers, The Cygnet And Cossack, To Come To Canada

London.—Two destroyers, announced that the two destroyers purchased by the Canadian government are the Cygnet and the Cossack, famous Canadian crews, they are expected to leave England early in 1937.

This is one of the building program of 1929. They were built by Vickers-Armstrong, launched in September, 1931, and completed in April of the following year. They have a displacement of 1,375 tons, a complement of 145 and carry four 4.7-inch guns, one 3-inch anti-aircraft gun, smaller guns, and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes.

The new destroyers will replace the Champlain and Vancouver, borrowed from the admiralty in 1928 and since maintained by the Royal Canadian Navy, which have become obsolete. The ships are almost identical, in size and equipment, with the Canadian destroyers Saguenay and Skeena, which were completed in 1931.

British Air Force Growing

Has Already Made Good Start Towards Its Objective

London. Home squadrons of the Royal Air Force now total 80 with 902 first line machines, according to the latest figures available.

This shows a marked increase in strength since 1935, when there were 53 squadrons with 580 first line machines. Air ministry officials said the figures showed the air force had made a good start towards its objective of 139 home squadrons with 1,750 first line machines.

The air ministry's expansion plan also calls for erection of 50 new aerodromes, all completed before the course of construction. The majority of the airdromes are situated in the south and southeast part of England

Tragedy Of South Wales

King Edward Visits Miners And Talks With Unemployed

Merthyr Tydfil, Wales.—The King saw the grim tragedy of South Wales for himself.

For seven hours, with but brief stops, he toured these desolate valleys of unemployment which, like the fingers of a hand, drop down to the sea. He talked with men unemployed for years. With men who found new hope in land settlement, even in voluntary scheme which yield only food coupons.

And against long-drawn poverty, south Wales gave the king a splendid welcome. At Pontypridd, which lies at the entrance to the Rhondda valley, great crowds broke the police cordon. People gathered about the royal car. Merthyr Tydfil, where 75 per cent. of the adult population is unemployed, saw amazing scenes. Tens of thousands of men, women and children lined the route, cheering as the king drove slowly by. Just outside Aberdare an old woman stepped from the crowd to curtsy to a Union Jack.

For ex-service men the king had a word of greeting. He talked to them of days in France. At Merthyr Tydfil he stopped to chat with a group of contemptibles," wearing Mons stars.

And the king did his job thoroughly. Hundreds of men lined up at the Merthyr Tydfil labor exchange making reports and collecting unemployment pay. The king stopped behind the counter.

"That's what's wanted, Your Majesty," one man shouted.

The king asked first one man, then another, how long they had been idle. Five, nine, ten, 11, 13 years came the replies. "Terrible" said the king to the man with the 11-year-record.

His Majesty specially asked to see Dowlais, the blackest spot in Wales. There almost every family is on relief. The king walked amongst the ruins of great industries. All around, standing on broken walls and heaps of rubble, were men who once filled the works with the clamor of their industry sang their welcome to the king. Here was the most tragic relief what was wrong in this Welsh domain.

Rescued From Ice Floe

Fifty Fishermen Saved From Death In Lake Manitoba

Winnipeg.—Fifty fishermen shore and in danger of perishing on a drifting and breaking ice floe, 50 fishermen were rescued by settlers along the northern tip of Lake Manitoba.

Flight of the stranded party was reported from Chatelodeye Bay, 100 miles north-east of here, as a seaplane was rushed to the area and settlers along the lake shore put out in the ice floe and canoes to the rescue. There were no casualties.

First indication they were caught in the drift danger came to the government when they observed an aeroplane circling overhead, they said. The men were marooned on floes holes in the ice between one to six miles off shore and were unaware of their predicament.

Their plight was observed by shore residents who reported the break-up of the ice floe to the northward drift to A. C. Cunningham, Manitoba director of fisheries at Winnipeg. Search planes along the lake shore put out in boats and canoes to effect the rescue.

The fishermen were brought back through the freezing water The animals were given a stiff rubdown and a drink of whisky as soon as they appeared to suffer no ill effects from the immersion. Property loss was heavy and consisted of hundreds of nets, a large quantity of fish and two automobiles

The ice field was estimated to be 15 miles long and approximately four miles wide and extended off-shore between Delta and Clandeboye. A fish fleet recovered at Delta, south of the fishermen scattered in groups across the ice

BRITAIN WILL NOT LAG BEHIND IN ARMS PROGRAM

Glasgow.—Britain can complete its rearmament program with as much expedition as Germany, Sir Thomas Minister Baldwin declared in a speech here.

While devoting the greater part of his address to social and economic questions, the prime minister devoted an opposition interpretation placed upon his recent assertion in the House of Commons that Britain's air forces were behind Germany's.

The prime minister explained he had not meant it was difficult for Germany to convince its electorate of the need of something which a dictatorship could decide in a single hour

There was no reason why a democracy could not follow a course parallel with a dictatorship, or any country for that matter, he declared, but it must proceed more slowly.

Democracy had to watch the "thin line" among the nations and "we have to consider the state of the world and the time we can make it ready."

Alberta Girls Win In Swine Judging Contest At Toronto

Toronto.—The 15-year-old Ferguson twins—Ethel and Lillian, from Conjuring Creek, Alta., shattered a five-year record in National Farm Club contests in connection with the Royal Winter Fair, by winning the swine judging competition

It was the first time in the history of the event girls had won. The Fergusons collected 1,006 points of a possible 1,200.

Ontario teams took all the other honors except in poultry judging, which was won by two Manitoba girls. Alice Johnson of Winnipeg Beach, and Marguerite Smith of Arborg. Girls have won in this competition before.

Thirty-one teams, totalling 65 boys and six girls participated in the contest petitions. Highest possible total in all events was 1 Nor The Manitoba poultry team scored 1,026.

Ontario entries won the judging contests in beef and dairy cattle, seed grain and seed potatoes.

The prairie twins are real pioneers The young Albertans were born on a quarter section, walked half a mile to public school and for the last two years have ridden four miles on horseback to high school. Yet they look like a couple of urban college girls.

Britain And France

While Standing Together Would Be Hard To Destroy, Says Winston

Churchill

London Great Britain and France together would be "very dangerous to modest, very hard to destroy," Winston Churchill declared at the annual banquet of the United Association of British and France

"France and Great Britain have found the way to freedom by different roads," the statesman said "Before we and how we stand united we stand and separated we fall. While we stand together we shall be very dangerous to modest, very hard to destroy

He added the hope that the two countries would follow the United States with them "at the end of the road" leading to peace and prosperity But, he said, "we must not look too much of the United States; we must try to do the work ourselves."

Camille Chautemps, French minister without portfolio who was guest of honor at the banquet, said the Spanish non-intervention pact had been sponsored by Britain and France because they "suffered too bitterly in the past from wars of religion to tolerate ideological crusades to-day."

King Edward Sends Message

Urges People Of South Wales Not To Lose Heart

London.—In a message to the lords-lieutenant of Glamorganshire and Monmouthshire the king urged the people of the distressed areas of South Wales "not to lose heart" and rest assured "their troubles are not forgotten."

The king said he had been greatly touched by the warmth of the welcome accorded him wherever he went. His deep feeling, he declared, was one of admiration for the spirit in which the people of South Wales were facing the problem of prolonged unemployment.

He added he had been encouraged to see the fine efforts, both governmental and voluntary, being made to help them until some revival of industrial activity might bring back prosperity."

"Meantime, I urge them not to despair, and not be cast down their troubles are not forgotten," His Majesty concluded.

Restoration Fund

Loss Of $750,000 Suffered By Church Of England In Fully Made Up

A loss of $750,000 which the Church of England in Canada suffered four years ago as a result of maladministration of Sir Rupert a Land working fund has been more than fully recovered, Rev Canon Sidney Gould, general secretary of missions, told a majority congregation in All Saints' church at Windsor, Ont.

The effort on the part of church members and clergy has had the effect of vindicating the honor, not only of Anglicans but of the whole Christian church Canon Gould believed. But greater still, he contended, it had maintained the honor of the Master of the church

Contributions ranging from more than $5,000 to a few pennies came in, Canon Gould said but among the outstanding examples of spiritual heroism was the case of an Indian woman in the far north.

The squaw came to him at the close of a sermon and insisted he take from her $2 from her $5 from her $10 from her $20 from her $50 from her $100 presented the only assured income the woman had during the 13-month period.

Another example cited by Canon Gould was that of an elderly Englishman who only looked forward all her life to going back to her home in England, t owned which her life savings were gathered. He impressed was also at the loss suffered by the church, she gave up the idea of the trip and turned over her entire savings to the fund.

May Rival The Moon

Astronomer Notes One Star Is Increasing In Brilliance

Revealing that the star Gamma Cassiopiaie suddenly has increased in brightness until it is now twice its usual illumination, Perkin's Observatory astronomers at Delaware, Ohio, expressed the possibility it may sometime rival the moon.

Gamma Cassiopaiae is located in the "Celestial W" constellation which may be seen now in the zenith after dark.

Dr. Ernest Cherrington, Perkin's astronomer, said he first noted the increasing brilliance of the star October 5 from which date it has continued to grow in brightness.

"How bright this star will become, nobody knows," said Prof. N. T. Bobrovnikoff, Ohio Wesleyan University astronomy professor.

"Gamma Cassapaiae belongs to an unusual group of stars possessing extensive atmospheres which are unstable as the atmosphere of most stars."

Apple Growing In Canada Dates Back To Early Pioneer Days

Canadian apples, which are famous all over the world for their delightful flavor and fine quality, made a good showing at the Imperial Fruit Show at Canterbury, England, this year when Canadian exhibitors won 23 prizes. British Columbia growers won six first prizes; five seconds and two thirds, while Nova Scotia apples took seven firsts and three seconds. Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, the other Canadian provinces producing apples in commercial quantities, did not compete.

Apple growing in Canada dates back to the early pioneer days. History records the establishment of apple and pear orchards in the first settlements in Nova Scotia over three hundred years ago by French settlers, and the Annapolis Valley, made famous by Longfellow in his immortal poem, "Evangeline", has for many generations been the home of the most widely known apple-producing sections in North America. In the province of Quebec the first recorded of apples growing three hundred years ago. In Ontario the first apple orchards were planted about 1811, and in British Columbia about 1850.

The Canadian climate is well suited to production of high quality apples, and the industry, originally intended to provide apples, apple cider and vinegar for domestic consumption has developed to such an extent that Canadian apples now find their way to practically all parts of the world. In 1935 the Canadian crop totalled 4,432,700 barrels, and exports to 44 countries included 2,841,217 barrels of apples.

In the early days of apple growing in Canada little attention was paid to varieties grown, but with the rapid improvement in transportation and storage facilities, the development of export and home markets and a better knowledge gained of the market demand were accompanied by experimental and research work designed to develop the most suitable varieties and the best methods of growing and handling them. There are now in Canada good varieties of apples with keeping qualities which enable them to be stored and made available for consumption through practically the entire year

Largest Air Raid Shelter

Huge Medieval Czechoslovakian Vaults House Thousands Of Refugees

Huge medieval vaults, discovered under the palace of the Czechoslovakian foreign office, and cleared of debris, will be turned into the world's largest air raid shelter. In case of an enemy air attack, it will give refuge to ten thousand people. The palace, which is centuries old, formerly housed the Austrian Kingdom of Bohemia. The huge former icecellars under the ancient Prague building are being made safe and into anti-aircraft shelters for wartime.

About Great Men

Something Always To Be Gained By Good Company

Great men, taken up in any way, are profitable company We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man, without gaining something by him. He is the living lightAmerican writer Emerson has said, and to be near—the light which enlightened the darkness of the world is a good thing. Nay, we may add, that it is well with them . . . No matter feeling than this of admiration for real worth.

PAUL'S PARTING COUNSELS

Golden text: I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. II. Timothy 4:7.

Lesson: I. Timothy 6; II. Timothy 4; Titus 2.

Devotional reading: Psalm 121.

Explanations And Comments

Concerning Things Worth While, I Timothy 6.11-16. Addressing Timothy directly as a "man of God", Paul bids him avoid the things for which he has been speaking and strive to attain integrity, piety, faith, love, steadfastness and suavity. As Moffatt translates the last, God would have those who bear his name strive for a prize far better than money. Prove your righteousness before God, as Jesus bore witness in the confession of Jesus Christ, for this is true riches. Strive for faith which will sustain you in times of severest trial. Strive for love, that love which is long-suffering and kind.

Strive for meekness, such as you have seen exemplified in Jesus who was patient at all times, even when spat upon and derided, and learn from him that the meek shall inherit the earth. It is all better than to have much fine gold. He who attains such riches, to be not more blessed than he who strives for and finds riches which will perish? Such have wandered from the faith and have not be taken from them.

Paul's charge to keep your commission free from stains, free from reproach, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ—which will be brought about in due time by that blessed and only Sovereign, King of kings and Lord of lords, who alone has immortality, who dwells in light that one can approach, whom no man has ever seen or can see (Moffat's translation).

Paul's Crown and Reward, 2 Timothy 4:6-8. Referring to his approaching martyrdom as if already accomplished, Paul writes: For I am already being offered, and the time for my departure is come. And then he gives voice to his triumphant confession: I have fought a good fight; I have contented earnestly in the good contest; I have run the athletic race Paul has in mind; like a runner in the games I have finished the course as contestants keep the rules of the sports; so I have kept the rules of life's course. I have trusted in God. I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day.

Deficiency Diets

Ill Health Results From Lack Of Mineral Salts

When it is well known that ill health will result from the lack of adequate amounts of iron, phosphorous, iodine, iron, and other essential mineral salts in the diet, why not avoid these dangerous deficiencies by the simple, pleasant and inexpensive expedient of including in the regular bill-of-fare plenty of delicious fish and shellfish—fresh, frozen, canned, dried, pickled, smoked? They are delicious and appetizing, ready to the housewife's hand in teeming variety. Why starve in the midst of plenty, when such delicious flavoured, easily digested Canadian fish foods—from sea and freshwater lakes and streams—are in abundant and veritable storehouses of essential salts are readily available all the year 'round?

Friday The Thirteenth

Will Not Make Another Appearance Until August 1937

It has never been proven that anything unfortunate really happened to anybody simply because Friday was dated up with the 13th but superstition by any other name, as it legend, tradition or usage, needs no factual precedent to make folks wary.

Friday, the 13th, made his jittery appearance twice this year, with no more significance to the old world's fortunes than he achieved 1900 years ago when some humorist of the period discovered the Gregorian calendar would present this combination 10 times every five years till the end of time—or the calendar.

Origin of the idea 13 as an unlucky number is variously credited. Astrologers of ancient Babylon so declared it. Mythologists of Old Scandinavia gave the number the curse of sages because Balder, their sun-god, had to die when 13 were found in the circle of Valhalla.

Some who would have it the idea originated with the Christian era point out there were 13 at the Last Supper, including Judas Iscariot, who next day, traditionally a Friday, betrayed Jesus Christ for crucifixion.

Friday the 13th is taking a long vacation. He will not appear again till August of 1937 and only the once that year.

In 1936 his only date with the weary world is in May, but in 1939 he resumes twice-yearly appearances, January and October, will return that one can approach, whom no man has ever seen or can see (Moffat's translation).

Canadian Public Libraries

Over $1 Million Books Loaned For Home Use During The Year

Public libraries in Canada during 1935 cost eighteen cents per capita—less than two per cent. of the cost of public schools, and about ten per cent. of the cost of universities and colleges. Public libraries in operation during the year numbered 642, and the expenditure on them was about two million dollars. They lent over 21 million volumes for home use and probably between one-third and one-half as many more to reading-room and reference-room borrowers. Canadian public libraries lend two books a year for every man, woman and child of the population

In addition to the public libraries, which are primarily urban institutions, travelling libraries circulate in every province of Canada The object of travelling libraries is to supplement the book stock of small public school libraries and to provide some public library service in communities otherwise without any. Three universities, Acadia Dalhousie and St. Francis Xavier conduct such libraries in Nova Scotia. and McGill University circulates libraries in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Each of the provincial university governments operates a provincial system of travelling libraries with headquarters at the provincial capital

— A NOVEL BY —

"I suppose it was inevitable, but—well, I got jealous. How could I help it? Yes, jealous of every man you smiled at, danced with, talked to—the one who told you to smile! I tried to tell myself that I hated you for your tantalizing indifference. I tried, right from the start, to think of you the worst—the very worst. I didn't realize until I kissed you this afternoon that I love you; that I have loved you from the beginning."

There was a pregnant silence in Starr's heart, a strange throbbing like the beat of wings. Then there came to her veins, like the sound of those vital drums of the heart, made of stretched goatskins, that one heard when approaching an oasis. Uncanny, certainly, but so compelling, delicious, filled with a strange delight.

Michael loved her! The Hassan of her own Arabian Nights story loved her!

She tried to realize it, and realization brought a strange sense of fleeting right from the inmost depths of her being, like nothing she had ever known before, or dreamed of. It was the first real thing in her life, especially in this swift merry-go-round of crazy days and nights. Michael loved her!

She did not realize at just what moment he found her hands she only knew of a sudden that he was holding them, crushing them in a strong grip that hurt and thrilled at the same time. He was begging; his voice was humble.

"It's not too late, is it, Starr? Say it isn't! You'll go away from here. I have enough money. I don't think I ever want to hear of the word again—except for what it will bring to you and me, if you'll say so—just what I already have. We'll go somewhere where no one has ever heard of that wretched 'Play-Girl.' We'll start all over again, in a home of our own. Everything will be so different . . ." There was no ache in his voice that petitioned "Starr! Say something!"

In the darkness her lips moved wordlessly. What could se say? Michael loved her!

She had brought him to this. Yes, deliberately. The tantalizing indifference of her manner had been as far from that as it was possible to be. It had been part of a carefully-thought-out scheme to punish him for his cruelty and his contempt for vengeance against him and against Stephanie Dale She had wanted him to suffer as Michael used to her feet, and then she would have laughed at him! And tossed her head at the very thought of him now. Her name Dale with all her Peter Stuyvesant ancestry! Sweet revenge!

In this moment of realization, revenge was a boomerang which completed its vicious parabola and landed squarely on Starr Elliott's own head! And Starr knew it. In this startling moment that she loved him, too, that a despairing love of him had been there for most of the blackest moments of the days since she had known him. That realization overshadowed everything else, even the upheld scythe of the Grim Reaper which was always menacing her

She loved him, and in all her forbidden dreams she had never visualized that love would be like this, an overwhelmingly emotional, throat-choking storm beside which all other emotions she had ever known paled into insignificance. A grand, mad passion that rocked body and soul. The same sort of passion that Tut-Amen-Ra had known for the lovely priestess, Ama-Sun, so that he meant to bear her in time and eternity. . .

Cursing to the depths of his own soul any one who should ever disturb their side-by-sideness. So much Starr Elliott understood now, in one brief, flashing moment that she had been unconscious before. A poignant pity for the disturbed lovers in their tomb in far-away Egypt, near the fringe of the Valley of the Queens, swept over her. Now she knew!

Michael's warm hands were gripping hers, pleading as was his voice.

"Starr! Say something!"

What could she say? What could she offer this man whose dearest friend was gone soon, and hundreds daughters? She would make him a widower almost before he was a bridegroom. Kismet his name was.

Suddenly her ears began to ring with an ominous jarring rhythm. It was all around her in the air.

Kismet! Kismet! Not—Thou Shalt Not. . . ." The curse of her life!

Again an imaginary parade passed before her eyes, bringing the great set heartbreak a woman could know Starry little men with clear gray eyes like Michael's, little girls who looked like Stephanie. They must look like Stephanie; they could never be Starr's. She, with a wild, yearning dream of motherhood; she with her pitiful few months left to live!

She strained against his enveloping arms.

"Michael, let me go!"

He only laughed—the confident laugh of a conquering lover.

"Why should I let you go, when I've only just found you?"

Starr was awake on the instant. She shivered in the lulling warmth of the room and the silk and lace of her boudoir bed.

"No, Michael! You can't! Didn't I tell you? I'll be saving you all Lance's party stuff."

She meant to hang up, but somehow she didn't. It was as wonderful to hear Michael's voice—just to hear it.

"Wait!" he was calling through the air. "Did you dare hang up on me, woman! You hear me?"

"But, Hassan. I'm sleepy . . ."

"No buts' get into some clothes, honey! I know you and you'd give me my answer tonight, but I'm not going to wait. Been awake since the war office recognizes their existence

CRAWLED UPSTAIRS ON ALL FOURS

Owing to Rheumatism in Her Knees

It was not a very dignified way of going upstairs, but she had rheumatism in her knees, and it was the best she could do, at the time. Since then, she has been taking Kruschen Salts, and now feels much better. Here is her letter:

"I had very painful gout in my big toe and could only get upstairs on all fours owing to rheumatism in my knees. It is over three years ago since I commenced taking Kruschen Salts. I must say on damp days I still have a little gout, but my knees are quite better. I am over 60 years of age, have a comfortable home and feel very fit. I am fully repaid for taking a half teaspoonful of Salts each morning in a cup of hot water.—(Mrs.) A.W."

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action, and helping them to get rid of the excess acid which is the cause of so much suffering.

Must Be Taught Courage

Four Plays Large Part In Life Of Some Children

Few adults realize what a large part is played by fear in the life of a child. Many children live in fear or recall their early days and nights when fear was a very real and terrible sensation. Some have to learn by bitter experience that the child's unreasoning terrors. Fear of the darkness of goblins, of ridicule, of punishment, of physical and mental contests, all influence the lives of many children without help and handicapping in the race of life.

Parents and teachers should above all things seek to avoid arousing fear, and help to overcome it in the child. If the baby cries because he is afraid of the dark, by all means let him have a light and words. "Starr!" He heard her sleepy murmur answer. "What! Not awake yet! Arise and shine, honey—I'm coming over!"

A Notable Compliment

George Robertson Of Ottawa Selected As Judge Of New York Poultry Show

A notable compliment has been paid to Canada by a United States organization. The North Eastern Poultry Producers' Company requested the services of George Robertson of Ottawa, Assistant Dominion Poultry Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Dominion Department of Agriculture, to act as judge to select what is known as the hen of the year at their poultry show which was held in New York City from November 10 to 14 1936 This show is one of the leading annual exhibitions of poultry in the United States and the request for a Canadian judge to be regarded one of the highest possible compliments in the realm of poultry judging.

When the invitation came to act as judge at New York, Mr Robertson replied that he was booked to act at the same time at the Ottawa Winter Fair, where for thirty years in succession he had acted as judge How-ever, the promoters of the New York show stated that the matter was one of tremendous importance to the American Poultry Association and to the poultry industry as a whole that he should make the award in the major competition of the New York Show The management of the Ottawa Winter Fair, therefore, considered that, in view of what might be regarded as a distinct compliment to Canada, he should go to New York; and for the first time in 30 years George Robertson did not judge at Ottawa.

It was only recently that another high honour was paid Mr Robertson when at the convention of the American Poultry Judges' Association, held at Topeka, Kansas, in September 1936, he was elected president of the association. This is the first Canadian since 1872 when the association was organized that a Canadian has been elected president. Mr. Robertson was further honoured by being elected to the very responsible position of chair of the Standards Revision Committee of the American Poultry Association For several years he has been a judge at the leading poultry shows throughout Canada and the United States

Cannot Be Abolished

Athoil Highlanders Given Royal Patent By Queen Victoria

Law or no law, the Duke of Atholl's little army cannot be abolished

When Great Britain's public opinion will receive final sanction from parliament, all political uniforms and private armies in Great Britain will be banned except the kilted Atholl Highlanders

Their immunity to the law dates from 1845 when Queen Victoria, on her first visit to Scotland, granted the Duke of Atholl's grandfather a Royal patent.

Victoria, it is said, was so delighted with the 200 kilted clansmen, armed with old Scottish battle-axes, she suggested they be converted into a standing army and presented with a powerful rifles.

Although the Atholl Highlanders never appeared in the army list, the war office recognizes their existence

In facial tissues when the Hapsburgs were organized to fight for the Ishes of Atholl against civil wars there was a real fighting force when the duke a little army appears only about once a year, in September when the duke marches at dawn of his clansmen in Highland ceremony.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By
M. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

China is the largest wheat producer in the world.

Of the 3,500 million bushels of wheat produced and consumed on the average each year in the world, the Chinese production and consumption is about 25c million.

The U.S.S.R. (Russia) follows, a close second, with almost the same amount, but it is expected that in a few years the wheat grown in the U.S.S.R. will exceed the Chinese production. The population of the U.S.S.R. is increasing at such a rate that it seems almost certain that the people there will require for their own consumption every bushel on the average that the U.S.S.R. can raise. (Russia tells us that she does not produce wheat for export in competition with Canada, and will only sell wheat abroad when she has a much larger crop than usual).

Third comes the United States with a production in normal years of about 800 million bushels. Fourth comes Canada with an average of 385 million. Next India with 240 million, then France with 230 million. Argentina with 233 million, Italy with 223 million and Spain with 145 million, then a number of countries each of which produces quantities varying from 110 million down to 5 million.

Following worldwide factors have recently tended to raise prices Lack of moisture in U.S.A Southwest continues—France and Italy buying (are seeing)—flooding in Europe delayed by rains—Nearby report confirms lack subsoil moisture Canadian West South African wheat crop less than last year—Reports of disease in A China—China harvests large cotton crop.

CHILD IS BORN TO MR. AND MRS. KING

Kingston, Nov. 24.—A child was born to Mr and Mrs. Mackenzie King at Kingston General Hospital and the attending physician's name was Bethune.

But the event had no political significance, as Mr. and Mrs. King live in Kingston and claim no relationship to Canada's Premier. Likewise, it was Dr. C. W. Bethune of Kingston, and not the Conservative Party Leader, who officiated at the birth.

Geese, like ducks, require a large proportion of roughage in their feed This is supplied best in winter by the use of alfalfa or clover hay and roots, and in summer by grass.

In Southern Rhodesia gold mining is carried on by a great many small operators. There are innumerable mines and mining companies in one to-distinction to South Africa where a few large groups control the industry. The premium on gold has resulted in an increased output from the mines of Southern Rhodesia, 724,896 fine ounces valued at approximately $15,350,820 being produced last year, according to the statistical department of the Canadian National Railways.

W.C.T.U. SPONSORS HEALTH ADDRESS TO CHILDREN

Miss Miller of the Vermilion School of Agriculture gave a very delightful address to the children who gathered at the Presbyterian Church Parlors for the White Ribbonee Program, provided by the local W. C. T. U., on Friday afternoon, Nov 27. Miss Miller illustrated her lecture with her Fairy Health House—and what an exciting little home it was! The roof was shingled with brown health biscuits; the wall were screened,—oh, so deliciously — with oat meal and other health cereals; the chimneys were two little milk bottles filled with milk (a which the fairy, Minnie Mineral, loved to play. It helped her to build the shining white teeth she loved to make for little boy and girls — and which they equally delighted to have. The open windows were curtained with lovey, slender veined lettuce leaves and shuttered with thin half slice sandwiches of bread and butter. A funny little mashed potato snowman stood in the yard and rice and currants paved the walks. A chocolate rabbit hopped between the fairy trees and peeped over the raw carrot flowers in the flower beds where bolliocy—real bolliocys grew on several stems The strangest thing about the house was the fairy folk who dwelt there, and who could make such firm white teeth, such supple muscles and bubbling energy, such rosy cheeks and shiny hair for girls and boys. If but only "if", the boys and girls ate the minerals, the proteins and carbohydrates and vitamins that they require and which are always to be found in the various parts of the Health house The children gazed starry-eyed with enchantment.

This feature of the program was greatly appreciated and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Miller for the time she had spent building the beautiful House of Health and its charming story as related by her.

OXFORD PREPARES TO USE MEDICAL RESEARCH FUND

London, Nov 24—Initial steps to make practical use of the £1,150,000 (about $6,250,000) donated to Oxford University by Lord Nuffield, motor manufacturer, for medical research, were taken today.

The University's seal was fixed to a document establishing a trust to administer the bequest. An increase in the sphere of activity of the University's Medical School is envisaged.

ANNIVERSARY OF TELEGRAPH CABLE

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Nov 26 November 27 was the anniversary date in the development of the art of telegraphic communication, for on that date, eighty four years ago, the first submarine cable in North America was laid across the Strait of Northumberland between Cape Tormentine (now Borden), Prince Edward Island, and Cape Tormentine in New Brunswick. Three years ago a bronze plaque was affixed to the facade of the historic Province House in Charlottetown, the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada commemorating the event.

WILDMERE WINKS

Everyone was very sorry to hear of the death of Ray Stranahan on Wednesday evening last. Our deepest sympathy goes out to his young wife, his parents and brother who are left behind to mourn his early death. In all sports Ray was a bright spot and he will be greatly missed by young and old alike. In April of 1935 he was married to Jean McLean of Tolland

On Wednesday Mrs. Gardett of Basaswood visited at the Cruthers' home in Wildmere.

Last week both Mr. Holte and Mr. Best of Wildmere received the sad news of the death of their fathers. Mr Holte attended his father's funeral held at Wetaskiwin on Sunday. Mr. Best's father passed on at Smith Falls Ontario. Our deepest sympathy is extended to both in their bereavement.

A skating party was held by the Lease at Wallington's lake on Wednesday and a nice crowd turned out. After skating a weiner roast was held which everyone surely enjoyed. An other one is planned for later on while the ice is still good.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Isley called off their wedding dance to be held at Tolland last Friday, owing to Ray Stranahan's death. A dance at Triangle which was to be held this Friday was also called off. Both will be held later on.

Soon be Christmas time! Lots of concerts are being announced: Triangle, Friday Dec. 18th, Basswood, Wildmere 22nd, Willoughby and Tolland 23rd. Take them all in folks.

Howard Gibson who has been visiting at the Nash home in Vamost for two weeks, returned home on Saturday afternoon, bringing Jimmie Nash and a friend with him

Quite a number of young folks gathered at the Wallington lake on Sunday to skate, afterwards spending a pleasant evening at the Wallington house

Ice 1st and it is still lovely two thes for this time of year Quite a difference to our winter last year

Mr and Mrs. Wes. Isley of Wood vale visited on Sunday Nov 22 at the homes of Mr and Mrs. John Isley and Mr and Mrs. A Reader. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. E. Isley visited at the Reudell home

On Sunday Doris Riley and Ruth Martin were visitors at the Sandberg home.

Funniest things seen—Was Everett Isley driving around with a low wagon with a dandy string of sleigh bells on his team, and a young man of Basswood getting practice hanging clothes on the line

Whose Savings Will be Next?

The money the people of this Province borrowed was used to provide them the houses, barns, and lands which now give them shelter and in which they do business. They have used them, and they continue to do so. Should they not recognize those who made it possible for them to have those things? Is it just that those who have saved, and who have been thrifty, to provide you with the facilities you possess should now be deprived of their savings?

Let those who look upon the lending companies as "big loansmen" require what money they have enjoyed They will learn, as we shall tell them in one of the statements to follow.

If the citizens of Alberta pass by lightly the injustice of this Act, what is to prevent their own savings, their homes their business, their farms and other possessions being taken away from them? Can they feel safe in the enjoyment of their savings? Keep in mind that the confiscation of the property of others is only the first step leading to the confiscation of ours.

You have been told that our Government does not intend to confiscate. The Reduction and Settlement of Debt Act would confiscate the savings of hundreds of thousands of people Whose savings will be taken next?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. Its represent hundreds of thousands of small loan clients by typical families. It loans in citizens of Alberta amount to some twenty-five million dollars.

(The third statement in the series will be published in two weeks.)

THE WEATHER

The month long summer weather enjoyed for the past month during which very little frost was registered, was blown out of existence on the heels of a strong north west gale early Wednesday morning. Last week end the weather was mild but unsettled, with a light snow falling Saturday, Sunday to Tuesday was mild and a steady rain fell most of Tuesday morning and afternoon. Temperatures also fell Tuesday night, the wind gained in velocity, veered to the north west and a blizzard was the result, the thermometer dropping to 1 below zero. The icy blast prevailed all Wednesday giving way to a hard frost with a low point of 21 below zero at 7 a.m. on Thursday morning. Thursday dawned clear, bright and frosty.

WESTERN CANADIAN YOUNGSTERS DO WELL

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 30.—In their way home after having spent a week at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, members of the boys' and girls' clubs from Western Canada passed through Winnipeg over Canadian National lines with a fair share of the spoils. All the western representatives were in open competition with members of clubs from all over Canada and made a very good showing.

The Manitoba girls team from Treherne won first prize for poultry judging. They also won second prize for grain judging and beef cattle and won fourth prize for swine judging

The Saskatchewan representatives won third prize for swine judging third for beef cattle and fourth prize for grain judging

Alberta was victorious in the swine judging competition with the rain Ferguson sisters from Conjuring Creek capturing the honors.

Herman Trelle Wins Wheat, Oats Crown

FIFTY-ACRE, Nov. 30.—Herman Trelle, Wembley, Alta., farmer, retained the wheat crown of the world Sunday at the International grain and hay show giving him a double "Kingship" Mr. Trelle became the "oats king" Saturday.

The Peace River valley farmer secured the wheat victory on his return to competition after three years' enforced retirement because of illness previous time.

It was the 16th time in 18 years that Canada has won the wheat title.

Trelle's sample was called "Reward" a hard spring wheat originated by the cereal division of the Canadian government's experimental farm. It weighed 66.5 pounds to the bushel

Trelle who is 42 years old, farms a 2-section farm six miles north of the international boundary in a region he calls "the land of no drouth."

Beaming and confident when his victory was made known at the title Saturday, the Canadian said "my entry is the one they'll have to beat to win." It was his 16th grand championship in 11 years of competition and the second time he has scored a "double" in the wheat and oats classes over to do it. His first was in 1926. Each time, he said he exhibited only one sample of each

He has won grand championships also in pea, flax, timothy and rye.

The Unemployed Youth Problem

A most important contribution to the problem of providing for the care of the unemployed will have been made if the youth division of the Federal Unemployment Commission under Alan Chambers is able to make feasible suggestions for the absorption of unemployed young men and women by industry.

Absorption by industry is mentioned as a sine qua non to the solution of this problem because it is only in this way that the problem of unemployed youth can be solved permanently and in a satisfactory manner. All other plans can be nothing more than temporary palliatives

This section of the Unemployment Commission has already made an interim report to the Federal government and it is reported that the cabinet at Ottawa, at the time of writing, is busily engaged considering the proposals contained in the report, presumably with a view to putting into effect as speedily as possible those suggestions which may be deemed timely and expedient.

One of the most interesting and important recommendations in the report is a proposal for the establishment of a system of apprenticeship in co-operation with industrial concerns and, for more reasons than one, this may be regarded as one of the most satisfactory features of the proposals.

In the first place a system of apprenticeship would constitute a step in the direction of a permanent solution of the problem for those young men and women who would participate

In the second place an apprenticeship system would solve a problem which industry is facing in the near future, namely a shortage of skilled help. This is a problem which is already looming on the industrial horizon and one which is likely to become acute within the next three or four years, in the opinion of observers Unless industry itself takes the initiative, without government aid, the country is likely to witness, in the near future, the anomalous spectacle of thousands of young people ready and presumably educationally equipped for a life vocation on the one hand and, on the other hand, industry clamoring for technically trained help but unwilling to take those available because they are not experienced.

This pending situation lends one to speculate as to the efficiency of the training conducted in the public technical and vocational training schools of the country Are they fulfilling the purpose for which they were established and partially endowed with funds from the Federal treasury?

Some doubt may be expressed in the answer to this question in the light of present day experience. Parents find, after their sons have completed a course in these schools that, even where there are vacancies to be filled, the industry for which these boys have presumably been trained are not willing to take them because they are "inexperienced".

In illustration one might cite the automobile industry, an industry which has been reasonably busy, at least during the last couple of years, despite the depression and is showing increasing signs of virility. Yet, when there are vacancies in automobile repair and service shops, foremen look around for men who have previously engaged in this class of work and take them on rather than the youthful product of motor engineering classes in the technical schools because the former are experienced.

There foreman point out, and presumably with justification, that they cannot fill a vacancy in their shops with one of these young men because they could not charge their customers the time it would take them to do a repair job, even though they were showing a low wage Presumably this condition will exist until the last available experienced man has been absorbed and the industry is forced to take on youths turned out by the technical schools with a completed course to their credit.

In the meantime, the vocational schools are turning out young men apparently equipped to take their place in the industrial world only to find there are no jobs for them or they cannot take some other work which could be undertaken by those who have had no vocational training.

All of which leads to the impression that some effort will have to be made in the vocational schools to adapt the work on a more practicable basis than has hitherto been available, so that when youths leave to adventure into the world of industry they will at least be as well qualified on account of third year experience.

This may mean remodelling the classes in the vocational schools under changed conditions or other changes will have to be made in the system of training through a hook up with industrial concerns

It might also be said without contradiction that industry itself has been short-sighted in not having provided for future requirements by establishing a system of apprenticeship on its own account on a general scale

Light Beam Be One Sees

Pure African Air Makes Powerful Bronco Light Invisible

Every night a 2,000-foot beam of light is thrown into the sky at the Empire Exhibition at Johannesburg, South Africa, by a 14,000,000-candle-power beacon - yet no one can see it!

The Johannesburg climate is to blame. It has baffled the engineers who set out to make the beam visible for 100 miles They installed the apparatus in a hollow tower, 150 feet high and dominating the entire exhibition. This they called the Tower of Light

Their plans have miscarried. All spectators can see on a cloudless night is the glow of the stars, even when the light is fully switched on.

This paradox is caused by the purity of Johannesburg's air. There are no humidity, no dust, and no low clouds for the light to be reflected against -and light is invisible unless it is reflected, as scientist has explained to the exhibition authorities.

Thus the most powerful light in South Africa cannot be seen. Even the blue Bluff lighthouse is only 3,000,000 candlepower and the Cape St. Francis light is 2,000,000 candle power, but they flash down on to the sea. If for a second the 14,000,000 candlepower beam of light could be turned down on to the exhibition grounds every one would be temporarily blinded. Similarly if the airplanes would fly in the beam's path, it would be picked out with daylight clarity up to a height of 5,000 feet.

New Means Of Livelihood

Poor In Japan Earn Money From Cat Hunting

Japanese poor have turned to cat catching for a livelihood. They sell the cats to makers of musical instruments for manufacture of cat gut strings.

With a fluttering sparrow as bait and a club for a weapon, the cat catcher stands at the mouth of a break when the toms and their mates are returning from a tour of the night's prowl.

The cat catcher pulls a string attached to his sparrow's legs. The bird responds with the scarcity hop of attacks. The cat jumps and the stalker bangs with a club—thereby killing both cat and bird.

One hazard—the cat catcher is liable to prosecution for destruction of private property to the extent of the animal belonging to someone else.

Nineteen Years Of Flying

Imperial Airways Commander Has Flown 1,000,000 Miles

Known as the "Captain Kettle of the Air," because of his pointed beard, O. P. Jones, one of the senior commanders of Imperial Airways, Ltd., has now spent an aggregate time in the air of just over a year and a half, and has piloted aircraft a distance equivalent to 23 journeys round the world.

He has completed 19 years of flying, during which time he has been in the air nearly 13,000 hours, has carried "approximately 80,000 passengers without mishap, and has flown 1,300,000 miles. Mr. Jones is only 38.

All Empire Wood

In a letter to the Times, the Chief Royal Engineer, Canada, says that the wayfarer goes up the escalator at Morgate Station he goes on a trip through the Empire's forests, for the whole of the balustrade is composed of beautiful panels of wood from every part of the Empire, Africa, India, Newfoundland, Africa, India, and Britain itself are rich in timber which, he says, is why he chose the excellent idea to Morgate Station"—Canada's Weekly, London.

Woodpeckers Do Not Carry Grass

Woodpeckers do not carry grass and feathers to line their nests, as do many other birds, but they cannot be considered lazy. Few birds work as diligently at woodpeckers in building their nests. They are the master carpenters of the bird world.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Full of Pep

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach, you get constipated, Harmful poisons from this decaying mass may be absorbed into the blood and make you sick and miserable.

A mere laxative movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills. They get the right action. Make sure you get Carter's Little Liver Pills—and see that the name Carter's is on the box. Then look for the Red Signal. Refuse substitutes. They do not act like Carter's Little Liver Pills. Don't accept them. They may be the cause of untold misery. Carter's Little Liver Pills must relieve you or your money back. Use them. Only 25c at all druggists.

Learning To Walk Again

Altred Scadding Suffers Greatly Even Taking Few Steps

Seven months after the disease Rhet Altred in Hova, Scotia endured, Altred Scadding, one of the survivors is learning to walk again

Scadding began creeping around the room, clinging to tables and the bed and then tried a little trip to his small daughter's room.

Even such a jount means his ankles and heels caused him torture. He says that the efforts of surgery to save his feet. He hopes they succeeded

Scadding went out in a couple of football games but each time he paid in pain for the fun because the cold aggravates the agonny.

With Dr. D. E. Robertson, of Toronto, Scadding was rescued from the cave-in last April that brought death to Herman Magill, of Toronto, from exposure.

According To Color

Red Blooms In Istanbul, Turkey, Indicate High Class Women

There soon won't be any trouble in deciding which is "Park Avenue" in Istanbul, Turkey All the women will be painted bright red. And, to prevent less fortunate citizens from forgetting that they live in slums their homes will be dull green.

This branding of the different sections of the ancient city is expected of the Municipal Council, which is one of the most original in the world The Council decreed that houses in the Turkish quarter shall be painted the same color according to "the breadth of the streets, the brightness of light and particularly on the social classes to which the inhabitants of the different quarters belong."

No vehicles will be permitted on "red" streets, which are reserved for pedestrians.

Synthetic Chocolate

New Product Of Nazi Germany Makes Big Hit

German store windows are enticing the German consumers interest and pocketbook almost daily by displaying the latest in synthetic products.

The article that made an immediate hit with Germans was synthetic chocolate", one of the substitute products of which Nazi Germany is most proud. Wrapped up in the usual fancy paper and advertised as a "particularly nourishing and tasteful," it looks like a bar of creamy caramel and tastes somewhat like it. The only "chocolate" left to the German "chocolate" is the fine ration contained.

Root Crops Better

Bureau Of Statistics Issues Report On 1936 Crops

Production of potatoes, turnips, mangolds, sugar beets and carrots in Canada this year was higher than in 1935 but production of hay and fodder corn was lower, the Dominion bureau of statistics reports. Increased sowing of fall wheat has increased production but fall rye were also reported. The information was contained in the bureau's report on, production of potato, root and fodder crops the figures report the second out-caste of the season.

Taking Full Advantage

A tourist now a sign outside a hot which reads, "Tourist cabins." He decided to stay the night, and put his car in the garage. On leaving for a stroll he was approached by the attendant, who asked him what accommodation he required.

Oh—er—room, thank you," he replied. "I'm sleeping in the car"

Few Dogs In Russia

Dogs are almost non-existent in Russian cities, for three reasons: Russians fear and dislike dogs, except in the rural regions, where they are trained to work Universal living quarters leave little room for pets. Costs of feeding a dog is generally too much for the proletariat

When the alligator rears, it emits a smelly scent which can be detected miles away.

Sees Another Depression

Economist Says Future Holds Both Threat And Promise

Willard L. Thorp, director of economic research for Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., told the American finance conference that "if depression is around the corner behind us, it is also around the next corner in the future."

Thorp said in reference to the "next corner" that there "are no grounds for assurance that it is not there.

"Already, I find evidence in tabulated spots of the appearance of 'boom psychology'," he said. "With expanding consumer purchasing power, interest rates low and six years of enforced consumer economy behind us, some are seeing no limit to the current upswing. . . .

"We seem to be headed for what a British professor calls 'a period of optimistic error'."

The "problems of prosperity," Thorp said, "are more difficult than those of depression. . . I know no condition which is more dangerous for a business than a period of sustained high profits."

He asserted there was a need of "long-term planning" because of "future includes both threat and promise."

Outstanding Athlete

Dr. Phil Edwards Of Montreal Awarded Memorial Prize

Dr. Phil Edwards, dusky Montreal runner, was awarded the Norton H. Crow Memorial prize as Canada's outstanding athlete and sportsman of the year.

The great British Guiana middle-distance man, a point-winner for Canada at three Olympic games, was honored with the award at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada at Regina.

Edwards has been competing for years in track work with McGill University influenced the committee in recommending Edwards for the award.

Robert "Scotty" Rankine, Preston, Ont., distance runner, was the only other nominee.

Since the award was made first in 1931 to Percy Williams, Vancouver C.A.A.A. has been won by Alec Wilson, Montreal; Jimmy Hall, Winnipeg; Harold Webster, Hamilton, Ont., and Allen Meagher, Halifax.

A Real Masterpiece

California Rubber Makes Unique Cake Five Feet High

George Wong, Oakland, California, is a baker by profession, but in spare time he amuses himself making cakes.

George's off-hour productions, however, are not the sins you buy in a bakery. They tower up and up until they almost hit the ceiling.

His masterpiece is a work of combination of the Taj Mahal, the California State Capitol, and the 1932 world's fair. It is more than five feet and occupies a base four feet by three.

Wong used 1,035 eggs and 400 pounds of powdered sugar in its construction, and nothing else. It weighs 450 pounds and is made from no butter at $3,000.

Among its features—all in miniature—are 84 cakes, 108 candlesticks, nine office equipped with desks, telephones, radios and even coat hangers, 48 flower pots and 39 figures of occupants.

For his make-believe people he constructed tan fire-escapes.

Underground Parking For London

Would Help To Relieve Traffic Problem In Metropolis

The world's metropolis may soon have underground parking areas

Mr. Hore-Belisha, the British minister of transport, has suggested to the local authorities that they should give prompt consideration to the powers which parliament extended to them under the Provisional Road Traffic Bubon Development Act of last year.

The act gave power to London local authorities to provide and maintain both buildings and underground areas for use as parking places

Mr. Hore-Belisha has already expressed the view that the parking of vehicles in a public street is a privilegeed use of the highway and compensation will be paid to the owners of property.

For his make-believe people he constructed tan fire-escapes.

Marketing Wheat

Wheat Wheat Board Operations To Extend To Coarse Grains

Calgary. — Five recommendations to aid Canadian farmers were set forth in the annual report of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, made public by L. C. Brouillette, of Regina, at the 14th annual meeting of the Alberta wheat pool.

They were:

1 That the Canadian wheat board operations be extended to coarse grains.

2. That the board should set up its own marketing agencies.

3 That international co-operation should be sought with the object of obtaining price levels for surplus wheat, fair both to producers and consumers.

4. That Canada, through trade agreements, should grant tariff concessions for the purpose of enlarging markets for Canadian wheat.

5. If, after all efforts have been made, the average annual wheat surplus of Canada cannot be absorbed, that necessary legislation be enacted to provide a quota system of deliveries from the farm.

Peace Award Annoys Nazis

Nobel Prize Bestowed On German Pacifist Provokes Insult

Berlin. The German government termed award of the 1935 Nobel peace prize to Carl von Ossietzky, German pacifist, "an insult to Germany."

Ossietzky, who was sentenced by the highest court of his country as a traitor"

The statement promised a further "direct reply" of a nature not revealed.

It was distributed as a commentary on an Oslo item by the German news agency briefly announcing the award.

"Bestowing the Nobel prize on a notorious traitor," the statement continued, "is an impudent challenge and insult to the new Germany. A proper, direct answer will follow"

Matter Under Consideration

But No Decision Reached Regarding Trans-Canada Air Service

Ottawa. Organization of trans-Canada air services the Dominion government hopes to see in operation some time next year is occupying officials of the government but developments have not yet reached the stage where any details may be announced, Transport Minister C. D Howe said.

What form the coast-to-coast operating concern will take has been a matter of much conjecture but the minister indicated no definite decisions had been reached in this respect. It is not anticipated the government will go into the air mail and passenger business itself and there is a strong rumor that the company will be largely controlled by the two railway systems, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific

R.C.M.P. Enlistments

Many Applicants Reach Year, But Only Some 300 Accepted

Montreal Eleven hundred and 5,000 men seek enlistment in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police each year but only some 300 are accepted, Major-General Sir James H MacBrien, commissioner of the force, told members of the Montreal junior board of trade

There is still some romance in the R.C.M.P. he said as he dealt briefly with the northern work of his men About 125 of the 3,000 men on the force are active in northern fields, Sir James said.

WANT BETTER ENFORCEMENT OF MOTOR LAWS

Ottawa.—The first national safety conference passed resolutions favoring stricter enforcement of laws dealing with drunken drivers, national uniformity in automobile license requirements and traffic laws and compulsory inspection of motor vehicles twice a year.

The conference, ending its sessions, deplored failure to check and punish adequately persons driving cars while under the influence of liquor or narcotics. It urged a proclamation to be issued by provincial governments, under sponsorship of the Dominion administration, calling for observance of a national safety week in 1937.

Another resolution said the conference views with alarm interference with enforcement of traffic regulations and urged all organizations co-operate in having such enforcement agencies. The resolution did not enlarge on the point of interference but it was taken to mean "fixing" of traffic cases by influential persons.

POULTRY FEEDING IS A HIGH ART

The compounding of suitable rations for the various purposes required by poultry feeding is a matter necessitating an intimate knowledge of the feeding values of different feeds, the main reasons as which are set forth among other important subjects in the popular illustrated booklet "Poultry Feeds and Feeding" recently issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Paying attention only to the more important factors in feeding, fairly satisfactory poultry rations are readily made up with the ordinary feeds available on the farm, but, in order to obtain fullest growth in the bird or highest egg production, the proportions of the various rations in [illegible] must be maintained and some judgement exercised in adjusting the ration to suit the environment.

Availability of the various ingredients is one of the first considerations, and when only a limited number is available, it is necessary to choose them so that the essential nutriments in [illegible] without our growth or for egg production as the case may be. Cost is also an important factor, and economy upon payment of all foods and feeds due to the municipality and the purchaser of said animal.

COLLEGE BOYS SET NEW STYLE IN HEAD-GEAR

V. S. A. boys have at last found a way to beat the cold winds so many will they suffer from frost bitten noses, cheeks and ears on the long walk to and from the college. Two of the boys were seen on Wednesday adorned in hoodlike contraptions, resembling somewhat the hood gear of a diver, the fits over their heads, resting on their shoulders, there is a glass window or slide in the front, all having perfectly clean fits, and ventilation facilities are also provided. The boys created something of a sensation when they appeared in their cold-repelling head gear

LIBERAL CANDIDATE IS LEADING GROUARD SEAT

Returns Are Incomplete

With three polls to hear from J.H. Tremblay, Liberal, maintained his lead over the Social Credit candidate, Dr. W. Iwaniuken in the Grouard constituency by-election to fill the legislature seat left vacant by the death of L.A. Giroux, K.C. Liberal, who had held the seat for the last 14 years. With 37 polls out of 40 heard from, Mr. Tremblay had a lead of 134, and scoring a total of 1680 votes to 1556 for Dr. Iwaniuken. The three remaining polls all returned heavy Liberal votes in the 1935 election.

The counting of the election that year was Giroux (Lib.) 2272; Pellier (S. C.) 1447; Requier (U.F.A.) 316.

STEAM HEAT RATE REDUCED; METERS STILL TO BE USED

Monday night's meeting of the Town council decided upon reducing the present rate for steam heat users 25 per cent with a $5.00 connection upon payment before a date which will be set by bylaw. This reduction follows a long argument as to the merits and demerits of the radiation system as a basis for a levy of steam heat charges. The sentiment of the majority of the Council appeared to favor a fair trial being given the heater system. It was intimated that users themselves were not unanimous upon the adoption of the radiation system. The name to go on the rate must be adopted, Councillor Fallow voting against. Councillor Fallow had explained he did not think the meter system in any event could give equitable service to the consumers.

The Speech Translator

Solves Language Problem At League Of Nations Meetings

The "Speech Translator" has helped solve language problems at the League of Nations meetings. For instance when the Emperor Haile Selassie made his address at Geneva he spoke in Amharic. Probably nobody among the 1,000 persons who stood the language, yet the delegates followed the Emperor's speech almost pleasantly. What connected with a microphone in front of the speaker carry his voice to expert translators behind the scenes each of whom can translate the language being used into a second language The system appears simple in that it was which are connected with earphones on the desks of the delegates and have merely to turn a knob to whichever language they want to hear. No Ground For Criticism

Commercial Side Of Canada's Air Service Revealed To Some

Whatever criticism may be leveled against Canada for lack of an effective military air force, there is no ground for criticism of the commercial side. Colonel George A. Drew, who knows a great deal about these things, is authority for the statement that in 1935 Canadian airplanes carried a good deal more freight and express package goods than those of six of the leading countries together. The amount of freight and express transferred by Canadian planes totalled 13,230 tons as compared with 2,136 tons carried in the United Kingdom, 2,068 tons in Germany, 1,458 tons in France, 1,053 tons in Italy, 1,110 tons in Holland and 2,466 tons in the United States.

Primarily this is due to the remarkable extent to which the transcontinental mining areas of Canada are served by air. The bulk of machinery and supplies are conveyed to the mining areas in Quebec, Northern Ontario and the North-West Areas. It is unfortunate that so many of the mines are in remote territories, where snow and ice are early in the season and stay late, and where road-making would be an expensive and difficult proposition. Hence, outside the range of economic practicability at present.

The planes are good, strong and reliable, and the pilots are simply marvellous, as daring as they are skilful Canada may not have any of the super-speed planes of the British Royal Air Force, but if a time should arrive when we need to use planes for defence purposes, it should not need much work to transform the northern airways machines into military planes, with the exact type of pilots ready on the spot.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Pocket-Sized Car

Looks Like Toy But Is Economical Invention Of Ivy Shaddix

A pocket-sized English roadster appeals to women, it is said, because it looks like a toy and can easily avoid bending. It weighs 300 pounds less than the average car, which makes a difference in steering and brake. It could almost be wheeled before the Christmas tree as a surprise gift, it looks so much like a toy. The bubble car also makes for easy parking. A gallon of gas is enough fuel for 40 miles, and an oil purifying unit makes it necessary to change the oil only twice a year. Any lone woman with lots of ground to cover might be enchanted. The line includes roadster, touring car and sedan New York Times.

Fight Political Corruption

Women Of Ashcan To Take Matters In Their Own Hands

Five hundred women vigilantes — "called no odds and giving none" — started incorporation at Phoenix, Ariz., to wage secret but relentless warfare against corrupt government officials.

In filing articles of incorporation the "Women's Investigation Committee of 500" disclosed it had been secretly operating for some time and "our influence already has been felt."

"Several men have called up to ask what we are going to do to them," said Alice M. Birdsall, Phoenix attorney and one of three directors of the committee. Only the directors will be known publicly. The others will work in secret.

"Neglect of duty and corruption in public officials and their employees, as well as of all matters tending to cause corruption in the body politic, or which encourage vice or crime," will be investigated and the findings brought to light, said the articles of incorporation filed with the state corporation commission.

Must Have Permission

American Diplomats Have To Obtain Approval Of U.S. Officialdom Before Marrying Foreigners

An American diplomat who falls in love with a foreigner henceforth will have to propose twice—once to the lady and once to the United States secretary of state.

If the secretary approves he will be free to marry, but if he withholds the secretary's permission before marrying he will face dismissal.

Assenting to foreign service officers, 15 per cent of the total, were married to aliens, the state department made public an executive order, signed by President Roosevelt, forbidding such unions in the future unless the secretary approved.

The order was accompanied by a circular instruction to all consular and diplomatic officers, stating a reason. Consuls of both the diplomat and the marriages "reveals a state of affairs that cannot be regarded with appropriation."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 13

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

Lesson Text: Rev. 1:1-8.

Devotional reading: I. Corinthians 15:35-44.

Explanations And Comments

A Portrait of the Christ, verses 9-20. 1. John, your brother and partaker with you in the tribulation and kingdom and patience which are in Jesus (patience which Jesus brings, Moffatt), was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus (for adhering to God's word and the testimony of Jesus, Moffatt). John was banished to Patmos because of his faithful proclamation of the word of God and witnessing for Christ.

I was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day. That is the first use of "the Lord's Day" for the first day of the week; it was so called in memory of Christ's resurrection. John was meditating upon Christ and the things which he saw, and was open and receptive for the things to come.

And I heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet saying (compare Exod. 3:2-5). What thou seest (your vision), write in a book and send unto the seven churches.

Turning toward the voice that spoke, he saw seven golden candlesticks, which stood for the seven churches (verse 20; see also verse 4). The seven-branched candlestick in the temple may have suggested the figure. And in the midst of the candlesticks was one who resembled a human being, with long robe, and a belt of gold round the breast. Moffatt's translation: "a girded breast." Christ was seen arrayed, not in the priestly, seamless tunic of a Christ-like peasant, as in the days of his ministry, but in the long robe of the royal Priest, which symbolized to a Jew the highest authority on earth. The head and his hair were white like wool, but about the breast, as the High Priest wore it when on duty; Christ was in active service. And his head and his hairs were white like wool, white as wool, white as snow; that is, they were white like wool, which was the symbol of righteousness and wisdom. His eyes were as a flame of fire; compare Dan. 7:9; 10:6. And his feet were like unto fine brass, as if they had been refined in a furnace. "His feet are hard and hot, they consume and shrivel into nothingness all objective [illegible] And his voice as the sound of many waters (Moffatt's translation). "The world's din, with the reverberations of what he says."

And he had in his right hand seven stars, the seven stars were the seven angels of the seven churches: and the countenance, the symbolism means that he holds all the churches of the world in his care. Out of his mouth proceeded a sharp, two-edged sword. His message is two-edged, it acts in many directions, no one can escape from its keenness. And his face shone like the sun in full strength (Moffatt's translation).

And when I saw him I fell at his feet as one dead. Compare the effect of their vision upon Daniel and Ezekiel: Dan. 8:17; 10:9; Ezek. 1:28. When John was with Christ as he walked and talked in Galilee, he was not been so overpowered by his presence. But John the exile was overcome when he beheld Christ in the full splendor of his glory and power, as the ever living Christ working in history, full names of speechless before him. But Christ did not leave him to be powerless before him. He laid his right hand upon him, gave him courage and hope as he said, as he had said to him in the days of his flesh, "Fear not." "I am the first and the last." He continued, "stop trembling, see, and I was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore, and I have the keys of death and of Hades." By "Hades" is understood the realm of the dead, and no distinction is to be made between it and death.

The only country in which regular slave markets still exist is Arabia. At Mid-Berk and Hail the Arab-owned slaves brought from all parts of Africa are sold weekly.

The Coliseum at Rome accommodated 100,000 spectators, 87,000 of which were seated. Its arena measured 182 feet from side to side, and 286 feet from end to end.

Greece issued the first coin to bear a human likeness, that of Athena, goddess of wisdom. On the reverse side was the figure of an owl.

CHANGED HER SHOES FIVE TIMES A DAY

Suffered for 20 Years with Rheumatism

Try and picture the life this woman had for twenty years—changing her shoes several times a day in a vain endeavor to attain some relief from the rheumatic pains that were constantly troubling her. Then imagine her joy when she found that Kruschen was driving away the rheumatism. This is what she writes:—

"I have been using Kruschen Salts for four years. For twenty years previously I had suffered with my feet, sometimes changing my shoes five times a day, and frequently sitting without any as the pain was so great. Now I can wear the same pair of shoes all day with comfort. I cannot speak too highly of Kruschen Salts. Only those who had been in constant pain with their feet for years can realize what it is to be free."—(Mrs.) E.A.

It is deposits of excess uric acid, lodging between the joints, which are frequently the cause of rheumatism. Kruschen Salts contain two ingredients—sodium and potassium which are effective solvents of uric acid.

The City Of Madrid

Although Spanish Capital It Is Not Very Important

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal says although Madrid is the Spanish capital, it lacks the ecclesiastical prestige of Toledo and the commercial importance of Barcelona. Its high buildings have narrow streets make it rather a gloomy city, but it has many splendid boulevards, parks, squares, and practically no suburbs. Its climate has been described as "three months in an icehouse and nine in a furnace."

Spanish archaeologists claim great antiquity for Madrid, but its first mention is in an Arab chronicle no more than a century before our Norman Conquest. They say it was founded first the Moors in 1083, Henry V used it as a hunting seat, and, Philip II, Charles IV, and Ferdinand VII, it was not until 1560, two years after Queen Elizabeth had been crowned in Westminster Abbey, that Philip II, of Armada fame made Madrid his capital and only court

Madrid's population of 784 Madrid is really a legend, and, as ancient European cities go, it is almost a parvenu.

RISING WORLD PRICE LEVEL

A steadily rising general price level is noted in the majority of countries throughout the world, some quite marked increases having taken place quite recently.

It is true British prices are low 27 points above the low point reached on September 14th 1931, just prior to Britain's departure from the gold standard.

The index number of wholesale prices in the United States shows an advance of 30 points from the level of May 1933, mainly owing to the effects of crops or farm products.

In Canada a corresponding determination is difficult owing to the lack of such index numbers for the general price level. The level has risen very little since 1933, but many things have happened in the meantime which, if they are on the up grade (crop conditions the world over, valuations of money) has been an important factor in this upturn, others are also being returning confidence and the scarcity of products in the face of increased demand.

BRITAIN PLANS FOOD RESERVES

The United Kingdom has at present ample supply of wheat for home consumption, but in order to provide against any emergency that might arise, the government has decided to build up reserves sufficient to meet requirements for a period of six months. The new policy will be put into effect as soon as the present surplus of wheat in the world has been reduced to normal proportions. The world has ample supplies at present, but should trouble arise, the United Kingdom would be in the most favorable position to obtain supplies, as it has the command of the seas. Germany, on the other hand, would be particularly strong able to escape during war time as the fact that submarines can crush havoc with ships bringing in food supplies.

Up to the present Britain has realized her reserves of wheat and other food supplies on the oceans of the world in the holds of hundreds of ships. It has not been exceptional for as many as a million bushels of wheat to be on ocean passage with Great Britain as their ultimate destination.

The suggestion has been made that Great Britain will store two million bushels of wheat in her own land as a reserve in case of war. 100 country for the gathering of this large supply will probably be granted as at the present time there is not such a surplus available to exporting countries. It has also been suggested (and this interests Canada) that the Empire preference of 6c a bushel will be discussed at the next conference of the British Empire countries.

ISLAND HILL

As can be seen by advertisement in this issue folks here are holding a dance at the hall New Year's Eve Thursday Dec. 31st that promises to remain long in the memory of those who may be lucky enough to be present. The program is a very ambitious one, to be a committee representing all the different opinions of the community. It is surely an ideal way to join together, even if it is only for one night to usher in 1937, which everyone hopes will bring peace and prosperity to the province and to the Dominion. A big masquerade dance will bring the old year to a close and as the new year opens its portals the fun begins with a real novelty. Prizes will be awarded for the best dressed and comic costumes. The hall will be specially decorated for the occasion and the Burt orchestra will dispense the music. Special New Year lunch will be served.

Winners at the Whist Drive held at the school Friday were: Ladies— 1 Miss Hunter, 2, Mrs. Alf Searle; 3, Miss Gray, Coulston. Miss E. Searle (hons.) 1, M. Hunter, 2, G. Richardson; 3, H. Acheson and consolation Ned Acheson. some of the boys must be very fond of fish as when it looked one that the same consolation prize was a number of fish most of them turned here to play right. However, Ned had fish for breakfast next morning for the prize was one tin of sardines—prize Sir!

Gosh! We stepped right into trouble (we are seldom out of it) Bob says to that without knowing it built up our pillar last week. The hens were lost at Allandale school and not at Islandale as reported. The standard misses a very able scribe at the latter place and does not need our assistance in reporting events in that neck of the woods.

Members of joint committee in charge of New Years eve dance will please meet at hall Sunday 13 at 3 p.m. as all is leading from the river into town is like a skating rink and unfortunate horses bite the dust or rather the ice by trying to reach the top. The condition of this portion of the road was a refuse and could easily be avoided if the powers to be would in quire into the cause.

Mr and Mrs Wm. Hawkes, Campbell Lake and daughter Connie were guests Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Payne Poplar Heights.

"Scientific Agriculture is his technical and correct name.

Little known, seldom understood, rarely valued or rewarded at his true worth, nevertheless the "White-Collar Farmer's" quiet, persistent efforts enable tens of thousands of prairie farmers to continue their operations to stay on their farms.

Consider the new areas and recent bea farms that have opened up in the West by Marquis wheat, which have added hundreds of millions of dollars to the pockets of Canadian farmers.

Dr. Wm. Saunders, and his son, sir Charles Saunders, of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Ottawa, are responsible for Marquis

Consider Reward and Garnet which in turn, opened up vast areas in Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan. The Saunders family made the first cross now for these varieties and Dr. L. H. Newman, present Dominion Cerealist made the selections and then the distribution to farmers.

Many other varieties of cereals and barleys, Seeds of Dominion varieties of flowers, fruits and shrubs are the products of the plant breeder, the animal breeder, the floriculturist and horticulturist all scientific men of ingenuity, all for the most part the "White-Collar Farmers."

What a debt farmers and all of us owe to these quiet, modest, untiring workers who so well serve agricultural.

Following factors have tended to raise prices:— Large purchases of wheat by United Kingdom and Continent. Rumor Great Britain and other countries intend storing up with wheat. Broomhall increases his estimates world imports by 16 million —Increase in parts U. S. A. winter wheat belt continues. World's crop crop estimates less than last year—French African wheat crop considerably less than last year.

These factors have tended to lower prices —Large wheat crop seeded under favorable conditions in India—Argentina harvesting starts with rising weather on increased acreage, good threshing yields reported. Argentine suspends guaranteed minimum price to farmers on wheat and renews directly increased exports of vegetables from Cuba to U. S. A.

CANADA SHOW WINS ARE BEST IN 37 YEARS

25 Championships Among Prizes at Chicago Livestock Exposition

CHICAGO Dec 7. Canadian farmers and breeders shone to the front in the international livestock exposition, and grain and fat stock show this year made the best showing they have seen in the 37 years of the show's existence.

When the curtain was rung down Saturday on the 1936 "fun to the annual exhibition" it was generally the most successful since the inception the official tabulation of judging results showed the dominion had secured 25 championships and 57 first place blue ribbons.

LACK OF LIBRARIES SAID RURAL PROBLEM

Problem of rural education gave good attention of dominion educational associations attending a convention of the Canadian Association for Adult Education in Toronto recently, according to Ismael Cameron acting director of the University of Alberta extension department.

Mr Cameron returned from the east over the week-end. He was appointed to the council of the association.

One of the chief problems confronting the meeting was lack of rural library facilities. It was estimated that more than half the country's population is without book borrowing facilities of any type.

Power On The Farm

No industry under the sun has greater, more numerous and more varied problems besetting it than has agriculture. Nowhere, perhaps, are these problems more difficult of solution than in Western Canada, because of the immense range of the country and wide variation in seasonal and soil conditions, and by no means least of these problems is the power question for the farmer.

A few years ago the introduction and popularization of large scale power machinery for farm use on the prairies, gave rise to a highly controversial topic usually designated "The Horse versus the Tractor". Many farmers skipped themselves in one of these camps, those who favored horses as the motive power on the farm and those who regarded the tractor as the one and only form of power worth while for field operations.

The controversy at times became tinged with bitterness and threatened to become an open feud. Cudgels verbal ones, of course, were wielded with great vigor and even governments, university authorities and editors of farm papers were accused of trucking to the one side or the other.

For some years it looked as though the advocates of power machinery were in the ascendency and it was even freely predicted that the time was not far off when the horse would be as extinct as the proverbial dodo, save perhaps for a few specimens that would be preserved in zoological gardens for the benefit of the curious and the student of natural history.

Reason, which appeared to be tottering on her throne whenever the issue was raised, re-assumed her sway, partly because, like most other things, it gradually dawned on the general consciousness that there were two ideas to the question and that neither one nor the other was wholly right or entirely wrong. Changing conditions also, which have a habit of occurring in a non-static world, revealed that what might be true under certain conditions at a given time and place was not necessarily true under other conditions, at some other time. In agriculture, as in most other spheres there is no law of the Medes and Persians.

And at this juncture, it might not be inappropriate to remark that this is precisely the reason why farming in a hazardous enterprise and requires, in addition to a bouyeing of luck, a considerable amount of energy, ability and good judgment, to ensure a sporting chance of success.

That to "return to our muttons", it must be generally recognized to-day that both the horse and the tractor have their place in the agricultural scheme in the prairie provinces and both are likely to have a useful purpose to serve for many years to come.

This has recently been emphasized by A. E. Hardy, Professor of Agricultural Engineering of the University of Saskatchewan, acknowledged as one of the foremost authorities on the subject, in a series of addresses and lectures to farmers.

Professor Hardy pointed out that under certain soil conditions results which are unattainable with horses can be achieved by power driven machinery and vice versa. He also pointed out that in some sections of the country where soil and other conditions are different farmers would find it almost impossible to carry on with horses at the present time.

There are other considerations which must necessarily be a guide to the farmer in determining what type of power is best suited to his particular purposes and these include his own economic circumstances. There are individual farmers and even some sections of the country where a combination of the two forms of power may yield the best results.

The size of the farm, the individual financial circumstances and the type of help he is able to secure is an important consideration. There are men who can get much better results from a team of horses than it would be possible for them to do with a tractor and vice versa. Then there is the question of mechanical turn of mind, under the same conditions, are able to achieve much more with a tractive than with horse power and with greater economy. Likewise, there are many farmers who could not get results with power machinery, whose sons using them on the farm have very little liking for livestock but can achieve wonders with power machinery.

So that the question of the individual farmer and the type of help he is able to secure is an important consideration. There are men who can get much better results from a team of horses than it would be possible for them to do with a tractor and vice versa. So that the question of the individual farmer, taking into consideration the class of soil and the nature of the topography of his land, the use of his buildings, his own economic circumstances and his own aptitude, predilections and projects as well as those of the nature of help available.

In this respect the problem is like that of many others which have been or are the subject of heated controversy. The answer does not lie in any dogmatic saying but in the circumstances, operating conditions and aptitude of the individual.

New Style Locomotive

Is Designed To Compete With The Diesel-Electrics

Borrowing an idea from Barney Oldfield's steam racing car of 1909, a new railroad steam locomotive, designed to compete with the Diesel-electrics running the new streamlined expresses was announced at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The new engine is steam-electric, named the "Steamotive." Its steam runs an electric turbine so electricity drives the wheels.

Oldfield's engine made quick, hot "flash" steam by exposing a big area of heating pipes to fire. The new steamotive does the same. It is a midget with giant steam power. It carries a quarter mile of steam pipes all in a space the size of two office desks.

This double-deck area encloses the entire steam and heating plant. An oil burner furnishes heat.

Two of these locomotive units are now under construction. The announcement said their horsepower will be 2,500 each.

The rates the newest "baby" of steam power at its birth on a par with the best diesel and the finest electric energy. It is still a long way under the most powerful of all engines, the 6,000 horsepower 4-8-8-4 6,000 horsepower. It is under the 5,000 horsepower of electric locomotives which get their "juice" from wire or third rail.

But the engineering society's announcement hints that the steamotive is being enlarged, can be made in feasible sizes of 10,000 horsepower per locomotive.

Diesel-electrics at present run from 900 to 1,600 horsepower per unit and are usually coupled in multiple so their units have been hooked together on one locomotive

The "steamotive" engine's power comes from the fact its steam is produced at pressures of 1,500 pounds a square inch. A little of this steam is used to run the fire, but the lower pressure steam ordinarily used in locomotives.

The steam is thrown at high speed through the heating pipes in order to prevent the danger of explosions of the super-power steam.

Turkeys For British Market

Largest Shipments Will Be From The Prairie Provinces

Present prospects are that approaching 1,000,000 pounds of turkeys will be exported from Canada to the British Isles in 1936 for Christmas consumption, it was said by officials of the Canadian Pacific Railways to the British market for the Christmas trade was made in 1932. Some well conditioned birds were also chilled and frozen birds found ready buyers because of their recognized superior quality. Last year 1,500,000 pounds were exported from the Dominion are graded, packed and inspected according to Dominion Government standards before shipment.

Turkey raising has developed into quite a substantial industry in Canada in recent years. Of this year's export movement it is expected Manitoba will have the largest percentage. The shipments for export will go forward both chilled and frozen.

While the principal development in turkey raising in the past few years has been in Western Canada, the industry has been making considerable progress in Eastern Canada, particularly in Ontario and Quebec, where artificial hatching and rearing is carried on somewhat extensively. Most of the turkeys exported are obtained from farmers engaged in mixed farming who raise comparatively small flocks.

Foreign Capital In U.S.

Survey Indicates Foreign Holdings To Be Approximately Seven Billion Dollars

Publishing for the first time the details of foreign capital movements about which Press-Secret Roosevelt recently expressed concern the United States treasury disclosed a $2,381,-648,000 net inflow of funds from abroad between Jan. 1, 1935, and last Sept. 30.

This inflow, representing the excess of funds coming into the country over those going out, came chiefly from Great Britain Switzerland, France, the Netherlands and Canada.

Correlated with commerce department reports on capital movements, the treasury survey indicated foreign holdings in this country approximated $7,000,000,000 believed the highest in history on Sept. 30.

House Of Lords Rejects Measure To Permit Medical Men To Kill Incurable Patients

The house of lords voted down proposed legislation to permit medical men to kill patients suffering from agonizing incurable ailments.

Under the weight of opposition from such persons as Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physician, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, the proposal was rejected by a vote of 35 to 14.

Despite present defeat, the bill's sponsor, Lord Pennonby, predicted eventual passage of a revived measure to permit "euthanasia" (easy death).

"I am certain," he said, "that the time will come when parliament will have to regulate the matter and I am certain that a measure of this kind will be accepted some day.

"I am afraid the alliance between the forces of the Church of England and doctors will defeat me, but I think it is not the first time the priesthood and medical men have come together."

In leading opposition to the bill, Lord Dawson said sentiment was changing from the days of dying to be made more gentle, but that doctors alone could determine whether a patient's desire for death was mere impatience.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said "I cannot think it is better to leave this difficult and delicate matter in the hands of the medical profession than to drag it into the open and regulate it by legal procedure.

"In this matter I would trust the judgment and honor of the medical profession."

Viscount Fitzalan, a Roman Catholic, said "People of all creeds have as a whole accepted the tradition that the Almighty reserves to Himself the power to determine the moment when life shall become extinct."

Seats For Coronation

Large Number Of Applications For Seats To View The Procession

A large number of applications for seats from which to view the coronation procession on the next May have been received by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, and it has been decided to close the subscription list for seats at the high commissioner's disposal on Jan. 1, announcement to that effect was made from the office of the prime minister.

Blanks are being erected along the procession route by the United Kingdom government and certain sections of Canadians will be given to the commissioners of the various dominions. As it is expected the demand may exceed the supply it has been decided all applications for accommodations at the disposal of the high commissioner must reach him before the end of the year.

It was further announced applications for seats will be dealt with individually and that none will be considered if made through an intermediary, booking office or business firm.

Canadians wishing to obtain reserved seats in the sections allotted to the Canadian high commissioner will apply direct to his secretary at Canada House in London.

Just An Imaginary Line

International Boundary Means Nothing To Canadian Beaver

The Canadian-American boundary at International Falls, Minn., is just an imaginary line to a band of beavers as customs officials are known to have labored to "suppress" vised entry" into the United States.

The Canadian beavers live on Rainy River island but, effected the Americans shore for wood and food supplies. American property owners, complaining about the damage, asked that the beasts be "deported."

"Deportation" must wait until spring, however, because the state game and fish department ruled the fur-bearers inviolate during their winter slumber.

Trans-Canada Aviation

Passenger And Mail Service To Be In Operation In Near Future

Trans-Canada passenger and air mail service will be in operation by 1936 or 1939 at the latest, Transport Minister Howe told members of a Montreal service club.

This service will be linked with trans-North Atlantic service which the minister said is expected to be completed in two years.

He said the Dominion government had made extensive preparations for this service. Landing fields have been established between Montreal and Vancouver at distances 50 miles apart. These fields will be ready for traffic next summer, he said.

The government plans to furnish landing fields, radio beacons and weather reports. "We will look to private interests to do the actual flying," he added.

Under recent agreements between Canada, Great Britain and Ireland, experimental flights across the north Atlantic route will be made next summer, the minister said. "Canada's job will be to pick up passengers and air-mail at the eastern border and fly them to Vancouver."

"When aviation has been developed in Canada a trip from Montreal to Vancouver will be no longer a distant part of a day, instead of three days and four nights as required at present."

The minister said he did not believe the development of aviation would affect the railways. "Instead I believe it will help them," he asserted. "It will render people more travel conscious. We have not by any means created all the transportation which we are capable of creating in Canada."

Praise For British Navy

One Canadian Pays Tribute To Efficiency And Humane Interest

R. L. Cockfield, M.D., R.C.N. nursing Hospital, Shekhi, South China, tells this story:

Just what the British navy means to Canadians who are temporarily domiciled in lands beyond the seas, may be gathered from the following recent experience of the writer, which typifies the attitude of the navy to Empire citizens wherever they may be found.

The child of my medical colleague, a Canadian also, was critically ill, and he felt the need of a consultant. Unfortunately, by the usual mode of travel, we are at least one day distant from him, therefore in this predicament, he boarded H.M.S. Robin, which happened to be anchored in the port, and stated his case to the Commander. In short order the ship was steaming "out," down the river, and within six hours were at the bedside of the sick child.

And so, whenever at festive boards the toasts are being made, there will always be a particular toast made by one Canadian in tribute to a service that has, and always will be the saving of the word service. And the toast will be "The British Navy."

Memorial To Young Airman

Father Takes Heavy Blame From England To Prosser

One of the women who care for the English village war memorials in France, relates that a father has gone to heroic lengths to erect a memorial to the young airman, his son, who died battling in the sky during the World War. The monument is a heavy unpolished stone from Devonshire, England. It was pushed on a handcart by the father from his village in Devon to the coast. A ship carried it to the French coast, and a barge took it up the rivers to Rouen. From there the father set out with his handcart again and pushed the stone all the way to the cemetery. The woman caretaker showed him the grave and he hauled the huge stone onto it from his village in his heart burst, not, sobbing bitterly, he said. "That is the last thing I can do for him."

PLAN FOR HOME IMPROVEMENTS IS WELL UNDER WAY

Ottawa.—The home improvement plan not only affords an opportunity to borrow money at the lowest rate for instalment loans in the world but provides home owners with an attractive means of attacking unemployment, members of the cabinet and members of the national unemployment commission told a meeting here.

The meeting, called to discuss a local loan committee, was addressed by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice; Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance; Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor; Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal, chairman of the commission; and Fred W. A. McClintock, Kingston, commission member.

Despite winter conditions and the fact details of the plan are not yet familiar, said Mr. Dunning, the banks have reported that in the first two weeks of November—865 loans have been made with an aggregate value of more than $320,000.

Outstanding men have been chosen as chairmen of provincial committees, Mr. Purvis added. A chairman for Ontario would be chosen in a few days, he stated.

The plan is not merely a plan for lending or borrowing money, declared Mr. Purvis. "It is most emphatically and primarily a plan for inspiring home owners to make their homes and brighten their homes and thus give work to the end that unemployment is reduced, and the home owner may do it out of his own savings so much the better. If he cannot, the home improvement plan is there for him to get the money. The important thing, however, is for the work to go on."

The plan provides Canadian citizens with an obligation as well as an opportunity, Mr. Purvis said.

"Our opportunity as home owners is matched by our obligations as citizens. In the degree that we improve our homes we relieve the government of the necessity of providing relief for the unemployed who are able and anxious to use their idle hands in the improvement of our homes. These men are our neighbors and our countrymen. Many of them are skilled mechanics.

"Their craftsmanship and experience are a national asset which must not be wasted." Mr. Rogers emphasized. "Most of them have families dependent on them. Many of them have had to apply for the relief period of depression."

An opportunity was owed those unemployed workers in the building trades to re-establish themselves in their chosen calling.

Explaining financial details of the plan, Mr. Dunning said a home owner wishing to carry out improvements on his home may borrow money from his bank at a discount rate of 8¼ per cent. for a loan repayable over a five year period by instalments. This works out at an interest rate of 6.32 per cent. It was merely necessary for the home owner to show he is the kind of person who pays his debts and has enough income to meet the instalments.

In other words," said Mr. Dunning, "these are intended to be based on character and income, and not on collateral security."

The plan was almost 40 per cent. below that charged on home repair loans in the United States. "Indeed I believe that this charge represents the lowest cost instalment loan plan that is anywhere available in any country in the world."

It was doubtful if the lending institutions would make any money out of the plan.

British War Debts

London.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, indicated in the House of Commons there were no immediate prospects for reopening war debt discussions between Great Britain and the United States.

Tree Planting Program

Manitoba Suggestion To Give Employment To Veterans

Winnipeg. — A tree-planting program to give employment to war veterans was suggested to the veterans assistance commission in session here by Frank Sewell, Neepawa, Man., on behalf of the Manitoba command, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

Mr. Sewell said Neepawa and the rural municipalities of Rosedale, Langford and Lansdowne each were prepared to donate 160 acres of land for experiment, tree planting if the Dominion government would finance the work.

Planting of pine trees along main highways was recommended as a tourist attraction and an aid as windbreak and in soil moisture conservation.

Work For Unemployed

Project To Be Carried Out On Peace River Highway

Edmonton. — Agreement has been reached between the Dominion and provincial governments for the putting to work of 1,500 unemployed men on three projects, when funds containing the Dominion's agreement to participate in the scheme was received in Edmonton by C. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief.

The projects on which work will be carried out will be the Peace River highway, Jasper highway and the Spirit River connection of the Jasper-Banff highway.

The work will commence immediately and will continue until March 31 next. Men will be paid 30 cents an hour.

Ban On Volunteers

Britain Anxious About Reports Of Recruits For Spain

London.—Disturbed by the threatening international scene, the British government issued a two diplomatic moves.

A note was presented by the foreign office to the German embassy, expressing British regret that Germany by unilateral action had denounced the interwars clauses of the Versailles treaty.

France and Czechoslovakia also despatched notes to the Wilhelmstrasse, expressing regret at the German denunciation of the waterways pact.

Before the International Hands Off Spain committee, the Earl of Plymouth, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, took the first step towards a ban on volunteers for Spain.

Lord Plymouth expressed the "anxiety" of the British government regarding reports of the arrival in increasing numbers of foreign volunteers in Spain. He asked the non-intervention committee to consider the question.

European tension over the Spanish situation, meanwhile, was lessened by an announcement from the German embassy in London the reich had no intention of denouncing the non-intervention agreement or sending troops to Spain.

The propaganda further agreed to the immediate despatch to the two parties in Spain of a plan for supervision of the importation of arms and other war materials into Spain at the principal points of entry by land and sea.

Molineux Loses Way On Last Lap Of Speed Flight

Cape Town, South Africa.—Capt. James A. Molineux lost his way on the last lap of a speed flight from London to Cape Town and failed to break the record set earlier this year by his estranged wife, Amy Johnson.

Molineux and his co-pilot, Elsmore Rainbird-Hardy, took off from Rand, Kimberley, hoping to conclude quickly their speedy 6,000-mile dash to Cape Town, but at 2:37 p.m. cost them their chance to better the mark of three days, four hours, 29 minutes Amy Johnson set.

Modern Roman Road

Project Two-Way Concrete Highway Between Berlin And Rome

Berlin.—A projected two-way concrete highway between Berlin and Rome, creating a strategic connection between two of Europe's fascist capitals, was announced as the subject of lengthy discussions among Chancellor Hitler, Dr. Fritz Todt, general inspector of highwaymen construction, and Senator Pierro Turicelli, Italian road builder.

The project would link the Baltic and the Mediterranean by a modern highway which informed sources regarded as the first practical following-up of the German-Italian alliance.

Britain Stands United

Nation Is Prepared For Any Acts Of Aggression

London.—Arthur Greenwood, deputy Labor leader in the House of Commons, said in a speech here the country stands united against aggression.

"Let no foreign nation think that if peace is assailed this country is going to split from top to bottom," he said.

"We are prepared without qualification to defend the country with all the arms necessary to fulfill undertakings given to other nations to preserve the peace of the world. There is no doubt of this in the minds of 99 per cent. of the people."

News Broadcast System Satisfactory Says Gladstone Murray

Sydney, N.S.—Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said in an interview here the present system of news broadcast supplied by The Canadian Press was "highly satisfactory."

Development in this particular field will follow when the situation warrants, Mr. Murray declared.

"I am a believer in co-operation with the newspapers," he said "A great deal of public good can be accomplished by the co-operation of these two factors, radio and the press."

Armament Orders

British Places Large Order In One Of The Dominions

London.—Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, told the House of Commons at question time that armaments orders amounting to £400,000 had recently been placed in one of the dominions. He did not say which one.

The orders included parts of certain scientific instruments and shell bodies. They were placed in order to maintain supplies until the requisite output was available in Great Britain.

Concerning rearmament progress, Sir Thomas said the supply of munitions was generally proceeding according to estimate.

Require Large Sum For Drouth Relief In Western Canada

Ottawa Norman Sommerville of Toronto, chairman of the national council of the Canadian Red Cross Society, launched a national appeal for $750,000 to be used in drouth relief of western farmers and their families.

Mr. Sommerville told interviewers more than $150,000, including $50,000 from W. J. McConnell of Montreal, and $100,000 worth of goods had been supplied by various industries.

The campaign was opened at a luncheon

Sommerville said: "We have no conception of the picture in the drouth areas where many farmers have not had any revenue for from five to eight years. Things are more desperate than we ever dreamed of and the need is greater than ever. It actually is a national emergency.

FRANCE INTENDS TO LAUNCH HUGE NAVAL PROGRAM

Paris.—France has announced plans for a huge naval building program to be as an answer to increased warship construction by Germany and Italy.

The minister of marine outlined his program to the chamber naval affairs committee, which reported an increased power of the German and Italian fleets."

He informed the committee he would ask parliament to make funds available speedily as soon as the supreme council completes study of the plan.

The construction plan calls for five 35,000-ton battleships and ten 10,000-ton cruisers by 1943 at an estimated cost of $572,000,000.

The navy minister recommended addition of 4,000 men to the fleet immediately.

At the same time Air Minister Pierre Cot told the chamber finance committee 1,500 new planes will be built in 1937 instead of the 1,083 planes previously contemplated.

MUST BUY MORE IN ORDER TO SELL CANADIAN WHEAT

Winnipeg.—Canada must buy more merchandise from wheat importing countries if she wants to sell her surplus wheat, declared C. D. Davidson secretary of the Canadian wheat board, in evidence before the Turgeon royal grain commission.

"From the standpoint of the wheat situation," he said, "continental Europe must be brought into the main stream of international trade."

He advised that Canada review her trade relations with wheat importing countries, particularly continental European countries.

Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of Regina, appointed a royal commissioner to investigate the grain trade in all its phases, heard Mr. Davidson review Canada's place in world wheat markets and point to reasons for declines in Canadian grain exports.

Mr. Davidson reviewed the distribution of Canadian wheat exports with a comparison of the five-year period 1925-26 to 1929-30 with the five-year period from 1930-31 to 1934-35.

Continental Europe in the first five-year period took an annual average of 155,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat. The average declined to [illegible] bushels in an average of 102,000,000 bushels in the later five-year period, he said.

The United Kingdom for the first five-year period bought an annual average of 82,000,000 bushels from the Dominion and this dropped 16,000,000 bushels to an annual average of 66,000,000 bushels in the second five-year period.

The United took an average of 16,000,000 bushels in the 1925-26 to 1929-30 five-year period and this average declined 2,000,000 bushels to [illegible] bushels for the five-year period 1930-31 to 1934-35.

Other countries took an annual average of 11,100,000 bushels for the first five-year period. This figure declined 2 [illegible] bushels to 9,000,000 bushels in the second five-year period, said Mr Davidson.

The total annual average exports in the five-year period 1925-26 to 1929-30 was 265,100,000 bushels, Mr. Davidson pointed out. In the second five-year period [illegible] [illegible] bushels. The average declined 13,000,000 bushels.

Wheat Consumption In Canada

The Hon. Mr. Gardiner at the opening session of the Turgeon Grain Inquiry Commission by James Muir the chief statistician of the Canadian Wheat Board to the effect that the annual per capita consumption of wheat in Canada has declined more than a half a bushel in the past six years must have occasioned considerable surprise.

More than surprising, it is a startling revelation contained in the figures supporting his contention that a fairly steady annual consumption of 4.5 bushels per head of population for a period of years prior to and including 1929 had dropped to 3.9 bushels by 1935.

No reason was assigned by Mr McAnsh for this reduced support for one of the principal home industries of the country, so far as news reports of the proceedings indicate, but, when it is remembered that this reduced consumption in the producing country is augmented by diminishing consumption of Canada wheat in importing countries it is a matter of concern which appears to require further investigation.

A reduced consumption of wheat at home might not be a matter of such grave concern to Canadian farmers if it were not for restriction in the export market and if it was due to an increased consumption in Canada of other Western Canadian grown products, but no evidence has been adduced to show that this is the case.

Until some further evidence to show the cause of this decline in home consumption is available it is produced, the subject is one likely to arouse considerable speculation.

In a recent editorial the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix sought to show, by reference to a series of index figures representing the sales of a number of commodities that the blame should not be laid at the door of the Western Canadian consumer, leaving the inference that the reduction of the use of cereal products on the most limited scale of any food must be attributed to change in the diet habits of the people of Eastern Canada.

This appears to be a reasonable inference in the light of the fact that wheat products in the form of bread constitute the cheapest food commodity available in this country and the further fact that conditions in the agricultural west in the last few years have not warranted the substitution of more expensive food for the humble loaf.

If improved economic conditions are responsible for reduced consumption of wheat products in Canada it is only the east that can qualify for this distinction. Certainly conditions in the west up to mid including 1935 have not warranted any upward change in the general dietary of the people.

Experience of recent years has shown that as economic conditions improve in countries with a relatively high standard of living there is a tendency in every case down consumption of cereal products in favor of an increased use of meats, fruits and dairy products. This has happened in the past two or three years in Great Britain and particularly in Scotland, accounting for a surprising market for Canadian wheat in the Motherland.

Informative light on the dietetic trends of countries of the world was shed by Professor J. B. Davis of the University of Stanford Research Institute in the World's Grain Exhibition when he said: "Data can be quoted carefully compiled and analyzed; statistics to show that in countries with a high standard of living such as the United States there was a progressively marked tendency towards a reduced consumption of cereals, while in countries of the world into three groups he proved that there is a reverse tendency in countries with a low standard of living, such as China and India while consumption in the intermediate group in which he included a number of mid-Western countries remains more or less static.

The combined information confirms statements made some time ago in this column, namely that the ambition of the farmers of the Canadian wheat producer lies in two directions, the opening up of new or comparatively new markets in countries where the living standard is still low and success upon most of increased consumption in countries with a high standard of living, and particularly the latter for obvious reasons.

During the past couple of years the millers of Great Britain, alarmed at the steady decline of wheat consumption in their own country have been staging an "Eat more Bread" campaign, but apparently with comparatively little effect. This is not very surprising because, if people want higher-priced commodities and are able to pay for them, they will buy them regardless of such campaigns.

The only way that such campaigns can be effective is to back them up by making bread and other wheat products more attractive. This is being done to a limited extent by bakeries in some of the urban centres of Western Canada by the use of "nonsense needs" and other "seasonings" which not only make bread more attractive in appearance but more appealing to the palate and what is more to the bakers get a higher price for such products than the standard loaf.

If consumers in Western Canadian cities are prepared to pay more for "fancy" breads, the probability is that such methods would bring increased consumption if properly launched and pushed with vigor in the United Kingdom and Eastern Canada and this is a field which might be well worth exploring.

In countries where the standard of living is high and rising the solution for the wheat producer lies not in cheapening the product but in making it more attractive

Broadcast Reception

Highly Unsatisfactory Over Wide Areas Of Prairie Provinces

Highly unsatisfactory broadcast reception conditions over wide areas of the prairie provinces is the subject of a statement by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The statement, issued by the corporation to western newspapers, says:

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation desires that radio listeners in Western Canada should know that it is aware of the unsatisfactory broadcast reception conditions over wide areas of the prairie provinces, and that it is moving as rapidly as possible towards their correction.

The corporation's coverage survey has progressed far enough to show that western coverage is inadequate and that reception interference from outside Canada is aggravating the situation in blanketing stations to which listeners ordinarily look for Canadian broadcasting. The survey position realizes that this situation is causing great inconvenience to many thousands of western people.

The results of the coverage survey were nearly ready for examination when bad static interfered.

Temporary measures of redress are being taken wherever possible but unfortunately the situation is such that expedients are unusually few. Permanent solution requires the application of a comprehensive plan.

View Of Famous Violinist

Fritz Kreisler Thinks Radio Broadcasting Has Cheapened Music

Fritz Kreisler said in San Francisco that radio had a distinct effect on music as a profession

Notably shy before the microphone himself, the violinist declared that "broadcasting more what the artist produces, and what the public gets is not the artist's concept of music, but the radio operator's conception."

Radio may not have affected the quality of music, Kreisler said, but it has all but wiped out the rank and file.

"If radio makes music too easily obtainable, the artist asserted.

Those who pay for tickets to a concert and then stay home to attend a recital in a hall have made some sort of sacrifice, however small," he said. "Radio has created a tendency to dilute the music in the home tends to cheapen it.

All three spoke in no proper accompaniment to a Toscanini broadcast."

Valuable Stamp

Proof That Collectors Is Listed Stamp Is Also Rare

A faded little stamp of British Guiana, dated 1856 and generally known as the "world at Large" variable," excited delegates to the American philatelic congress. A group of collectors took plane for keeping it in America permanently.

The stamp was part of the estate of Arthur Hind, New York manufacturer, and now is in the possession of his widow, who has remarried and lives in Switzerland. In 1922 at an auction in Paris for $32,500, Fawcett said. Collectors said it's the only one of its kind ever found.

One Thing World Needs

Longer Sermons And More People To Hear Them

To our mind says the Chatham, Ontario, News, the average church-goer spends too much time worrying over the length of sermons. Most men who do go to church, are present in the Sanctuary once a week. That means that they spend all their waking hours of the week thinking about material things. And even when they do go to church they can spare only a few minutes of their time listening to the minister talk about spiritual things. They limit the speaker to 20 minutes not a very long time when you consider how many minutes there are in a whole week.

As a matter of fact an hour should not be considered too long, under such circumstances—and when we look at conditions in the world today, one of the things we need apparently is not shorter sermons, but "more and longer" sermons—and more men to listen to them.

Queen Mary Paid Visit To Former Member Of Royal Household

On a recent afternoon a ring came to the door of No. 39, Inglis-road, Ealing. When the servant opened the door, he saw two women standing on the step, one young, the other white-haired. He bowed to the elder. It was Queen Mary.

She drove to the house, an ordinary suburban two-storey one, to visit an old friend, Lord Ormathwaite, who is 77 years of age and who was once a member of the Royal Household. For 13 years, from 1907 to 1920, he was Master of Ceremonies. But now Lord Ormathwaite is nearly blind. His wife, who was president of Queen Mary's Sewing Guild, died 13 years ago and he is confined to an invalid's chair.

To cheer him in his retirement, Queen Mary sends him a present of game from Sandringham every Christmas and the other day with Lady Forester, she brought her old friend a thick rug to wear in his garden. She found him in his invalid's chair.

"I'm afraid I can't get up, your Majesty," said Lord Ormathwaite.

"Don't you move," replied Queen Mary. "Here let me wrap this rug around your knees."

She did. Then she sat down by his side, and for half an hour Queen Mary and her old friend talked of things that are past.

WELCOME FROM THE POPULACE TO THE NEW KING

London.—On every side there were indications last night of sincere welcome from the populace of the United Kingdom is awaiting the Duke and Duchess of York as king and queen.

Naturally they are not so well known to the empire at large or even within these isles as King Edward VIII. but of their genuine good-will to all and anxiety to serve the community there has been abundant proof.

It is too early to say yet whether they will be able to undertake the empire tour already provisionally planned for King Edward. The duke has often expressed a desire to visit Canada, with which his acquaintance is very slight. In 1913, as a cadet in the royal navy, he visited Halifax. He also made a visit to Niagara Falls, Ont., passing through Toronto en route.

The duke does not enjoy such robust health as his brother, although his physical disabilities seem to have been largely overcome of recent years.

It is no conventional statement to say the Duchess of York "the Little Duchess," as she is often called—has a charm almost peculiar to herself. She was recalled here at the launching of the Canadian Pacific liner bearing her name and followed by her she walked along the slipway, nodding and smiling all the way to the somewhat dour crowds of Clydeside shipworkers.

The duke, too, has an easy way in public, particularly as he has now almost completely overcome a stammer easy to stammer which once was a serious handicap to making speeches.

He is not afraid, either, of showing any jokes about those around him. One of these, an allusion to the famous Australian cricketer, Jack O'Connor, in an after-dinner speech, was greeted with loud laughter.

"Mr. O'Connor," he said, "is devoted to Ireland. In fact, he will do anything for Ireland except live in it."

It was only last Dec. 3 that the Duke and Duchess paid a memorable visit to Edinburgh, when the Duchess received the freedom of the Scottish capital and the duke participated in high historic ceremonies.

As for their children, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, their photographs hang in thousands of nurseries all over the empire.

With such a happy family circle established shortly in Buckingham palace, feeling was the throne would become an even added lustre.

Airliner Crashes

Fourteen Persons Meet Sudden Death At Croydon Airdrome

Croydon, Eng. Fourteen persons, among them a number of well-known autogyro inventor, met sudden death in the crash of a "K.L.M." (Dutch) airliner, 1,000 yards off the runway at Croydon airdrome.

Three survived, with varying injuries. They were Mrs. Constance Spencer Walter Schubert, the wireless operator; Von Hennsel, and the stewardess, Josephine Van Gent-man. The condition of the more was grave; that of the stewardess, who leaped from the craft before it caught fire, was not dangerous.

Trapped by twisted steel and flames, Dr. Cierva died with the former Swedish secretary of state Admiral Arvid Lindman, and 12 others, including two of the crew.

There were 17 persons aboard the airliner The "K.L.M." announced the other dead are:

Baron Gottfried Meyern-Hohenberg, of Germany, former husband of the Vienna actress, Lali Dastr; Charles Robert Dickson, journalist Swedish banker, of Stockholm, Pearson, a Briton. Wegelius, a Finn; Van Arle, Dutch; Dombrikar, Dutch; Dr. Kurt Hoene and Mrs Hoene; Polish; Miss Lipsey, South African; Skepl, a Briton; Capt. Hautzemeyer, pilot; Engineer Verkerk.

The plane, heading into a heavy fog which cut visibility to little more than 20 yards, ripped the roofs off two houses in nearby Purley, swerved across a road, sheered off a large tree and finally embedded itself in an unoccupied house The engine, ripped from its mounting, smashed through the front wall.

The wreckage burned furiously, one crumpled wing of the machine hanging grotesquely from a house, while other parts of the plane blocked the roadway.

It was the most disastrous air crash of the year in England.

The New King

The Duke Of York Will Be The New Duke Of The Empire

London —With the abdication of King Edward VIII. the Duke of York will be the new King of Great Britain and the Dominions.

A prince best known to the British people as a quiet, persistent worker for the well-being of his countrymen in factory and mine—as "Industrial prince"—is the man now in line for the throne.

Albert, Duke of York, has had to take more of the limelight than ever before, because of the historic crisis brought on by governmental opposition to marriage between King Edward and Mrs. Simpson.

As Prince of Wales, Edward, the duke's brother, specialized for a time as an international travelling salesman for the products of his country, often called the "workshop of the world."

But the duke, next in line for the throne, looks not abroad but at home for his specialization. He has concentrated upon the daily lives of workers, striving to make them happier. He has been "working president" of countless organizations, chief among them the Industrial Welfare Society.

This society was formed, he once said, for "cementing that fellowship between all individuals in all walks of industry, irrespective of class or occupation, which is the backbone of all imperial progress."

"Nothing is more important to the security and prosperity of the Empire," he declared another time, "than the keeping up of a high standard of industrial welfare."

For the Duke Father, George V., the duke is patient and shrewd. Tributes are paid him for his "ungrudging devotion to public service."

Through his devotion, he has learned much of some of the hardest social problems and has been active in contributing to their solutions.

Like his father, also, the duke was trained mainly for the navy, and like him, he had to be ready to take the throne should the occasion arise but he has found the problems of intense training for a position he might never fill.

At the same time, in contrast to Edward, who had only himself to think of in training for the throne, the duke always has had to guide his own heir, Princess Elizabeth.

For Edmonton Unemployed

Edmonton Brazen trustees were in demand here in the wake of city council approval for formation of an "ideas" committee to map a works programme for Edmonton unemployed. Representative business men were being called on to assist aldermen in determining the best method of taking jobless off relief and putting them to work at fair wages.

Elected Mayor Of Vancouver

Alderman George Miller Defeats Three Other Candidates

Vancouver.—Alderman George Miller was elected mayor of Vancouver defeating three other candidates, Alderman L. D. McDonald, C. E. Thompson and former mayor L. D. Taylor.

Miller, with 16,020 votes, had a plurality of 2,863 over McDonald, his nearest opponent with 13,043. Thompson got 8,992 and Taylor 3,982. The total vote was 37,887 against 44,007 two years ago when McGeer defeated the then mayor, L. D. Taylor, by 22,000 majority.

Mr. Miller will take office Jan. 3 succeeding G. G. McGeer, M.P., who declined to run again and gave his support to Miller.

The successful candidate has been chairman of the civic finance committee for three years, a member of the city council for eight, and acting mayor during absences of Mr. McGeer.

KING EDWARD HAS RENOUNCED BRITISH THRONE

London.—King Edward VIII. has abdicated. The announcement was made by Capt. Bernard Algernon Fitzroy, Speaker of the House of Commons.

The Duke of York will succeed his brother as king. He will bear the title George VI.

Prime Minister Baldwin prefaced the announcement by telling the members he had "a message from His Majesty the King signed by his own hand."

King Edward's words, in renouncing the British throne, the Speaker read, were:

"I have determined to renounce the throne.

"After long and anxious consideration I have determined to renounce the throne for myself and my children. I am deeply sensible of the duty of my position as heir to the throne and I am now communicating this, my final and irrevocable decision.

"Realizing as I do the gravity of this step, I can only hope that I shall have the understanding of my people in the decision I have taken and the reasons which have led me to take it.

"I will not enter now into my private feeling but I would beg that it may be remembered that the burden which constantly rests upon the shoulders of a sovereign is so heavy that it can only be borne in circumstances different from those in which I now find myself."

"I conceive that I am not overlooking the duty of the heir-apparent in the forefront of public interest when I declare that I am considering the question of making a change this heavy task with efficiency or with satisfaction to myself."

Canada Accepts Mediation Plan Regarding Spanish Civil War

Paris. — The Soviet Union has agreed to join with Great Britain and France in mediation of the Spanish civil war and will refrain from any form of intervention in the conflict, Moscow officially informed Paris.

A Soviet note of the French foreign office announced acceptance of the mediation plan "without reservations" and declared Russia is ready to abstain from direct or indirect intervening in the war on condition that neutrality control guarantees similar abstention by other powers.

Ontario By-Election

Conservative Candidate Wins In Campaign In Hastings East

Melico, Ont. Dr. Harold E. Welsh Conservative, 40-year-old country doctor from Roslin, Ont., was elected member for the Ontario legislature for Hastings East over his Liberal opponent. Dr. H. A. Boyce of Deseronto, after a hard fought provincial by-election.

Election of Dr. Welsh to the legislature seat left vacant by the death of J. F. Hill, Conservative whip, was conceded by James Cox, Liberal campaign manager.

Dr. Welsh took an early lead in the voting, which followed one of the hardest fought political campaigns in Ontario's history. Premier Hepburn and Conservative Leader Rowe led the fight.

Asserting the handwriting was clearly on the wall for the Hepburn government," Mr. Rowe said, "A general election with the ministry unable to provide voters two years of patronage as it has done shamelessly for the past three years, would unloose the full fury of the common people of this province."

Col. Drew said if the premier had any regard for the future welfare "of our people he will call a general election without delay so that those questions which he unfortunately forced into politics for the first time in more than half a century may be settled once and for all."

Rush Supplies To Philippines

Medical Relief Carried By 'Plane To Flood Area

Manila Military aeroplanes sped medical supplies and relief-survey representatives to the flood ravaged Cagayan valley where thousands of residents were reported dead or missing in what army authorities said was the Philippines greatest disaster.

As three planes of the United States and Philippine airline hopped off for the stricken area, additional private reports said many other villages were flooded in addition to the 50 reported inundated.

Whole families were wiped out, crops and live stock washed away and untold damage caused by fast flowing flood waters that rushed down the treacherous river valley in the aftermath of a typhoo

Army air service relief expedition, which left Nichols field, Manila, carried a field hospital unit and other supplies. Reports were received that four more planes were preparing to take off with medical supplies and representatives of the Philippine Red Cross.

Quickly, the extent of the loss of life and property began to unfold. Whether the final estimate of the dead will be 1,000 or 5,000 remains to be seen, but the latter figure is not considered exaggerated.

Reports of a hurricane that struck Cagayan province, Mindanao island, on the night of December 17 and began its destructive march over the interior of Luzon island, Philippine archipelago, on the following day, were confirmed and augmented by reports received from the stricken area.

Manila and Baguio, summer resort in the mountains of northern Luzon island, were cut off from communication with the stricken area by the storm.

Touches High Record

Canada's October Gold Production Was Valued At $11,808,436

Ottawa Mills of Canada's mines ground out a new monthly high record for gold production in October. The figure of 334,060 ounces shattered September's record of 330,826 ounces. At the average price of $34.96 an ounce, Canadian funds in October output had a value of $11,648,450

For the first 10 months of 1936 production was 3,080,611 ounces up 14.8 per cent from 2,683,944 ounces in the same period last year.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan remain registered an advance of 10 per cent in the month with 18,091 ounces. Annual gold production in the Yukon was 7,446 ounces

French Chamber Passes Bill

To Prevent Press Waging Campaigns Against Public Figures

Paris The French Chamber of Deputies, by a vote of 358 to 193, adopted in its entirety, a bill to prevent newspapers from waging such campaigns against public figures as recently led to the suicide of Foreign Minister Roger Salengro.

In the discussion which preceded the vote, the chamber inserted a clause establishing penalties for printed or published agitation in any form against French authority in the colonies.

First To Abdicate

Edward VIII. First King Of Britain To Abdicate In More Than 500 Years

London Edward VIII. became the first king of Great Britain to abdicate in more than 500 years, ending the shortest reign since that of Edward V., who ruled for 14 days in 1553-54. Edward ruled for 11 months

The only other abdication involved Richard II. But Richard's abdication had nothing to do with the love of a woman. Richard ended despotically and was hated throughout the country. Henry of Bolinbroke led an uprising and while Richard was in Ireland crushing a revolt.

When he returned, Henry was master of the country. Richard, last of the Plantagenets, surrendered and abdicated in 1399 to be succeeded by Henry IV., first of the Lancastrians.

Richard died in the Tower before the rising threat of William of Orange after throwing the great English navy behind him. Queen Anne while he always regarded himself as king. Parliament decided he had forfeited the throne and not abdicated

No king of England until Edward abdicated. He is the first king to give up his throne to marry the woman he loved and will go down in history as one of the most popular monarchs in the history of the realm He was the first bachelor king of Great Britain since Edward VI, the son of Henry VIII

History has to turn to the Holy Roman empire for a case that in any way parallels that of Edward VIII. There, weary of struggles and wars, Charles V. in 1556 resigned as emperor to enter a monastery

CANADA HOLDS HIGH PERCENTAGE OF WHEAT TRADE

Winnipeg High percentage of the world wheat trade held by Canada despite decrease in world trade is disclosed in the Turgeon royal grain inquiry commission comparative statistics submitted by James Muir, chief statistician of the Canadian wheat board.

Further evidence was given by C. H. Davidson, secretary of the Canadian wheat board, and Dr. W. F. Geddes, chief chemist of the board of grain commissioners.

Mr. Davidson pointed out a major factor in contraction of world trade in the 1929-32 period was the sharp decline in United States imports. In 1929 the United States imported merchandise worth $4,399,000,000 as compared with $1,322,000,000 in 1932. In recent years U.S. imports were increasing a bit again.

Dr. Geddes told the commission that because of the high quality of Canada's wheat it would command a premium price in the world markets. Such a premium existed in growth of Canada's exports, producing the highest prices in each year.

Chairman Mr. Justice [illegible] commented that statistics submitted showed an average of 38.82 per cent of the world's wheat trade in 1926-30. The United States took [illegible] per cent. Argentina [illegible] per cent. Australia [illegible] per cent and Russia [illegible] per cent.

Mr. Davidson replied that these statistics were correct. Canada's percentage of the world's wheat trade in the 1926-30 period the per cent. Argentina 20.66 for Australia [illegible]

ALBERTA OUT OF STEP IN MARCH TOWARD RECOVERY

Alberta is sharing in the general trend to recovery in M Duggan M L A and leader of the Conservative party in the legislature said in an address to the regional club. Thursday but there are certain factors which are putting her out of step with this national march to prosperity.

He instanced as factors impeding recovery the province's inability to obtain new capital the lack of constructive programs and an increase in the unemployment. how capital can only be secured by removing the existing legislation retarding the free flow of credit discontinuing experiments in politics and the unnecessary appointment of additional Edmonton Bulletin

The Joint committee under the chairmanship of Bert Scaife, sponsor the the masquerade and novelty dance at the hall here New Year's Eve have completed all arrangements for the greatest entertainment that has been held here for many moons. In addition to the chairman the following are the members of committee. P McIntosh, Ike Dan Acheson, F. Mcambridge, Bill Hall, Eric Hawkes, Chas Brady, John Acheson The masquerade dance opens at 9 p.m and if you do not care to come masked, come anyway—don't miss the fun and frolic. See advertisement.

A pleasant surprise awaited Edith Hawkes Sunday when a number of friends called at his home to wish him a Happy Christmas and Prosperous New Year, and presented him with a beautiful pair of gloves. Miss Edith Scaife made the presentation and Bill feelingly returned thanks.

In last week's Standard one of the leading merchants advertised for an heavily handkerchiefs bought in Belfast, Ireland, the headquarters of the linen trade. This recalls to our memory of an incident that happened at the showing of the first cinema picture which was staged at a variety hall in that city In the week's news-paperman this to what happened

"The first picture was of a Fire Brigade engine drawn by a big white horse. First it was seen coming at a distance but when it got near the audience there was a rush for the street I was in it, myself and there were also a number of pressmen in the rush too as they also made for the street I saw nothing but a magic lantern before. We all thought that the members of the orchestra and all in the stalls and pits would be killed."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By
M. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

The price of wheat is governed by the supplies available and as well by the demand for those supplies.

It is because we forget "demand" that we are sometimes disappointed when price does not rise as we think it should. Two years ago, for instance we heard of a serious world shortage of wheat and coarse grains, yet price to our disappointment, didnot rise. Why? Simply because the demand fell off to the same extent as the supplies had become decreased.

Happily, now and then, the reverse is the case. We have had a good instance recently.

During the past few weeks it became apparent that the crop of the Argentine was larger than expected so naturally wheat prices began to decline. Suddenly unexpected demands for wheat appeared, so that in spite of the weight of the largest supplies, prices actually rose.

As far as can be judged the extra demands came from some countries which are "stocking" up with wheat either in preparation for war, or because of fear of it

It seems, apparently, that large supplies of wheat are just as necessary as comfort a war as are supplies of copper, nickel, lead, cotton, rubber and oil.

Prices have tended to be raised by the following European countries having wheat benefit. Four of war in Europe continues Private estimates Argentina crop lower than expected China starts purchasing wheat Current drought raises near new sum mer heavy enough to overcome pres ent lack of subsoil moisture

Prices have tended to be lowered by the following Harvesting of wheat now renewal in Australia according to Italy's crop prevailing largely—Rains easy in North Africa India shipping barley heavily Argentina and Hungarian countries making heavy shipments of maize and rye Rains benefit nearly north Indian crop.

TREES AVAILABLE FOR FARMERS

In connection with the statement of the Alberta Government published last October regarding certain types of trees being available to farmers for transplanting, it was learned in an interview given today by the Hon. D. V. Rose, Minister of Lands and Mines, that a large number of Lodgepole Pine, and to a lesser extent Scotch Pine, are still procurable from the Forestry Division of the department. As a result, applications for these trees for transplanting next spring will continue to be received up to January 31st, 1937.

The stock recently was stated to be large and healthy. It is available only for additions and replacements in shelterbelts and vacant bluffs. Applications forms are obtainable from the Director of Forestry, Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton.

AUBURNDALE

An automobile containing five persons from the Provincehurst district while trying to pass another car on a motion steep grade slipped on the ice and fell down a thirty foot embankment turning over several times before it reached the bottom The occupants, Mr. Tisdall, Mrs Butler George Leslie and Alice Tisdall, although badly shaken up and suffering from shock were none of them seriously injured

The Autumn Leaf S C group held their regular monthly meeting in the Autumn Leaf schoolhouse on Monday evening December 14th. An account of the Exhibition and sale of Work which was held on Friday November 13th in the Auburndale hall was given and $28 was netted, $17.82. It was decided to send $25.00 of this to Provincial Executive for the Provincial Convalescent Home, Edmonton

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

For his studies of the chemistry of digestion, Dr. John Howard Northrop, of the Rockfeller Institute for Medical Research, was awarded the Chandler medal of Columbia University.

On a snow-drifted slope of Mount Royal cemetery, Montreal, a cross of ice, also was unveiled over the grave of General Sir Arthur Currie Canadian corps commander, and former principal of McGill University.

Announcement was made that the king had approved appointment of Sir Wilfred Wernicke Wicks to be a member of the commission government of Newfoundland in succession to Thomas Lodge, whose term of office expires in February.

The Belgian government is considering establishment of a legation at Ottawa and the appointment as Baron Francois Silvercruys, counselor of the Belgian embassy to London as the first Belgian minister to Canada, it was understood.

R. D. Waugh, manager of government paper control administration, notified Ontario and Quebec newsprint companies licensed in the province all beer brought in Manitoba is to be subject to a new tax of $1.25 a case.

Wage increases of 7½ per cent. for all employees in the Sydney steel plant of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation and its subsidiaries in eastern Canada and Newfoundland were announced by Vice-president H J Kelley.

Major G. B. Johnson, Canadian trade commissioner to Scotland said in an interview he believed the Scottish market for Canadian bacon and hams is "ripe" for expansion as Scotland probably is the Dominion's most important market, per capita, for western wheat.

Have Plenty Of Provisions

Trader States Posts Along Arctic Coast Are Well Stocked

Pioneers invited in tending posts strung along the Arctic coast have ample provisions to last another year the Hudson's Bay Company announced here today.

The chief trader, who has ended a seven-year term in charge of buying and other duties in the hinterland, reached Edmonton by aeroplane and told how fish ponds changed just in time for supply boats to break through to their destinations and prevent serious situations at the posts through shortage of food.

Thirteen boats were held up until the middle of September at Baillie Island, about 150 miles east of the mouth of the Mackenzie River, because ice floods blew down on them from all along the Alaskan coast, Mr. Bonnycastle said. The ice piled up the channels leading to Liverpool Gulf and their destinations. The boats were en route east from the mouth of the Mackenzie.

"But we finally got a break and got through," he added. "This was the almost unprecedented year for ice but, by the grace of God and the east wind we finally made it." An east wind sprung up and blew the ice long three or four days opened up channels for three Hudson's Bay Company boats Margaret A, Fort James and Audrey B to get through.

Curbing Use Of Butter

Germany Restoring All Fats Under Four-Year Plan

Workers' meals must take precedence over bourgeois stomachs, according to a decree issued following Sunday by Reich's four-year plan for economic rehabilitation.

The consumption of fat by the German people is at present considerably larger than in pre-war times, the decree said. Therefore it is essential that German hard working laboring people, standing in the forefront of the four-year plan, should be the first to receive necessary amounts of fats."

Under the decree, retail dealers must supply fats of their consumers to the government from which it will be decided how many persons in each household should be served fats.

The government will then appropriate available butter margarine and lard.

Buying Canadian Stocks

The London Evening Standard said that during the past few months investment trusts and insurance companies have been buying large lots of Canadian stocks. The oldest established Scottish companies, with a reputation for caution, are realizing on high-priced British industrial stocks and reinvesting in Canadian securities the paper said.

Outstanding Graduates

Two Appointments Are Made At University Of Saskatchewan

Announcement of two outstanding graduates of the University of Saskatchewan as assistant professors of physical chemistry and mathematics respectively, under the new appointments policy of the institution is announced by President W C Murray. Norman R Grace Ph.D. becomes assistant professor of physical chemistry and David H Russell now studying for the Ph.D degree at Columbia University becomes assistant professor in education. The appointments take effect next year.

Norman Rogers Grace graduated in 1927 with high honors in chemistry. He received the degree of Ph.D from McGill University and was awarded the Best scholarship tenable at the Imperial Institute London, England.

He has since been employed as a research chemist by the Gutta Percha Cushing at Toronto.

He is a member of a brilliant family. Nat H. Grace is a research worker in the national research laboratories, Ottawa, and Archie J Grace is now professor of clinical surgery at Western University London, Ontario. Both have accomplished notable work. The family made its home in Saskatoon.

David Russell was the first student to receive the master's degree (specialization from the University of Saskatchewan after the formation of a college of education here. He was later principal of Melfort high school and was awarded a fellowship by Columbia University, New York. Professor Russell comes from Bristol, Quebec

Value Of Short Speeches

Newspapers Cannot Give Space To Three Hour Address

Lord Lothian, who as Prime Minister of England, once said that no politician should take more than 20 minutes to make an important speech, and he himself held almost rigidly to that rule, even when introducing a bill or debating a crucial point. Few speakers ever had such facility for condensing addresses which were marvels of lucidity and logic. Sir John Simon has the same facility. The two and three hours man believes and wonders no newspaper can give that amount of space to remarks for the public to read, whereas a 20 minutes address can be given verbatim Stratford Beacon-Herald

An Unusual Exposition

Russia Collecting Musical Instruments For Display In Moscow

Musical instruments will have an exhibition of their own in Moscow, Russia next year About 800 devices for making harmony are being collected from all parts of the country for the exhibit The aim is not only to trace the development of these instruments from the beginning to the most complicated, but to show how music is thriving among the peoples of the Soviet Union. Special sections of the show will be devoted to folk instruments created in the last 20 years and the manufacture of musical instruments by the various national communities within the Soviets is far from extinct.

Relief Fewer May Go

The Crystal Palace one of the sights of London's Great Exhibition of 1851 was one of the longest buildings in the world as the Eiffel Tower erected as one of the "sights" of the Paris Exposition of 1889, was, and still is, one of the tallest structures in the world The Eiffel Tower survives, but even its dendition is now being demanded by a section of Paris opinion

It is said that SOS broadcasts for missing relatives of sick persons are successful in 84 per cent. of the cases.

Find Sanctuary In England

Right Of Asylum Always Extended To Refugee Celebrities

For generations the United Kingdom has been the sanctuary of kings, nobles, statesmen and revolutionaries who found it no longer healthy to remain in their native lands. A whole "Who's Who" of celebrities could be compiled of the refugees who have been admitted there to save them from being deprived of their lives and fortunes. England has always ever-gained "the right of asylum," and has never refused admission, even to anarchists, if they gave a pledge to refrain from plotting against a foreign state or a foreign person. They know better than plot against anyone in British because British protect them.

A few days ago a woman and her daughter, neither able to speak English, landed at Tilbury Docks London. Asked the usual question as to what money she possessed she opened a bag containing one hundred 500-000 and $7,000 in British bank notes, and added that there was another $100 000 worth of securities in a trunk She was Madame Villemares former sister-in-law of the late dictator of Venezuela, Juan Vicente Gomez. Her husband had been assassinated in 1925.

Under the laws and security in England, just as Emperor Haile Selassie has done. He has bought a house in Bath, lived between $50,000 and $75

An innovation in the form of a dance on the night of Saturday December 26 (Boxing Day), is being sponsored by the Oriole orchestra. Admission is only 25c. This will afford everyone an opportunity to renew acquaintances with many of our holiday visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Maither recently purchased the property belonging to Herb Jardine and moved into their new home this week. This residence is the former J. D. Stephens property.

Miss C. H. P. Cooper and daughter Grace spent last Friday and Saturday in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Bentley have now taken up residence in the house belonging to Mrs. Helen Common in the west end.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman of Tuttle, who are on their way by car to California where they will spend the winter, stopped over Tuesday in Vermilion and visited Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Brewster and Mr. John Craig.

Mr. W. H. Sutherland received the sad news of the death of his mother at Napoleon on December 10th at the age of [illegible] years.

Mrs. Henry S. Ephen of Cummings spent a few holidays with her sister during the past week visiting her two daughters Mrs. George Caren and Mrs. Mark Fisher and also her son George who is attending U. of A.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Kennedy left by car for Thursday morning for Edmonton from which point they will entrain for Calgary and thence to Vancouver via Banff. They will visit at Vancouver and Victoria before proceeding to Los Angeles California where it is their intention to spend the winter. They expect to return to Vermilion in April. The Vermilion service station of which Mr. Kennedy is proprietor will be closed during his absence. The Standard trusts that Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will enjoy a very pleasant holiday and that the trip will prove beneficial to Mrs. Kennedy's health.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cash received congratulations on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary on Monday, Dec. 14.

The Farm and Christmas

Christmas and the Farm, the Farm and Food

Christmas 1936 should see a revival of this ancient Christmas usage. I know were the days when the value of the farm was universally recognized but in the midst of modern life the farm, as the sure foundation of material civilization, is apt to be forgotten. The word farm means food and was so called because in olden times the tenant was required to provide the landlord with food by way of rent. Today this definition has been considerably extended in that the farm supplies the nation with food, and without food, without the feeding of the multitude, it is not given to man beings to be able openly to express that spirit of universal kindness and peace and good will evoked by the teachings of the Master in the celebration of the festival of Christmas.

In connection between agriculture and Christmas has been intimate from the beginning. It was in shepherds abiding in the fields by night that the words: Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, were first uttered to a lowly band that represent all the world was born, on a low day later it was on the same humble farm animal that one has the honor to have been in Egypt [illegible]

It was from the agricultural people in town mainly that the early Christians drew their adherents and many pagan rites in vogue on farms and in towns found a place in the Christian festival. It was the farm that kept alive the pagan custom of the Yule log. Many centuries later Charles Dickens referred to the custom of England as something of the joy and bounty of the spirit of Christmas which still lingered on in our hearts, though in diminished quantities. Even today many of the more agricultural Christmas celebrations are distinct from the town and city customs of those further limited districts. There is Plough Monday, for example, which is still observed in rural communities, including Britain, Ireland. In olden times in Europe, Plough Monday marked the end of the Christmas holidays. It was held on the first Monday in January after the Twelfth Day (it was customary on Plough Monday, before the plough man returned to work on the following day to draw a plough from door to door of the parish to solicit ploughmoney to speed in a frolic. The money of the banquet was called Bean).

There there was the ancient feast of the boar's head which still exists in at least three distinct consumptions in England at Queen's College, Oxford on Christmas Day, and at the annual Christmas banquets of the city of London at the Guildhall and of the Worshipful Company of Cutlers in London. The proceedings are much the same. Trumpets sound and the boar's head is carried in procession preceded by choristers singing the old carol. The boar's head is hands bring to the City of London feast, the master takes the lemon from the boar's jaws and at Oxford the Provost takes the orange and presents it to the youngest singer. At the Cutler's Hall the president of the feast accepts the present of a pot of mustard, and eats the first mouthful of the feast. This reference to mustard must be very old, because a carol that had been in vogue for centuries before Wynkyn de Worde printed the words in 1521 A.D., the last line of which runs "the boar's head with mustard."

The phrase "Christmas box" originated in the early Christian times. It was really then a box which was placed in the church for promiscuous charities and was opened on Christmas Day. The contents were distributed the next day (Boxing Day) by the priest and others the contributions in kind were better than money. However, farmers have continued to bring their contributions in kind ever better than money and other agricultural products and the same as the farmers of parish take their first fruits at the service of the church on Thanksgiving day [illegible] the results of the sales of wheat, oats and other seasons for the same relations. In many churches in Canada the accumulation of the offerings gifts is distributed in very much the same manner as in the earliest Christian days.

And at this Christmastide as in the days gone by the arts have furnished their inspiration to the Christian feast, such as the music, the carols, the games, the drama and the elaborate natural foods the way establish the cream, milk eggs, and cheese and forgetting that many of the active essentials the candles and candlesticks, the pickles, spices and rice and rice are all of agricultural origin [illegible] no more the ancient feast of Christmas and the Farm, the Farm and Food."

Joan's Unexpected Guest Was Her Yuletide Love

JOAN had gone with her Donald to Chicago, Vera to her Granny's house to meet her Dance and Lion, she had gone up to Jasper Park's fraternity dance. Joan wondered if any girl had ever had such a lonely Christmas holiday in prospect.

"Gee, there's that little cripple boy down there in that rooming house on the corner that might relish some nice food. I've waved at him every morning for the last six weeks. I guess we know such other well enough and they do say his mother takes that early bus into town to scrub floors, every day in the week." She told herself as she was about to drop off to sleep, Christmas eve.

It was scarcely daylight when Joan had gone to the little corner rooming house, slipped a little note of invitation under the door of the cripple boy's door, and was on her way to the store for a supply of everything that belongs in a traditional Christmas feast, plus a few gifts for the lad [illegible] was barely time to exchange her house dress for a street frock so she might run down to the corner to help the cripple's wheel chair to her home as she had promised. But at the very moment she stepped forth into the hall, she met not only the cripple boy, but a splendid, handsome young man.

"You see miss, I got the invitation the note was tucked under my door but I gathered at once who you meant it for so I delivered it to Jimmy and made friends with him—we've been together the past two hours, taking a short ride and now I'm turning him over to you, Miss Miss—"

"Joan Burke, and you are—!"

"Larry King, Miss Burke, and this is Jimmy Jordan. With your permission, then, I'll return for my change later in the day. What hour do you say, tellow?"

Joan interrupted, "If I may be so bold as to ask—running along to where—"

"To the lunch wagon, if you must know" Larry acknowledged.

"You are not. If you don't stay to have Christmas dinner with us, I'm going right out into the street and hail the first stranger I see. You see I don't want any turkey left over for turkey hash, to-morrow."

Three parioch of Joan's royal feast but the fourth guest, though unseen, was present too. Love was there unbidden. But that fourth remained forever and a day, upon invitation of Mr and Mrs. Larry King who never forgot to include little Jimmy Jordan at their special occasion celebrations the year around.—Lorla B. Lyons.

HE WAS A DUTCH BOY

Christmas was celebrated long before Santa Claus was ever thought of in prototype was the Dutch boy bishop, St. Nicholas, who on December 25 used to go round punishing little children who did not say their prayers and rewarding those who did. Gradually he was changed from a boy into a special old man, while the image and reindeer are modern additions. Actually, Santa Claus was unknown in England a hundred years ago. The Dutch founders of New York introduced him to America, and England borrowed him from the States London. Tit-Bits Magazine.

The estimated yield of crested wheat grass seed in Saskatchewan in 1936 is 500,000 pounds. This is approximately double the crop of 1935.

THE "WHEAT KING" TALKS

HERMAN TRELLE (on the right) of Wembley, Alberta, is here seen discussing the merits of his prize-winning wheat with Ira D. Johnson, executive of Robin Hood Mills Limited. For the fifth time Trelle won the World's Wheat Championship at the International Grain and Hay Show in Chicago. Also Robin Hood flour, for the fifth years in succession, has won first prize for wheat bread at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto (the world's largest annual fair). The photograph illustrates the interest taken by millers of prize-winning flour in growers of prize-winning wheat.

Christmas In Shanghai Just One of Their Days

WHEN Christmas comes to Shanghai a cross-section of the world makes holiday. The average Chinaman fails to get the meaning of it, but such a fun loving people can do well with one more celebration. So the British must have their plum pudding and holly.

At the mission schools, where boys and girls are taught to popularize the Christmas carols around the tree give modest school girls a chance for only of singing hymns but of "seeing him."

In interior China, however, most of the people prefer to celebrate their own Dragon boat, Mid-Autumn, and New Year holidays rather than this "imported" one. They do not even try to understand those queer foreigners. To them December 25 is just another day.—Frances Grinstead.

Steppes or in Moscow. The French greet Santa Claus in their own way, even though the wee dolls have to be brought far from the Champs Elysees The Japanese prefer to make merry by drinking sake, but the Scotch must have their plum pudding and holly.

Town Finances Discussed At Board of Trade

Debate Holds The Interest of Members

Although the attendance was down a little at the Board of Trade luncheon on Monday, the discussion proved so interesting that but one member present left the hall until the meeting was declared adjourned and this was considerably after the usual closing hour.

The subject which proved so interesting and engrossing was opened by Mr. J. Wesser who expressed the opinion that the town might profit considerably by appointing a collector to make regular calls for the collection of taxes, light, heat, and power accounts due the town. This opened up a vast field for debate and considerable ground was covered, with a large number of those present taking part in the discussion. Most of the remarks made were based on street talk but apparently these had firm foundations and the general condition of town affairs received quite an analysis. The matter was finally left without any recommendation being made by the board to the town council as the meeting was given to understand that all of the topics discussed were under consideration by the council at the present time and the suggested solutions would be laid before the ratepayers at the annual meeting in January. The debate showed that the board members are taking a keen interest in town affairs and augurs well for a successful annual ratepayers meeting.

The horse sale project was brought up once more and March 30th suggested as a logical day upon which to hold it. This matter was left in the hands of the agricultural committee of the Board which is to bring in a recommendation on the matter at the next meeting.

May Use Idle Coal Mines

Britain Preparing To Store Foods In Case Of War

Provision for rolling up food reserves that would keep Britain supplied for a year in case of war were put under way when the new Food Defence Plans Department was formed. At the head of it was put Henry Lucas French, one of the most experienced of British experts in this field.

It became known that one of the projects to be seriously considered is the use of worked-out and idle coal mines for the storage of food under refrigeration. There are many such mines in the United Kingdom and their workings often go down thousands of feet.

They would be equipped by the employment of thousands of the miners who have been thrown out of work by the depression in the coal trade. Refrigeration plants would be installed and advantage also would be taken of the natural coolness of the workings.

The question of reserve food has been one of the uppermost topics in the country as the European situation has become grave. There is the possibility that submarine and airplane raids would reduce shipping to a dangerous extent and the country would have to gain perhaps a year's time to reopen its communications.

Reserve foodstuffs necessary for 12 months if outside supplies are cut off have been estimated as 3,650,000 tons of wheat, 3,650,000 tons of potatoes, 2,190,000 tons of onions, 1,220,000 tons of cheese and 438,000 tons of butter or margarine.

Methods of preserving fish, meat and vegetables by the carbon-dioxide gas method will be examined. Other plans involve the erection of large silos inland to hold a year's supply of grain, particularly of the hard wheats so they could be stored with edible fish and the expansion of the home canning industry so that a year's supply of meat could easily be stored.

Interesting Wedding

James P. Maudslay, Attache Of The Canadian Legation In Paris, Is Married In France

The marriage was celebrated at Prince recently of Miss Cinzo de Noailles, daughter of Viscount and Viscountess de Noailles to James P. Maudslay, attache at the Canadian legation in Paris. Mr. Maudslay is the son of Hon. R. J. Maudslay, former Canadian minister of railways and canals. The witnesses for the bride were Baronne Alain de Montesquiou, her aunt and the Vicomte de Tonligeet Trouanne, and for the groom, Hon. Philippe Roy, the Canadian minister, and Col. Stairs, commercial attache.

The Christmas Story

The Most Familiar Story In All Literature

The Christmas story is the most familiar story in all literature. It is told in more homes, to more people, to more little children, in more languages, than any other story ever told. I suppose there is no one listening to my voice who can remember the first time he heard the Christmas story. It has always been familiar. It has always been a part of our life. During the past week I have been asking myself this question: "Suppose I had never heard the Christmas story. Suppose by some mischance I had never heard it read, or sung, or told; and then suddenly I was introduced to it and heard it or read it for the first time. What would be its effect upon me?" I think that is a fair question. There are grown-up people all over the world, in China and Japan and Persia and Arabia and Africa, and perhaps here in America, to whom the Christmas story could still come as a fresh experience. What impression would it make? That is a question I will try to answer.

I think the story would impress us by its naturalness, or shall I say its humanness. It is such a perfectly human story, and the artists have caught it. It as such in the pictures of the Holy Family Joseph and Mary and the Little Child and the kneeling shepherds and the adoring wise men.

Another impression we would get would be that through all the story the sense of mystery remains. We feel that there is something here that is not told. There is something that words cannot express. The story is symbolic of something greater and more mysterious than the story itself can tell. The angels and their song, the Christ child and his birth in the open plains of Bethlehem and the heavenly chorus, the fact that there was no room for him in the inn, the room for him in a humble cattle shed, the wise men following the star, nowhere after truth, coming with their gold and frankincense and myrrh and worshipping and returning to their own land

All these things is that God has come down to dwell with men. This is the Christmas message—that God is all about us and dwells with men. May our prayer at this Christmas time be, "Lord, open my heart that I may welcome Him in—the Unseen Guest."

Christmas In Other Lands

Customs Are Different But All Have Same Spirit

To women in all parts of the Empire Christmas means December 25 and turkey, plum pudding and cracknee, pork pie and a Christmas tree, but in Holland, writes Janet Garrick in the Cape-Argus. But Sweden has always celebrated the Christmas Day with fish and rice porridge. Holland has had to be distracted and cause either injury or death to yourself and those with you. It is speaking of Sweden, it may be well to mind the person actually operating the car and not the passengers in the car.

"In Czechoslovakia there is a law with very severe penalties which prohibits anyone from smoking while actually operating an automobile."

Orders For Stamp Issue

Change Of Monarchs Created Big Rush At Ottawa

Stamp dealers tried to buy up the only outstanding stamp issue bearing a portrait of either of the two principals in the Empire-shaking change of monarchs. They were, however, baulked by the post office department policy of protecting the interests of small collectors.

Two hours after the abdication of Edward VIII. was announced, a rush of orders started pouring in on the philatelic division for the two-cent stamp of last year's jubilee issue which bears the portrait of the then Duke of York.

The first and biggest order, for 50,000 of those stamps, was called by a London stamp firm. Had the order been filled the department's supply of that particular stamp would have been completely exhausted. So their distribution was placed on a strict quota basis: five to a customer.

A change of monarch usually means, too, a reversal of the direction in which the engraved stamps' portrait faces on stamps and coins. Those of George V., for instance, faced to the left. Those of Edward VIII. would have faced to the right although there is nothing but tradition governing.

Which way the monarch's portrait would face if the George V. issues of coins and stamps were followed immediately by issues of George VI., was one of the academic problems facing authorities in the two departments.

Scraping An Acquaintance

Origin Of Expression Dates Back To Olden Times

Once when the Emperor Hadrian was entering the public bath, he saw a former comrade scraping himself with a tile. Being touched by the man's poverty, he ordered that a handsome bathing kit and a sum of money be given him.

The news of the Emperor's generosity quickly spread, and when Hadrian appeared again at the bath, he followed the pool crowded and all soldiers scraping themselves with tiles. Understanding their intent, he exclaimed loudly: "Scrape yourselves, gentlemen, you will not scrape acquaintance with me."

From this occurrence, it is said, came the expression, "Scraping an acquaintance." — Christian Science Monitor.

One Who Is Driving Car Not Allowed To Smoke

The danger of smoking while driving an automobile was called to the attention of motorists by Colonel Harold Fowler, First Deputy Police Commissioner, in New York police department radio safety broadcast.

"If you smoke while operating a car," he said, "you are likely to be distracted and cause either injury or death to yourself and those with you. It is speaking of Sweden, it may be well to mind the person actually operating the car and not the passengers in the car.

Guests Of Belgian King

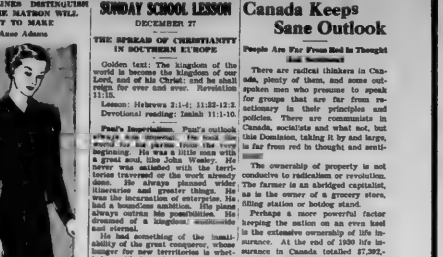
Royal Miners Were Entertained By Leopold At Palace

In the splendor of his palace, King Leopold of the Belgians recently received 30 miners as honored guests.

They are men who played heroic parts in rescuing comrades after the explosion at La Bouverie, near Mons, in October. The death roll totalled 39. Each of the Royal guests received a medal.

Sealed between two of the miners in the Room of Mirrors, King Leopold and Queen Elizabeth gave to each time he had had guests since his great loss (the death of Queen Astrid). As he spoke his voice broke. A moment later he changed the subject.

After leaving the palace with menus autographed by their King, the Belgian miners made a collection for the widows of those who were laid on the grave of Queen Astrid.



A crochainter at the Swindon Works of one of the great British railway companies was responsible for the distinctive Coronation poster and was awarded a silver medal by the company.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 27

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN SOUTHERN EUROPE

Golden text: The kingdom of the world is become the kingdom of our Lord, and of his Christ: and he shall reign for ever and ever. Revelation 11:15.

Lesson: Hebrews 2:1-4; 11:32-12:2. Devotional reading: Isaiah 11:1-10.

Paul's Imperialism. Paul's outlook always was universal. He took the world for his parish from the very beginning. He was a little man with a great soul, like John Wesley. He never was satisfied with the territories traversed or the work already done. He always planned wider itineraries and greater things. He was the incarnation of enterprise. He had a boundless ambition. His plans always outran his possibilities. His dreamed of a kingdom, indestructible and eternal.

He had somethin of the imperial ability of the great conqueror, whose hunger for new territories is whetted as with demoniac power by every fresh conquest. As Jesus' leading trait was the compassion of love, Paul's was the missionary impulse. Everywhere he went on his journeys he had but one thought to make the world conscious of salvation from the sour heights of Taurus, whereon he was drawn to the valleys of Lycaonia. He is drawn to Troas at night, where in a vision a man of Macedonia appeared to him and cried, "Come over and help us!" He came to Corinth, whence ships sailed to Italy and straightway he wrote to Rome, as always in his prayers he made request, "if by any means now at last I may be made prosperous by the will of God to come unto them." Voices across the sea called to him, "Come"; in hours of solitude he thought of those "who have not heard." This cry of "Ever onward" was the special watchword of his life.

Paul founded churches wherever he went, and he established them so firmly that they all stood when he had gone. His desire was to press into places where Christ had not been preached as yet. He would not goes everywhere as a pioneer missionary, if that had been possible. In one man in one lifetime His church imperialism and its unshakable missionary enthusiasm were born of his unconquerable universalism. He knew that it was the will of God that all men should be saved, and he believed that Jesus would never be satisfied until that goal had been reached. Therefore he claimed nations for his Lord. D. A. Hayes, in "Paul and His Epistles."

Canada Keeps Sane Outlook

People Are Far From Red In Thought Or Deed

There are radical thinkers in Canada, plenty of them, and some outspoken men who presume to speak for groups that are far from revolutionary in their principles and policies. There are communists in Canada, socialists and what not, but this Dominion, taking it by and large, is far from red in thought and sentiment.

The ownership of property is not conducive to radicalism or revolution. The farmer is an abridged capitalist, he is the owner of a grocery store, filling station or hotdog stand.

Perhaps a more powerful force keeping the nation on an even keel is the extensive ownership of life insurance. At the end of 1930 life insurance in Canada totalled $7,392,706,000. Only the United States and the United Kingdom owned more life insurance than Canada. Policyholders in Canada number approximately 5,000,000, and the average coverage is about $1,468.

The money paid in constantly by these 5,000,000 policyholders are reinvested in Government bonds and securities to a large extent, and conservatives. One cannot register a bit at Canadian industries or embarrass our financial system to that. She knows the estates and the savings of 5,000,000 policyholders.

Thrift and ownership should in no way warp our judgment in political and economic matters. Neither should ownership of property prevent us from making progress in the various fields of endeavor that the well-being of the state. However, people who have a stake in the country, who have something to bank account, are likely to prefer the progress brought about by ballots rather than bullets Farmer's Advocate.

The Threat Of War

How Children's Lives Overshadowed Told By Service Worker

The threat of war overshadows the world's children! Miss Muriel Lester, distinguished social worker from Kingsley House, London, is a member of the preaching staff that has been stirring Chicago, tells this story.

One day recently there came to her at Kingsley House a small girl. The child lifted to Miss Lester a face big eyes filled with anxious horror.

"Is the government making gas masks for everybody?" she asked

"Yes," Miss Lester said.

"For all the children?" the child inquired tensely.

Miss Lester told the children for you and all the boys and girls and the grownup people."

The child commented the child, "we have just got a new baby in our home. How will the government know that it is a baby and will have a mask ready in time for my new brother"

Miss Lester has come into the very springtime of the world's life this dark and chilling cloud. It has become part of the consciousness of devastating childhood. Nightmares are to nightmare; it has brought a terrifying dread into the nursery, to the very cradle. Even the babies are being trained to breathe behind the mask in the hour when the gas bombs rain from the sky. Their fear is not of the mask, but that the mask may be taken away. Thou Shalt Not Love

CHAPTER XII.

There were a number of developments the next day. The majority of them quite to be expected.

While Sapphira served her breakfast in bed, considerably surprised and pleased that her charge showed no inclination to remain moping in a hang-over, though there undoubtedly was something troubling her mind, Starr went about morning duties. There were lurid accounts of last night's party in the tabloids. "Play-Girl" was without any question in the headlines again!

An account, in one of the more gossipy stanzas read:

"Merrymakers at the exclusive Sea Beach Casino last night were treated to an unexpected floor show. Starr Elleson, author of the widely notorious book "Play-Girl" and who is said to have herself furnished the copy therefor, attempted to stage a nude swimming act in the Casino fountain. Only the timely—or untimely, many witnesses declared—intervention of Michael Fairchild, well-known young sportsman and scion of the Tarrance Publishing Company, prevented—"

Starr flung the paper away, sickened. How Michael must hate her! There was small comfort now in the thought that Lance was not the man he had intended to make him think of her.

She could not eat. She felt as if she never wanted to again, but she was making an attempt to get away with her omelet, at the insistence of Sapphira, when Lance arrived. Her heart leaped, then sank down dully.

It wouldn't be Michael. It could not be.

It was not. It was Marjorie Browning calling Marjorie whose boast was that she was the closest friend "Play-Girl" ever had. Starr, thinking of the sort, since Starr had no women friends at all! Marjorie was an assistant editor on the paper she had just heard that she was phoning before she had her morning coffee.

"Starr!" her voice rippled gaily. "You'll never believe it, but what do you suppose? Michael Fairchild is Florence and Stephanie Dale are engaged! Actually! After all the trouble he's had trying to get them to consent . . . Stephanie called me last night after the party to tell me it happened and to ask Michael to come. Isn't that just too darling? And won't they make the most gorgeous couple!"

Starr said, in a bored voice: "I hope they will be very happy. Engagements don't interest me. Marjorie or marriages. So ordinary."

Starr moped around the Egyptian apartment hating it, hating everything Egyptian once more, and wondering just what her next step would be. With a love affair with Michael finished before it had fairly begun, did not mean necessarily that her job as "Play-Girl" was finished. On the contrary. What Michael had done last night had made her better copy than ever. She ought to be valuable to Michael and his publishers. All the joy in playing was gone, though, and forever. Even now on playing would be an drab as life itself, but if she threw herself into a still madder whirl she might be able to forget some things.

The irony of it! She had got into this thing in order to forget how soon she must give up life. Now she had more than ever to forget. Life was certainly increasingly hard.

Shortly before noon a messenger from Cartier's appeared with two armed guards and a package from the famous jewelry firm. Starr gave the messenger her receipt and took the package into the bedroom to open it.

It was a bracelet. A bracelet three inches wide, solidly set with diamonds encircling a row of the most gorgeous fire opals Starr had ever imagined in her life. The thing must have cost a fortune.

Sapphira's eyes goggled almost out of her head when she saw it.

"Fo' the land, Miss Starr, ain't that above scrumptious! Seems like somebody must be thinkin' a heap of you, chile. . . . What's them flashin' kind o' stones that look like rainbows, honey?"

Starr smiled wanly as she answered absently, fingering Lance Marlowe's card that had come with the gift.

"They're opals, Sapphira — fire opals."

The breath of the colored woman came sibilantly.

"Opals! Lawsy, Miss Starr, don't you-all know they say opals can bring the hardest kind o' hard luck? Why, fo' he went to send you opals?"

"They can't hurt—me, Sapphira," said Starr, her voice low.

She had recognized Lance's card. On the back he had scribbled:

"I told you these were for you, you lovely thing. Wear it and let. . . . I have been very patient, Starr. Are you going to keep me waiting forever?"

She could not pretend to herself that she did not know what he meant. It was plain enough. He was forcing her hand. She had stalled with him long enough. Lance was not the man to let that be known to a woman. His pride would not allow it. He would realize that she refused to take it. Lance offered a challenge to every woman he encountered that he would not be nearly so enthusiastic if she were a mere novice. Starr knew that. Knew that Lance wanted the triumph of making a conquest of the glamorous personality that was Starr Elleson. Everyone was talking—the "Play-Girl" who was all fire and ice. And good publicity.

Lance. . . . All of a sudden she realized that Lance's bracelet had become red-hot against her breast, as the fire opals were in reality living flame.

Michael was offering the supreme love, and she was giving him a book from his pocket, slowly drawing out his fountain pen. His voice was low, almost caressing-like. And he did not look at her.

"How much do you want, Starr, to sell me the rights to your book?"

Now her resentment was a blazing torch which shook her fragile body and made her voice shrill. "I accepted young fury snatched the check book from his hand and hurled it into his face. "I'll not be paid off in flags, Michael Fairchild!"

Starr flung the paper away, sickened. How Michael must hate her! There was small comfort now in the thought that Lance was not the man he had intended to make him think of her.

She could not eat. She felt as if she never wanted to again, but she was making an attempt to get away with her omelet, at the insistence of Sapphira, when Lance arrived. Her heart leaped, then sank down dully.

Important For Explorers

Woman Says Problem Of Eating Easily Comes First

Mrs. Christine von Hagen, 24-year-old botanist, is back in New York from the wilds of Ecuador, saved not by headhunters but by the problem of eating.

"Food breaks up more expeditions than anything else," she said.

With her husband, V. W. Von Hagen, explorer and scientist, she penetrated the Amazon country in search of insects and termites.

There were few wild animals and little vegetation fit for the dinner table, but that didn't stop Mrs. Von Hagen. Weevils found in trees and cooked in their own fat appeared on the table, looking like smoked oysters. They tasted like fried oysters, her husband said.

She made French friend sweet potatoes and green Papua, boiled and served with vinegar made from bananas or pineapple oil. Jungle Pate was another dish, either boiled or made into soup. Mrs. Von Hagen said she found food an important to the success of exploration that she intends to write a recipe book for the benefit of fellow explorers.

Search For Lost Radium

Missing From Toronto Hospital, It Is Located In City Dumps

After one of the most intensive searches in Toronto's history in which a radium counter used during the Moose River mine rescue was called into action, $8,000 worth of radium has been returned to Toronto General hospital.

The radium capsule was discarded in a dressing and the precious metal was scavenged in a city dump. It had been found four feet underground.

Officials of the radium department of the hospital called on the Ontario government for aid and ordered the use of a Geiger Muller radium counter used at the Moose River mine last Easter to hold on the search for the entombed Timmins boy.

J. D. Leith, government employee operated the machine for the search that started at the hospital at 5:15 p. m. the laboratory and even washing machines then left the city dump area for and finally, in the early hours, the hospital authorities were taken.

Boys In Italy Start Training When They Are Only Six

Tough at 30 some 50,000 Fascist youths, trained in the technique of war, are now passing annually into the regular Italian army.

Many of them have been registered in Fascist Youth organizations for years and the majority have participated actively since their sixth birthday.

At that age they enter the Sons of the Wolf, a branch of the elementary Balilla from which they graduate when they are 14 with a fundamental military knowledge qualifying them to train as specialists in Il Duce's legions.

The Balilla's 14-year-old members are promoted with symbolic ritual into the next chronological grade, the Avanguardisti, or Avant-Guards, of whom there are about 500,000.

The comparatively carefree train ing suddenly ceases for these with the who find themselves part of a vast war machine Their war education is intensified and they are molded into the pattern of the Italian army.

When an Avanguardista reaches the age of 18 he advances into the topmost ranks of Fascist youth the Young Fascists of Combat where his military schooling is specialized

Then, at 21, he reaches his majority and is eligible to become a Fascist.

But Customs Officials Decide Infant Is Child Under Six

To straighter out a customs ruling governing the import duty on baby clothes officials at an eastern port have to ask decided the moment an infant is born.

An infant they decided after much heart-burning is a baby child under six months.

It is probable just as well to keep this rule of thumb from the customs officials for there likely will be a large, belligerent outcry. For to mothers there apparently is no age limit for infants.

When her boy or girl first trots off to school he seems as much a baby to his mother as when he toddled in his cradle. She ever treats her grown up sons and daughters as though they were infants.

I know what happens when every baby born in Canada has attained the age of 21 years. Then the first baby born will be a baby. It will be called a baby because it is a baby.

BANK OF MONTREAL MEETING

Strong expressions of confidence in the outlook in Canada were the keynote of the proceedings at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal, held recently at the head office of the bank in Montreal. The meeting was also informed that the bank is in an extremely strong position and that deposits had increased by the greatest amount in any one year's time.

Sir Charles Gordon, president of the bank, said: "Our affairs are in a fundamentally satisfactory condition and the whole tone of business is distinctly encouraging. The past year has been one of marked progress in the recovery from the depression. Many of the basic industries have participated in the general improvement and have expanded their operations to a substantial degree. Employment has increased considerably and the purchasing power of the people generally has been increased. Retail trade has been active and the wholesale trade has shared in the general improvement. Building operations have been on a large scale and the heavy industries which are looking to a revival of activity in the building trade would seem to be in a favorable position to benefit thereby.

Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back between and below the shoulder blades! Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 11 times nature's—direct to the irritated air passages of the nose, throat and chest.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets
This safe, external treatment does not possibly upset the stomach, and constant internal "dosing" is no apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Community Hospitalization

During the past three or four years public demand for some form of State hospitalization and medical care or insurance against the great burden of the cost of sickness to the individual has accelerated materially in the three prairie provinces and it has been accepted as an accepted fact that it is only a matter of time before these costs will become a charge on the public as a whole in some wise and perhaps eventually throughout the Dominion.

Many scattered communities have already adopted the principle on a limited basis by the appointment of a part or whole time municipal doctor and by making agreements with hospitals providing for the medical and hospital care of all, and in some cases of a part, of the members of the subscribing community. In some instances outstanding success can be attributed to these limited ventures, but in other cases it is felt that financial ability has restricted the work in channels too confining to suit even in these cases, the appetite for a wider system has been created resulting in a growing demand for adoption of a plan which will cover the entire range of care for sickness and one which will spread the costs over a greater number of people.

As a result of this far-reaching public demand, the question of some form of group health insurance has of late been occupying the attention of the governments of the three prairie provinces and some progress towards the consummation of plans has been made in varying degree. A good deal of spade work has been done both by governmental and other organizations.

One of the chief difficulties confronting the prairie provinces in launching any large scale plan of community health insurance, however, is the absence of any data on which to base the probable cost. It is true estimates have been given by public men and others interested in furthering such a project, of the probable cost of operating a scheme of State medicine or a health insurance scheme, but at best they are only estimates and experience in other fields has demonstrated that often enough estimates are wide of the mark when realization is achieved.

It is true that data is available from other countries where health insurance schemes have been in operation for some time, but these are effective mostly in industrial communities where conditions are entirely different to those prevailing in sparsely settled agricultural areas like the prairies of the Canadian west and for this reason the figures available elsewhere cannot be relied upon when applied to these areas.

It is for the purpose of ascertaining to some extent what an organization recently set up in Saskatchewan, the Saskatchewan Rural Hospital and Medical Service League, with an objective of promoting and establishing a scheme for that province, is going about its work in a business-like manner by securing at first hand a great deal of specific information as to actual costs of a large number of farmers for medical and hospital attention for their families over a five-year period.

This information is being procured by a questionnaire which has been sent out by the League in co-operation with the Wheat Pool, to the 19,000 Pool members in Saskatchewan and when replies are received it will be possible, by striking an average, to show the actual per capita cost for doctors, hospitalization, nursing services and medicine and medical supplies for a very substantial percentage of the rural population of the province.

While this will not demonstrate the probable per capita cost of a scheme of health insurance on community basis, it will provide a great deal of valuable data and give at least a foundation on which to erect a structure and eliminate the necessity of relying on guess-work from the ground up.

Needless to say it will take some considerable time before all the information available from a questionnaire asking for information on a dozen items as mentioned and covering a five-year period can be tabulated, but even then the work of the League will only be well started but the data will not only be of considerable interest but it will be of great value not only in formulating a feasible plan for Saskatchewan but also for the neighboring provinces where conditions are somewhat similar.

Reorganize Militia

Canada's Non-Permanent Active Militia To Be Placed On New Basis

Reorganization of Canada's non-permanent active militia has been completed, and as it emerges from the crucible the new form of the Dominion's citizen soldiery is greatly dwarfed in respect of units but sturdily consistent so far as personnel is concerned.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, has released the whole plan involving the reorganization of the non-permanent active forces. Those contemplate restriction of units, but are commended to the competzness in efficiency They'n'ev elevate the militia from the prospective to the actual.

In brief, the militia is cut down with respect to paper units. Regiments which previously existed in the militia list only on paper entirely disappeared. Those which perseverved strongly in peace times remain, some of them amalgamated with others, it is true, but still with enough preserved in their new name to identify them with their former units.

So far as units are concerned, the Mackenzie plan, as it is called, has been in process of organization for a year. Reorganization of the non-permanent active forces, under one big problem which confronted the minister when he assumed office last year, and the militia department has been working to effect the adjustments announced by Mr. Mackenzie.

The new militia is reduced from 34 cavalry regiments to 20, of which 12 are armoured cars or tanks.

The 135 infantry regiments are whittled to 91. These are made up of 84 battalions and 7 machine gun battalions and six tank battalions.

Artillery is increased by 63 new units, 20 new artillery batteries will henceforth number 110, in the number of 61; medium batteries are increased from 33 to 81. The heavy batteries remain at 12 in number, from which the coast brigades are unaltered at two. However, anti-aircraft units are increased from one plus two sections, to six, plus two sections, an increase of five.

The following steps leading up to the reorganization and an analysis of the changes effected were detailed. Reorganization of the militia was first announced by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, on October 1, 1935.

On Dec 4, 1935, a report was laid before the minister, containing a suggested plan for reorganization. The minister thereupon gave instructions to proceed.

The reorganization is now complete. All five inactive units have been disbanded. Thirty-six cavalry regiments have been reduced to 16 cavalry regiments and four armoured car regiments.

A total of 135 infantry and machine gun battalions have been reduced to 90 rifle battalions, 26 machine gun battalions and six tank battalions.

By conversion of cavalry and infantry units and by formation of new units the Royal Canadian Artillery has been increased by 41 field batteries six medium batteries and five anti-aircraft batteries

Method May Be Changed

Canadian Banks May in Future Have Fewer Branches

Two developments of the depression seem likely to influence permanently the methods of bank operation in Canada. One is the gradual withdrawal of the note issue privilege, which in former times helped to finance the opening of "marginal" branches. The other is the growth of provincial taxation aimed especially at the branch offices of the banks.

"The pressure of these forces," writes J. V. Walters, "is bound to lead to seek avenues of relief and the most convenient avenues seem to be those of mechanization and of a trend to larger offices as a permanent feature of policy rather than a temporary expedient. There is a link between such developments, inasmuch as mechanization can be most successfully applied to the larger offices. In addition, if this trend should come about, it would affect, not only the size but also the flexibility of operating expenses. The reason is that the change of machine in banks tends to become the prerogative of the female section of the staff, a section in which the usual labor turnover is much higher than in the male section. Thus, since retention of experienced staff in times of depression is already the policy of banks, the total staff of a bank would adjust itself more rapidly to conditions."—Canadian Banker.

Extra Pay For Christmas

Extra Wage Compensation Is Announced For Employees Of Several Firms

A week before Christmas all employees of General Foods who have been with the company prior to January 1, 1936, received an extra wage compensation of two weeks' pay, according to Clarence Francis, vice-president of General Foods Limited, Toronto.

The distribution was made on December 17, 1936. An extra compensation of one week's pay was given to all employees between January 1, 1936 and November 30, 1936.

Letter Washed Up On England's Shores Returned To Sender

Lost in the wreck of a British transport plane on the night of the 5th January, a letter washed up on the shores of England after an undetermined lapse of time a letter that had been written on the 5th September, destined for Australia, has been returned to the sender in Guelph The letter was posted by Mrs. T. Storey and apparently came from the wreck of the Bendoran, which left Colombo for Paris and was never seen again. A note from the British postal authorities, which accompanied the returned letter, indicated it was included in a packet washed up from the wreck of the British transport, "plane."

Writes a Book, Entitled
"JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS"

Give It For a New Year's Gift!

You—they're wild Swans—but they all love Jack

Every Boy Scout, every school boy and every school girl in Canada now knows that Jack Miner and migratory wild fowl are inseparable, have seen him and heard him talk (you can't call it a lecture) about his work for the preservation of wild life. He is called by authorities "one of the world's great naturalists."

Practically without money he started his idea of a place where wild bird life would be protected during migration North and South—the birds found out about it before the public did—and finally aid had to be given to buy corn to feed the geese, ducks, swans in their thousands upon thousands who settled in his ponds and rested unmolested.

Perhaps you can't travel half way across Canada to see this sight but let us tell you it's a thrill of a lifetime. To you and those like you it is possible to read Jack's own words in his 32 page book, and through the 42 pictures get a good idea of the work that's going on

Jack is not a money maker in a poor man, financially—he people had not contributed when they saw what a wonderful thing was being done they would not have continued. He charges no admission fees sells no souvenirs and his only hard and fast rules for visitors are "no bad language to be used" and that "everything is shut tight on Sundays".

Medical Service in North

Native Inhabitants Not Neglected By Canadian Government

Medical care for the native inhabitants of Canada's Far North is provided by the Canadian Government, and for thousands of miles along the Arctic coast of the Dominion, in fair weather and in foul, medical officers in the service of the Government bring their healing art to the aid of the Eskimo, Indians, half-breeds and Indians, half-breeds and indigent whites are also given medical aid. Winter and summer patrols of hundreds of miles are not unusual, and nearly every mode of transportation known to the North "country, such as airplanes, steamboat motor boat, canoe, and dogsled has been used to extend this service Eight doctors are employed in the work, and their efforts to prevent serious illness among the Northern natives are bearing fruit. ARMS TRAFFIC CONTROL PLAN MAY END WAR

London.—The indirect manner in which the Spanish government announced its acceptance "in principle" of the arms traffic control plan drafted by the non-intervention committee provoked considerable surprise in government circles here.

With the support of Senor Francisco Largo Caballero's government thus at least tentatively assured, the acceptance of the plan was regarded as practically certain, but the unexpected way in which it was announced was no indication whether the control proposed to be undertaken or supplied by the insurgent commander-in-chief.

News of the government's acceptance was received from the British charge d'affaires at Madrid, C. A. D. Ogilvie-Forbes, only after he himself had been informed of the move through the Spanish press. On the basis of newspaper articles it was understood the Valencia government accepted "in principle," but reserved the right to discuss the proposal in detail and reject it.

Observers viewed Valencia's approval of the arms traffic plan as further speeding the already far-advanced negotiations for an agreement between Britain and Italy to settle their differences in the Mediterranean. While the Spanish question is not directly linked to the various proposals under discussion, it was reported to be one of the obstacles blocking the way toward immediate conclusion of an official accord.

(From Rome the Associated Press reported the agreement had already been reached.)

French Ambassador Corbin's visit to the foreign office was interpreted by observers as indicating that Paris is seeking to be included in any Anglo-Italian accord regarding their interests in the Mediterranean.

According to those quarters, Britain would not oppose French participation in the projected agreement. Italy was described as fearing, however, the possibility may exist that with France might prejudice its relations with Germany, which might view the move as a rebuff. Relief Rolls Reduced

Most Of Smaller Cities Show Lower Number On Relief

Ottawa.—The number of cities of Canada have reduced their direct relief rolls appreciately three times as fast in the past year as those cities of more than 25,000 population, figures released by the national employment commission indicate. The release supplemented one made three weeks ago covering the larger cities.

The 30 smaller cities of Canada cities revealed an average reduction of 19.16 per cent. from the totals for Sept. 1935. In the 27 larger cities the reduction was 6.41 per cent. The reduction between Sept., 1936, and 1934 was 22.20 per cent. in the smaller cities and 9.19 per cent. in the larger

The total on relief last September in 53 cities, exclusive of Quebec, national registration, was 51,400, compared to 63,563 a year ago and 84,856 in 1931. An additional 9,177 registered in eight other municipalities that September.

All five of the small cities show reductions in the numbers on relief Sudbury leading with a drop from 2,310 to 1,000. Port Arthur's most cut its total in half Oshawa, Sault Ste Marie Brandon Medicine Hat and Fort William Quebec all had increases in relief registrations.

Total numbers on direct relief in the 53 cities, as of the first week in September with figures for Sept 1935, in brackets follow

Moose Jaw 1,007 (3,926)

Tourist Traffic Increases

All-Time High Record Is Established In Canada This Summary

Ottawa.—An all-time high in the volume of tourists visiting Canada's national parks was established this summer, Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, announced. In the seven months ended Oct. 31 more than 700,000 motor tourists visited the parks, an increase of 15 per cent. over last year and a new record.

Increase in tourist traffic were noted particularly at Banff, Waterton lakes and Jasper parks in Alberta, Kootenay park in British Columbia, Riding Mountain park in Manitoba and Prince Albert park in Saskatchewan. A new record was also established at Point Pelee park in southwestern Ontario and gains were made at the Elk Island park in Alberta and the Yoho park in British Columbia. There were indications the rail traffic to the western national parks was also considerably greater than in 1935.

"Although tourist travel arising from the national parks at present centres mainly in western Canada," said Mr. Crerar, "the fact that the ... steps are being taken to extend the benefit of national playgrounds conveniently located to residents of the eastern provinces. During the past year two new areas have been added to the national parks system—418 square miles in the northern part of Cape Breton Island presenting outstanding examples of rugged coast line and mountain background, and a strip of more than 20 miles along the northern shore of Prince Edward Island which includes some of the finest bathing beaches in eastern Canada. Surveys of these areas are now being completed by the national parks bureau.

Need Of Christianity

Says The World Must Return To Christian Principles

London.—A group of Church of England clergymen issued a manifesto proclaiming the need of the modern world to return to Christian principles.

Couched in terms much less personal than those used by the Archbishop of Canterbury in his attack on former King Edward's "inner circle," the manifesto was signed by the Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Carlisle and the Dean of Rochester.

"A very large proportion of political and economic dangers which are threatening," the message declared, "are directly attributable to the unchristian manner in which we have treated our enemies of the Great War.

"One of the most profoundly important lessons in modern history is to be learned from a comparison of the treatment of South Africa after the Boer war and of the reich since the Versailles treaty

"The application of these principles requires in the international sphere the greatest indulgence, and requires the searching for every man of a fair share of leisure and work and his equipment for the effective use of it.

"Economic and political studies should be undertaken in the light of Christian principles."

Will Not Form New Party

Chief Proponent Of People's Front In Britain Resigns

London.—Formation of a "People's Front" in Britain is doomed as a result of unequivocal meeting of Friends house it appeared when one of its chief proponents the Commons in rold ir Arthur ot parliament, Robert Boothby, resigned

He objected to an attack on the British government by a labor M. P. Herbert G. D. H. Cole noted economist at the meeting

The Cole-Boothby whirlwind launched the idea gave little publicity to it on a later issue

Labor leaders declared the idea of a People's Front failed to correspond to the realities of parliamentary affairs in Britain at the present time

They added that Communists like Harry Pollitt, founder of the new organization, are intellectuals rather than men of politics and have acted more or less independently of their parties

Total Of 1,066 Animals Were Taken By Quebec Buyers

Calgary.—Southern Alberta farmers and ranchers are richer by $20,000 cash as result of the visit of Quebec cattle buyers.

A total of 1,066 animals were bought by the Quebec buyers in a five-week period. R. M. Elliott, special representative of the Quebec department of agriculture, who bought for farmers only, took 543 of the animals at an approximate cost of $10,000.

Most of the cattle were bought under the free freight plan, the federal government and Quebec splitting the transportation charges.

Demand For Wheat

In Result Of Succession Of Poor Harvests Throughout The World

Liverpool.—Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, said the considerable increase in wheat imports was mainly the result of a succession of disastrous harvests throughout the world.

Addressing the annual banquet of the Liverpool chamber of commerce he attributed the growing wheat imports to this factor, rather than to advantages of trade agreements respecting Canada.

Massey said it was often forgotten that Canada's exports to the United Kingdom were made largely of raw materials essentially non-competitive with United Kingdom products. Consequently, their increase was being increasingly used in Britain

Canadian customs machinery now was greatly simplified, said the high commissioner. There also had been discussions as to how existing trade agreements might further be improved. All this was part of the declared policy of the Canadian government for freer channels of trade

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

The lights behind the window panes
May shine with golden glow
Or holly bough and laurel wreath
And sprigs of mistletoe
The Christmas tree may glint and gleam
With all their tinsel's art;
But, friends it won't be Christmas
Less you have it in your heart

The voices of the little ones
In happiness may raise,
For, this, indeed, is opportunity
In carolings of praise
And the you give with lavish hand
And deeds are noised apart
My friends, it won't be Christmas
Less you have it in your heart

The greeting of your neighbors
May be hearty, cheerier, too,
As merry bells in rapture fill
The tidings strange and true
But deeds of giving in secret
Are worth a thousand words
Less you have it in your heart

The message of the manger
Is simple as can be
And yet it speaks to us today
In words of charity
Let's not forget the purpose
Of the Saviour's coming birth
Less you have it in your heart

Wheat Shortage In Germany

German Newspaper Predicts A Food Catastrophe For Reich

Berlin.—The Frankfurter Zeitung's recent warning Germany faces a 3,000,000-ton wheat shortage may be the straw to break the back of that internationally known, liberally inclined paper, reliable sources reported here.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels was said to be considering withdrawal of the newspaper's publication permit.

The Frankfurter Zeitung is the only German paper to have bluntly predicted a food catastrophe ahead for the third reich. It estimated available wheat supplies at 4,000,000 tons, and said Germany needed 8,000,000 tons normally.

Meanwhile regimented menus became the contribution of restaurant keepers to the reich's four-year self-sufficiency plan. Beginning Jan. 1 menus will be on a new "point" basis, with a limited number of dishes and emphasis on fish.

Restaurants will offer fish in excess of four soups to ready meal dishes, and cold or four warm hors d'oeuvres, as long as fish is used as a form of vegetables a main ... eggs dose on an different basis

BRITISH POSITION IN RESPECT TO ITALY'S CONQUEST

London.—Pressing problems of foreign policy once again held the stage in the House of Commons.

Prodded by questions from the floor, Foreign Secretary Eden made the following disclosures:

1. Italy has given verbal assurance it has not up to now negotiated with the Spanish insurgents to obtain control of the Balearic Islands, and does not intend to do so in the future.

2. Britain will not accord formal recognition to Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

In the latter connection, however, Eden intimated his government would in practice take cognizance of altered administrative conditions both in the East African territory and in Manchoukuo.

"We must in Manchuria (Manchoukuo) and elsewhere accept such situations with both authorities as are necessary to protect British interests," the foreign secretary said. "We have made clear Britain no longer believes Emperor Haile Selassie or his representatives retain any control over Ethiopia."

"British representation in occupied Abyssinia (Ethiopia) has been for some time under consideration, with special reference to the problems arising from retention of a diplomatic mission accredited to a government which does not exercise any local authority," he said.

The statement was made in reply to a question from Miss Eleanor Rathbone, independent member, as to whether Britain contemplated creating a consulate in Addis Ababa instead of the existing legation.

Philip Noel Baker, Labor, asked whether the government had addressed to the League of Nations declaration of Feb. 16, 1933, that no change of the status quo would be undertaken resulting from violation of article X of the covenant would be recognized.

"His Majesty's government adhere to the principle enunciated in the declaration referred to, which was made in connection with the particular case of the Sino-Japanese dispute," Eden replied, but in its application to any case, His Majesty's government must be entitled to take account of the facts of the situation, where British interests are concerned to deal with actual authorities on the spot.

"Any action on their part the British government in part does not imply ... recognition of the methods by which a situation was brought about

Protest By West To Tariff Board On Price Of Cars

Ottawa.—The tariff board's long automobile hearing ended after three days' session, the consumer, but a brief innings and a representative of General Motors threatened his company would use water transportation to the Pacific coast unless it obtained relief from present rail freight rates.

Two voices from western Canada were raised in protest against benefits they claimed had accrued to the automobile industry through the 1935 tariff adjustments.

Protest against the railways refusal to equip 2,000 freight cars at a cost of $1,500,000 for refrigerator transport came from H. J. Carmichael of General Motors.

Charles A. Bowen, western newspaperman, declared the government's share of the differential between Canadian and American car prices was such as to constitute a "take-off", making the government a virtual partner in this "market."

Mr. Carmichael accounted for most of the gross difference of $148 between the American and Canadian prices on the Chevrolet master sedan coach, which was one of four cars cited, but he ended up with $61.86 of it directed on "surplus to the Canadian factory."

You still get $61.86 from the tariff Mr Bowen emphasized. The government gets $85.64, which is a big a rake-off as to make it almost a racket!"

He hobbled that $61 ra ses profit Mr. Carmichael insisted it was "excess cost." Our company hasn't made a profit for six years," he said.

"You mean that is the cost of making cars in Canada," suggested Hon George H Sedgewick, chairman of the board.

OBITUARY

ARTHUR SAMUEL YOUNG

The funeral of Arthur Samuel Young of the Ottawa district, who passed away in the Vermilion hospital on Tuesday December 15, was held at the Ottawa Community church on Thursday December 17. The Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion conducted the services, assisted by Mr Ray Hutchinson and Mr J. Waring. The deceased was in his 62rd year and his passing is keenly felt in the district. The sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances is extended to the family in their bereavement

Arthur Samuel Young was born in the state of Illinois on the 12th day of January 1874. While still a young boy he moved with his parents to Hartley, Iowa where he grew to manhood. After finishing the local school he attended Cornell college at Mt. Vernon, Iowa and he also spent some time at Northwestern University, in Chicago.

Following completion of his education he was employed with his father in the mercantile business in Hartley and Everly, Iowa. At the latter place he married Evelyn Fisher in 1901 and in 1907 they moved to Wetaskiwin, Alberta, where they lived for two years. They then returned to Iowa for a year but 1908 found them again in Alberta and located on a homestead north west of Vermilion, where they lived until Mrs. Young's state of health forced their return to their old home in Iowa Mrs. Young passed away on Oct 28, 1919 leaving her husband and four children to mourn her loss. In the spring of 1922 Mr. Young returned to his homestead in this district

On July 22, 1924, he was married to Mrs. Ida Hanson, who is left to mourn his loss. He is also survived by his four children, Mrs. Harshbarger, of Payette, Idaho, La Verne of Salt Lake City, Utah Lloyd at home and Mabel of Vermilion Also his aged mother and his sister Mrs Jas Tuvell of Vermilion and two brothers Lawrence of Woodward, Iowa and Jas Rene, Arizona.

Mr Young was a devout Christian and the esteem in which he was held was testified to by the large attendance at the funeral and by the beautiful floral tributes Interment took place in the cemetery beside the church.

Mr. J. Waring had charge of arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

The Young and Tuvell families wish to express their heartfelt thanks for the sympathy kindness and help received during their recent bereavement, also for the beautiful floral offerings

As a Life Insurance Policyholder

Your Policy is Larger Your Premium is Smaller

Because of Interest Earnings

YOU get more Life Insurance, and you pay less for it, because of interest.

The hard-earned savings that you set aside each year for the financial protection of yourself and your family are invested for you by your Life Insurance company in government and municipal bonds, first mortgages, public utility bonds, industrial and other interest-bearing securities.

Because of the interest earnings—the rental value of your savings—your money makes more money, and this earning power of your savings is put to work for you from the moment you pay your first Life Insurance premium.

At that moment, the Life Insurance company that you have chosen to act for you begins accumulating necessary funds to pay your policy claim promptly and in full when it falls due.

These funds are regulated by Dominion and Provincial Insurance Acts and are mathematically calculated. To maintain them, both the premiums you pay and the interest earned on them are necessary.

The part played by interest is, therefore, an essential part of your Life Insurance contract. Your policy is larger, your premium is smaller, because of the additional money that interest earnings add to your savings, and this is true in the case of 3,500,000 other Canadian Life Insurance policyholders.

Although the number of a post of fice is regarded as a prosaic place it is not entirely devoid of humorous interludes either. At a post office not a thousand miles from here at which I was obliged to call during the week a well dressed gentleman came in and asked the clerk to sell him "a stamped addressed envelope" The strange request brought smiles to the faces of several who were present.

A Scotch friend whom we had not seen since the War days and who came as a rail during the week told us the following story. "Three men an Englishman Scotchman and an Irishman decided to have a "big bust" one Christmas day and each was to bring the wherewithal to celebrate. The Englishman brought a large joint of prime beef, one dozen bottles four dozen of beer two bottles of sauce and other dainties. The Irishman brought two dozen potato cakes some pounds of mutton, two bottles of whiskey and other things The Scotchman brought his brother" We heartily wish our readers and the Editor and staff of the Standard — A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Christmas in the Rockies

CHRISTMAS in the Rockies! I [illegible] recalled as our train [illegible]

Mothers Night, Ancient English Xmas Name

THE oldest English name for Christmas is Modra Night, or Mothers Night in the early days, when our New Testaments had just settled down in the country that was to be England, the day of December 25th was given up to gaiety and feasting but the feast was dedicated to the special honor of mothers. They received the gifts or honor and everyone brought them gifts. Sons and daughters who had gone out into the world strove to be at home on that one night in the year.

A little later the name Yule was given to Christmas and the reputation of the day were prolonged into eight which man sang and told stories at time round the cheerful blaze of the Yule log.

The odd customs of Mothers Night gradually died out though they still survive in a few parts of the country. Its place has been taken to some extent by Mothering Sunday in the South of England, on that day everyone who can do so still makes a pilgrimage homewards and the mother receives the homage of her family - London Tit Bits Magazine.

Why Xmas Day Comes on Dec. 25th

CHRISTMAS, which seems to have been first officially instituted a church feast day by decree of Pope Telesphorus, between 112 A. D. and 154 A. D. was a movable feast indeed, it was the most movable of all the Christian festivals. It was usually celebrated by the eastern churches on the 6 January, and in April or May in the western part of Europe. Days in January or other months were observed as Christmas.

In A. D. 327 St Cyril bishop of Jerusalem obtained "the Pope Julius's authority" appointed a commission to determine, if possible the precise day of Christ's nativity. From the chronological archives in the Roman government or Palestine, the archivalians of the eastern and western divisions of the Christian church agreed upon December 25 as the date of the birth of Jesus and thereupon this became the officially decreed and generally accepted Christmas day.

BLOOMS AT CHRISTMAS TIME

According to tradition the famous thorn at Glastonbury Cathedral was brought there by Joseph of Arimathea and was part of the crown of thorns which was pressed upon the head of Jesus at the cross. According to tradition it blooms at Christmas time and the procession of boys and girls to insure good fortune through the year.

Her Xmas Present Was A Lovely Daughter

MRS. BURKE wept a little as she trimmed the Christmas tree. "This will be the last time," she thought. "Next Christmas I'll be all alone in the world."

Her son whistled as he shaved. "Getting dolled up," his mother thought. All for that girl. She had a bright bath shirt on though she must doubt it to the floor thought he was out of anything it on the tree.

Heath came home from school at chirp on the way over to Dorothy's. "In just a minute son." Oh, my son Christmas seems dull.

The bouquet and anthems filled the church. "And we loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son." [illegible] "Have I tried to show him sacrifice. [illegible] happiness means [illegible]

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Raids on telephone boxes in the London area alone are responsible for a loss of $1,500 monthly.

An international labor office study estimates the world depression from 1930 to 1934 cost at least $149,000,000,000.

Annual consumption of coffee in the United States is about a billion pounds. Consumption per capita is nine pounds a year.

Great Britain, the United States and Germany will launch converted moves early this year to remove obstacles blocking the return of a normal trade flow, press reports said.

Alberta Liberals will hold a provincial-wide convention April 3 in Calgary to select a permanent leader for the party, it was decided at Edmonton by a re-organizing committee.

Under a bill introduced in the House of Commons it would be made illegal to give tips in British hotels or restaurants. Fines of $5 for first offenders and $25 for subsequent offenses are provided.

Members of the British-Canadian Arctic expedition, with T. H. Manning in charge, have established winter headquarters on Repulse Bay, 66 miles north of Churchill on the west shore of Hudson Bay, it was reported by Eskimos and trappers.

The 1934 Arms Embargo Act which authorized President Roosevelt to forbid the selling of munitions in the U.S. for use in the recent Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay was held constitutional by the supreme court.

Heavy Naval Tonnage Laid Down In 1936

Great Britain, because of the deterioration of the general international situation," intends to keep in service five over-age cruisers which were due to be scrapped under the 1930 London naval treaty, Sir Samuel Hoare told the House of Commons.

Sir Samuel disclosed in a speech Great Britain laid down five tons of much naval tonnage in 1936 as she did three years ago.

He also told the House of Commons he would ask for bids for new capital ships. The new ships, some quarters said, may be used in a contemplated new squadron of five ships.

In making his announcement that 50,000 tons of new ships had been laid down in 1936, Hoare said: "I don't take the extreme view that no urgent case for defence need be sought here and now to impose statutory restricts on ordinary trade, but if European dangers become greater or if the defence program encounters serious obstacles in its progress, we might well be driven" to the restrictions.

Carry Many Passengers

But Figures Show London's Underground Railways Do Not Pay

Those who have lived in or have visited old London will know something of the extent to which the underground railways are used by the inhabitants of the metropolis in their comings and goings on business or pleasure bent. Some idea of the extent of this traffic is contained in the figures presented by the annual report of the London Passenger Transport Board. This states that the London tubes carried 468,960,000 passengers during the fiscal year 1935-36—and yet they do not pay.

An official of the Board told a representative of the London Daily Telegraph that since the first tube railway was opened in 1890 the lines had never paid. The chief reason, he said, was the high cost of construction of the tubes. When many of them were built the cost worked out at $5,000,000 a mile. By improved methods the costs of construction today have been reduced to about $3,750,000 a mile under favorable conditions, but where boring has to be done in difficult country the costs are still at the old figure.—By Thomas Times-Journal.

Tip For Spaghetti Eaters

There is a Mr Franklin, a regular diner at the Grand Central Childs who seems to us to have solved, once and for all, the problem of what to do about spaghetti. He is very fond of the stuff this Mr. Franklin, and always orders it when it appears on the menu. Then, from his breast pocket, he produces a medium-sized pair of scissors, with which he trims off the dangling ends of each forkful. It's as simple as that. The New Yorker.

Secret Places Of Safety

Concealed Hiding Places Were Extensively In Former Times

In former times, when social order was not what it is to-day, the provision of safe places of concealment was almost a sine qua non of the builder's art. A remarkable example is the family house of the Earl of Strathmore—Glamis Castle, an edifice solid in masonry, but mystic in legend. Only the holder of the title for the time being and his steward are supposed to know the full details of the secret chambers. We may, however, take it as certain that the secret room of one story does exist, and that there are probably others as well.

Strict secrecy as to the existence of concealed hiding-places was, of course, essential, and accounts for the fact that many have been discovered accidentally centuries after they were last used.

Fireplaces have often been used on occasions of emergency. To sit on the top of the chimney, quite out of sight, but choked with smoke and soot, was a fate which once overtook Charles II. The fire-places specially constructed for purposes of concealment are not very common. One I can recall was very clever. Over the mantel was a large oil-painting depicting some ancestor of the owner of the place. Little did the visitor suspect that he was under observation! For the frame was attached to the wall, while the painting could be moved up and down in slots. By this means entry was gained to a secret chamber over the fire-place from which it was possible to observe through a hole in the canvas all that was happening in the room.

Not very different was a device of later date. Here an overmantel mirror, hinged, served to conceal the occupant of the secret chamber. He added advantage was that a scratch in the quicksilver backing enabled him to see the hole in the canvas of the oil painting did not.

A very neat, though uncomfortable means of concealment was provided by the false staircase. Underneath the steps was another series, and in the intervening space a man could lie upon straw, coats, or sacking without becoming too cramped.

From the inside of the cupboard below the stairs one was apparently looking at the underside of the steps above. The loose plank which admitted the fugitive to his hiding-place was concealed by the top of the stair-carpet nailed over it.

No Free Legal Advice

Action Taken In U.S. To Bar Advice Over Radio Or Through Newspapers

Free legal advice, broadcast to the general public in the United States, either through newspapers or over the radio, will be stopped in a decision by the Appellate division of the State Supreme Court.

Effectively, immediately, the ruling forbids attorneys to answer questions of law or give an opinion through "a publicity agency of any kind" whether compensated or not.

"Any attorney who violates this rule of professional conduct," stated, "shall be deemed to be guilty of professional misconduct" and subject to disciplinary action.

The decision followed a complaint against the employment of attorneys in the so-called goodwill court of the air. The County Lawyers Association asserted that numerous opinions were based on insufficient statements of fact.

Receives Many Requests

Stratosphere Balloonist Assured Of Passenger On Next Ascent

Professor Piccard, the famous stratosphere balloonist, who recently announced that for $20,000 he would take a passenger with him on his next ascent, has received 22 requests for tickets. He revealed this at Le Mans, where he attended an international balloon race. The Professor's next ascent will be his most ambitious. He hopes to reach a height of 17 miles.

Prince Works In Factory

Prince Michael, heir-apparent to the Rumanian throne recently, put in his first day of manual labor, working on the assembly line of an automobile factory. With tool-soiled hands the 15-year-old prince, handy with tools, received a skilled workman's wage and planned to work another day soon. The prince contributed his wage to funds for the unemployed.

Streets Paved With Cans

Florida Town Saves Half The Cost Of Roadbed

Tin can valley is a reality, not a name, in West Palm Beach, Florida.

For nearly 10 years Superintendent D. D. Bowman of the department of streets and public improvements has been utilizing discarded tin cans for street building purposes, collecting the cans from the city incinerator.

The cans take the place of about half the amount of crushed rock that would otherwise be used in the street base, saving half the cost of the roadbed.

According to Superintendent Bowman, they make excellent streets, and thoroughfares with a foot thick layer of tin cans rolled down to half that thickness are holding up as well as those surfaced entirely with rock.

Good News For Frogs

No more frog legs are to appear on menus in China. By order of the ministry of industries, no more frogs are to be killed for eating purposes inasmuch as the leaping amphibians are considered of more value to agriculture than to epicureans.

Red Sea Crossing

Governor Of Sinai Believes It Was Not A Miraculous Event

The crossing of the Red Sea by the Israelites was no miracle was the submission made by Major C. S. Jarvis, governor of Sinai for 14 years, when addressing the Ethnic study group in London. Major Jarvis is known to every Arab in the middle east as Jarvis Bey.

The pillar of fire described in Exodus," said Major Jarvis, "would probably be caused by one of the squalls which still occur in Sinai and cause a column of cloud from which lightning flashes at night. A narrow strip of sand separates the Mediterranean from Lake Pardawil, a vast lagoon, and my theory is that the Israelites marched along this strip.

"A squall and rain followed and, as still happens to-day, the sea broke over the sand into the lagoon. I have seen it happen in 12 hours. The whole army of Egyptians was caught.

"I have arrived at my theory by studying the two books of the Bible, Exodus and Numbers, and from investigations during the time I was in Sinai. There is no record in Egyptian history of the passage from which it was possible to observe through a hole in the canvas all that was happening in the room.

Not very different was a device of later date. Here an overmantel mirror, hinged, served to conceal the occupant of the secret chamber. He added advantage was that a scratch in the quicksilver backing enabled him to see the hole in the canvas of the oil painting did not.

Chop Down Totem Poles

Indians Afraid Flood Waters Would Carry Them Away

Seven totem poles, preserved at the Indian village of Kitwanga on the Skeena river in northern British Columbia, were chopped down by natives during disastrous floods in June, it has been learned.

Reports said the Indians feared the poles, carved to depict heraldic histories of the families owning them, would be swept downstream and lost in flood waters which carried away five houses and caused unprecedented heights. They cut them down and moved them to higher ground, but lost one in the movement.

The totem poles were preserved and erected from nine to eleven years ago in concrete bases according to instructions through joint efforts of the national museum and the department of Indian affairs and the Canadian National Railways whose Prince Rupert line passes them.

Harlan I. Smith, Dominion archaeologist, who supervised preservation and erection of the poles, said the report indicated two-third of those at Kitwanga had been chopped down or lost. He questioned if they would have been lost in the time under ordinary circumstances, believing the heavy concrete in which they were imbedded would have held them against the water.

Effect Of War Service

Millions Of Veterans Have Died Of Wounds Since Armistice

More than 1,000,000 died of the effects of their wounds after the war ended than were killed in the four years of actual fighting, Sir Arthur Goodwin told a meeting of ex-service men in London. He said that the number of deaths due to wounds was about 1,000,000 and that the number of men who had been treated during years after the Armistice, more than 18,000,000 have died of the effects of their war service.

"I turned the way I signaled," said the lady, indignantly, after the crash.

"I know it," retorted the man, "that's what fooled me."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 3

THE SON OF GOD BECOMES MAN

Golden text: The Word became flesh, and dwelt among us. John 1:14.
Lesson: John 1:1-18.
Devotional reading: Philippians 2: 1-11.

Explanations And Comments

The Nature of the Word, verses 1-5. The Logos, a Greek word meaning literally word, is seen in our terms theology, biology, chronology, etc. As the Word was with God and the Word was God, which is only another way of saying that God has always been seeking to reveal himself to his children and speak to them in a language they could understand" (Galus Glenn Atkins).

John uses Logos to designate Jesus Christ as expressing and revealing God to the world. "Galileo was God's word to science. Luther was God's word to religion. But Christ was The Word—the full and complete disclosure of God—and always for all, expressing the very soul of God, and with the precision and finality, that of him it may be said, The Word was God" (J. W. Dawson). The purpose of the Gospel According to John is to present Jesus Christ as the incarnate Logos (Jn. 20:30,31).

The Same Word was also in the beginning with God. This repetition of the fact of the pre-existence of things were made through him, and without him was not anything made that hath been made. The assertion that the Word by means of both positive and negative statements a characteristic of this Gospel. "Looking at the world as created by God through Christ, not merely at the original process of creation, but at the present existing point, the declaration is made that it is completed, and not delayed to be completed through the self-communication of God in Christ. Christ is the fulfilment of an eternal intention. He is the means by which the final purpose of God is realized. He is the way to God who is its source—was originally meant to be" (Alexander Maclaren).

Christ was no afterthought. He is "the eternal Son, who is coequal to God conceived it" (Henry W. Clark).

Settled Native Uprising

Airplane Terrified Native Tribes Fighting In New Guinea

Strange tales of methods used by Government police to quell native uprisings in the wild country of New Guinea were told at Sydney, N.S.W., by Charles Bates, district officer in that territory, on a visit to Sydney. Among the many stories was one in which Bates settled a savage tribal fight by appearing in an airplane.

"I went out, patrol and Army," he related. "There was a big fight on and I warned warriors on both sides if it happened again I would take serious measures.

"Soon after I left they started again. I heard of it and about the time a pilot of my acquaintance arrived in his plane. I told him he must make a tribal fight over where and he took me up. We swooped over the field of battle.

"The warriors stopped their fighting in astonishment and then ran for their lives. They never fought again."

Mr. Bates spent 14 months in a valley north of the Chimbu and Wahgi rivers where 60,000 natives live.

Sir Flinders Petrie Still Exploring At Age Of 83

At the age of 83, Sir Flinders Petrie, the famous archaeologist, has been digging and exploring in the caravan on the desolate south-western frontier of Palestine. He has been digging there about two months for 55 years, and has written no fewer than 100 books on the valuable discoveries of lost civilizations, states the News of the World. He is accompanied on all his expeditions by Lady Petrie, who also shares his lifelong passion for Egyptology. They employ nearly 600 servants, mostly Bedouins, who work for a few shillings a week will do do anything from digging to sewing and cooking.

What A Capitalist Is

What is a capitalist? Sir Stratford Beacon-Herald says some people think the term applies solely to those who possess vast wealth, the owners of factories, railroads, mines, which in turn produce more wealth. But in actual fact the farmer is as truly a capitalist as the industrialist. So is the owner of the small grocery store or any other retailer. The owner of a life insurance policy or a savings account is a capitalist.

The Great War is by no means remote and yet of all the leaders of the Allied high command only two remain alive—Petain and Pershing.

An Interesting Story

Labrador To Get Reindeer Herds According To Report

According to the Daily News, of St. John's, Newfoundland, Mr. Frederick S. Lawrence, formerly of Peace River, Alberta, and promoter of New York, has been granted by the Commission of Government the right to select a million acres of grazing land on the Northern Labrador for a great reindeer preserve. The Daily News quotes the promoter of this interesting venture as saying that as soon as the Government completes arrangements for granting the rights, with such provisions as will justify the heavy expenditure entailed, he will be ready to start operations by importing two thousand head of reindeer, commencing early in the New Year. The animals are to be secured in the Scandinavian countries, and a ship, chartered at St. John's, will make two trips for the purpose. A thousand animals will be brought later on. This, of course, will be with the approval of the Newfoundland Government, it is stated further. It is stated that reindeer in Northern Labrador would be a boon to the Labrador Eskimos, one of which of that territory and also to the people of Newfoundland proper. The Eskimos are expert herdsmen and are a valuable animal in any northern country such as Labrador. It will be comparatively easy to transfer the herds from Scandinavia to the proposed reserve if the contemplated agreement is put into practice. The promoter can make the sea voyage safely as ordinary domestic cattle. It is maintained, and there will be no quarantine. It will be a revival of a journey such as marked the transfer of the huge herds overland from Alaska to the Mackenzie region of Canada, a passage which took more than two years and which has only recently been completed. St. John's newspaper story is most interesting and the developments will be watched with close attention.—Montreal Gazette.

Safety For Planes

Two-Way Wireless Voice Communication Service In Operation

Major milestone in the annals of northland aviation, two-way wireless voice communication service is in operation under permit issued by Mr. J. E. Genet, of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

That organization makes the service available to aircraft company and licensed planes in which the necessary equipment has been installed. Established to provide safety to planes flying over thousands of square miles of territory in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta and the North West Territories, seven R.C.-C.S. stations already have been equipped with radio phone service so they can keep in touch with planes in flight and know exactly where they are.

Many flights are made to isolated posts and over hundreds of miles of uninhabited land where a forced landing would probably mean death by freezing or starvation before other planes could locate and rescue the pilot and his passengers.

Now flyers can talk almost conversationally with posts, giving weather reports of the country ahead and giving conditions about the plane. Secretary Genet explained in just could be told of any trouble encountered by a machine.

A histor... owned by the wife of an Englis clergyman and now on view in the Public Library, Agnes Maunsles of Vancouver, has the signature of 47 outstanding figures in English history.

Among them are Cecil Rhodes, Lord Salisbury, Charles Pastell, Lord Derby, Lord Lansdowne and the Duke of Bedford.

Autographs of Publishers, the noted pianist, Coleridge, the poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Sir Percy Drummond indicate the variety of signers. Names of many churchmen are there.

Keeping Up With Science

The situation as between highway engineers and automobile engineers to-day is the same as between bank-vault builders and safe crackers, or between armour-plate builders and heavy-gun builders. Every time a stronger steel safe is built the burglar invents a new tool to crack it. Every time the battleship armor gets thicker the high explosive shells pierce further. Every line we build a wider and smoother automobile road the manufacturers turn out a faster car.—New York Times.

Thou Shalt Not Love
— A NOVEL BY —

Starr's eyes drooped, and a faint flush touched her cousin's cheeks.

"It—R— Oh, I mean it all seems so —rash—cold-blooded, Lance — the whole arrangement. I'm proposing! I've always thought that; and—well, that love ought to have something to do with it."

"I'll teach you to love me, Starr!" he said eagerly, as his hand crushed her slight fingers. "Say you will marry me! Starr, you're not going to be so foolish as to refuse me because of the game and the candle.

"Then she's a fool!" he added, recklessly to-day. Was it too much champagne last night?"

Starr's face grew indistinct eyelids drooped, shading her long, wistful eyes from him.

"Perhaps," she murmured, wondering what the servants would say or think when they found that flower bowl.

She must snap out of this mood. This was not the kind of mistress Lance Manners wanted in charge of his penthouse. He demanded gaiety, vivacity, sophistication.

He remembered suddenly that they had left the Park behind and were on the Avenue, headed downtown again. She turned to Lance questioningly.

"Where are we going?"

He grinned at her. "To congratulate the bride-to-be."

"Bride-to-be! Sale?"

Starr's sigh of resignation was only inward. Well, anyway, a week-end in the country would give her time to render to Lance. Starr reflected bitterly that that was all to which Lance Manners had come down to her house this afternoon." There was a peculiar light in Lance's eyes, and a moment Starr had a suspicion that he guessed her secret.

Why? Why should Stephanie want to marry him? What extra humiliation was this? She would not stand for it! She couldn't stand any more.

Incredibly enough, as she quickly discovered when Stephanie came to greet them in the drawing room of the new home, with all her air of accustomed portraits looking down from the walls, Stephanie wanted to apologize to Starr Ellison. She did it very prettily. She was like a complacent little pink and white doll when things went her way, as they rarely had at present. No one would ever imagine that words of violence could fall from those lips, or venom show in her sapphire eyes.

"I'm terribly sorry for some of the things I said to you," she murmured to Starr. "I hope you'll believe that it was just because I didn't understand, when a girl loves anyone"— She sighed and there was an expression in her eyes that said of course "Play-Girl" could not be expected to understand the true meaning of love or its nuances— "When I realized that you were not 'Play-Girl' at all—a secret between Michael and me, of course—(Her eyes said that though Starr might not be Michael's "Play-Girl" that there was no question of Starr's fitness for the role)—when I found out that Michael was just saying you to do the things you did; that the whole thing was planned because of his great love for you—"

Starr winced. Stephanie was subtly rubbing it in. But her blond blue eyes were childlike and innocent. Too innocent. She rattled on:

"I'm giving a week-end party in honor of Michael at our house in Westchester this week, Miss Ellison. Michael and I are driving up there this afternoon. It has to be done all in a hurry because—well, because everything will be hurry from now on. We just can't wait to be married, now that Mother and Father have finally given their consent!—(She said that as though she and her blessed parents were doing a favor to Michael!).... I'm counting on you to be one of my house party guests, Miss Ellison. You have played such an important part in bringing about Michael's success. I want all of Michael's friends at mine in our happiness."

Oh, no! That was too much! When Starr had ordered Michael out of her apartment, she had sworn to herself that she would never see him again. She could not bear to see his proud, contemptuous face. To know how much he was hating her, and how unfair it was—how terribly unfair! But that was how life had always been to her—unfair.

It was not right to ask her to spend a week-end with Stephanie and Michael, watching them make love in secluded corners, constantly hearing all about their plans for their wedding.

Stephanie's supplies bliss eyes upon Lance. Starr wondered if she suspect, too? Was this casual invitation just a cloak to hide her real motive? Was she trying to avenge herself on Starr by parading her man before the eyes of the girl who had lost?

Lance had strolled up to the two, carrying his hat, and had taken time to hear Stephanie urging Starr to be a guest at her house party. He heard Stephanie's words of invitation previously had said. In spite of her remarks to Starr, too, it was quite evident to everybody that she was glad to clear Starr Ellison's reputation in anybody's eyes. She was quite willing to make a few weeks in a fascinating company—and for Michael. She was complacent about allowing Starr to share the limelight with her. Starr the notorious "Play-Girl." Having Starr as her guest would be confirmed magnanimous on Stephanie's part.

Before Starr realized what it was all about, Lance had accepted Stephanie's invitation for her. His manner was most possessive, as though he were no longer had any will of her own.

"Of course she'll come, Stephanie," Lance was saying masterfully. "Starr never refuses an invitation, no matter what the reason for it. Do you, Starr?"

Starr never refused a party. She must remember her role. That was her life—here and Lance's. Nothing from one gay party to another. With never a breathing spell in between, because the breathing spells were awful.

Lance said: "I'll drive her up on Saturday myself, Stephanie. That is, if it suits you, Starr?"

Stephanie gave a tinkling little laugh.

"Silly man, of course you are!"

Starr's sigh of resignation was only inward. Well, anyway, a week-end in the country would give her time to render to Lance. Starr reflected bitterly that that was all to which Lance Manners had come down to her house this afternoon." There was a peculiar light in Lance's eyes, and a moment Starr had a suspicion that he guessed her secret.

Proud Of His Work

Summer Is Busy Season For French-Canadian Tattoo Artist

The business of "Professor" Jos Laroie, French-Canadian tattoo artist, has gone to his head. As proof he doffs his hat and exhibits a likeness of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, famous Canadian statesman, tattooed there.

Joe, exterior decorator of hundreds of sailors from ocean and lake boats, entering Montreal harbor, claims he is the only man in Canada with a tattooed scalp.

Lavoie is proud of his "masterpieces," the work of 25 years. His best, he says, has travelled to the South Pole on the breast back of Richard Dickie, seaman on Admiral Byrd's second expedition to the Antarctic. Dickie now lives in Vancouver.

Summer is the rush season for the professor. Then the boat crews arrive. Some take boat sailors, but most have their work executed in installments, so each time their freighter reaches port. Complicated designs take 10 hours to finish.

Most popular motif used for is the United States flag; though 95 per cent. of his customers are Canadians and Europeans. Ships and anchors also are popular, while an occasional client asks for a tombstone with appropriate wording. Joe has just about everything among his 1,000 designs.

New Chinese Weights

Official Weights And Measures Adopted By National Government

The shi picul, the shi mow, and the shi catty are the official weights and measures recently adopted by the National Government of China, and in view of the Canadian agricultural products imported by that country should be of interest to Canadian farmers and exporters. The shi picul is the unit in which all production estimates are given, equalling 100.231 pounds avoirdupois. The shi mow, used in reporting acreage, is equal to 0.16474 acre or 0.66667 acres, and the shi catty, used for smaller weights, is equivalent to one-hundredth of a shi picul, or 1.1023 pounds. The shi picul must not be confused with the one-hundred-and-thirty-three-and-a-third-pound picul formerly used in the Chinese Maritime Customs and still in general use in Sino-foreign commerce throughout China.

The Rule In Spain

Country Was Always On Verge Of Civil War

The story goes that General Narvaez, one of the many dictators of Spain in the 19th century, was asked on his death-bed by the priest: "Does your excellency forgive your enemies?" And the dying man replied in a firm voice: "I have no enemies! I have shot them all." The anecdote might well serve as a motto for much of what is happening in Spain to-day. It is full of the tragedy for the outside world. In fact Spain since the start of the Peninsula War in 1808, has never had a single year of the ordinary European type, and its quietest periods have been those in which violence, curbed by ruthless dictators had to confine itself to the assassination of leading statesmen. Civil war was the rule, not the exception.—London Spectator.

Found It Great Help

Man Visited Museum So He Could Not Smoke

A friendly guest at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the lady and lion were in there, about a mysterious man who for the past three months had been waiting at the museum every morning at ten, when the Museum opened. He was well dressed, looked prosperous, and looking as if he had just got out of bed, flung on his clothes, and made a dash for the museum. Puzzled guards asked all he did was sit on a bench, unfold the Times, and read for an hour or so, then leave. He had noticed a guard looking at him, and had said testily, "I suppose you're wondering why I come here. I'm trying to stop smoking, and have to have somewhere where they won't let me smoke, see." He brooded for a while, then simply added, "Found it great help."—Sunday mornings, when you people are closed, I go to church."—The New Yorker.

Cows Thrive On Bread

Loaves of bread are taking the place of haystacks in some barns at Hebron, Conn. Farmers found they could buy stale bread cheaper than it would cost for regular fodder. Cows, they say, not only thrive on the bread but appear to enjoy the change in diet.

Dairying is New York's largest and most widespread industry. Holland, noted for its milk and dairy products, does not compare with New York in this respect.

The first essential to success as a musician, says an authority, is a musical ear. The second is a foreign name.

Knew Queen As Child

Druggist In Toronto Saw Little Elizabeth Very Often

There's a druggist in Toronto who used to pick up the new Queen of England when she was a little girl and plunk her on a scales several times a week to see how she was doing in the way of weight.

He's George Milne, lean and Scottish-accented, now of the T. Eaton Company drug department.

He told how little Elizabeth, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, wearing a sailor hat and dress, used to walk into the "chemist shop" at which he was stationed during the winter months of 1914, in Bordighera, on the Italian Riviera.

She was accompanied sometimes by her mother; sometimes by her nurse. Like all other little girls, she loved to wander around the store and explore its contents.

Like all other little girls, too, she got a big kick out of getting a "sweet" from the chemist.

It is chiefly from advertising revenue that the costs of issuing a weekly newspaper are met. The management is pleased to feel that the value of the Standard as an advertising medium is recognized by national business institutions as well as local business men — from these two sources it has been possible to maintain the service to the public. Subscriptions are also a very necessary source of revenue and right here we desire to express our appreciation to the numerous readers who have constantly kept their paper paid in advance, it has been much to us. Conditions and circumstances have prevented others from being in a position to keep the paper paid-up, but with better times arrears are being met and we thank them.

Incidental to every rural paper is the job work department. Revenue from this branch or trade fills in many holes and provides work for what would have no local newspaper. It is chiefly from advertising revenue that the costs of issuing a weekly news paper are met. The management is pleased to feel that the value of the Standard as an advertising medium is recognized by national business in- and always thanks.

ST. JOSEPH'S HIGH SCHOOL CLANDONALD

On Wednesday, Dec. 22rd, closing exercises for the term were held in St. Joseph's school, Clandonald. In the morning the reports were distributed by Reverend Father Gillis. The pupils availed themselves of this opportunity to present a fitted luncheon dressing case to Reverend Father Gillis.

In the afternoon a short program was enjoyed consisting of the following songs: Chorus, Silent Night, Junior school pupils; Highland Fling, Mary McNeil and Marion Hagen; Recitation, Una Lawrence, Comedy Play, "Yanosh Boss" portrayed by Harold Barclay, Mason Dixon, Norman Roe and Liam O'Pay; Humorous Play, "The Truth Telling Machine," the parts of which were taken by Joan Hughes, Mary MacDonald, Kathleen Mimbel, Dewey Poe, Kathleen Swan, Alex Rudyk, Walter McCaughan, Theodore Throndson, Bert Wood and Patrick McGarrik.

The gaily decked Christmas tree was then dismantled of its store of gifts and bags of fruit and candy, kindly donated by the Separate School Board. The pleasurable task of distribution was capably performed by Georgie Hall and Douglas Campbell, Alex Rudyk and Walter McCaughan. The pupils dispersed for their holidays, feeling their appreciation of the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Wilson and son were in town from Edmonton for Christmas with Mrs. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Pinchbeck.

Here and There

Opening three weeks earlier this year with a Hobo's supper, held on December 2, the skating season in Quebec province was off to a flying start with special Canadian Pacific trains as well as regular crowded with holidayers on the first week-end thereafter from Montreal to the Laurentians.

The Empress of Britain will start the winter cruise season from New York December 29 on a nine-day voyage to the West Indies and Cuba. It will carry its own night club of Broadway entertainers and a smart dance band. The Empress of Australia, between January 2 and March 25 will make six cruises of nineteen, ten, 14 and 15 day duration to the West Indies, all from New York.

Gift of a visit home for Christmas and New Year was the unusual present enjoyed by Vice-Chairman Munns Frazer, Sec.-Treasurer. A beauty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. M. Frazer who very thoughtfully supplied a dainty lunch. Next meeting at same place Monday Jan. 4.

A dance will be held in the hall on Friday January 15. Hundreds of people have patronized the dances here since the opening night and they all have come back again and again. That means they all enjoyed themselves. See advert in this issue.

May we be pardoned for adding a personal touch to these notes. We wish to thank those of our readers who thought we were worthy of remembrance this Christmas by sending us some particularly nice cards as well as something more substantial. We also wish to thank the donor of a lovely present and who did not wish to be known other than from "An admirer and an old timer" I should add that the majority of those who remembered us this Christmas were people who are usually known as "Old Timers" We appreciate them very much and we wish them and all our readers — A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Editor, the Standard,
Sir:

The attention of this association has been drawn to statements made by Mr. R. Wellenbergher in letters applying to other which we consider are very unsentimentally to say the least and we wish to state politely that we are opposed to these statements.

Apparently Mr. Wellenbergher is worrying more about losing his little property than his duty toward those on relief who have already lost everything they possessed and who, according to Mr. Wellenbergher have lost their status as citizens as well.

Most of the men have worked off their relief on works approved by the town council and such relief should be regarded as a loan not as a charity dispensed by Mr. Wellenbergher.

ISLAND HILL

To visit Campbell Lake school Friday December 22 and see the happy faces of the pupils who produced under the superintendence of the teacher Miss Gray, a super-program that has beautifully enjoyed by the parents of the children as well as by a large number of visitors who filled the school to capacity, was a scene not easily forgotten. Not a little of the success of the entertainment may be attributed to the excellent management of the chairman, Mr. Rock Mead, assisted by willing ladies and gentlemen of the district. We are also sure Campbell Lake folks will agree that the part taken by Mr. Mc Cambridge Sr. (Santa) contributed much to the great success of the evening. Each child attending the school was presented with a valuable present and numerous other children who attend other schools were recipients of easily stockings. We should add that some who are past school age obtained their Christmas gifts through the instrumentality of Santa. The latter caused hearty laughter by his exertions in trying to induce the teacher to pay for his trouble in handing over two beautiful presents, one of which was the gift of the school pupils. The program was as follows: "O Canada," by all present; Recitation, Bobby McIntyre; Play, Eileen Hawkes, Fred Dougan, Geo. Shand, Isabella Hawkes; Song, Mary McDonnell, Isabella Hawkes, Eileen Hawkes, Nessie Dougan; Club swinging, Geo. Dougan, Geo. Shand; Recitation, Isabella Hawkes; Play, Geo Dougan, Emery Phillbrick; Mary McCambridge, Lily Dougan, Madge Dougan, Phillip Brady; Drill by small children; A Monologue, Lily Dougan; Recitation, Ben Reeves; Play, Philip Brady, Mary McDonnell, Nessie Dougan, Jean Maggs; Chorus, By all the pupils; Recitation, Mary Mcdonnell Jean Maggs, Recitation, Mary McCambridge; Club swinging, Isabella Hawkes, Madge Dougan, Eileen Hawkes; Recitation, Nessie Dougan; Pantomime, read by Madge Dougan, acted by Jean Maggs, Geo. Dougan, Geo. Shand, Lily Dougan; "Good Night" by Phyllis Robinson.

A sumptuous lunch was served to all the company after which a dance took place, the music being dispensed by the Mead orchestra.

A branch of the Social Credit League was established at Campbell Lake school Monday Dec. 28. Mr. L. Bridgley, zone president, was present on behalf of the league. The following officers were elected:- Geo. Maggs, Chairman; G. Hyndes, Vice-Chairman; Munns Frazer, Sec.-Treasurer. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. M. Frazer who very thoughtfully supplied a dainty lunch. Next meeting at same place Monday Jan. 4.

During the 1935-36 season, inspectors of the Fruit Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, visited the maple sugar bushes and manufacturing plants, as compared with 128 such visits during 1934-35. These inspections were made to check on the sanitary conditions under which the maple products were produced and handled in Canada, also to search out the possibility of adulteration in such offending plants.

TWO MILLIONS PAID TO EASTERN FARMERS

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 28.—Farmers of Kent and district were paid approximately $2,000,000 for more than 250,000 tons of sugar beets delivered at the Wallaceburg and Chatham plants on the Canada and Dominion Sugar Companies, the latter of which has just closed.

The gross value of production of the principal field crops of Canada in 1936 is estimated preliminarily, subject to revision, at $510,139,000, as compared with $568,216,800 in 1935. This is the highest recorded for the past seven years, but it is still $355,000,000 less than that of 1929.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Well, here we are again folks, and to those who have been inquiring as to the whereabouts of this column, We're sorry, but it just had to be discontinued until the Xmas festivities were over. We sincerely hope that the Yule-tide season was a very happy one for all and thank you, Mr. Editor and Staff for your kind greetings. May we wish you the best of everything at the coming year.

The Chatsworth Xmas tree and concert was held on December 23rd. There was the usual large crowd and the usual very successful concert. The school was very nicely decorated for the occasion. The children all carried out their parts very well, the boy's prize for best acting being awarded to Charlie Forkash and May Telford winning the girl's prize. Mrs. H. J. Davies, Miss Milburn and Miss Pulliver being the judges, and they had a real job too!

A large three tier Xmas cake and a smaller one were drawn for after Santa's visit. Mr. Bruce Lucas was the winner of the former and Ken Marticrel, of Vermilion, held the win ning ticket on the latter one. Joan Newman drew the lucky ticket.

A sack of candies was presented to every child present, also to each person who had helped in any way with the concert. Mr. H. J. Davies moved a vote of thanks to the teacher, Miss Chrisp, and to all who had helped. A hearty clap followed. A nice lunch was then served with plenty or eats and good coffee to drink.

Miss Mae Chrisp went to her home south of town on Thursday, Dec. 24th to spend the holiday season with her folks.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Mart. Forkash is still confined to the hospital. Mrs. Joe Forkash is looking after little Matt and Julia in their mother's absence.

Greetings were received from the Garlick family formerly of Vermilion They are now residing at Prince Rupert, B.C. from Prince Rupert. Mrs. Wil lon, also a former Vermilionite, sends greetings from White Rock, B. C.

Everyone is looking forward to the big New Year's Eve dance at Chatsworth this week. It promises to be a real big night.

Last—A long sheepskin coat somewhere between Thompson's tourist camp and Vermilion. Finder please notify H. Thompson.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By
H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department Canada Grain Company, Ltd.

Some countries have so much people they cannot grow enough wheat to eat.

Some countries have so much land and so few people that they have wheat to sell.

These nations which are obliged to buy wheat are called "Wheat Importing Countries", while those with wheat to sell are called "Wheat Exporting Countries."

About 350 million bushels of wheat this year, it is expected will be purchased by the importing countries from the exporting countries.

This amount is 50 million to about 100 million bushels less than in the average annual production.

Canada is the largest wheat exporting country, and this year will have a little more than 200 million bushels. Great Britain is the largest importing country, buying about 160 million bushels each year.

The wheat grown on our Canadian Prairies finds ready sale each year to 22 different countries. It would be an interesting exercise to boys and girls would make a list—then mark on a map the countries to which we sell wheat and a list—then mark on a map the countries to which we sell wheat and the wheat they harvests and neighbors grow.

It would be well for our industries if in addition students would note the products or goods which each of these countries purchase sells to Canada and other countries which they sell to them to purchase Canadian wheat.

Prices have tended to be raised in the following ways: (1) Buying about possible food shortages—Countries have increased estimates needed to purchase wheat requirements for the next wheat requirements for the next year. (2) Buying ahead—Countries have bought more wheat than they will need for about 31 million to cover their requirements. (3) Buying for reserves—Countries have bought wheat to build up reserves. (4) Buying for speculation—Countries have bought wheat to sell at a profit later on.

Crop prospects in fairly improved India remains good while the outlook in Australia is poor.

About the Neighbours

Somebody once said it takes all kinds of people to make a world. Most of us agree they are all here. You may like all your neighbours and you may not. The point is, it not WHY not?

Would you remain friendly with the man who told you one thing one day and the opposite the next? Would you prefer a neighbour who always lived up to his promises, to one who promised one thing one day and did something entirely "different the next?

Would you lend your closest neighbour your lawn mower, if you had no reason to suspect he would ever return it? Or would you lend him your cold chisel if you knew he would tell all his friends you were the most unreasonable and most greedy person alive?

Do you think for a minute your community would be made more harmonious, a better place in which to live if everybody did the best they could, were as fair in their dealings with each other as you would have your neighbour be with you?

Is it not a marvelous feeling to know you can trust your neighbour? Is there any excuse your neighbour can possibly make that would pardon him in your own mind for suddenly disregarding all agreements or promises he ever made to you?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta, The Association is composed of 31 member companies. VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

The Relief System

Signs are not lacking that the direct relief system, which has served as a short anchor for many unfortunate citizens during the past few years will be sharply curtailed in the near future, if not altogether abolished.

A growing opinion in this country supports the belief that direct relief is perhaps not the best system of caring for the unemployed in the urban centres—or even for farmers in the rural districts who have been unfortunate enough to lose their crops on account of the vagaries of Nature and through no fault of their own.

The impression is gaining strength throughout the Dominion that it would be much better to provide work in some form or another as a substitute for direct relief and to require that all who need assistance to provide for the necessities of life for themselves and their families, and who are physically able to do so, should be required to render some service in return or such aid.

The accelerating demand for the adoption of the principle of work and wages, moreover, is not confined to those taxpayers who are still able to shift for themselves and to make some contribution towards the care of their more unfortunate brethren, but is subscribed to by a very substantial percentage of the unemployed themselves and the very fact that such a large majority of the unemployed are anxious for work and prefer to maintain self-dependence speaks well for them and for the future of the country.

Fear has frequently been expressed in the newspapers, on the public platform and elsewhere that indefinite continuance of what might be termed the "dole" system would eventually sap the morale of the great bulk of relief recipients and that in course of time they would become complacent about their situation, even to the extent of preferring to be kept in idleness rather than to work and of refusing to work when it again becomes available.

To this fear has been added the dread that this attitude towards work on the part of a minority might ultimately permeate the whole mass and a substantial percentage of the citizen-body act to eventually constitute a menace to the entire community and thus retard recovery almost indefinitely, if the present system of furnishing aid without requiring some return for it is continued too long.

It is largely in the hope of averting such a tragedy that the movement for substitution of work with wages or services of some kind for direct relief is gaining momentum and it is interesting to note that support and help in this direction is being given by many of the unemployed organizations themselves, as well as many individual relief recipients. In recent months these organizations as well as individuals and municipal representatives have importuned governments, municipal, provincial and federal to furnish work for the unemployed and it can almost be taken for granted that recommendations along this line will be made by the Federal Unemployment Commission now engaged in the task of finding a solution for the problem.

It is axiomatic that the only permanent solution of the problem lies in the absorption of all unemployed by industry, including, of course, the agricultural industry; but until this can be done to the extent that unemployment is reduced to normal proportions, it is felt that public work should be provided to as great an extent as possible to bridge the gap; not only in the interests of the taxpayers who will thereby secure some return for heavy expenditures which must be made for relief but in the interests of relief recipients themselves, if only as a matter of preserving their morale, maintaining their self-respect and restoring in them that spirit of independence and confidence which is so essential to the progress of the community as an entity.

In representations which are being made and will be made to the Commission, no doubt stress will be placed on the enormous sums which have been spent for direct relief in the past few years but also what might have been achieved had the money been routed through work channels.

It will also unquestionably be demonstrated that there is much work that can be done and many projects undertaken that will not up now assets of the country but which can be made more or less self-sustaining and that when these factors are taken into account and the fact that some who will not work will be eliminated, such a policy will cost the country little if any more than the present "dole" system.

Told Many Stories

Party That Searched For Explorers Had Interesting Trip

Saskatoon on the Discovery II arriving back on Assiniboia, told many stories of their trip in search of Ellsworth and Kenyon.

On breaking open the skylights of one of the tanks of the Fleet Aviation a Discovery party was surprised to find that the interior was still damp with colored paper Christmas decorations, left by Byrd's party in 1933. The air inside the hut, they noticed, still smelt of tobacco smoke. From the pipes and cigarettes smoked more than two years previously.

The Air Force pilots were highly entertained largely to the success of the trip, were painted vivid orange. This color, far from camouflaging them, showed the planes up more clearly against a white snow background than any other color.

Although the men said they generally did not find the low temperatures, it was no cold that even well inside the hot boiler-room, ice more than 1½ inches thick formed on the steel sides of the ship.

He Asked For It

How lucky are those to whom the gift of repartee is given, and are not always their remarks at times a joy to all of us. As, for instance, that of the veterinary surgeon who found himself in a socially distinguished gathering and to whom a snob remarked: In superior tones, "You're a veterinary surgeon, aren't you?" "Yes, I am," replied the vet, "are you ill?"

Good Reciprocity

The St. Catharines, Ont. Standard says last year, Canada shipped no less than 94,000,000 pounds of canned fruits to Britain, as compared with 7,000,000 in 1932. And canned vegetables increased from 9,000,000 lbs to 16,000,000 pounds. There is good reciprocity in this trade; we buy Welsh tinplate exclusively for the canhouses.

Forced by her poverty in raw materials, she buys other people's raw materials and processes them for other people's desires.

To Assist Indians

New Program Of Encouragement Announced By Government

A new program of direction and encouragement for Canada's Indian population, designed to establish it permanently on a higher economic plane, was announced by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of the recently reorganized department of mines and resources.

The primary aim of the scheme, said Mr. Crerar, would be to see much Indian was forced almost by livelihood for which he was best fitted, by location and otherwise.

While many Indians were registering marked success as farmers and others as fishermen, the great bulk of Indians obviously could not be absorbed in such industries and many of them lived far from the populated areas across the northern half of the Dominion, the minister said.

"The fur trade, our oldest and still one of our most industries, like the producing field where many Indians live," pointed out Mr. Crerar. "The fur trade employs thousands of Indians obviously could not be absorbed in such industries and many of them lived far from the populated areas across the northern half of the Dominion, the minister said.

"The fur trade employs thousands of Indians obviously could not be absorbed in such industries and many of them lived far from the populated areas across the northern half of the Dominion, the minister said.

"The department would aim to improve the Indians' skill as trappers, to see that they received proper care in the care of furs before disposing of them. It would advise them what furs were in season, and would point out the benefit of health, comfort and economy—how unsuitable were silk stockings for the winter weather in the open spaces. The department would endeavor, too, to keep the Indians posted on fluctuations in the markets, on current fur prices, to prevent exploitation by irresponsible traders and to find a ready sale.

Exclusive hunting areas have already been set aside for the Indians in the Northwest Territories. Even outside those areas, the minister said, while trapper may obtain a hunting license until he has been a resident for four years.

Shorter Working Hours

Motor Firm Still Looking Towards Establishing Six-Hour Day

William J. Cameron, spokesman for the Ford Motor Company, said that a six-hour day for workmen in the automobile industry is in prospect, but industry must prepare itself for the change.

The greatest prosperity we have ever seen is coming if the industry, Mr. Cameron declared. "It will be a productive, not a speculative prosperity. We have not seen anything like the wages that will be paid. We have not seen anything like the prosperity that is coming.

Asserting the Ford Motor Company planned to adopt the six-hour day when the time was ripe, opposition prevented it, Cameron declared:

"If it is done prematurely, too great a burden will be placed on industry has to be built up to the six-hour day. It is not ready for it yet."

Fool Gas Made In Mine

Modern Methods Used In One Of Largest Coal Producers

Fuel gas is being made from coal in a mine in one of Russia's most populous districts, Donetz. Deep in the mine instead of on the surface the coal gas is being extracted by modern methods and conveyed to a factory on the shores of Lake Gusin there it comes out into benzine, fuel oil and other products.

Under the supervision of the engineers the coal is first ground and then mixed with water and sold gradually to the syrup. Stir until thick and cook for ten minutes. Remove from heat and add strained lemon juice. Pour slowly over the whites of the eggs, which have been beaten until stiff. Beat again with a flower beater, turn into a mould when it has been wet with cold water, and chill. Serve with lemon custard sauce.

Ontario Wants Horses

Pedigreed And Grade Stock Are Both In Great Demand

Toronto—Farmers may be purchasing their delivery systems but demand for horses is on the increase, L. O'Neill, director of the Ontario government livestock branch, said. "Demand for both pedigreed and grade horses is greater to-day than for the past few years and prices are higher," O'Neill revealed. "Pedigreed horses are in demand at home and for export. Work horses for farms are also in keen demand, and prices are very good," he added.

Leopard Societies

Terrifying Stories Of Murder In West Africa By Secret Cult

Terrifying stories of murder by leopard societies in West Africa are circulating in that part of the country despite repeated denials by the Monrovia government.

It is claimed that killings have taken place regularly in the past six months and the campaign is said to be the worst in 50 years.

The leopard men are said to have entered houses and carried off children to be murdered, stealing cattle staying cows and other livestock. On several occasions the leopards have been wounded, stealing cattle and to have left human tracks, although they were dressed in leopard skins and walked on all-fours.

A long iron hook, sharpened like a leopard's claw is attached to each hand, and these sharp tools are used to rip open the bodies of their victims.

The "Liberian Patriot," news organ of Monrovia, recently published a half-page plea to the government to take action to end the bloody cult, but soldiers sent from Monrovia reported on return they had found no sign of the leopard men."

No sooner had they returned to the capital, reports say, than the cannibals murdered, strangled and children being clawed, carried away and murdered.

The leopard men, forming the oldest and most feared of all African secret societies, attack native bomes and terrorize the country by keep all men in constant fear of them.

Europeans are seldom attacked, but strong measures have been taken by the British and French governments in an attempt to eliminate the hated society. It is generally believed by the African coast that the society now has its headquarters in Liberia.

SELECTED RECIPES

RAISED DOUGHNUTS

1½ cups milk; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ cup shortening; 2 cakes fresh yeast; ½ cup lukewarm water; 1 egg; 6 cups Royal Household flour (approximately).

Method: Scald the milk. Add the salt and the shortening. Stir until the shortening is melted. Let cool until lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in the lukewarm water and add to the first mixture with the well beaten egg. Add sufficient flour to make a dough which will clean the bowl. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Turn on floured board and kneed lightly. Cut in various shapes —twists, squares, circles, etc. Let rise until double, covered, until the dough begins to rise again. Fry in deep fat until well browned. Turn once during frying. Enter time for making these doughnuts is approximately 2 hours.

CRUMB CAKE

Temperature: 350 degrees F. Time: 45 minutes.

2 cups Royal Household flour; ¾ cup granulated sugar; 1 cup brown sugar.

Rub smooth with fingers; take out three-quarters of mixture and set by for cake; to the remainder add:

½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon nutmeg; ½ teaspoon cloves; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1 egg; 1 cup raising; 1 cup sour milk; 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Mix well and pour into greased pan 8" x 12". Sprinkle top with reserved crumbs. Bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

LEMON PUFF

½ cup sugar; 2 slices lemon; 1½ cups boiling water; 2 egg whites; 8 tablespoons Royal Household flour; 2 tablespoons cold water; 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Make a syrup of the sugar boiling water and lemon slices; boil five minutes and remove rind. Mix the flour with cold water and add gradually to the syrup. Stir until thick and cook for ten minutes. Remove from heat and add strained lemon juice. Pour slowly over the whites of the eggs, which have been beaten until stiff. Beat again with a flower beater, turn into a mould when it has been wet with cold water, and chill. Serve with lemon custard sauce.

"UNCLE" JACK MINER

Writes a Book, Entitled

"JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS"

Give It For a New Year's Gift!

Yes—they're wild Swans—but they all love Jack

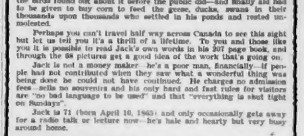
Every Boy Scout, every school boy and every school girl in Canada now knows of Jack Miner and his many, many friends of all the tame, but even he has and heard him talk (you can't call it a lecture) about his work and the protection of wild life. His is called by authorities "one of the world's great naturalists."

Practically without money he started his idea of a place where wild bird life would be protected during migration North and South—the birds found out about it before the public did—and finally and had to be given to buy corn to feed the geese, ducks, swans in their thousands upon thousands who settled in his ponds and rested upon his farm.

Perhaps you can't travel half way across Canada to see this sight but let us tell you it is a thrill of a lifetime. To you and those like you it is possible to read Jack's own words in his 307 page book, and through the 80 fine pictures get a good idea of the work that is going on.

Jack is not a money maker—he's a poor man, financially—if people had not contributed when they saw what a wonderful thing was being done, it would have continued. He charges no admission fees—sells no souvenirs and his only hard and fast rule is that visitors write "no bad language to be used that day" during a seat tight on Sundays".

Jack is 71 (born April 10, 1865) and only occasionally gets away for a radio talk or lecture now—he's hale and hearty but very much around home.



Autos line up for miles every spring and fall. The fence you see was built by the children of Jack.

People come from all over the world to see the Jack Miner Sanctuary. this work has encouraged others to do the same thing elsewhere, so making Jack very happy.

Every home should have this book because besides birds it discusses a homely philosophy of life which, if followed, would make us all happy. It is for common children to read, and for learned professors and rugged honesty.

Now if you want that new book, "Jack Miner and the Birds"—307 pages—68 photographs—just go to your stationery store and order it or if you can't get it there write to the Page Clark Co., Ltd., 604 Wellington Street, W., Toronto—the Canadian agents—and they'll see that you do get it.

A New Experiment

Shows How Long People Can Do Without Water

Experiments at the University of Michigan medical school have shown that a man can do without water until he has lost six per cent. of his body weight.

According to Dr. Frederick A. Coller, an average adult, weighing 150 pounds, would not survive the minus of dehydration until he has lost nine pounds from lack of water. This loss would occur in two or three days and the skin would become dry and hot, the tongue dry and leathery, the eyes sunken.

Writing in Modern Medicine, Coller states that a person needs at least 1,000 cubic centimetres of water a day to replace the average daily loss of moisture by vaporization through the skin and lungs. There are also other avenues of water escape.

Coller undertook the experiment to determine how much water should be allowed a patient recovering from an operation.

Was With Amundsen

Capt. Oscar Wisting, who was Roald Amundsen's second in command on his polar expeditions, was found dead of a heart attack in his cabin on Amundsen's polar ship Fram, which had been installed permanently in the Bygnoe Museum in Oslo. He was 65 years old. Capt. Wisting was one of the four men chosen by Amundsen to accompany him across the ice to the south pole in 1910.

Have To Be Trained

Dining Car Stewards, Waiters and Clerk Go Through School

The dining car steward knows that out of every 100 diners, 85 will order coffee and 15 tea; that 35 will ask for roast beef and the rest will order chicken, fish, chops and steak, in the order named.

America's railway dining cars serve 20,000,000 meals each year, which are prepared in a kitchen only seven feet wide and 15 feet long. One man alone must wash 1,000 dishes at each meal in a sink less than two feet square.

Dining car stewards, waiters and chefs go through a training school before going on the road. One large eastern railroad has three such schools where there are reproductions of the space equipment facilities encountered in actual service.

A Courteous Rebuke

London Policeman Was Polite To American Jay Walker

Since Mr. Hore-Belisha took over the Ministry of Transport in Britain a lot of notions have been introduced in order to reduce traffic accidents. One of the Belisha beacons, stop signals that can be set against traffic in not-so-busy areas when a nervous pedestrian or school children want to cross the street, by simply pressing a button, and there are hidden loud-speakers at other places which bawl automatic warnings to unwary people.

An American visiting in London recently relates that he was bawled out in the most polite manner by a well-spoken policeman for crossing the street he was met at the other side by a smiling policeman who said: "Excuse me, sir, but when you are crossing the street it is advisable to make use of the pedestrian crossings whenever possible. It may prevent an accident."

That is a printable rebuke.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

WANT NEUTRAL OBSERVERS TO CHECK WAR PLANS

London.—The European non-intervention committee appealed again to Spain's civil war combatants to permit neutral observers to check on their armaments purchases.

Evidencing a desire to hasten its program for keeping the Spanish war in Spain, the committee:

Heard Britain's appeal to the 27 other member nations in the non-intervention group to pledge specifically to halt foreign enlistments in Spanish armies by Jan. 4. (Some governments already have replied favorably.)

Resolved to speed the month-old plan for sending neutral observers to check arms and imports to Spain by land and sea and decided to forward detailed plans for such supervision to both the Burgos Fascists and the Valencia-Madrid government for final decision.

Got down to cases by asking the 26 member governments to say immediately whether they would share the cost of sending the observers.

It was understood General Francisco Franco, the insurgent commander, had requested information on the identity of the proposed observers and the number of ships that the Valencia government had not yet consented formally to the observers plan.

(Havas News Agency reported Great Britain had decided to instruct her warships in the Mediterranean to follow and Linton to inform those governments that Britain insists they must at once withdraw observers to Spain. No authority was quoted.

"The ambassadors will also advise the four governments, Britain and Russia, that they will be ready to meet at the non-intervention committee's supervisory control plan to be a matter of pressing concern to all.

Under the supervisory control plan groups of international "watchdogs" would be stationed at the ports of Spanish territory and along Spain's frontiers.

The committee adopted a resolution instructing all delegations to press their respective governments for immediate power to put the supervision scheme into effect.

If the necessary approval is forthcoming, calls will be sent to Valencia and Burgos setting Jan. 11 as the deadline for their replies as to whether they will be willing to receive the proposed control groups.

The plan would cost an estimated $3,000,000 annually.

Seize Slot Machines

Raiding Squad In Toronto Take 45 Machines Worth $10,000

Toronto.—Fifty plainclothesmen in a simultaneous raid on 24 retail stores in downtown Toronto, seized slot machines with an estimated total value of $22,000.

Instructed by Police Inspector Charles Scott, the raiding squad cascaded at a secret meeting place. Operating police officers had designated Queen and Dundas, Queen and Gerrard streets. Parties visited bookstores, hardware, cigar and candy stores on Yonge street and other downtown streets.

Quite it was the first raid since the police commission decided slot machines should be banned after Jan. 1. Inspector Scott said the raid was not due to commission's action but followed appointment of a special police squad to investigate complaints of gambling.

Armed with warrants issued at city hall the squad visited and sold all stores and operators raided. With evidence already gathered, this will be submitted to crown officials.

Protest From Vatican

Complain To Germany Against Attack On Catholic Bishops

Berlin.—The vatican has made formal representations to the German foreign office against an attack on German Catholic bishops by Julius Streicher, Nazi leader of the Nuremberg district, and publisher of the anti-Semitic weekly Der Stuermer, it was reported.

In a recent speech at Cologne, Streicher attacked German Catholics as a whole and lodged personal accusations against the Catholic bishops.

The speech was said to have aroused a storm of protest from the Catholic community. Karl Cardinal Schulte, archbishop of Cologne, protested to Mgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio at Berlin, who, in turn, made the representations to the Wilhelmstrasse during a lengthy conference with Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath a few days ago.

Announce New Policies

C.B.C. Will Embark On Distinctively Canadian Program Scheme

Ottawa.—Establishment of five regional control centres for Canadian broadcasting services, initiation of a three or five-year engineering program to complete and improve coverage, and a ban on religious "wars" on the air, were some of the policies announced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Following a meeting of the nine members of the board of governors, Major Gladstone Murray, general manager for the corporation, issued a statement indicating future courses of action decided upon by the board.

Development of control is expected to bring about more flexibility, the general manager stated, and regional areas will be set up in the Maritime provinces, Quebec, Ontario, the prairie provinces and British Columbia.

It was decided also that the corporation would embark upon a distinctively Canadian program scheme, establish co-operative relations with commercial broadcasting, maintain an international contact with listeners, seek to lengthen the daily time on the air for national broadcasting, and henceforth refer to the corporation, in radio announcements, simply with the initials "CBC."

Children Burned To Death

Five Perish When Fire Destroys Home In Ottawa

Ottawa.—Five pani-stricken children were burned to death when fire destroyed their two-storey frame home in Lower Town. Their parents and two other children escaped, but the mother was taken to hospital suffering from serious burns and bruises after leaping from an upstairs window.

The father, Adelard Giroux, 40, rushed from the house carrying his baby daughter, Bernadette, 2. Bernard, 14, raced from the building into the street after Mrs. Giroux. She had fered severe burns before she jumped from the window.

Cause of the fire was undetermined but Giroux said he discovered it in the kitchen after being awakened by the smoke. An inquest will be held. Flames blocked Giroux's attempts to re-enter the house after carrying the baby to safety.

German Mobilization

Will Affect Groups Untouched By Previous Military Plans

Berlin.—Civil mobilization for war emergencies would affect groups untouched by previous military plans, it was reported here.

Mechanics, chauffeurs and specialized workers, not present exempt from military obligations, were reported to have received orders to appear at labor offices for the second day of mobilization to receive instructions.

Women would take their places at work, it was said.

Civil mobilization is known to be one of the main preoccupations of the Nazi government. Under this plan plans concerns civil anti-aircraft defence, which is being organized on a gigantic scale.

London Naval Treaty

Britain To Convert Five Cruisers Into Anti-Aircraft Ships

London.—Great Britain announced she would convert five over-age cruisers into "anti-aircraft ships."

The cruisers, which will be saved from the scrapheap through invention of the escalator clause of the expiring London naval treaty, thus will become the first such craft in history.

Britain's decision was communicated to the United States and Japanese embassies a short time after Japan had served notice she would keep submarines of a tonnage corresponding to Britain's over-age cruisers.

In giving formal notice of the retention, the British note pledged they would be kept in service for only five years "of peace."

Authorities said the present anti-tank guns would be replaced ever lighter and more suitable anti-aircraft armament.

APPEAL MADE TO CONSERVE FOOD IN GERMANY

Berlin.—Germany decided on a fish mile with directions for cooking and appealed to housewives to save bread and meat with the cry "Meat days are age and lessen the need for foreign imports.

Franz Hayler, leader of the retail food dealers' federation, announced the campaign to boom fish as a natural meat material which doesn't cost foreign exchange, and the government is helping by expanding the fish meal production fleet.

"Discarded food still is found in garbage pails, especially pieces of bread," the appeal for conservation declared through the German news agency said, "That must not be.

"Bread must be treated as a gift from earth. He who throws away bread injures the nation. He who is careful with bread helps secure his nation's food supply. Leave no bread to get dry; even the smallest piece can be used. Throw nothing away. Be careful with your daily bread."

To further the consumption of fish, training schools will be opened for housewives where they will be able to explain to customers what dishes requiring little skill are already well known and popular in other countries," Hayler said.

"A good fish salesman must also be a good cook," he declared. Hostellers can assist greatly in relieving Germany's food shortage by extensive fish propaganda.

Germany now consumes only 20 pounds of fish per capita annually as compared to 42 to 55 pounds in England, Holland, Belgium and Norway.

Another boon to the German campaign to find new foods was an agreement by the German war armament manufacturers, to supply great quantities of onions. Krupp will build a factory to make Nole for the Egyptian government, accept onions in part payment and bring them to Germany.

The Frankfurter Zeitung, which predicted recently a million-ton wheat shortage in Germany, reported there was a scarcity of oats because "the army commissaries are taking all available supplies."

Mental Cases

Says 95 Per Cent. Of Mental Defectives Are Never Brought To Attention Of Authorities

Toronto.—Dr. R. T. McGhie, Ontario deputy minister of health, told the laboratory section of the Canadian Public Health Association "wholesale sterilization" of mental defectives "would have no wholesale effect" because feeble-minded persons were by no means the only cause of mental deficiency.

Dr. McGhie said he approved voluntary sterilization of mental defectives "but because after their families reach a certain size the economic burden becomes too heavy and the family tends to deteriorate and become a charge on the state."

The deputy added there was no evidence "that mental defectives are increasing in number, and as feeble-minded parents are by no means the only cause of that condition, it is doubtful that sterilization alone would have no wholesale effect.

"At least 95 per cent. of our mental defectives have never been brought to attention because they have never got into difficulties," he said. "It is calculated there are between 60,000 and 70,000 mental defectives in Ontario to-day. Only about 2,000 of them ever come to the notice of institutions, and less than 5,000 others have been identified in the community, which means that at least 90 per cent. are able to carry on without recognition as mental defectives.

Barter Companies

Exchange German Manufactures For Raw Materials Produced In British Colonies

London.—Government approval was gained from both Britain and Germany for two "barter" companies established to facilitate the exchange of German manufactures for raw materials produced in British colonies, informed financial circles reported.

Germany, spurred by her increasing need for basic commodities, not only endorsed the undertaking, but created a special ministry to expedite operation of the same banking sources said.

According to financial interests there was a scarcity of oats because "the army commissaries are taking all available supplies."

Objects To Criticism

Need For Restraint Regarding Former King Says London Newspaper

London.—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, objecting to criticism of former King Edward by the Archbishop of York, said "the need for restraint, understanding and patience is felt less now when the nation has to overcome a deep sense of loss."

The principal obligation, "which corresponded to the best instincts of our people," the newspaper declared, was "silence about the immediate past and its controversy."

King George came to the throne, the Standard said, with the good will of everyone including "that section of the public which thought with this newspaper that another solution to the problem was possible. The newspaper referred to its suggestion that King Edward retain his throne by a morganatic marriage.

"Christian duke also was suggested as a time for consolidation," the Standard continued. The Standard insisted "Edward never at any time showed the slightest disposition to depart from the sound, established constitutional practice of the day.

"If it was ever suggested in malicious irresponsible quarters that such a challenge existed, the force of blood was destroyed once and for all by Prince Minister Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons on the day of abdication."

Churchill, Man.—First mail of the winter has been brought from Duck in the north by dog team in charge of Constable Robinson of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, stationed at Eskimo Point, N.W.T., 200 miles north of here. The delivery comprised 1,000 pounds of mail from widely separated points.

The northern "post men" repeated a trip to good for cache, but expected to the north with a run of white foxes near Big River, N.W.T. Caribou were reported further inland this year and timber wolves in large numbers were said to be following the earthot.

EFFORTS BLOCKED TO STRENGTHEN NEUTRALITY PLAN

London.—Strengthening of the "hands-off Spain" agreement seemed far from realization after a meeting of the non-intervention committee at which new British-sponsored attempts to buttress strict neutrality machinery failed to get any further than first base.

Decision to send the plan for control of Spanish frontiers against all war material traffic to the Spanish government and insurgent administrations, however, was a decisive result of the session. The plan, which was set in detail by the committee, must be approved by the full committee before it can be forwarded to Burgos and Valencia.

Hope of speedy non-intervention action was dashed by General Francisco Franco's reply to the British and France proposal for mediation and a truce. The series of questions he put to the committee before he will accept such a proposal "are not calculated as a blanket advance refusal to accept any control project.

The non-intervention committee was confronted with a harrowing problem, the underlying hostility between German and Soviet delegates to the surface. Lured into the open by Russia's demand that the 27-power committee proposed each government admit legislation by the Spanish civil war, that it bar volunteers streaming into Spain, Ambassador Von Maisky, Moscow representative, declared that no such law must be reinforced by the immediate suppression of the control plan.

Failure to effect simultaneous application of strict control would see the British suggestion carried out by the Soviet government, Maisky said.

The Soviet charge the supposedly reciprocal legislation would be rendered by "secret governments" brought in a German proposal for establishment of two technical sub-committees to study the questions of volunteers and financial aid reportedly being given both the insurgents and loyalists.

Several delegates said such procedure would merely delay any eventual application of the control plan. The reich proposal was finally adopted however, reportedly because of the realization that it would be the only hope of gaining Germany's adhesion. The two new committees will meet Jan. 21.

It was understood Italy made no reply to the British proposal to the departure of further volunteers to the Spanish war fronts.

REBELLION IN CHINA IS GAINING GROUND RAPIDLY

Nanking.—The Chinese government was confronted with alarming reports. Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's rebellion in the northwest is gaining strength rapidly and assuming an increasingly Communist aspect.

Hopes for the early release of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, captive of the rebels at Sian, Fu since Dec. 12, and suppression of the uprising were blasted.

The generalissimo's wife, Former Mei-Ling Soong, and her brother, T. V. Soong, arrive by air at Sian-Fu by plane to confer directly with the insurgents for the Nanking leader's freedom, but no news has reached the capital. Indications point to their arrival.

The only re[illegible] reports from Dr. Sun[illegible] Sun Fo, who has given over all efforts against Sian-Fu, [illegible] against the Communists, [illegible] Red armies in the north.

Reports from several sources generally agree the rebel forces in Shensi were steadily gaining in numbers. Sian was expected shortly to reach 250,000, with several of Marshal Chang's units hitherto in Kansu and Hingkiang, west and northwest of Sian, on the march to join their comrades at Sian-Fu.

Moreover leaders of Communist armies in north controlled northern Shensi and Kansu were reported in Sian-Fu, figuring prominently in the insurgent councils.

Extend Fishing Rights

Russia Grants Extension To Japan For One Year

Moscow.—Communist Russia granted a one-year extension of valuable fishing rights to Japan, but indicated the grant was only a temporary expedient to lessen irritations between the two nations created by the Japanese-German anti-Communist accord.

Originally the renewal was to have been for eight years, beginning in 1937, but the Soviet government ended negotiations Nov. 9.

Announcement of the Japanese-German front to combat Communism aroused Russia to vigorous criticism, and apparently it was only with great difficulty that the grant would be withheld.

Evidently, however, officials of the Soviet foreign office approved the one-year extension. Details of the new concession still are to be completed, the foreign office said.

Russia made clear, however, that the extension was not a step-gap arrangement to prevent a flare-up of trouble between the countries.

The Tass dispatch explained circumstances leading up to the extension thus:

In view of the Soviet government's announcement that it was impossible to consider the new conventions before setting into consideration the fact that the old convention expires Dec. 31, Ambassador Shigemitsu brought a prolongation of it and conversations until Dec. 31, 1937."

Soviet P[illegible] Fails

Unable To [illegible] 85 Program For Five-Year Period

Moscow.—Government reports revealed serious failures in efforts to [illegible] Soviet industry to a modern [illegible] program for automobile [illegible].

This was disclosed by automobile plant, recently reorganized to produce the first All-Russian passenger car. Turning out only 10 cars a day instead of the 85 scheduled. The plant's production for 1936 will be 2,000 units instead of the production of 12,000 announced last February. The units which have been built are said to have revealed defects in the motor, transmission and steering gear all of which are of Soviet design.

Another year has joined his shadowy fellows in the wide and voiceless desert of the past, where, from the eternal hour glass forever falls the sands of time. Another year, with all its joy and grief, of birth and death, of failure and success, of love and hate. And now—the first day of the new o'er arches all. Stanching between the buried and the babe, we cry,

"Farewell and Hail!"
